Through cooperative marketing organizations of farmers the Federal Farm Board assisted last year in marketing 8,000,000,000 head of livestock, 187,000,000 bushels of grain, 116,000,000 pounds of wool and mohair, 4,000,000 pounds of pecans, 600,000,000 pounds of creamery butter, 100,000,000 pounds of cheese, and 2,250,000 bales of cotton.

The Cuban government has levied a tax of a cent a pound on all lard and other animal fat consumed in Cuba, either of foreign or domestic production. The presidential decree was signed February 19, the main objective being to boost falling revenues. The tax will be a big help to the public treasurer but it will increase the cost of these products, consumed largely by the poorer classes.

ANTI-HOARDING CAMPAIGN

"Personal visits to 25 communities in Alabama during the past week have convinced us that the citizens of the state recognize in the anti-hoarding campaign an opportunity to restore confidence in our ordinary business and bring back into circulation "timid dollars" which have left the regular channels of trade.

"The week of March 6th will be devoted to intensive educational efforts to spread this thought among our citizens, beginning with sermons by our ministers in accordance with Governor Miller's official proclamation.

"On Sunday, March 6th, a national radio hook-up will carry the messages of President Hoover, General Charles G. Dawes, Ogden L. Mills and Col. Frank Knox, speaking in the interest of this campaign.

School of the state will receive a message from Dr. A. F. Harman, superintendent of the State Department of Education, asking their cooperation in bringing the message to their pupils and their P.-T. A.'s, Luncheon clubs, Women's organizations, American Legion's Posts and countless other organizations will hear speakers during the week.

"The campaign is not designed primarily to sell Government Bonds, as these will be offered only to those who have entirely withdrawn "timid dollars" from circulation. Withdrawing money from banks to buy these bonds will defeat the purpose of this effort. These bonds will be available through banks on March 15, will carry two per cent interest, will be redeemable at par and accrued interest at any time on 60 day's notice. They will be coupon bonds in $50, $100 and $500 denominations.

"It is hoped that a discussion of this matter will aid in restoring confidence and return us to normal business operations."

lieving all road subjects from the payment of the road tax of $5.50 and from the duty of working the roads for three years. This was quite an expense to the county, but nevertheless, under the depressed conditions, the Court took the position that it would be a great help to the people. During this period of time, the Commissioners Court financed the construction and repair of the new jail, and I might say that this was paid for in cash as the jail was being constructed. And many experts along this line, have pronounced it one of the cheapest and the best in the state, considering the quality and type of the jail. The Cimmissioners Court, of which I am a member, have also paid $93,000 toward the county's indebtedness, and at the same time have carried along the regular work of the county roads and the other functions and duties of the county on a cash basis, and now have in the county treasury, approximately $65,000.000 and have invested in the Peoples Savings Bank at 4 per cent interest $25,000.00, making a total of $90,000.00, all of which is covered by bonds. There are some of the things that have been accomplished while I have been a member of the County Court of Commissioners, and all of which I voted for and supported during my term of office.

Now, as to my intention, if elected, in the future, I am going to support and stand for a material and substantial reduction of taxes. The taxes which we now pay and have been for the past two or three years have been a considerable hardship on practically all of the local taxpayers and the farmers particularly have suffered in trying to pay their taxes. The value of the farmer's land were fixed at a time cotton was selling from 12 and one-half to 20 cents per pound and the farmers could pay their taxes and live on this, but now since cotton has been 5 and 6 cents per pound, many farmers have had to borrow money to pay taxes and owe other debts which it looks impossible to pay. The other necessities of life, like food, clothing and many other articles that we buy, have been reduced, but taxes have not. The four Commissioners, not including the Probate Judge, along with the Tax Assessor, forms what is known as the Board of Review, the tax assessor being secretary of this board. The board of review shall meet on the second Monday in April at the Courthouse to review, revise and correct assessment values made by the Tax Assessor. Upon the completion of this work, the Tax Assessor shall give notice in a county newspaper of this fact and further notice that the Board of Review will sit at the courthouse on the first Monday in June to consider any objections that may be filed by any taxpayer.

Any taxpayer who is not satisfied with his assessment, must file objections in writing to such assessed values on or before the last Monday in May and the Board of Review again sits at the Courthouse on the first day in June for this hearing and may sit as long as necessary to hear such objections. At this hearing the taxpayer has a right to appear and show why his property values should be reduced. As I stated, it is my intention, this year and also from year to year, if I am elected, to reduce the value of the taxpayers property as above outlined to meet the values of other things, which the farmer buys and sells. No doubt the property of many farmers and other people several years ago, was worth twice or three times the amount that it is now and I think this property should be reduced to meet those conditions. Therefore, I want to make it clear to the people of this county and the taxpayers in particular, that if I am allowed to continue in office, it will be my intentions and purpose to use my influence and my vote wherever possible to reduce property values in the method and manner as stated above and by doing this, many of the taxpayer's burdens of this county can be greatly relieved Any taxpayer has a right to file his objections as I stated above, without employing an attorney and can appear before the Board of Review, which is composed of the four commissioners, without employing an attorney and make his argument and objections for his property to be reduced witout a penny of expense to him, and I will also be glad to advise any taxpayer how this might be done if he will come to me. I believe with my experience in office and matters of this kind, that I can be of great assistance, and will be if elected, in the question of reducing taxes. The question of reducing property values to meet other values will be my main purpose and intention during this next term of office if elected.

I do not want to make this article too long, but in conclusion I would like to say that our party cannot continue as strong and successful unless we have harmony in our ranks. Whenever factions and crowds opposed to each other arise within our party and it becomes a house divided within itself, then we are going to lose out. I do not stand for factions within our party, but I have always worked and strived for harmony and a 100 per cent working party, and if I am elected Commissioner, I can and will go into office representing all of the Republican party and no one faction or crowd. I believe that this is more important in our party now than ever before and I believe it is also important to put men in office who have been tried and found true.

If therefore, my life as a Republican and my service and interest as your commissioner in the past and my intentions and purpose in the future, as expressed above, meets with your approval, I will appreciate your vote and influence and I will assure you that I will work for the people's interest always and that of my party.—Yours very truly, A. P. Vinson.

BETTER FACILITIES WILL BE AT LOCAL PICTURE SHOW

Mr. C. W. Wade, owner of the picture show in Clanton, makes a very interesting announcement that he will in the near future change his picture machinery so he can use sound-on-film instead of sound-on disc.

Sound-on-film is the latest approved methods of present talking pictures. Under this system Mr. Wade will be able to show better pictures and furnish his patrons with better amusement features than ever before.

ELECT TRUSTEES SATURDAY, MAY 7

Procedure of Election Is Outlined By Chilton County Superintendent

Provisions and regulations for the election of trustees of the various schools of Chilton County have been given out at the office of County Superintendent Lawrence, as follows:

Notice is hereby give that in accordance with law number 590 passed by the 1931 Legislature and approved August 1, 1931 providing for the election of trustees for the various schools of the state of Alabama, an election will be had at each schoolhouse in Chilton County on Saturday, May 7, 1932 for the purpose of electing three trustees to serve for a term of two years beginning July 1, 1932.

In order that the names of those nominated may appear on the ticket in proper form any legal voter who resides in the definite territory served by the school and meets the qualifications set out in Article 6, Section 133 of the School Code of 1927 may be nominated, provided his nomination is filed with the County Superintedent on or before April 23, 1932.

Three managers will be appointed for each school. If for any reason those managers appointed should fail to appear the remaining number shall appoint one to take his or her place. In case no managers appear on the day of the election to conduct the election then the trustees now serving shall either serve as managers or appoint substitutes who shall conduct said election.

The polls shall be opened at 8:30 a.m. and close at 2:30 p.m. The managers shall then canvass the ballots and certify the results to the County Superintendent of Education.

These elected as trustees must be legal voters.

Those voting in the election must be patrons of the school for which the trustees are being elected. They may or may not be legal voters.

The word patron is defined by the Attorney General of the State in an opinion rendered February 20, 1931 as: "Those persons residing in the definite territory served by the school who are parents, guardians, or custodians of children who are attending such school, who are eligible to attend."

HOSPITAL HERE ORDERED CLOSED

Decision Reached By Board of Directors In Meeting Last Thursday

In accordance with the decision of the board of directors, the Central Alabama Hospital, at Clanton will discontinue to operate on the 20th of this month, next Sunday. This decision was definitely reached at a meeting of the Board of Directors last Thursday.

The facts which made this decision necessary are that the business of the hispital during the past year has not been bringing in cash returns sufficient to meet expenses. Determined to avoid piling up a debt for current operating expenses, the Board of Directors chose rather to discontinue the active conduct of the business, until such time as the same could be operated on a basis that will at least pay the current expenses.

Concerning the closing of the institution, Dr. V. J. Gragg, president of the hospital corporation, has issued the following statement:

I desire to make a statement to the public in general, and particularly to the stockholders of the Central Alabama Hospital.

At a meeting of the directors, called March 10, 1932, it was decided to close the hospital on or about March 20th. The reason for closing being the financial depression.

"About 10 years ago, when the hospital was built, we all felt there was great need for such an institution and that is could be operated on a paying basis, and at the same time be of wonderful service to the community. Hospitals had paid dividends before that time and it was reasonable to expect them to continue being self supporting, but about the same time the several protestant religions also visualised the general need for hospitals and a crop of new hospitals sprang up in nearly every city of any size, Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, etc., all driving for large, modern, well equipped hospitals. The result was soon that we had more hospitals than were in demand; and about two years ago, after the depression set in, these hospitals together with other private and public institutions began to fail. First, the Presbyterian in New Orleans,

DENNIS BELIEVES PARTY IS STRONG

Urges Republican Voters To Take Part In Primary On May 3rd

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me a few words through your paper to the Republican voters of our county.

It is only one and one-half months till the primary election, when candidates will be nominated for the November election. We have a good line of applicants from which to select and I am sure the voters will consider well, the interests of our county and party in making their selection, and that they will not be influenced by any talk of lack of cooperation or harmony in the party. I have made diligent inquiry and have failed to find lack of interest and loyalty among our voters over the county. It appears to me that the Republican voters are more liberal than usual in the expressions that they are willing to abide by the judgment of our people, as it may be expressed at the primary election and that the nominees will have the most universal support we have witnessed for several years.

Our people don't want any more "Miller Economy" and will frown upon any suggestions coming from any of our leaders that our nominees will not have our full support.

I hope and believe that you will not be influenced by any dissatisfied individual, but will consider the interest of our county and party, and turn out and cast your vote accordingly, remembering that our party success comes from the good judgment of the voters themselves, and not from following blindly any leaders.

Assuring you that it is my belief that our nominees will be elected, I am, yours very truly, J. N. Dennis, Chairman Republican Executive Committee.

WOOD WORKING FACTORY BEING BUILT IN CLANTON

In the north-east corner of Clanton, on the Lay Dam road and near the east end of Third Avenue, Mr. J. Arkie Mahan is erecting a wood working factory. The machinery consists of two planning mills, one turning lathe, and one mitering machine. Part of these machines are now set up and ready for operation, and a steam boiler and engine are being assembled this week to furnish the power to run the outfit.

When completely in operation, Mr. Mahan intends to make at this plant doors, windows, screen shutters, and everything along this line.

There ought to be a good amount of this kind of work picked up in and around Clanton. It is very often that someone needs a window or door of odd size or design that is hard to match from stock. Well, just such cases are what Mr. Mahan hopes to fill with this wood working factory.

Mr. Arkie Mahan is a man of experience in this line of work. To use an old saying, Arkie Mahan was born and raised in a saw mill, and when it comes to fooling with lumber, he is altogether at home. You can better appreciate what Mr. Mahan has in his plant if you will take the time to visit it and look the machinery over.

Wilkins Candidate For School Board

Well-Known Citizen of Bethsalem Community is A Republican Candiate

Added to our announcement list this week is the name of C. L. Wilkins of Bethsalem, who some few days ago filed his credentials with the Probate Judge and chairman of the committee to make the race for member of the county board of education.

Charlie Wilkins is not a new name to the voters of Chilton County. Four years ago he ran for commissioner from the fourth district, and in that campaign he made himself known to many of the voters of the county. He had a strong support in his former race.

Not many men in Chilton County have been more active in their local school matters than has C. L. Wilkins. He has been one of the main stand-bys of Enterprise school district for the past fifteen years, always giving freely of his time and means to the support of his school. The experience that he has had in local school matters and in other business relations make him well fitted to care for the duties pertaining to the office to which he aspires.

SPECIAL SESSION OF CHILTON COUNTY ASSOCIATION CALLED

A special session of the Chilton County Missionary Baptist Association is hereby called to meet at Thorsby Baptist church on Friday afternoon, April 1st, at 1:30 o'clock.

All churches belonging to the Chilton County Association are urged to have delegates at this special session, as some business of interest to every Baptist will be discussed. Delegates need not prepare any reports of their churches to make to the Association. All churches please look after this matter of choosing delegates, and bear in mind the date.—Rev. B. Lawrence, Moderator. S. J. M. Webb, Clerk.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Our Sunday school meets at 9:45 a.m., preaching at 11 a.m. We need you to fill your place in God's house

Sunday night at 7.30 the young people of the church will have charge of the service. They are going to render a program that will be well worth while, and we want you to give to them encouragement of your presence. They will give special musical numbers, along with readings and pantomimes. The program will last for an hour, and there should be a crowded auditorium.

We are publishing a church bulletin for our church program, and we are anxious that you have a copy each Sunday.

Do not let little excuses keep you from God's house next Sunday. The most of us have worn out the old ones. If you are going to stay away, please get up an excuse that has something to it. There are more "thread bare" excuses for church non-attendance than there are threadbare clothes in this country.

BENSON WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT ELECTING EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Questions Asked About How Candidates Can Be Elected To Offices For Which the Executive Committee of Republican Party Has Made No Provisions

Editor Union-Banner:

I have received a letter from Judge Reynolds in regard to the manner same have employed toward the election of a Republican Executive Committee in Chilton County. The letter from Judge Reynolds is as follows:

Mr. W. M. Benson

Dear Sir:

For some time in the past there have been appearing to me some practices among certain leaders of the Republican party in Chilton county, which I believe are very dangerous, and which, if allowed to continue unchecked, will certainly bring the party into trouble. It has been my purpose to call attention to these dangers when I saw them, and I shall continue to do so.

During all my years in politics, I have never before seen such a brazen and deliberate effort on the part of a few to secretly grab, strangle and control the Republican party in Chilton County. I refer to the effort that has been made to hand-pick the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County.

On March 4, at five o'clock p.m., Mr. W. A. Norris, deputy sheriff under Sheriff Gillespie, filed in the probate office thirty-nine announcements of as many candidates for members of the Republican Executive Committee in the different beats of the county; these names to be put on the ballot in the primary of May 3rd.

The present Republican executive committee, of which you are a member, has made no arrangements or provisions whatever for election of members of the Republican executive committee. Yet this little clique around the courthouse have gotten together and picked out a group of men to run the Republican party for the next four years, without any authority from the present Republican executive committee to elect such members in the primary May 3.

The thirty-nine names filed in my office on March 4, which was too late for anybody else to announce. Some of the thirty-nine candidates were approached around Clanton at late hours of the night the last day to announce, it seems, for the purpose of keeping the public from knowing anything about electing a Republican executive committee until after it was too late for anybody else to announce.

You and seventeen other members of the present executive committee were left off by this little clique, and others added to suit them. Don't you think that every Republican ought to have an equal chance in running for office? This crowd picked two at each beat to suit them, and left off those who might not follow their lead.

How long do you think the Republican party can last if such scheming as the above is to be carried on by the pretended leaders of the party? As stated above, I have been trying to warn the Republicans of the county where the party is drifting under such leadership. Now I think the course must be so clear that anybody can see and understand.

I believe in open politics, and I believe that every Republican has a right to run for office at the hands of the party. I believe every voter has a right to express himself in a primary and to vote for anybody he or she wants to fill the offices from the lowest to the highest.

I believe the Republican voters of the county should have the right to elect the members of the Republican executive committee in the different beats. But in order to make this possible, the Republican executive committee must call such election openly and give every person an equal chance to run. As the matter stands now, the committee has not called such election. Yet this little clique of designing politicians have slipped in and filed a list of hand-picked names to run as members of the committee, when there has not been any provision made for the election of such members.

I have records in my office to bear out my statements in this matter, and I would be glad you or anybody else would come and inspect them.—Respectfully,

L. H. REYNOLDS.

Mr. Editor, I think this is a serious matter to every Republican voter in Chilton County. I think it should

Republican Candidate for County Commissioner In the Third District

Editor Union-Banner:

As I am now a candidate for Commissioner from the Third District and will not have time to see all the voters, and believing that all the voters have a right to know all about my official acts and what my intentions are in the future I request that you publish this letter.

I have served the people of this county the very best that I could. I have at every opportunity voted for an economical administration of the county affairs. When the panic came on and it looked like our people needed some reduction in taxes. It was the pleasure of my life to vote to release all road subjects from paying $5.50 fee or working five days on the public roads for the years 1930-31 and 1932, and we still have a panic and I do not believe the people of this county can pay the present tax they are paying. Therefore, I am in favor of a still further reduction of taxes of the people of this county, but I am not in favor of reducing the corporations where they are still permitted by law to charge such rates for their services as will permit them to make interest on their investments.

Judge L. H. Reynolds has blanks in his office so that any tax payer can get one that will enable him to file application with the Court for reduction of his taxes as provided by law, which notice must be filed with the Tax Assessor before the first Monday in May. I hope this matter has been made plain that every taxpayer whose taxes are assessed too high can file this application with the Tx Assessor without the assistance or expense of an attorney.

I feel like the Commissioners Court has at all times done the best they could for the taxpayers of the county and while they have spent a great deal of money, I believe if you will examine the roads of your county and take into consideration the public improvements and the amount we have paid on the old debt, that you will be satisfied, and while I do not want to see your county take any backward step yet, I feel like that governments must reduce expenses in accordance with the reduced income of the taxpayers, and I know that a large percentage of the tax payers of Chilton County are not even making a living much less a per cent on their investments. The tax payers have to furnish the money to support the county affairs and I feel like your Commissioners Court had just as well live close and reduce expenses and manage the county's business in accordance with the conditions of our taxpayers.

I have always been a loyal Republican, accepted the verdict of my people on any question, have always voted the Republican ticket from top to bottom. I have never belonged to any faction. I am just a straightforward Republican. I believe in all matters pertaining to our party, that the people ought to have a say so. I believe we ought to go into a primary as one people and let the people freely express themselves and when the nomination is made, support the nominees.

I know there is some dissatisfaction because I could not give everybody a job that wanted one. The times have been awfully distressing and I am sorry I could not give everybody a job that needed one.

In conclusion I say to you that I believe the experience I have had in the county's business will be a great advantage to me for the next four years, and I believe with a harmonious court, the balance of your roads can be graveled and the balance of your debts paid off. We owe now about $107,000 and we have about $65,000 in the County Treasury and $25,000 in the bank set apart to pay on old bonds and have just completed a new jail, but of course this matter is up to you voters and your decision will be my decision on May the 3rd.—J. L. Burnett.

ALABAMA HARD HIT BY COLD WEATHER

Alabama was hard hit by the cold weather of the past week, reports the department of agriculture.

F. W. Gist, statistician, reports that it is too early to estimate the amount of the damage done fruits and vegetables.

Reports from over the state to Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, indicate the following to be true: Tomatoes, beans, corn, squash, cucumbers and other tender vegetables were killed. Strawberries must grow new crops as berries were all killed. Cabbage, turnips and mustard damaged but it is generally believed that they will come out if there is no further damage.

English peas were badly damaged. B. P. Livingston, chief of the plant industry division of the department of agriculture reports that it is difficult to give grades on those shipped following the cold.

Onions were apparently not hurt. Pears and early blooming peaches were badly damaged or killed with some damage to buds of other fruit. Irish potatoes also suffered heavy damages.

Miss Evelyn Atkinson spent the week end at her home in Gadsen, Alabama.

Good Program By Verbena Music Club

Presented At High School Auditorium Last Friday Night

The Verbena Music club put on a musical comedy at the Verbena High School auditorium last Friday night. The title of the play was "Marrying Marian," and the players featured were Aubrey Robinson and Miss Evelyn Barrett. Other leading roles were played by Hollis Hiten, Huston Robinson, Clemmie Heald, Elizabeth Hubbard, Ralph Hughes and Miss Willie Morrell. The ensemble consisted of: Nell Pattillo, Kate Glenn, Katherine Gaines, Ethel Cagle, Kate McKinney, Eunice Bullard, Frances Strock, Elmore Shepard, Sarah Hollis, Myra Keel, Margaret Glenn, Quintilla Meroney and Era Bullard.

A splendid orchestra of two saxophones, two violins and a trombone, with the piano, made the music for the occasion. At the piano were Mrs. W. A. Gulledge and Miss Juanita Gordon. The orchestra consisted of Perry Norris, Ernest Williams, Sid Gibson, Frank Gulledge and Hollis Hiten. The play was coached by Mrs. Erby Deramus.

The presentation of this play brought before the public some of the best literary talent in this section of the state. Most of those taking the leading roles have appeared in several plays before and are thoroughly familiar with what to do on the stage. It is hoped that arrangements may be made for this cast to carry this play to other places, because it is worth being seen anywhere by anybody.

OLD THINGS BECOMING NEW

Who remembers the good old days when, early in the morning of late fall and early spring one could hear in the nearby woods the clink of steel hammer and iron wedge, and the deadened wham of mall or mallet against the dogwood glut? A quarter of a century ago this sound was a familiar one, and every time it was heard one knew the same meant that someone was converting pine trees into fence rails, making ready for the summer's pea patches, corn patches, etc. But this sound and even the sight of fence rails has grown dim in our recollection; but they say that everything travels in circles, even the times. Well, we do not dispute that old adage.

In proverbial old Beat 16 there is going up a brand new rail fence, and it is made out of pine rails that have just been rived from the thicket. It is on the farm of Louis Easterling, and when the ends meet it will encircle a tract of about ten acres.

In these bustling days of the twentieth century, and during this era of depressed prosperity, we cannot help but like to see some of the things returning we were raised amongst twenty-five years ago. We do not just now recall any old landmark that brings back more and fonder memories of those good old days, than does the winding, in-and-out rail fence, made of bright new pine splits, the like of which once encircled many hills and knolls of our beloved county.

Z. J. Jones and Uncle Tom Hubbard of Beat 14 were visitors to Clanton Wednesday.

LADIES WILL BE KIWANIS GUESTS

Annual Club Event Will Be Held At Baptist Church Here Tonight

An affair which is looked forward to by each member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, and some ladies of the town, will take place tonight at the Baptist Church here, when the Kiwanis Club of Clanton will hold its annual "Ladies Night." Wives, daughters, sweethearts and mothers will be guests of members of the club at this affair tonight.

It is understood that a most enjoyable program has been planned and ready for presentation, while the ladies who serve the club have a menu card that would tempt the most delicate and particular appetite, and please the most fastidious palate, awaiting the Kiwanis Club members and their fair guests tonight.

Among the outstanding features on program is the presence of one of the outstanding Kiwanians in the state, John K. Watkins, district governor, from Opelika, who brings with him a bag full of witty remarks, wise sayings and fine philosophy, and who is to have as his lady-guest, one of the fairest to be picked in this section.

Another feature of the evening will be little Miss Betty Ann Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Smith, of Denver, Colorado, who will entertain with several tap dancing, and toe dancing numbers. Little Miss Smith is a clever tap dancer and has appeared before numerous clubs and has been heard over a Denver broadcasting station.

This entertainment wil take the place of the regular noon weekly luncheon of the club. Tonight's affair is scheduled for seven-thirty o'clock.

At the meeting last Thursday, several matters of business were attended to, and a local program given. Each month, there are three programs arranged with outside color, while one each month is given over to local talent and speakers.

The club voted to give to the high school, a bust of George Washington, which will bear a bronze plate stating it was presented by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton.

DEVAUGHN TALKS TO THE VOTERS

Concerning His Race For Commissioner From the Fourth District

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

I wish to take this means of calling your attention to my candidacy for County Commissioner of the Fourth District of Chilton County, subject to the action of the Republican primary May 3rd.

As many will recall, I was in the race four years ago and was defeated. After careful consideration and by request of many of my friends and because I have a desire and believe I can be of service to the people in this way, I have decided to enter the race again. I wish to state in the outset that I believe in the priciples of the Republican party, and have always worked for what I thought to be the best interest of the party. I have always voted the ticket straight.

It is true that I have not had ten or twelve years experience on the board of county commissioners to boast of, but I have had considerable experience in working for and dealing with the public in various ways, and have had fairly good success in managing my own affairs, and I think this would aid materially in the discharge of my duty as your commissioner, if elected.

I believe, if elected, that I could and would, fill the place to the satisfaction of all reasonable and fair minded people. To those who do not know me, I am perfectly willing for my neighbors and friends to speak their sentiment concerning my character, qualifications, etc., and would be glad for any one to investigate and inquire about me, and make it just as thorough as you please.

I am 41 years old, and was born and reared in Chilton County. I have farmed practically all my life, and have saw-milled, worked at carpenter trade, and taught music schools as a side line to farming for the past twenty years. I advocate good roads and good schools. I be-

THE WORKSTOCK'S PLEA TO FARMERS OF COUNTY IN 1932

I am fat and fine at this time and I am wondering if you are planning on producing 90 bushels of corn for me this year. You know I am very fond of corn, but I like a change in my grain feed sometime. As a little extra, what about a little plot of oats, rye, soybeans, kaffir corn, or some other small grain? I can hardly get along without, at least, 2 tons of hay. Most any kind of hay will be pleasingly accepted; johnson grass, alfalfa, sudan grass, peanut hay, peavine hay, vetch or austrian peas makes a fine feed for me. I am sure you can grow some of these crops, because I have seen them grow in Chilton County. Then too, I am an Alabama guy and I want you to stand by me and I'll make a good crop for you.

Things didn't go so well with me last year. I was a little puny, almost all the year. My master bought a box of stock powder for me. Now, you know I can't make a whole year on stock powder, but I did notice some mighty good directions on the box. Here is what I saw: Feed in clean trough free from manure; give ample grain and hay; give clean, fresh water and keep salt in trough at all times; examine teeth once each year; keep feet in good condition; curry and brush daily; keep stock in roomy stall; let stock have access to lot in favorable weather; and give two tablespoons of stock powder a day. Would you be surprised if I told you that my master followed all of these directions? Well, here is what he did: He overlooked all except the last one. Now, I have only horse sense, but I know you can and are going to do more for me this year year.

Next to my eating and health comes my pleasure. Please give me a nice place to roll after my day's work is done. If I could spend Sundays and rainy days grazing in a good pasture I'd feel much better. I really get tired of staying in a dry lot with my head over the fence. Just before I close, I must offer my prayer:

To thee, my master, I offer my prayer: feed me, water and care for me and when the day's work is done provide me with shelter, a clean dry bed and stall, wide enough to lie down in comfort. Talk to me, your voice often means as much to me as the reins. Pet me sometimes that I may serve you more gladly and learn to love you. Do not jerk the reins and do not whip me when going up hill. Never strike, beat or kick me when I do not understand what you want, but give me a chance to understand you. Watch me, if I fail to do your biddings, see if something is not wrong with my harness or feet.

Examine my teeth when I do not eat. I may have an ulcerated tooth and that, you know, is very painful. Do not tie my head in an unnatural position or take away my best defense against flies and mosquitoes by cutting off my tail.

And finally, oh master, when my useful strength is gone, do not turn me out to starve or freeze or sell me to some cruel owner to be tortured and starved to death, but do thou, my master, take my life in the kindest way; and your God will reward you here and hereafter. You will not consider me irreverent if I ask this in the name of Him who was born in a stable. Amen.—Benj. Anderson, Teacher of Voc. Agr. in the Chilton County Training School.

WEST CHILTON

Here we are shivering in winter's chilly blasts. Only a few days ago, gardens were looking green and luxuriant, now they are in mourning. So a new start is inevitable. But the tiller of the soil never gives up. And with renewed hope and energy, he will go forward again to help feed and clothe the world.

Mrs. William Robinson is still in the infirmary in Birmingham. She is reported as improving.

Mrs. Cecil Glass of Gadsden is here visiting his grandfather, Mr. Sam Glass, near Randolph.

Mr. Evens of Centreville has been here for some time sawing the Walker timber on the line of Beat 2 and 14. He is now closing out.

Last Thursday night, the time of the snow, the store of John S. Waldrop was visited by burglars. They picked the lock and carried away a quantity of dry goods, overalls, hosiery, cloth, cutlery, smoking tobacco, chewing gum, and tore out the cash drawer.

Messrs. O. L. Devaughn and C. D. Duke have recently visited West Chilton, calling on the voters. We think they both made a favorable impression with their Republican constituents, and if either one should be nominated, no doubt the voters would rally unitedly to the support of the winner.

Mr. A. P. Vinson's article last week was fine and interesting. Yes, with the clear promise of efforts to help burdened tax payers in a matter of dollars and cents. That is what we all need and want. If he is nominated, no doubt but the voters would put him over.

Mrs. Margaret Glass has been seriously ill but was improving a little at the last report.

Rev. Lawrence filled his appointment at Macedonia Sunday, and delivered a great sermon.

The singing at Freeman Sunday afernoon was good. The directing was by Messrs. Scott and Cofer.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard were visitors at W. R. Redden's Sunday.

Luther Davenport of Baldwin County visited his mother, near Randolph last week.

We believe it was the Man in the Moon that said our present efficient County Treasurer was making the race this year on her record. Indeed her record is admirable and if nominated there is no doubt of her being successful in November.

We note the Headley-Edwards controversy is quite interesting. And they have just about disarmed each other with kindness. That is it should other with kindness. That is as it should be. Truth will prevail. "Though crushed to earth will arise again."

SOLONS HEARING VOICE OF FARMER

Montgomery, Ala. March 14.—This winter the legislative department of the American Farm Bureau Federation is carrying forward what is probably the most extensive and far-reaching legislative program it has ever undertaken, says E. L. Deal, Alabama Farm Bureau secretary.

Recently tremendous support was thrown behind the equalization fee as an amendment to the agricultural marketing act under which the Federal Farm Board operates when President Edward A. O'Neal and other American Farm Bureau officials appeared before agricultural committees of the Senate and House.

"One main purpose of the equalization fee is to control surpluses and prevent the American price of cotton and other important crops from being set by the world price," Deal said. "This is the plan the farm bureau has for improving the agricultural marketing act."

Another important piece of work of the farm bureau legislative department was in getting approved a measure to establish a $10,000,000 revolving fund for use by the secretary of agriculture in promoting the organization of agricultural credit corporations and livestock loan companies.

Largely through farm bureau efforts the bill was liberalized to make it more workable. Loans may be made out of this fund to individuals desiring to purchase capital stock up to 75 per cent of the face value of the stock.

Many other measures are receiving either the support or opposition of the national farmer's organization, Deal said.

E. H. Littlejohn Writes an Appeal

To the voters of the Republican party and citizens of Chilton County:

Some facts with reference to my announcement on February 23rd, as a candidate for Commissioner of the Third District of Chilton County, answering the call of duty by some of the best citizens of the District, may I ask for your support in the primary election of May 3rd?

I assure you that if elected, I will guard with watchful care, every public or private interest of the county entrusted to that office. I will endeavor to prove myself sun-crowned in the administration of the county affairs with equal rights to all. I will be free to serve you to the very best interests of all concerned. I will not be obligated or pulled by any private interest or concern. I will be, if elected, a servant of the county, co-operative with the other officials respectively.

I am not asking any one to paint or deck my name until "Gabriel" would look like a tramp, but I kindly ask for your support, which will warrant for you, the best service I can give.

"Oh," some one says, "Littlejohn is a preacher," yes I am a preacher, of the holy ghost, I believe with all my heart.

I have been trying to preach a whole gospel for twenty yeears.

Some one may say, "stay out of county politics, they are rotten."

But that is not my case. Rotten men get into politics as they do in the church and fraternal orders. And the high moral man will be that high moral man whereever he is.

I trust that I will never push a man aside because he stands for something high and noble. Anyway, I am sure the office I am asking for will do me no harm. But I do believe, if any thing, it will help me in a small way, at least, to carry my efforts further in my Master's name among those for whom I am spending and being spent to keep alive the greater interest for "time and eternity."

Some of you readers can verify the above statement.

I am always seeking greater opportunities to do greater service is the reason why I have answered this call to duty, kindly submitting my name for your consideration.

I will appreciate any consideration granted me by you in the primary election in May.

Hoping to meet you in person some time soon. I will speak at the courthouse Saturday, March 19th at 2 p. m. I am, yours for success,

E. H. LITTLEJOHN.

Lesson for March 20

JESUS DIES ON THE CROSS

LESSON TEXT—John 19:17-22; 25-30.

GOLDEN TEXT—For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Gives His Life for Us.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Gives His Life for Us.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Dies for Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Why Christ Died.

This lesson presents the greatest tragedy of all time. No record in the annals of history approaches it. It is in a real sense the climax of all history. Though unique in its blackness, from it flows streams of life and liberty for all the world. It is highly important that every teacher have the personal experience of Christ's death for himself and then endeavor to get his pupils to see that Christ's death was instead of their own death. We escape judgment because the judgment we merited fell upon Christ.

I. The Place (v. 17).

It was on a hill called in Latin "Calvary" and in Hebrew "Golgotha," which in shape resembled a skull. This hill is a few yards outside Jerusalem. This is a most significant name for the place where man's redemption was accomplished. The skull is an apt picture of man's condition as a result of sin—life and intelligence gone, leaving only the dark empty cavern.

II. His Companions (v. 18, cf. Luke 23:33).

Two malefactors were crucified with him. Their names are not given. This was in fulfillment of Isaiah 53:12, "He was numbered with the transgressors." He was sinless, but became sin for us.

III. The Inscription over Him (vv. 19, 20).

It was customary to place an inscription over the cross, stating the crime for which the victim suffered. Although Pilate did this in bitter irony and contempt, he uttered a great truth, affirming more than he intended.

IV. Gambling for the Garments of Jesus (vv. 23, 24).

This was a fulfillment of the scripture. "They part my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture" Ps. 22:18. This is an exhibition of how men's hearts may be so callousedas to plan an act for present gain under the shadow of the cross of Christ.

V. Utterances from the Cross (vv. 25-30).

1. "Behold thy son—"Behold thy mother" (vv. 25, 26). In this crucial hour he forgot his own bitter anguish and interested himself in those he loved. This is a fine example of human sympathy, and especially of filial love at its best.

2. "I thirst" (v. 28). As the sinner's representative, he suffered not only untold agony of mind, but of body as well.

3. "It is finished" (v. 30). While no one can fathom the depth of meaning in these words, they no doubt indicate a. That the calumnies and indignities heaped upon him were at an end. His trial was grossly illegal. False witnesses were employed to incriminate him.

b. His awful sufferings were at an end. The penalty of the unnamable and indescribable, sins of the world were resting upon him, wringing from him the pathetic cry, 'My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

c. The fulfillment of every type and prophecy.

d. His life of perfect obedience.

e. The great work of redemption. "Finished" means more than ended. It means "accomplished." All that he started out to do was now completed.

f. The judgment of the world and the casting out of Satan. (See John 12:31.)

"From this point on there was no more humiliation, insult, or outrage. From the moment when the spear-thrust made it certain that he was actually dead, no cherished infant form could be more tenderly taken in arms, wrapped in clean linen with aromatic spices, and laid at rest in a faultlessly clean chamber. Neither was he ever again seen by an unfriendly eye. Truly, as to all sorrow and suffering and vicarious agony, it was finished."

VI. His Death (v. 30, cf. Luke 23:44, 45).

His death was voluntary. It was unlike any other death in all history. By an act of sovereign will he dismissed his spirit. No one took his life from him. He had power to lay it down and power to take it up again. So shocking was the crime that nature herself threw around the Son of God a shroud to hide him from the godless crowd. Darkness was upon the land at noonday.

Central Singing Society

The society had a very good little singing at Providence last Sunday afternoon. The weather was cold and not many attended, but the singing was good and enjoyed by all.

We meet next Sunday afternoon with Maple Springs. Everybody bear the place in mind, and try to be there by 2 o'clock. Don't stay away on account of the cold; come and sing hard and you will stay warm.

OPERATED ON AT SELMA HOSPITAL LAST WEEK

The first of last week Miss Madelyn Orr went over to Selma to visit a cousin who was ill in King's Memorial Hospital. While there Miss Orr was taken ill and the doctors ordered an operation for appendicitis at once. She underwent the operation fine and is reported improving nicely.

Miss Orr has been suffering with attacks of appendicitis off and on for the past several months.

Mrs. Stoddard, who is staying at the Exchange Hotel in Clanton, is in Selma for a few days undergoing a slight operation.

Leaders at the University state Dr. Judd has no superior among the education leaders of this country in power of mind and personality in forcefulness of utterance whether in the classroom or on the platform, and in the brilliance of his leadership.

Dr. Judd is profound as well as prolific writer both in the general field of education and in his own special field of physochology. Up to 1927 he had written 14 volumes in addition to his contributions in volumes written in part by others. He had also written over 200 separate monographs and special articles in educational magazines and journals, touching in one or more of these articles upon practically every major problem in American public education.

The State Education conference is held each year under the joint auspices of the State Board of Education and the University of Alabama. This conference will consist, not only of Dr. Judd's lectures but also of a series of group conferences under the direction of the respective department heads of the state department of education for city and county school superintendents, elementary school principals, supervisors, high school principals, school board officials, and others holding administrative and supervisory positions in public education. No fees of any kind are charged for attendance upon these lectures and conferences of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers to be held during Education conference week. The division of Exceptional Education, State Department of Education, will also hold its annual conference.

Dr. Beverley D. Tucker, Jr., rector, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Richmond, Va., will deliver the baccalaureate address at the 1932 commencement excersises at the University of Alabama. Dr. Tucker will speak at 11 a.m., Sunday, May 22. Since he is a descendant of George Washington, University officials say it is quite fitting that Dr. Tucker will speak here during the bicentennial period.

The national reseach council has granted the Alabama Museum of Natural History a sum of money for the purpose of delimiting the Moundville culture. The work of the museum will be carried on in Florence, Tuscaloosa, Snow's Bend, Forkland and Bottle Creek.

The Southern Intercollegiate Association of Women's Student Government will meet here March 23-26. Eighty delegates are expected to attend. President Denny and Dean Harris will address the group.

The University of Alabama Male Glee Club collaborating with the Women's Glee club will offer Gilbert and Sullivan's most famous comic opera "The Mikado" between now and commencement.

The George Washington Bicentennial oratorial contest for Alabama will be held here March 28. Participants from most of the institutes of higher learning will be here for the affair.

Engineering students will make their annual inspection trip to industrial centers of the state March 21 and 22.

SPECIAL SESSION UNITY BAPTISTS

Will Be Held at Billingsley Baptist Church on March 25th

In response to a call of the State Baptist organization through its secretary, that all the Baptist churches in the state be called together in their respective Association in a one-day session between the 21st of this month and the 2nd day of April, 1932, the Executive Committee of the Unity Baptist Association has designated Friday, March 25, 1932, as the day on which to meet and the Baptist church at Billingsley, Ala., as the place to meet.

I, therefore, as moderator of the said Unity Baptist Association, hereby respectfully call upon all churches in said Association to immediately take the necessary steps to have delegates appointed to attend this meeting of the Association.

This is to be an inspiratonal meeting, and it is hoped that great spiritual blessings will come from same.

Delegates are to appointed, just as they are in our stated annual meetings, but there will be no reports to be made, as they are in our annual meetings.

It is expected of each delegate to carry lunches, that there may be no burden on any one church and community.

Churches that will not have regular preaching or business meeting between now and the 25th, of this month will please have a call conference at some suitable time between now and the 25th, and appoint the proper number of delegates to attend this meeting; and I call upon the clerks, deacons, and pastors of all churches to see that this is done and that each church has a good representation at the meeting.

Remember the time and place, on March 25th, 1932, at the Baptist Church in Billingsley, Ala.—Yours for the on-going of the Kingdom work, J. Z. Mims, Moderator.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

UNCLE SAM SAYS

The Alabama statistics in the state summaries of income estimates in the U. S. Census report for 1929-30 shows:

That cotton ranks first in farm cash income with 71 per cent of the total in 1929 and 64 per cent in 1930, while farm products rank second with 6 per cent in 1929 and 8.2 per cent in 1930. The next ranking products were cattle, 3.1 per cent, hogs, 2.9 per cent and sweet potatoes 2.8 per cent for 1929 and hogs 3.7 per cent, Irish potatoes 3.2 per cent and cattle 3.1 per cent for 1930.

That while cash incomes from crops declined from 1929 to 1930 follows: Cotton and cottonseed 38 per cent, corn 78 per cent, sweet potatoes 54 per cent, hogs 13 per cent, Irish potatoes 29 per cent, milk 24 per cent, peanuts 24 per cent, and cattle 29 per cent. The cash income from farm forest products declined only 7 per cent.

That, forest products as a cash crop was worth as much as the next ranking two farm commodities in 1929 and 16 per cent more than the next ranking two in 1930.

That in 1929 forest products showed a gross income to farmers of $15,471,000 and a cash income of $10,366,000, while the gross income in 1930 was $14,388,000 and cash income was $9,640,000.

With reasonable care of the woodland this farm income cannot only be maintained but raised materially. Let's not forget what wood products have done for the farmer. Keep down forest fires.

BEST VARIETY OF COTTON IS URGED

Auburn, Ala., March 16.—For improving the quality of their cotton and increasing returns from it one variety of cotton for a community is recommended by Alabama county agents and J. C. Lowery at Auburn.

By getting the best variety from the standpoint of quality, yield and value the best results are obtained. The county agents are acquainted with the best varities for their respective counties. Where only one variety is grown it will be easy for ginners to keep the seed pure.

"Adopting one variety," continued Mr. Lowery, "should be done with a view in producing good and uniform lint rather than for the purpose of going into the commercial seed business. The main purpose in planting cotton is to produce lint; and this fact should be kept continuously before us."

STORAGE OF EGGS GETS ATTENTION

Montgomery, Ala., March 14.—Placing eggs in cold storage to be held for sale in late summer and early fall when prices are usually at a peak is attracting the attention of Alabama poultrymen, according to J. B. Sylvest, manager of the produce department of the Alabama Farm Bureau Mutual Supply Association.

Already more than 100 cases have been stored, and storage will continue until around 50,000 cases have been stored, he said.

In past producers have gained 4 to 10 cents per dozen by storing for sale in high-price months, he said.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

The board of directors of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, at a recent meeting in New Orleans, decided to continue their cooperative work with the Federal Farm Board for a period of five years. The action is subject to ratification by the state associations.

Julian Arnold, U. S. trade commissioner at Shanghai, says that American trade was hit hard by the Shanghai hostilities and that there is no prospect of any immediate material improvement. He estimated that 75 per cent of the cargoes coming into Shanghai for more than a month have been placed in bonded warehouses where they could not be moved.

So far this season fertilizer sales are far behind sales of former years. From December 1 through February sales in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Arkansas amounted to 295,000 tons, compared with 519,000 tons for the same period last season and 963,000 in 1930.

James Stone, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, says that growers received less for their livestock in 1931 than in 1929, while the consumption public got a reduction of only 20 per cent. It is estimated that in 1913 the hog producer received 56 cents for the consumer's dollar against only 35 cents in 1931. He advised a more complete organization of growers to correct this situation.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Query.—How should sweet potatoes be selected before bedding them for growth of young plants?

Ans.—The most important thing to consider in choosing sweet potatoes for beddings to avoid using those affected with stem rot or black rot disease. Examine a few potatoes of the lot from which you are selecting the seed by cutting them across. The disease, if present, may be detected by the brown rings under the skin. Do not choose potatoes where diseased roots are found. Try to obtain seed from a field where there was no stem rot last year and where there has been no loss from black rot during the winter storage. Seed should also be treated with corrosive sublimate before placing in the bed. Use material mixed at the rate of one pound to one hundred gallons of water, or one common tablet to a pint of water. This is a dengerous poison and must be kept from children and other people. Leave the roots in the solution for fiteen minutes. Then remove and dry and they are ready to place in the beds.

Query.—How should calves that have scours be treated?

Ans.—Keep calves separated when they are thus affected. Feed a barley gruel while still warm. Have it well cooked. A teaspoonful of foramdine to every quart of milk is advisable and helpful. Scald out the feeding pails every time. Use boiled milk which has been cooled until luke warm. Avoid feeding too heavily.

Query.—Some of my neighbors plant English peas and snap beans at the same time in the spring garden. Please give correct practices which you would advise along this line.

Ans.—There is a wide difference in the temperature requirement of many of the garden plants. Among those which stand rather extreme cold nights and can be planted early in the garden are lettuce, spinach, mustard, radishes, turnips, English peas, and transplanted plants of cabbage, cauliflower, Brussel sprouts, celery, etc. Later in the season would be planted cool season crops which endure summer heat, such as beets, carrots, chard, kale, collards, parsley, endive, onions, asparagus, and rhubarb. The warm season crops include corn, beans of all kinds okra, melons, cucumbers, squash, pumpkins, tomatoes, egg plant, peppers, and sweet potatoes.

COTTON POOLS ARE CLOSED FOR SEASON

Montgomery, Ala., March 14.—Pools for the season 1931-1932 of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association will be closed March 31, it was announced here by J. A. Beaty, general manager.

Exception will be made in the case of the special pool created this season to receive "drouth loan cotton," he said. Outside of this members desiring to deliver cotton after March 31 will deliver it to pools for the season of 1932-1933. A schedule of advances for the 1932-1933 season has not yet been announced, he added.

This year the association received cotton from its members and advanced within one cent per pound of the market price. This cotton will be sold before July 31 and final settlement made with members, as it has been demonstrated that the holding operations of the past two years have benefitted the non-member at the expense of the member, the coop head said.

"To eliminate speculation and to discontinue sustaining the market during the harvesting season at the expense of the member" was given as the reason for the sales policy for 1931-1932.

Beaty said that officers and employees of the Association would spend much time this spring and summer improving facilities for handling cotton next fall. Last fall the association placed a competent classer at 35 points in the state where farmers could carry their cotton and get immediate service on classing and advances. This service will be greatly improved and expanded for he next season, he said.

J. T. MABRY POOLS 745 BALES COTTON

Montgomery, Ala., March 14.—J. T. Mabry, prominent cotton planter of Panola, Sumter County, understands well the advantages of cooperative sales of cotton.

He recently placed 745 bales of cotton in the annual pool of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association for marketing. The cotton was shipped from Panola to Demopolis by boat.

The cotton is of D. P. L. 4-8 and Mis-Del varieties and stapled from 15-16 to 1 1-16 inches. Mr. Mabry received premiums allowed by mills because of the superior staple length of his cotton.

More than 6,900,000 hunting licenses for taking wild game were issued in the United States (including Alaska) in the season 1929-30. These licenses brought to the states $10,000,000. New York with 721,171 licenses and $735,295 was first. Pennsylvania was second with 509,926 licenses and a revenue of $1,029,745.

MR. J. L. MINER HAS GOOD REPORT ON SHEEP RAISING

In 1925 Mr. J. L. Miner of Clanton Route 1 had 20 head of sheep, from which he sold 14 head of mutton which brought $52.70, wool and hides, $19.51, or a total of $72.21.

In 1926 he sold 12 head, wool and hides that brought $78.47. In 1927 he sold 20 head, wool and hides that brought $122.18. In 1928 he sold 3 head, wool and hides that brought $26.80. In 1929 he sold 11 head, wool and hides that brought $65.95. In 1930 he sold 7 head and hides that brought $48.36. In 1931 Mr. Miner sold 10 head, wool and hides that brought $59.38.

This shows a total of $473.35 worth of sheep, wool and hides sold for the period from 1925 through 1931.

At the beginning of 1932 Mr. Miner had eleven head of sheep on hand.

"POT LIKKER" HAS REAL FOOD VALUE

Auburn, Ala., March 16.—Old time "pot likker"—long the subject for old jokes and occassionally a new joke—possesses real merit as a food. Official approval of it has been given by government officials and food experts at Washington through Miss Helen Kennedy, extension nutritionist at Auburn.

"Pot Likker," says Miss Kennedy, "adds mineral to the diet." Food experts at Washington had said the same. Miss Kennedy added, "you may not realize just what 'pot likker' adds to the diet, but you will be glad to know that besides being 'good old pot liker' it contains valuable minerals. These minerals are calcium, phosphorus, iron and several others. They are cooked out of the bones and out of the vegetables which are cooked with the bones.

"Ham gives flavor because there is some meat on the bone and also the bone itself contributes some of the food value. Vegetables, such as potatoes, onions, tomatoes, carrots, and peppers, add vitamin and color. All of these in 'pot likker' along with hot corn pone make a whole meal in one dish.

"Remember that the minerals are contained in the bones and in the marrow, and that is the reason for cooking the meat bones with the food.

"For people minerals are improtant in the blood, in the bones, and in the muscles. The baby needs minerals for growth and the adult needs them to rebuild and to repair.

"Cook the meat bones first to get all the food value, then add the vegetables and cook only until the vegetables are tender. This short time cooking is important. Long and high temperature destroys some of the vitamins.

"To get full fuel value eat pot likker, meat and vegetables."

INCOME FORUMLA IS STARTED BY WILSON

Auburn, Ala., March 16.—By a simple formula worked out by J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer at Auburn, a farmer can determine his net income. It is equal to the selling price per unit less the cost multiplied by the number of units—such as bushels, or pounds, or gallons.

To illustarte he said that if a farmer makes 5,000 pounds of (10 bales) lint cotton at a cost of 5 cents per pound and sells it for 6 cents his net returns are $50. This is determined by subtracting 5 form 6 and multiplying the difference, which is 1 cent per pound, by 5,000.

"By application of this simple formula," continued Mr. Wilson, "any farmer can determine hi snet returns. It applies not only to cotton but to any other farm product. It reveals also that for net returns to be high production costs must be low and the production per person must be large."

SCOUT NEWS

Opelika, Ala., March 16.—Complete staff personnel to assist executive John J. Sigwald at Camp Spring Villa next Summer has been approved by Dr. O. H. Tatum of Opelika, camping chairman for the central Alabama area council, of Boy scouts. This constitutes another important step toward cmpletion of arrangements for scouts in this area to enjoy a great outing at Spring Villa, near Opelika, beginning June 4.

Assisting Mr. Sigwald, camp director, will be S. J. Harris of West Palm Beach, Florida, who has served in this capacity for the past two summers.

The junior staff consists of John Ezell of Clanton, Wallace Hill and Franklin Ward of Selma, John Dorough of Tallassee, Chalmers Lock of Alexander City, James Parrish of Auburn and Walter Westerbeke of Opelika. This staff is considered by Mr. Sigwald to be one of the best staffs he has had in the last fourteen camps.

John Ezell of Clanton will have charge of the woodworks instruction and will assist each camper in taking home a camp souvenir made by their own hands.

Walter Westerbeke, an eagle scout of Opelika, has been chosen for the fourth consecutive year as camp bugler. This scout will also have charge of part of the craft work which includes soap modeling.

James Parrish, scout of the Auburn ship "Merrimac," will be the camp scribe, editor of the camp daily newspaper, and treasurer of the camp bank.

Eagle scout, Franklin will have charge of the life guards and assist the camp director in giving life saving and swimming instructions. He will be in charge of the first aid station to treat small cuts and scratches received by campers.

The Game leader and the scout in charge of preparing the camp fire is Chalmers Lock, senior patrol leader of troop 29 of Alexander City. This scout also teaches archery.

John Dorough of Tallassee has special charge of leather soaking and the other craft work.

Wallace Hill of Selma is the nature scout this year and will teach bird and animal lore.

The same cook has again been employed for the camp and good meals are assured.

NO NEED FOR MONEY AT CAMP SPRING VILLA

Opelika, Ala., March 16.—Rural boy scouts in the Central Alabama district will not need money to pay their fee to attend the annual camp at Spring Villa next summer. Instead of "cold cash" the scouts may substitute equivalent value in produce—chickens eggs or vegetables, says executive Sigwald, who believes the measure will perimt many more boys from rural districts to attend this summer.

"This unique plan should prove quite popular with a number of the Lone Scouts Council," said Bradford Knapp who is the Lone Scout chairman for Region 5.

The junior staff of Spring Villa, will be chosen within the next few days. The junior group will supplement the senior staff, composed of John J. Sigwald, camp director, E. J. Harris, assistant camp director, and several Auburn Professors who come to camp each day to instruct in various vocational merit badge subjects.

Scouts Joe Hall Johnson and Sidney Reynolds of Clanton were the first two scouts in the council to register for Camp Spring Villa. These two out-door enthusiasts have registered for the entire three weeks of the camp. Other registrations have been pouring in since that time.

Scouts desiring information about the camp, June 4, should write J. J. Sigwald, box 526, Opelika, Ala.

LOMAX

Editor Union-Banner:

Permit me to say through the Union-Banner that farming in this section is progressing some despite he unfavorable weather.

Most of the people are somewhat down-hearted about the strawberry outlook for this season, not only the growers but the farmers who were looking forward for the opportunity to make a few dollars picking berries.

The writer went by the home of Uncle Jesse Crayton (colored) Sunday morning to take the last look at him as he lay a corpse. He is the last of the slavery negroes in this section. He was held in high esteem among the white race of this community and everywhere he was known.

He was 91 years old, had 7 children, 36 grand children, 63 great grand children and 5 great-great grand children, most all of them were present at the burial.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston McGee, of Maplesville, were Sunday visitors to David Scotts.

ABOUT ELECTING REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

It has become apparent from different sources that the question of electing members of the Republican Executive Cmomittee of Chilton County this year has developed into one of our most lively political issues. Why this question should be of more than ordinary political concern is, we suppose, because certain steps that have been taken by some have brought the charges from others that some of our political leaders have sought under cover to "stack" the cards, so as to assure the election as members of the committee only those favorable to one faction of the Republican party.

Before we proceed further with this discussion of the question, we want to call attention of our readers to a letter which Mr. W. M. Benson, of Beat 9, has received from Judge L. H. Reynolds, and which is printed in this issue of the Union-Banner, at the request of Mr. Benson; also the comments and questions of Mr. Benson, relative to the matter under discussion. If you have not read the letters of Judge Reynolds, and Mr. Benson, you should do so before you proceed further in reading this editorial.

Mr. Benson requests the editor of The Union-Banner to explain all he knows about this matter. We presume he refers to the things contained in the letter of Judge Reynolds.

To begin with, we will say that The Union-Banner believes that the Republicans of each beat should elect their members on the County Executive Committee by ballot, just as they vote on other officers. We believe that candidates for the committee should not be picked because of their favor to or for any faction of the party, but for their worth to and ability to serve the whole Republican party. We must overcome and wipe out factionalism in our party or else our party will ultimately perish. We must look to our Executive Committee to dissolve factionalism, and not to perpetuate this party evil.

Judge Reynolds refers to "the effort that has been made to hand-pick the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County." If anybody has sought to hand-pick the members of the committee, we are frank to say that we do not endorse such methods. A committee picked by one group or faction to serve the interests of that faction first, could not possibly serve the larger interests of the Republican party.

With what information we have on the matter, we must say that to us it appears that the question of electing the Republican Executive Committee does not possess the elements of clarity and straightforwardness that are necessary to make the procedure a wholesome and satisfactory function of the Republican voters of the county.

The present Executive Committee has made no arrangements or provisions for electing new members of the committee this year. That, in itself, has placed the question under the shadows of uncertainty. The document filed in the Probate office, which sets out the actions of the committee in calling a primary does not refer to the matter of electing members of the executive committee. Yet, as Judge Reynolds says, a list of candidates for the executive committee have been filed in his office. It appears then, that we have a group of candidates running for offices, and no legal provisions made for electing such officers. This situation may very reasonably be questioned.

It appears to us that there could or should be no excuse for any such situation. The Republicans of this county deserve to be entrusted with the management of their own party affairs in broad open daylight. We see no reason why the Executive Committee should refuse to provide for the election of new members of the committee in the same manner it did for other county officers and chairman and secretary of the committee. Such provision should have been made, and the Republican voters of the county should have had due and ample notice of such provisions.

Why this was not done, The Union-Banner is not able to say. We do not know. Maybe the chairman and secretary of the committee, in answering the questions of Mr. Benson, will give sufficient answer to this phase of the matter.

We believe Mr. Benson, and doubtless many others who are puzzled over the matter, are amply justified in calling for an explanation. We hope those who are in position to do so will not hesitate to make a full and free explanation.

Our greatest concern about this question leads us to offer a word of warning in the interest of the whole Republican party of Chilton County. Our leaders must wake up to the gravity of the situation we are in. It is high time all of us trim our lamps to give light to all Republicans, and quit seeking to serve only a faction.

Do you know the way some of our party leaders have been behaving themselves in recent years has become utterly disgusting to a great number of Republican citizens? The average thinking man has been caused to wonder if he may, with safety, trust any of our leaders. He hears one story from a leader of one faction, and another and opposite story about the same thing from a leader of the other faction. He knows not whom he can trust, and soon he will get the idea that he can trust no one.

It is a silly mess for sensible men to try to get away with. "Oh, what a tangled webb we weave, when first we practice to deceive."

Bearing on this situation we quote this very significant statement from the letter of chairman, J. N. Dennis, in this issue of The Union-Banner:

"I hope and believe you will not be influenced by any dissatisfied individual, but will consider the interests of our county and party, and turn out and cast your vote accordingly, remembering that our party success comes from the good judgment of the voters themselves, and not from following blindly any leaders."

It is said that some of Speaker Garner's friends are preparing to boom him for president as the Texas Coolidge. Is this a tacit admission on the part of the Democrats that Cal wasn't such a bad fellow after all?

CLOSING OUR HOSPITAL

Considered in terms of the larger community interests, the closing of the Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton presents a matter of very serious concern. It is comparable only to the closing of such vital community institutions as our schools or our churches.

When the doors of our hospital are closed, it means that somebody who is helpless will be made to suffer for the want of proper attention. In truth, it may be asserted that we shall in a short time see more than one life snuffed out by disease or injury, purely because the hospital at Clanton was unable to minister to them. Each and every case of such kind will be a life that could not be priced in terms of dollars and cents a hundred times the value of the land and bricks and stones in the hospital property.

The vision which established our hospital here ten years ago has been vindicated in terms of service and value to the people of this community. The institution has proven that it has a very vital place in our civic structure. That question is no longer open to argument. The answer has been proven by ten years of very active and very valuable service to our people.

Now the question is. What can be done to keep the hospital functioning in this community?

It is one of the most urgent challenges that has ever faced us. In response to this challenge, every person should be moved to serious consideration, because it is a question with everyone of us as to whether we will go to the rescue of the perishing, or turn away to our own devices and leave them to go down in their helplessness?

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

It has been the opinion of a great many students of international affairs, from the time of George Washington down to the present, that the activities of the pacifists, who claim, and doubtless in most cases truthfully, that they detest war, are in many ways caluculated to promote rather than discourage conflict. Many pacifists seem to think that by disarming the United States we might furnish an example to the rest of the world, thereby urging other nations to disarm. But practical men are of the opinion that this would only invite disaster to the United States and that disarmament can only come by international agreement, with Uncle Sam in the meantime in duty bound to look carefully to his defensive armament.

But the latest activity of the pacifists seems along the line of a national boycott, a weapon which is dangerous to use on the most propitous occasion. At first many of the leading pacifists were urging that the United States enter into a boycott against Japan in an effort to stop the present Sino-Japanese trouble. Our government will, of course, do nothing of the kind, because the responsible heads of our affairs realize that this would only involve us in serious trouble with Japan, since an official boycott is little less than an act of war. If the United States were to intsitute an official boycott against Japan, even with the cooperation of other powerful nations, which by the way, it would be almost impossible to get, Japan would be placed between two horns of a dilemma. The government could not yield without facing an overthrow at home. Either it would mean to have to declare war on the United States or face slow death by strangulation. In such event, there is little question as to what course Japan would pursue. The obvious plan would be to strike quickly at America before the strangulation process started to become effective. Thus in attempting to end the trouble in China we would only succeed in involving our own country.

But now that an official boycott has gone by the board our own pacifists have taken cudgels for an unofficial boycott, a sort of housewives' affair. It is announced that the American Boycott Association is preparing a nationwide consumer's boycott against Japan and it is stated that this will have the backing of the church, pacifists and international groups. Thus again do the pacifists and internationalists, seeking peace, point the way to war. These would-be boycotters do not realize that the reason Japan is making war on China today lies in just such an unofficial consumers boycott which the Chinese people have been waging against Japan, and the failure of the Chinese government to do anything about it. Were American consumers to attempt the same thing it would not be long until the Japanese government might be calling Uncle Sam to stop this unofficial boycott. And failure to do so would undoubtedly lead to serious difficulties, because the Japanese government would, as stated above, prefer to risk the results of a sudden swift attack rather than perish through revolution or financial bankruptcy.

Of course there are other things which the pacifists have failed to take into consideration. These include our silk industry which employs 300,000 men and which would be paralyzed by such action and our trade with Japan which amounts to a third of a billion dollars a year. But after all the important point is that the pacifists by seeking to stop the little war around Shanghai would very likely only succeed in starting one which might spread into a worldwide conflagration involving all the great powers including the United States. It would be a sad day indeed were the dreamers and impractical theorists to gain control of the foreign policies of the United States.

The League of Natons seem to be in about the same class with the lightningrod.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Jesse Baker—As very near all of you know, Jesse Baker is in the race for Treasurer of Chilton County. Several years ago Jess held that office for some time. That was back when nobody wanted the place—nothing to it. To be fair, there is nothing much to it now, in the way of pay, but he wants it, nevertheless, and is really burning the woods for votes these days. I noticed his absence several days before inquiring about what he was doing out of town so much. But when I finally asked, I got an ear full. "You can tell 'em," he said, "That I may be found pretty near anywhere in the county between now and the date of the primary. I intend to see every voter I can and send word to the balance. I want every vote I can get honorably. I think anyone who knows me also knows that I am competent for the duties of the office. I believe that in my lifelong dealings with the public, I have so conducted myself that none can doubt that it is a habit with me to treat everyone alike—with courtesy—with like service to all and special favors to none. Fair and honest treatment is all anyone has a right to expect, and I promise that. And, in the event I am not nominated, I will still be the same staunch Republican I am now. I am proud to say that I am a Republican and the son of a Republican, and grandson of a Republican, who, at one time was THE Republican of Chilton County, casting his vote alone. Whether nominated or not, I will be on hand next fall to help the whole ticket over the top."

Proving It By The Bible—At times I run across articles in newspapers where people get it into their heads that nothing is true unless it can be proved by the Bible. How boresome some of these articles really are. You would think, from reading some of them, that there was only a few Bibles in circulation, and that the writers of these articles were among the precious few who possessed one, and was passing the information on to others less fortunate than themselves. Sometimes the greater part of whole chapters are quoted. Makes me think of how a priest must have done back in the dark ages when only a few were allowed to own and read Bibles. Sometimes it seems that such quotations are not even attempts to prove any contention—mere quotations. I am quite sure that there are many readers who are as capable of reading and understanding the Scriptures as these wise ones who seeminclined to believe that they are, in some manner, a little bit ahead of us poor mortals in understanding. If such people would only consider for a moment, they might readily see that they only make themselves ridiculous with these long-drawn-out quotations. I will admit that reading the Bible is a mighty good thing to do, but when people pick up a newspaper to read, they want to read news—not the Bible. And, furthermore, a statement or contention that must have Bible proof to substantiate it, must surely be questionable to some extent or the author would not go to the trouble to hunt up some Bible passage to support it. On the other hand, if the statement is so general that Bible proof may be found for it, it seems to me that we common mortals might be given credit for enough brains to understand it about as well as anyone else. Somebody once said: "What you know and keep, is your own treasure; what you know and tell, becomes common property."

Whistling In The Dark—Have you ever gone walking at night, and had to pass a grave yard? I have, and there's nothing funny about it. A fellow who knows he must pass a place of this kind generally strikes up a little tune—whistling to bolster his courage. If he isn't scared, he will very probably not whistle, but if he is scared that little tune will come out nearly every time. I can't think of anything but the way a scared guy whistles when I read of the merry little articles the anti-prohis cause to have printed in papers now and then. It's bluff—pure bluff. If they were so sure that a referendum would be called and that they would win, they would just go ahead and saw wood, and say nothing. The truth of the matter is that the anti crowd are scared out of their socks—afraid to bring the matter to a head, yet trying to smile and make somebody believe that have something up their sleeve and are going to "show somebody something." They don't feel near so cheerful about it. They're just whistling in the dark, to scare the "boogers" away.

Glimpses—Just riding around—there's a bunch of children playing in a grove—and what a beautiful city park that grove could be made into; that's an idea—maybe I'll be able to dig up a little information by next week, and have a little article about a park for Clanton; would'nt that be nice? There's Dr. Gragg's pheasant pen—gee, but I'd like to scare up a bunch of those big birds out in the woods, and have my pop-gun along—I'd have a streak of fun. Another "pig" all strung up this cold morning—tell you what, they always taught me to call 'em "hogs" when they were up that size. Here come a guy right down the middle of the road—now I KNOW he's a hog—road hog. Here comes a county truck on the bum—that's right somebody's car is pulling it in. A hot checker game—looks like a crap-shooters convention, the way all the boys are crowded around. Saw old "Aunt Sallie" Dupree again last Sunday—you know "Aunt Sallie" is a spry young thing, only a little over a hundred years old. The fire siren again, and here comes the big red fire engine—guess I'll get out in the street with the rest of the folks—I don't like to be by myself. And there's Mr. Driver on top of the house with his squirt gun—I believe it works just like the one which caused me to get a good trimming in school one time. Quittin' time! Now, ain't that sump'n.

Uncle Sam Has Gone To War—As has been proved over and over again, Uncle Sam is usually a peaceable old fellow. But when he really decides that peaceable measures are not getting him anywhere, he goes to war. And when he does that, things really begin to hum. Yes, sir! Your Uncle Sammy has gone to war. Not with any other country, but with the depression that has held the country in its grip for over two years. Beginning with the government, itself, which has voted millions of dollars to be used in the fight, every man, woman, and child in the United States is asked to lend a helping hand in some way. People who have money hoarded away in mattresses, old socks, or buried in the ground, are asked to let that money come out and serve a double purpose, instead of lying idle and doing nothing. Holders of such hoarded savings are shown that they may take advantage of low price conditions to invest this money in property, bonds, etc., which are safe, and also, in this way this money will go back into trade channels, where it can work, over and over again to the general good of economic conditions. Industrial plants are asked to put as many to work as possible and thus relieve the unemployment, which has made the days of depression doubly hard. That better times are on the way back, has about become the general opinion, and this idea among people will have no small part in helping things along. The sooner that confidence is restored, the sooner people will take heart and begin to do their part. To start the ball rolling is the big job—keeping it rolling, and increasing the speed will be easier.

History Repeats Itself—You have often heard it said that "history repeats itself." I suppose that must be true. One day last week somebdy was relating a story of the time, long, long ago, when Mr. Volstead was yet in his cradle. A part of the story went thus: "In those days, a woman wouldn't think of going to a quilting, or a party of some kind unless there was a little liquor carried along." At this point, another young fellow spoke up and said: "I wouldn't doubt it a bit. In fact, it's about the same way now. That's about the first thing they ask about when you call to take 'em for a ride, nowadays." Yep, I reckon history repeats itself. —Man in the Moon.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

A young lady was conducting a religious gathering and read this interesting thing about a dollar bill, "A business man pinned a piece of blank paper to a dollar bill, asking everyone through whose hands it passed, to write down what it was spent for. It was gone for several weeks and then came back to the man who had sent it out. Here is the story of that bill. Spent five times for salary, five times for tobacco, five times for cigarettes, three times for candy, twice for ribbons and laces, three times for meals, one time for auto parts, one time for groceries, one time for washing, two times for shaving, one time for tooth paste. but never a time for the church and the worship of God." In its journey that dollar bill had been used thirty times, showing that it had been spent fifteen times for things not necessary, fifteen thimes for things necessary. It is a fact that we spend money for everything before we spend it for the Lord's work. If anything in the catagory of our business life must wait, it is the preacher and the church. Hambone said, "De Lord am not pushing me lak de grocery man." In God we live and move and have our being, and I am anxious to know when we are going to give him a square deal.

I think that the ugliest sight I ever saw was a great big devil fish. It had many arms and they reached out in every direction to grasp anything that came within reach, but I noticed that the devilfish had not a single arm reached out to give. I looked at the fish and said to him, "Old fellow, I have seen things on the shore who were equipped as you are. I have seen business men who have arms reached out to take, but no arms reached out to give. You live in the sea, but these land devil fish wear clothes and walk up and down the streets and highways, and grasp anything in the air, on the earth and under the earth. They have no hands, but they have a few feelers, out of which they shove a few dollars for decency's sake." I have wondered why anything that had life could be named "Devil fish" but after I saw that thing and examined his body, and his methods of dealing with everything else in the sea, I saw that there was no other name that would have suited him. There are devlifish in the sea, and there are devilfish on the shore.

Not long since I heard a man making a report of collections that he was asked to raise. With pride he pointed out that he had collected 80 per cent of all his assessments. I will admit that it did look good in these times of depression. We allow ourselves to be satisfied when we get eighty per cent of a collection for the church. Listen to me, if you had ten children in a school bus and a report came to you that the bus had been wrecked and that eighty per cent of your children were not killed, would that satisfy you? If we have a family of ten children and two of them are killed we think that the percentage lost is terrible. We can treat church deficits with but little concern, but in the heart of some people, and in the heart of God, there is a great hurt. If you rate fifty, seventy, or ninety five per cent in your church loyalty, do not forget that there is a hurt in the per cent where you fail. Why not be 100 per cent in everything?

As you motor through the Rocky Mountains you will be startled by large grizzly bears shambling out before your car. They are protected and know it. The motorist knows it also, and he will stop his car to keep from killing the bear. When the car is still, Mr. Bear quietly walks around to the running board, and placing his front foot there, he sticks his head above the car and begs you for lunch. Motorists have spoiled the bears by feeding them, and they are always there to get free food. The bears have ceased to work for a living. They can get all they want to eat, by blocking traffic, and begging for food. Here of late there have been many human bears begging their way through this world. I am firmly convinced that charity will spoil birds, brutes and men. A scout is taught to accept pay, not to accept charity. A good rule for all.

In one of our schools of Theology, there was a great preacher who had the habit of occasionally digging his hands into his pants pockets, at the same time he would throw back his head and speak like thunder. He was himself in that moment of inspiration, and under the power of his eloquence the people trembled. All the Theologs in his school wanted to be like him, and so they tried to immitate the great leader. While they were preaching they too, would dig their hands deep into their pockets, throw back their heads and roar like thunder. A twitter would play through the audience. When the great man was himself, the people trembled, but when there was immitation, the crowds laughed in merriment. All of us are more or less immitators, but we had better be careful how we let it be known. At a conference, the Bishop pulled his handkerchief out of his breast pocket so gracefully, that forty preachers are now doing the same thing.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

Had To Spend Night in Coosa

Considerable concern was created around Clanton last Sunday morning when it was learned that John Clackler and his two boys had gone fishing on Hatchett Creek Saturday and failed to return home Saturday night. Frank Higgins went at once to his place on the river, hooked up his barge and went across the river. There Mr. Clackler and his two boys were found safe and sound. They could not come back across the river late Saturday on account of the high wind, and chose to spend the night and wait for better weather. It was a wise decision, and one that some others of our fishermen had better make sometimes.

The Watts Hat Shoppe

You have no idea what a nice place is the Watts Hat Shoppe, if you have not visited there since the new store was opened. Miss Callie Watts is a master at the art of providing things that suit women to wear. She has a collection that surely will appeal to any woman. She has been in this kind of business several years at other places. She said Tuesday it has long been her ambition to return to her home and provide for the women an exclusive shop that would serve them completely. It appears that she has been able to realize her ambition, and I know the women of this community will show their appreciation by a liberal patronage.

Two Millions Lost in Berries

Strawberry growers in the Hammond, Louisiana, district are reported to have lost two million dollars in strawberries by the recent freezing weather. Yet, they have hopes of realizing something out of a later crop. My conclusion is that a community that can lose two million dollars worth of berries and still have some berries left, must surely be some berry growing place.

Our Own Berry Situation

Some of the foremost berry growers in this section continue to express a note of optimism in our situation. They report that many of the plants show evidences of potential crowns or clusters that will burst forth into ripe berries just as quickly as they have time to develop after the cold weather ceases. With the return of milder days this week, it is perhaps safe to assume that we shall soon turn into real spring days. About half the normal crop of berries is the general estimate now, I believe.

Closing Our Hospital

It is with sincere regret that I note the decision to close the hospital at Clanton. But from the business side of the proposition, I am sure it is the only sensible thing to do. The hospital has been so heavily loaded down with charity work in the past year it has been unable to make any money above running expenses. In fact, recent months have indicated that it is impossible to continue and even break even on expenses. From that angle it is better to close than to get further in the hole.

But What About The Community?

The seriousness of the closing of the hospital is on the other side of the picture. What is to become of the people who must have hospital attention, and can not go elsewhere to get it? What is to become of the accident victims who must have attention at once in order to save their lives? This community needs the hospital. I do not see how we can get along without it. But what can we do?

Another Good Man Gone Wrong

"Another good man gone wrong," said Hugh Simpson in reporting the fact that Clanton's mayor, Hon. J. Lee Smith, has joined in with the Izaak Walton Club, otherwise designated as the crowd that loafs and fishes. (Some smart guy who reads this will add "and tells lies.") Anyway, Mayor Smith went fishing Monday, and it is reported that he caught one. He must have caught one, for he went back Tuesday. Welcome to the clan, Mr. Smith. A good fisherman is neither a loafer nor a liar; and it is no disgrace to fish. It is simply the finest sport in the world. Anybody in the world would be a better mayor if he becomes a good fisherman. Get you some "Spark Plug" and spit on your hook now and then, and I believe you will get good enough to be re-elected when the time comes to run again.

COTTON SEED
(By C. E. Stapp.)

Are you planting the best variety of cotton seed? The cotton variety test in Alabama from 1926-31 shows some interesting facts. For the information of farmers in the county who wish to grow the leading variety of cotton for this section, the following is an average of 16 tests annually in Central Alabama since 1926. The length of staple is given in 1-32 inch.

D. P. L., 458 lbs. lint cotton.—30.9 staple.

Cook's 1627, 447 lbs. lint cotton. —28.6 staple.

Cook's 307-6 (Rhyne), 446 lbs. lint cotton.—27.9 staple.

Dixie Triumph, 434 lbs. lint cotton.—29.9 staple.

The above are leading varieties in both yield of lint and staple of 35 varieties tested by Auburn since 1926. These tests were conducted in north, central and south Alabama. The above are results obtained from tests conducted in Central Alabama and apply to Chilton County. Alabama made the greatest progress last year in growing better varieties of cotton than any of the cotton growing states. This was due to the large number of people stressing the importance of better varieties of cotton and to the ginners co-operating in setting "gin days" in order that the farmers might save their seed pure. The following farmers have notified me that they saved their seed pure at the gin last fall. Possibly there are others whose names I do not have at present: J. R. Robinson, Woodie Pate, Ellie Shirley, E. C. Moore, J. Z. Mims, W. A. Jones, Miss Mabel Jones, R. M. Davis, Frank Nelson, Gulledge Brothers, W. A. Foshee, W. W. Williams, G. T. Guy, Tom Hilyer, Richard Turpin (colored), H. S. Shaw, Gray Jones, and Bill Jones.

Most of these men have indicated their willingness to help get their seed in the hands of other farmers of the county, hoping that this year a large per centage of our cotton acreage will be planted in D. P. L. seed. I will be glad to help any farmers who want good seed to get in touch with source of same.

J. H. JACKSON FOUND A FUNNY LOOKING THING

Mr. Joe Jackson of Lomax brought to The Union-Banner Monday a funny looking little thing that looks kindly like a hoot owl and kindly like a pod from a locust tree, but it looks more like a hoot owl than it does a pod, except it has two tails. He wanted the editor to tell him whether the two protrusions were tails or horns, but we couldn't. One end of the thing has holes resembling eyes and mouth.

Mr. Will Fox was sitting in the office at the time, and said that he knew what it was. He said that it grew on a small vine, and that lots of them are raised around New Orleans. Those French people down there make pickles out of the pods when they are nearly grown but still tender. Mr. Fox did not remember the name of it.

Mr. Jackson said that it grew on a small vine in the yard of Mr. Eddie Ward at Lomax. It is on display at The Banner office.

MEMORY OF UNCLE JEFF BAKER

The death angel visited the home of Mrs. T. J. Baker, Friday night, March 4, and called home her beloved husband to live with God on High.

He had been in bad health for a long time. Mr. T. J. Baker, familiarly know as Uncle Jeff Baker, was widely known over Chilton County, and he was one of the most beloved men of Baker School community. Uncle Jeff had some special favorite songs, of which he made a request for them to sing, but they failed to get the class to sing them. We are sorry that the class failed to come. The songs were: "Golden Harp," "The Uncloudy Day," and "My Father's Gone to View that Land."

We miss him but we will all live to meet him in that dear land of the blessed. He leaves to mourn his loss, three sons, four daughters, one brother, five sisters, his wife and many friends and relatives.

His good character and good deeds he did here on this earth will never be forgotten and we should all live to meet him some day in that dear land of the blessed.—A brother and a friend.

Feels Like a New Woman

Crystal Springs, Miss. — "I suffered with blinding nervous spells which would last from 30 to 45 minutes and would leave me with a severe headache. I tried several doctors but they did not help me. Finally I heard of Dr. Pierce's medicines and decided I would try them," said Mrs. Ruby Rice, Route 1, Box, 239. "I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and herbal tonic, and the 'Favorite Prescription' for the ills of women, and I feel like a new woman and do my own work."

ROBBERS ENTERED WALDROP'S STORE

Mr. John S. Waldrop, who runs a community store three miles east of Randolph, was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

He reported that his store had been entered by robbers one night last week, and was relieved of a quantity of dry goods, cigarettes and tobacco. They entered the store by picking the lock on the front door.

The store of Mr. Waldrop is only about 25 yards from his residence; but he did not hear anything of the robbers while they were at the job. He did not find out about it until he went into the store the next morning about seven-thirty o'clock.

Evidences in the store showed that the robbers had pine torches for light. They dropped some splinters on the floor. No clue has been found to identify the thieves.

PLEASANT HILL

The Eastern Singing Society met at this place Sunday p. m. Directors for the evening were: Enoch Traywick, Floyd Little, Lorenza Sanders, Jesse Driver, Posey Cleckler, Andrew Blow, Miss Belle Huett, Lillie Mae Weldon and Virgie Cost. Organists were: Miss Lillie Mae Weldon, Mattie Driver and Belle Huett. We had a very good singing, not many out on account of the weather, I guess. We hope to have larger crowds and better singings, so we invite all singers and lovers of music to come and be with us every second Sunday.

Singing at Cane Creek has been called off on the 4th Sunday. The singers will go to the Alms House on that day and sing. Don't forget to meet back with us every second Sunday.—Vergie Cost, Sec'y.

FORESTRY AGENTS' SYSTEM DEMONSTRATES SUCCESS

Montgomery, Ala., March 16.—The forestry agents assigned to the various local communities in connection with the joint work of the State and Federal Governments in promoting timber production had a successful year in 1931, according to the statistics compiled in the eighth annual report of the commission of forestry, in cooperation with the United States Forest Service, which has just been completed. Progress in the territory to which the agents were allocated was made in spite of the unusual circumstances that 1931 was the second successive year of the economic depression and the dryest year recorded since the beginning of keeping of weather records in the state.

The measure of the success of public forestral activities is the degree to which farmers and other landowners become active in the development, protection and proper use of their woodlands. This condition is often reflected in the care and energy used in excluding fire from the holdings.

For the approximately nine and one-half million acres of forest lands included within forestral districts to which agents were assigned the proportion burned over in 1931 was but three and four-tenths per cent as compared with an average for the preceeding years of approximately four and nine-tenths per cent, this notwithstanding the phonomenally high natural hazard that obtained during the year. The figure of three and four-tenths per cent for the organized territory is to be contrasted with thirteen and nine-tenths per cent representing the losses of the unorganized territory in which no agents were located. The difference between these two figures represents fairly the effect of the trained forestral agents' work in promoting the scientific and profitable methods of managing woodlands under current conditions.

Much territory now unorganized, however, was formerly included in districts which had to be discontinued on account of lack of funds. The landowners residing within such former districts had previously received the benefit of the counsel, cooperation and assistance of forestral agents which enabled them to cope somewhat with unfavorable conditions even in the absence of the state cooperation. Otherwise the losses on such now unorganized territory would have been very much higher. The entire state, as a matter of fact, has been reached to a considerable extent by the informational and advisory work of the forestral department which further served to reduce the proportion burned in the unorganized territory, whether or not such areas had ever been included in forestral districts. Before the inauguration of public cooperation in the promotion of forestry in Alabama the average proportion of woodland burned was approximately thirty-six per cent per annum.

Sunday is not our regular preaching day at Highland Church, but Rev. T. W. Billingsley is going to preach there. We are sure Brother Billingsley will deliver a spledid message. Everyone is invited to come.

A number of pupils from this school are practicing on an Easter program at Pleasant Grove Church.

The Parent-Teachers Association of this place will hold its last meeting of this school Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. We hope to have the best meeting, and largest crowd we have had at all. There is some important business to come before the meeting. All parents are urged to attend.

PLEASANT GROVE

We are glad of the progress that is being made in Chilton Circuit (Methodist Protestant church) and we hope to see greater progress in the future.

There is a noticeable change in the emphasis of our enthusiasm.

There was a time when all our zeal was encomposed in getting people converted, and we are convinced that a church or a minister that does not get people converted is not worthy to be called a church nor a ministar. But we have seen new objects for our evangelizing zeal. We are beginning to realize—I fear some of us see much more clearly than others—that our children should be the first objects of our evangelizing efforts; that if any provide not for his own, and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel.

And we are seeing that to get a man converted is only to begin his Christian career. He must be edified and he must be trained to act as a Christian, to give as a Christian. If our enthusiasm does not at present perfectly embrace this item, the tendency has at least reached the point, where no one attempts to deny that no church can live unless its people give themselves to it.

Then lets give the best we have and the best will come back to us.—G. W. Stewart.

ARE YOU A GENIOUS AT REMEMBERING THINGS?

We wonder how many people who read this can recall what this part of the country looked like when they got up on the morning of March 14, 1894. Well, we do not remember that far back, but we have it straight that on the above mentioned morning the snow was about knee deep on level places and sometimes three or four times that deep where it was banked up. We are most all saying that there surely never was such a cold spell as we are now having in March before, but the above will probably alleviate this idea from our minds.

The reason we are reasonably sure that this is true is because Ruben E. Wyatt, the filling station prodigy of Clanton, was 38 years old on Monday of this week; and when he first saw daylight he was greeted with about the thickest blanket of snow this country has ever witnessed. We are indebted to G. C. Armstronk for calling our attention to the above note. We deemed it worth calling to the attention of our readers.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

Susteh Jerucha Tubbs Gives Her Sperience as a Sinner and Tells of Her Version, as She Gines at Mt. Giliad.

Befo Ah reads Ah wants ter make dis nouncement. On las fourth Sunday when Ah opened de doah ob de church, Miss Jerucha Tubbs presented hersef, so we will heear her experinece, atter Ah makes dis nouncement. Dar wont be no preachin here at de church nex fust Sunday, but youall will go to de creek whar Ah will preach her Baptismal sermon, an Baptize her. Now Miss Jerusha, jes tell de church whut de Lord has don fur yu in yoah own language. (she stands). "Brudderin and sisteren, Ah nevah thought much erbout jinin de church till Brudder Blossom preached dat sermon bout dancin, an Ah got to thinkin dat Ah mought be shoved out on to dat red-hot griddle mahself, so Ah went to preyin an one ebenin Ah went down back ob our chicken house an got down on mah nees, an de mo Ah preyed de darker it got, an treckly it got so dark Ah got scared, Ah thought mah eyes had done gone out, an so Ah started hollerin fur mah mammy, an she come runnin down dar nearly scared to def, an when she foun whut wuz de mattah she got down on her nees an begun to talk to de Lord fur me, an atter while it begun to git liter, an as it got liter de way wuz open fur me to see de Lord, so Ah kotch onto Him an wouldnt let Him go, an so Ah am holdin onto him yit. An Ah am gwyn to hole on to him jes as long as Ah lives in dis worl an Ah wants ter be Baptized jes lak he wuz, an become a membeh of dis church."

Now Brudders, you herd her testimony, whut is you gwyn ter do wid her? (A motion is made to Baptize her an take her into the church.)

De lessen is foun in Psalms 74. Now Ahs red to you dis Psalm as bes as Ah could, now Ah wants evy body to star while you sing dat gran ole song, "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord, the House of Thine Abode." (They stand and sing.) Now be seted. De tex fur today is in Exodus, 3:5, an here is de way it reads, "And He sed draw not nigh hither; put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is Holy ground." As Ah looks ovah dis congregation dis mawnin Ah ketches mah sef wunderin effen you all realize dat you is in de presence ob de Lord. When dis house wuz bilt an dedicated, or giben to de Lord, it become a place ob meetin fur de people ob de Lord, an also a place, or home ob de Lord in dis community, dis is where de Lord meets His children, a place set apart fur dat purpose. Now effen dat is tru an we kno dat it is, how shood we ack when we is here? Shood we come in to de house wid our hats on, an go stompin down de isle lak a lot of hosses or cows? Once when Ah wuz pastor ob a church in de southern part ob dis county Ah had to ax de mothers ob de chilun to stop dem fum runnin up an down de isles an hollerin an throin songbooks at each other, an Ah hab noticed dat same thing at other churches. Ah think we shood teach our chiluns to respec de house ob de Lord, an stid ob doin dat we teach dem to not respec it. You kno dat when we has plays an suppers an Chrismus trees in de church house an let evy body laf an stomp dey foots and slap dey hans in de church house when we hab all ob dese things dar, den when we meets fur worship dey wants ter do de same thing. We is jes teaching dem to disrepc de house ob de Lord. Moses wuz gwyn up de hill, followin de sheep when he saw dat bush afire, an when he went out dar to see why it wuz not burnt up de Lord spoke to him outen de burnin bush, in de language ob mah tex, an tole him to take de shoes offen his feets cause de groun whut he stood on wuz holy. Now Ah ax you why wuz it holy, wuz it holy because Moses wuz dar? No. Wuz it holy because de bush wuz burnin? No. Den why wuz it holy? Ah will tell you, it wuz holy because de Lord wuz dar. Now den, is dis church house holy because you is here, is it holy because is Sunday? Is it holy because Ah am preachin? No man Brudder, dat aint it, Ah will tell you why it is holy, it is holy because de Lord is here, whereever de Lord is, is a haly place. Heben is holy because de Lord is dar. Dis church is a holy place because de Lord is here. Your heart an life is holy effen de Lord is in it. De reason dar is so many unholy lives in de church today is because de Lord aint in dem. Suppose your wife sets a nice cake on de table at dinner today an when you bite it you find dat is aint sweet? Would you sa to her, Wife, you didn't put no butter in dis cake? No, you wood kno dat de thing whut wuz lakin wuz sugar, an Ah am sho dat ebry person here dis wawnin cud easily anser de question ob whut is lakin in de lives ob de people. Effen you caint, Ah will tell you, it is a lak ob de holy fire ob de Lords presence, an do you want me to tell you one ob de reasons fur dat lak in deir lives? It is because we is done got to de place where we fail to keep de Lord's house holy. We drives Him outen de house wid our carryin on an sich things as He dont approve ob an He wont sta dar. An by de same acks we drives Him outen our own lives.

Atter de war between de states, an ole nigger tryed to jine de white folks church, an dey turned him down three times, an when he went to a white frien bout it, he axed him effen he had preyed over it, an he sa no, but Ah will den. When he saw de white frien agin he axed him effen he had preyed, an he sa yes. Well, whut did de Lord sa?, axed de whit man. An dat nigger sa, He tole me dat He had been tryin to git in dat church fur five years Hisself an aint made it yit. Dat is whut is de matter wid de churches now, de Lord aint in dem all, because we hab sich carryin ons in dem. Les treat de Lord's house lak is wuz de home ob our God. De place whar He meets wid his people. You sung awhile go, Ah Love Thy Kinkdom Lord, the House ob Thine Abode. Now libe up to dat, an sho your love fur de house ob de Lord by keepin it holy. Now Ah has talked longer dan I shood. When Ah reads dis poem we will be dismiss.

Moses saw de burnin bush,
An heard de sacred sound
Ob God's voice which sed,
"Dis is holy ground."

Take de shoes offen yo feet
An lissen to whut Ah sa,
For Ahs determined in mahself,
To meet you here today.

Wherever God is, dats a holy place,
Tho we can hear his voice
We cannot see His face.

God will speak to us in de church
Effen we keep it holy;
An enter de house wid reverence,
An keepin meek an lowly.

Stan an be dismiss

—Elder Crab Apple Blossom.

WRITES FOR C. D. DUKE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to Mr. C. D. Duke, who has announced for Commissioner from the Fourth District. I take pleasure and privilege to state that I am 99 years of age and that I have known C. D. Duke (Charlie) all his life, and also his father, A. D. Duke. And I was acquainted with and a friend of his grand father, Tom Duke of Coosa County.

It is to me a pleasure to state they were men of the highest ideals, always having the interest and welfare of their country at heart. Their character and integrity have always been above reproach. Like Charlie, his father and grand father, before him, all supported the Republican ticket. Regardless of difference in our political tenets, it was my priviledge and pleasure to support C. D. Duke in the past for the same office he is now asking for. It is useless for me to say I will support him again for Commissioner of Chilton County. I think I am safe in saying he can and will meet all qualifications, and will discharge his duty as Commissioner impartially to one and all, regardless of politics.—Respectfully yours, Rev. J. T. Nelson, Clanton, Ala.

EASTER PROGRAM AT PLEASANT GROVE

An Easter program will be rendered by the young people of Pleasant Grove M. P. church at 7:00 o'clock Easter night. Everybody is urged to attend.

BOTTLED LETTER FOUND IN RIVER LAST WEEK

The young son of Jacie Baker found a bottle one day last week floating in the Coosa River near Monroe Parrish's camp. It was a small bottle and thee was a note in it reading:

"Calhoun, Ga., Route 5, April 21, 1930. Dear friend:—Please write me where and what position this statement is found. My age is 15 years; hair dark brown and eyes gray; height 5 1-2 feet. I put this in at Coostanula So. R. R. bridge at 6:30 o'clock a. m. Finder write just as soon as you find it. Your truly.—Mr. Rembert Kelley."

The above note was brought to The Union-Banner Monday by Marion Easterling. A copy of the letter was mailed to the above named party. The original letter was well preserved. It looked fresh as though it had been written only a few days And the bottle was stopped with a cork stopper.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING PAYS SAYS FLA. DRUGGIST

The Monticello Drug Company of Jacksonville, Florida, who has been running their advertisements in The Union-Banner for the past several years, placing before the public the attractive qualities of "666," write the following letter: — "The 666 salve contest recently conducted owes most of its success to newspaper advertising. No radio or bill boards were used in this campaign. This contest was of national scope and thousands of entries were received from every State in the Union."

Two Chilton County people—Mrs. J. F. Jones and Miss Ruth Hester Jones of Clanton Route 5, each were awarded five-dollar prizes in this contest.

IN REMEMBERANCE OF OUR LOVED ONE

Uncle Pat Muir died last Thursday afternoon about 6:30. Death was caused from the flu. All was done for him that loving hands could do, but God loved him best, and came to take him away from us. His vacant place can never be filled. he died smiling, and he told us that he was going to the glory land. Uncle Pat loved everyone he met, young or old, but he loved children best. Children were always his pets. He would never pass anyone without speaking to them.

He has three children, two stepsons, and seventeen grandchildren. Uncle Pat was 84 years old when he died, and he was a member of Samaria church. He joined that church over seven years ago, and he sure did love to attend the services. Uncle Pat was old and feeble but he went just the same.

Uncle Pat closed his mild blue eyes last Thursday to look at us on earth no more. We are praying to meet him in that better land above. Uncle Pat was going to make his home with Mr. Ben Roberts, and he had only stayed one week at his new home. He seemed to have been enjoying life the best he had in a long time.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, one son, Frank Muir, two daughters, Mrs. Emma Lee Kelley of Highland community and Mrs. Velma Miller of Sylacauga, and lots of friends and relatives.—His niece, Lilla Mae Bullard.

"Oh! I wish we had a Telephone" is often the complaint heard in the home without a telephone.

Sons and daughters feel they are being left out of things because without a telephone they are often cut off from their friends. Mother and father too are handicapped for the same reason.

Consider how important telephone service is to the comfort and happiness of the entire family; how necessary it is in keeping you in constant, quick reach of friends, what it means in added convenience, in emergencies and as a protection to the home.

Truly there is nothing you can buy at such small cost that will give the family so much in added comfort, pleasure and satisfaction as a telephone. In fact, the cost is so small that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

GOLF CLUB FINISH FIRST YEAR

The Clanton Golf Club has finished out the first year of its existence, and reports indicate that the members of the club have found a high degree of satisfaction with their venture.

President R. J. Sumner says: "The Clanton Golf Club is a fixture now. We have had full measure of fun and recreation in our first year, and our hopes are higher for the future. We are proud to say that the end of the first year finds our club free of debt, with a surplus of money in the bank."

The first annual meeting of the club was held Monday night, when all of the old officers were re-elected, as follows:

President, R. J. Sumner; vice president, J. C. Page; secretary and treasurer, Otto Jones; directors, V. J. Elmore, Reedie Taylor, Raymond Smith, J. E. Edgar, M. Lande, J. C. Page; greens committee, C. H. Pipes, L. C. Reynolds, Raymond Smith.

During the past year the club has made some fine improvement on the course. Ditches have been dug through a marshy part of the ground, thus removing one of the most serious handicaps to playing the game.

FAVORS C. D. DUKE

To the voters and citizens of Chilton County:

I can wait no longer to write you in the interest of my friend, Mr. C. D. Duke, who has recently announced as a candidate to succeed Mr. A. P. Vinson, as Commissioner from the Fourth District of Chilton County.

It has been my pleasure to know Mr. Duke since my boyhood, and to esteem him as a gentleman of the highest type. He was born and raised in Coosa County, but for the past twenty-six years, he has been living in Chilton County, and in the same building also. He is honest, efficient, courageous, and experienced to make him the more equal to the position, he now seeks.

I with a number of friends have solicited his candidacy for more than a year, and feel proud that he has decided to make the race. We feel sure that he is the proper man to do the service, the county so badly needs, and feel confident that he will be an easy winner in the primary, May 3rd, 1932.

Mr. Duke is a life-long Republican, is the son of Mr. A. D. Duke. The people know and are proud of the fact if Mr. Duke is elected, everybody will get a square deal, Democrats, as well as Republicans. I know that a majority of the voters in this district will join me in commending Mr. Duke to the voters of the county, and urge that they give him their support, and valuable influence in the campaign now in progress.

Please do not commit yourselves until you have the pleasure of meeting our man. He makes a very favorable impression everywhere that he goes, and to know him is sufficient for we know that it means to like him. One remarkable feature is that he will not be flirted about by every wind that blows, and has the grit to stand for what he thinks is right, and proper, for the people of the county.

Now to the voters of the county, Mr. Duke you know, ran next to the highest man four years ago. Now come on and join us for we feel like we are entitled to have a commissioner on our side—east side of the railroad.—Yours for the best affairs of the county, R. E. Powell.

LOOKS GOOD FOR BROADUS

Broadus Connatser drew a big streamer headline across the sports page of the Birmingham News last Thursday, which said "Connatser May Give Indians Needed Fielding Aid."

In the accompanying article written from New Orleans, by George Barry, of the International News Service, it is stated:

"Morgan will not play first base for the Tribe unless he can show a considerable improvement in the field, and there is some doubt of that. Right now Morgan is slated to warm the bench, while the job (first base) is assigned to Bruce Connatser, a youngster who played a dozen games the tail-end of last season and made an impressive showing.

"Connatser is a hapless looking ball player, especially in the spring. Two years ago Terre Haute didn't want him, but had to play him, as it was then a Cleveland farm. Connaster hit 378. Last year New Orleans didn't like his looks either, but was persuaded to try him, and he hit 334. There never has been any question about his ability to field. He is good."

The article concludes by saying "This season Connatser will provide more than capable defensive work at first base."

The friends of this young man Connatser, in his home town, Clanton, have always believed he would go up among the high lights of the baseball game. Their faith has been proven. Now that he is up there, we are betting that he sticks.

READ DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

The Union-Banner wants its readers to take an interest in politics and matters of government — we don't take enough interest in that—but among all the candidate letters and other forms of political suggestions, don't pass up Elder Blossom's sermon in this issue. He has a message that will do your soul good if you will peruse every line.

In fact, these sermons, which appear in this paper every week, are all worth reading. If you haven't read them heretofore, start now and keep up with them. They will prove to be food for your spiritual welfare; and they are written in an interesting manner too.

UNION GROVE

Sunday was our regular preaching day at this place. Our crowd was poor on account of the cold weather, but our pastor, Rev. John Bean, preached some good sermons, as always. I don't think his congregation has ever been dissappointed.

Health of this community is fine at present. Everybody seems to be enjoying the first winter's freeze.

There was a birthday dinner Sunday, given for Mr. Green Gore and Mr. J. E. Dorminey. Twenty-six were present, and everybody seemed to enjoy the day very much. The dinner, to look at it, was beautiful, and when you got to it, it was wonderful. Mrs. Dorminey was glad to see each and every one. Those as dinner guests were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. B. H. WATTS HAT SHOP NICE PLACE

It seems that the women of Clanton and surrounding community ought to take great pride in the Watts Hat Shop, of which Miss Callie Watts is proprietor.

Miss Watts has been in the ladies ready-to-wear business for many years. She has been located in Talladega prior to coming here. She says: "I have always wanted to come back to my home town, Clanton, and put up the kind of business I believed the ladies here would appreciate. Since I moved to my new location a few months ago, I have gone to great trouble and expense to provide the necessary facilities to accomodate the needs of my friends, and I believe I have a place of which the women may feel justly proud."

Every woman has a cordial invitation from Miss Watts to visit her store. It is one of the neatest places you ever saw; and there are many things that will attract the eye of the ladies.

CLOSING HOSPITAL

next, the Baptist in Selma, and then the Methodist in Montgomery, and others in practically all the larger cities and some smaller towns.

"The Central Ala. Hospital started out with a serious handicap. We owed in the neighborhood of $10,000 on our building .This we at one time reduced to nearly $6,000, but there was interest, fire insurance, and other overhead expenses to pay every year. Another burden was the amount of charity work that we were always called on to do. Being situated a great distance from any charity hospital, it naturally fell to our part to do much charity which meant cost of operation, without credit or returns.

"Everything possible was done to cut expenses and practice economy to make ends meet. In all cases where the patient could pay only part of his bill, if I was the doctor in the case, I let my bill go and allowed him to pay the hospital, and this was not in one or two isolated cases but in hundreds of them. In fact, this was such a general practice that I doubt if I have averaged $10 per patient cash returns on major operations, since the hospital has existed.

"In most cases the superintendents in charge have co-operated with me in practicing economy. They have kept a cow, have produced eggs, and chickens, and made our own vegetable garden, and usually canned enough vegetables and fruits in summer to last all winter. Had it not been for this we would have been a financial failure long before now.

"And while dealing with that feature, I desire now to acknowledge co-operation and courtesies from outside our organization. One year the Community chest aided us in taking care of several cases. During the administration of Mayor Atkinson and Mayor Hart, they and their councils donated our water supply in recognition of the charity service to the town and community.

"But to make a long story short the charity cases which always amounted to more than 20 per cent has gradually grown as the depression continued till for the last several months it has reached 75 or 80 per cent of our total and even with all methods of economy and retrenchment possible we find it impossible to carry on longer.

"We hope that some way will be provided to re-open and continue the operation of this much needed institution and in closing this statement, we wish to express our sincere thanks to all doctors nurses and others who have so heartily co-operated in carrying on with us."

As pointed out by Dr. Gragg, in his statement above, the hospital has proved to be a great asset to the people of Clanton and surrounding community. If it is to be permanently closed and cease to serve the community, the loss will be great and serious to many folks. It will mean that a vast number of people will not be able under any circumstances to obtain hospital attention when they need it.

What will become of the hundreds of cases of charity treatment of the class which the hospital has been serving? They can not possibly get attention in the cities, even if they could get there.

This matter will not present an alarming situation to those who are financially able to go to hospitals in the cities when the time comes. Many of those so fortunate have never realized how valuable has been our local hospital to the fellow who wha not able to go or take his sick folks to hospitals in the cities.

be fully explained so the Republican voters can see through the whole thing, and know who is responsible for it.

Therefore, I ask you, Mr. Editor, to explain through The Union-Banner, all that you know tbout this matter.

I also ask Mr. J. N. Dennis, Mr. J. Z. Mims, Mr. W. H. Gillespie, and Mr. B. Lawrence to explain through The Union-Banner what they know about it. Why was it kept a secret from the Republicans of the county and only a few persons permitted to run? Why was about half of the old executive committee permitted to run at this time, and the oher half left off? Why were only two candidates selected at each place? Why, if it was to be fair and open, wasn't there more than just the number to be elected, solicited in this manner as candidates, and thus deprive the voters of any choice in the matter? Why was it not published in the paper so any Republican voter of the county would become a candidate for member of the Republican Executive Committee, if they so desired? Will Mr. J. N. Dennis, Mr. J. Z. Mims, Mr. W. H. Glilespie, and Mr. B. Lawrence, please answer the above questions; also explain if they or either of them solicited men to run for members of the Republican Executive Committee, as set out in the letter of Judge Reynolds?

I stand for open and fair methods in politics, and I think if these candidates for member of the Republican Executive Committee have been picked at night by three or four men, the Republican voters of the county should know it. Therefore, I, as a Republican voter, ask these gentlemen for the information above requested.

Yours for the success of the Republican party.—W. M. Benson.

lieve in and try to practice honest, clean living.

I am not affiliated in any way with any secret organization. I am not obligated to any one person more than another, and if I am elected I will be a servant of all the people, and discharge my duty as commissioner to the very best of my ability, with equal rights to all, and special favors to none.

I believe from experience and observation that I know how to build and maintain good roads and bridges. I believe that every tax payer is entitled to have their roads worked, regardless of where they live.

I believe that the road work should be equally divided as near as possible among the people in the community in which the work is being done, and not give all work to just a few.

I believe the tax value of many farms in the county is too high, and I favor a substantial reduction of same. I believe that any officer entrusted with the people's money should be just as careful and economical and try to get value for every dollar spent, just as much, and more so, if possible, as if it were his individual money, and if every one would do that, our tax burdens would not be so heavy. I do not mean to say that I have never made any mistakes in life, and would never make any, but if the people elect me to fill this office, I will be your servant, and will exercise my best judgment on any and all questions that may come before the Commissioners Court, and cast my vote for what I thought to be to the best interest of the people as a whole, and not just a few.

As stated in the outset, I am a Republican and have always voted the Republican ticket, and expect to continue to do so.

I do not believe that any person should hold office a life time. I believe that there are just as good men and just as good Republicans not in office in Chilton County as there are in office in Chilton County.

Now in conclusion, I wish to say that if you favor me with your vote and influence, and I am nominated and elected, I will be your servant, and will try, at all times, to do the right thing, and serve you in a way that you will have no just cause to regret having done so. If, after consideration, you can favor me with your vote and influence, I assure you that there is no one that will appreciate it more than I and my friends.

Thanking you in advance for any favors done in my behalf, I am yours very truly,

O. L. DEVAUGHN.

FREEZE COSTS LOUISIANA BERRY GROWERS 2 MILLION

Hammond, La., March 13.—Strawberry growers of the berry belt are charging off one million 24-pint crates, approximately $2.000,000, as a result of the freezing weather experienced for three successive mornings and a likelihood that tommorrow morning will witness another freeze.

Various growers said plants in some sections are reported damaged. A while back when growers complained that an excessive rainfall had prevented them getting their plants from under grass are now thankful that they did, for the freezing weather found these grass-covered plants protected and with no more freezes during the later part of March such plants will produce quality fruit.

MANY KILLED IN STORM MONDAY NIGHT

Over One Hundred Homes In Chilton County Completely Destroyed

DEVASTATION IN MANY OF OUR RURAL COMMUNITIES

Plantersville, Stanton, Pleasant Grove, Randolph, Macedonia, Pates Chapel, Thorsby, Liberty Hill, Lomax, Cane Creek, Union Grove, and Smith Schoolhouse Lay Directly In The Path of Terror and Destruction Monday Night.

Half a hundred dead—more than two hundred injured, more than a hundred homes destroyed — widespread destruction and devastation of property. This begins the tragic story of the greatest calamity that has ever befallen the people of Chilton County—the cyclone that plowed a path diagonally across the county late Monday evening.

Sweeping in from the southwest, the twister struck the corner of the county at Plantersville, doing great damage to property and killing and injuring several people in that locality.

Stanton was in the path of the storm. Several people were killed there, many injured, and several homes demolished.

The communities of Clanton Ford, Pleasant Grove, and Liberty Hill were in the path of destruction, and every home or building of any kind in the narrow path was torn into kindling wood and scattered everywhere. A number of people were killed near Clanton Ford and some near Pleasant Grove. None were killed in the Liberty Hill community.

As it continued to the northeast, the storm swooped down to the earth again at Lomax, striking there about 5:30 p.m. Many homes were torn to pieces and scattered all over the world. Several lives were lost in the Lomax community.

Cane Creek community was in the path, where more houses were demolished and more people were killed and several injured. Crossing the Lay Dam Highway at Jack Gentry's this part of the hurricane took to the woods and went out of the county across the river.

Traveling about an hour behind this storm, another one entered the county about Randolph, where severe damage was reported. It came on and hit the Pate's Chapel community west of Thorsby, where six people were killed, many injured, and several houses demolished.

In the Macedonia community several houses were destroyed, along with the church building.

This cyclone crossed the Birmingham highway just north of Thorsby, and cut a path about a mile wide clear through the northeastern part of the county, departing our borders across Waxahatchie Creek, headed for Columbiana.

The Thorsby vicinity suffered heavily. Wyatt's Drug Store sustained the only material property damage in the town. Houses, electric light poles and wires, railroad equipment, trees and everything were destroyed for about a mile to the north of Thorsby.

From Thorsby the path of the storm extended to the northeast, almost completely demolishing everything in the strip of country between Collins Chapel and Union Grove. This was a thickly settled neighborhood, and the damage and destruction was staggering. Words are not capable of describing the havoc that was wrought in this section. Many of the people were killed outright, and scores were injured. Homes and buildings of all kinds in the path of the storm were not only blown down; they were scattered everywhere and literally torn to bits.

On into the Smith Schoolhouse community the twister raged, leveling everything in its path. Somewhere in the Stumps Hills woods the storm got afoul of the Alabama Power Company's high tension lines, ripping down four or five of the big steel transmission towers.

The damage to power lines at Lomax, Thorsby and other localities caused lights to go out in every town in the county. This caused some delay to relief work in many places.

Soon after the storm struck the county, news of the devastation was brought to Clanton, Maplesville, Thorsby, Jemison, and other centers. From all of these places, people with automobiles, trucks, and ambulances, braved the raging elements and went into the stricken section to rescue the victims. Within an hour a steady stream of dead, dying, and injured began to pour into the hospital at Clanton. Its capacity was soon reached, and relief stations were established at the offices of every doctor at Clanton, Thorsby, and Jemison. These were filled to overflowing with the injured. They were cared for and given first aid as quickly as possible by doctors and nurses who volunteered and worked without ceasing all night long. Many injured who could not be cared for at relief stations in the county were rushed to Birmingham, Montgomery, and Selma Hospitals.

All through the night searching parties were scouring the woods, fields and wreckage of homes in the stricken areas, gathering together the dead and injured. Relief agencies from Birmingham, Montgomery, and Selma came to the scene as quickly as they could get their equipment together after receiving the call. Loads of nurses and relief equipment were sent into the stricken area by the Red Cross.

Horrible stories have been related concerning the suffering and destruction that was found by relief workers as they fought their way into the devasted regions. People were found scattered all over the countryside. Children were found alone in the wreckage, dead, injured, and suffering, separated and lost from their families. Roads were obstructed by every kind of debris, and the injured in many instances had to be carried in arms for two miles to be placed in automobiles. All of this horrible picture was enacted in a torrential rain that lasted for hours after the storm.

Business Adjourned

Practically all business in the county was adjourned Tuesday, and every person was seeking to serve in some way to aid the people in the stricken communities. County and city officials, the American Legion and Auxiliary, the ladies clubs, school teachers and school children, all were enlisted in the work of relief. Merchants and business men closed their doors and went about helping the organized plans of aiding the stricken county.

The Chilton County Post of the American Legion joined in with the Alabama National Guard to provide tents, cots and blankets to the people whose homes were wiped out. Some of the equipment was sent out and distributed Tuesday afternoon. Other supplies of this kind arrived here Tuesday night and will be distributed from centers at Lomax, Thorsby, Union Grove and Collins Chapel Wednesday. Commander R. D. Woodson, of the Chilton County Post, and officers of the National Guard had charge of this part of the relief program.

The American Red Cross in cooperation with local relief organizations of the county, particularly the American Legion Auxiliary, began Tuesday morning to gather up surplus clothing and bed clothes to send out to the storm sections.

The undertakers of Clanton spent all of Monday night running their ambulances bringing dead and injured to the relief centers. Tuesday they were engaged in preparing the dead bodies for burial. It is impossible at this time to announce any of the funeral arrangements. There will likely be a wholesale burying of the dead at different places Wednesday and Thursday.

DETAILS INCOMPLETE

The Union-Banner has made every possible effort to gather the important facts about the storm. Naturally, it was impossible to assemble accurate information. Many interesting details had to be eliminated to give space to bigger and more important things. Next week we will have much more information, and with more accuracy.

Mrs. Pitts wishes it known that the local unit of the Auxiliary is cooperating in every possible way for the relief of the stricken, and any subscriptions may be sent to her.

Charley Cooper Takes A Crack At The Republican Political Situation

Editor Union-Banner:

Inasmuch as we saw so many things of interest in last week's issue of your wonderful sheet, I feel somewhat inclined to reel off a few lines and let the people of Chilton County get a little slant on the sentiments of the voters way down in Beat 5.

In the first place, we are at a loss to understand just why there is so much "bally-hoo" about the election of Beat committeemen, and how is it possible that Mr. Mack Wyatt and Mr. Benson are so intensely interested in the election of the Executive Commitee.

To me it is a coincidence that Mack and Benson should write letters so much alike in the same issue of the paper. One of my neighbors asked me the other day if I thought Mack and Benson wrote these letters, or just signed letters that someone else wrote?—Please excuse me for not advertising my personal opinion.

A word about "Culling" — Mr. Stapp, our county agent, has for a long time endeavored to teach the farmers of Chilton County that we should "cull" out our hens that were not good layers, so if it is a good thing to cull chickens, surely it ought to be a good thing to cull our committeemen once in a while.

Now about this faction business that is being written about in your sheet, beg to advise that so far as I know, down this way we are not afflicted with that malady; we fail to see any cross whatever among the Republicans of Beat 5. It seems that all are convinced that we need two new commissioners for Chilton County, and further, it seems that all are confident that Beat 5 does not stand a "ghost of a chance,, to make matters worse by making a change.

We think this "faction" talk is nothing more than an error Mack made in writing up his article. We think he really meant "fraction," but being in a hurry he just left the "r" out of the word; so if Mack will look in his big dictionary he will find that there is a whale of a difference in the meaning of the word faction and fraction.

We can truthfully say that for several years past we have never seen any signs of "faction" in our Commissioners Court. It seems that perfect harmony has been the rule and guide of this court. We have never heard of the Judge being asked to untie the vote of commissioners on any question that has come before the board.

Several people down this way want to know the platform upon which the new candidates for commissioner are running, so I have been requested to ask these candidates, viz: Mr. Atchison and Mr. Littlejohn of the third district, and Mr. Duke and Mr. Devaughn of the fourth district, to answer the following questions through The Union-Banner:

We believe hundreds of people throughout the county would like to know just what the candidates expect to do if elected.

1st. If elected commissioner, will you favor spending the road tax money on the roads of Chilton County, or will you favor loaning this money to a bank?

2nd. If elected commissioner, will you make an effort to fill up the long ditch that is in the middle of the road leading out west of Mountain Creek, or will you favor that this ditch remain in the road?

3rd. If the county should have some building work to let out by contract, will you favor letting the work to the lowest reliable bidders, or will you favor doing a little "die-doing, shenanigin, hijacking, etc.," and letting some one else do the work and allow extras that bring the ultimate cost in excess of what it would be if handled in a straightforward manner?

4th. If elected, will you endeavor to display a little personal intelligence on matters of importance, or will you be led around as though you were a calf tied with a rope?

5th. If elected, will you esteem Beat 5 as being part of Chilton County, or will you look on it as though it was a "red-headed-stepchild?"

We, who live in Beat 5 realize that we cannot alone, do anything that will bring relief, but we feel that there are enough good people in other parts of the county who will answer our Macedonian call to come over and help us.

We believe that there are several hundreds of voters in the county who are anxious to have our candidates answer the above questionnaire.

Hope to hear from the candidates in next week's issue, we beg to remain with best wishes. — Charles Cooper, Mt. Creek.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO CHURCHES AND SUNDAY SCHOOLS

It has been suggested that each church and Sunday school in Chilton County make a special offering next Sunday for the relief of the storm sufferers.

One man in the County has agreed to add one dollar extra to the collection of each and every church or Sunday school that makes such an offering.

All contributions should be turned over to Grady Heflin, at the Peoples Savings Bank by Tuesday of next week.

(By S. E. Norton.)

Never in the history of Alabama has there been a storm of such intensity, or so widespread in area, as swept over several counties in the central section of the state during the time between six and eight p.m. Monday, March 21st. In the number of people killed or injured, and the destruction of real and personal property, the results were appalling.

Thorsby and vicinity were hit by the cyclone, or whatever might be the name of the terriffic wind and rain storm, which blew away houses and outbuildings and scattered their splinters far and wide.

One of the first effects of the storm was to put electric lights and power systems out of commission, in a section where most of the residents were dependents upon these improvements, leaving the whole section in darkness. The first intimation the people had of it was the lights kindled by fires in the destroyed homes. After experiencing the heavy shocks from the wind, soon after the storm had subsided, ambulances, cars, and trucks and anything which could be used to bring in people, were put to use and Red Cross nurses and ambulances were sent from Birmingham and Montgomery, and temporary hospitals were opened to give first aid to the injured. It was long past daylight, Tuesday morning before they ceased to bring in victims of the storm. In the Pates Chapel district west of Thorsby, six people were known to have been killed and many injured. Two houses near the Pates School building were completely destroyed, but the occupants escaped injury. At Liberty Hill some farm houses were completely destroyed, but the neighbors formed a relief corps and will immediately begin to rebuild the houses.

The storm swept a wide swath about a mile north of Thorsby. Frank Nelson's place was badly hit, destroying all the out houses and wrecking the main house, the furniture was destroyed, but the people were not hurt. Outside the house a large tree crashed into the barn, pinning in the cattle and mules, but when released the mules ran away and up to this writing they have not been found. The chicken house was so completely destroyed that no remnants of it could be found. Dead chickens were scattered about the place. Mr. Nelson was seen in Thorsby, Tuesday hunting for a place to find shelter for his family, and we learned later that he is occupying the lower part of Mrs. Villadsen's home.

A little to the south of the Nelson place, the John Queen home was wrecked by wind and completely destroyed by fire. The family were seriously injured and removed to the Clanton Hospital. The J. W. Powers house which had recently been remodeled and rebuilt, was unroofed and greatly damaged. Trees around it were uprooted and destroyed. None of the family were injured. Walter Littleton and family who occupied the Akins Collins farm were very seriously injured and were sent to the hospital. A distressing feature of the whole affair is that several people in the confusion were taken to the hospitals and the friends don't know where they are, some families being separated and taken to different hospitals. The thanks of our people are due to Dr. J. D. Kincade, of Birmingham, who came with nurses, ambulances, and doctors and rendering great assistance in giving first aid to the badly injured, many of whom would have died without it. The Birmingham Fire Department furnished transportation for relief work. A temporary hospital was fixed up where the telephone used to be. Town people turned out and helped all during the night. The large windows in the Wyatt Drug Company Store were blown in and the heavy awning was blown down, which tore down a large piece of the side, and yet, in the protected portion of it, several cots were placed for the injured as they arrived for first aid. The town hall was turned into a supply station for food and clothing. Electricity was connected so to supply heat for the making of hot water and coffee at the temporary hospital.

FAVORS ELECTING WOMAN TO TREASURER'S OFFICE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please permit me to say a few words through your paper in behalf of Mrs. Gertrude Calloway, who is a candiate for Treasurer. Some people think that a woman should not hold office but it is my opinion that if they pay their poll tax and vote that they are entitled to hold office as much as any man. They are not exempt from any tax because of the fact that they are a woman and I think we should accord them equal privileges as to rights to hold office, especially since there are several hundred Republican women voters in our county and I think they should hold one office out of ten.

It is a noticeable fact that every officer in the courthouse employs a lady, so I ask, then why should we not elect one who does her own work and who devotes her entire time to the office? No man's work is more outstanding than hers because her report from the State Examiner shows that her work was without error.

Mrs. Calloway is kind to every person she meets. She took care of a family of children and the wife when the husband was being tried in court for three days, that proved he was innocent, even though she had never seen them before, but did it to help humanity, as these people were out in the cold, and had no where to go.

The women help us elect our officials and I am asking the men to help elect a woman who can assist the ladies if they go to the courthouse and need help.

With best wishes for the success to the Republican party, I am—Chas.

W. L. SANDERS WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a little space in one of your columns to say a few words in regard to educational matters.

First, I want to say my visit to the Alabama Educational Association was greatly enjoyed. It gave me a great thrill to see an army of five thousand (in round numbers) professional teachers, whose determination is to educate the youth of Alabama, even though it takes some sacrifice on their part.

I am quiate sure most of these teachers are behind with their pay, probably some of them had to borrow money to visit the A. E. A., and in the face of all this they cheered each speaker who said that education in Alabama must go forward, regardless of its financial condition. I regret very much that the patrons who are so careless about sending their children to school were not there. One of the major needs in Chilton County, and in the state of Alabama, is that the people need to be furnished the facts and figures in regard to education. They should first be made to realize the need of education, the cost of education, and kind of school and equipment that is most economical.

I would be glad to see the day come when Alabama will put education first, and when this is done, good roads and other public enterprises will spring up as if by magic, but so long as the officials of any state permit the educational funds to be used for other purposes than that of education, that state shall go backward instead of forward.

It seems that it is hard for some people to understand the financial condition of the state. They seem to think the board of education has money with which to pay the teachers, but just wont pay them. This is untrue, for the board is very much in sympathy with them. The Board would be glad to pay off its back debts, but it can't until the state pays the board.

I am sorry that such rumors get started but somehow they will. So when you teachers hear this kind of news, you can feel sure that somebody has mis-stated or missunderstood, one of the two. I hope every citizen in the county will feel free to call upon the superintendent for any information they desire in regard to educational matters. I also want you to feel free to come and sit with the board at any time.

We want the cooperation of every citizen and parent that we may make educational opportunities better in Chilton County.—Yours for education, W. L. Sanders.

FROM LOWNDES COUNTY ABOUT CHILTON POLITICS

Lowndesboro, Ala., March 19.

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to express my feelings through The Union-Banner with reference to the political situation in Chilton County. I believe that those who know me best will know that, although I may be wrong, whatever I say in so expressing myself is as I see it. I realize that I have always myself more or less unpopular by being open in anything I may have to say, but I believe that every man should speak his real sentiment, so here goes.

I am a regular reader of The Union-Banner, and can't help but know something of the political condition in Chilton County. Anyone can see that the condition that now exists was brought about by people who have been running for probate judge and other offices all these years. I don't suppose anyone cares who runs for any office, but it does get my goat to see what has just been done with reference to getting men to run for executive committeemen. I want to say just here that I believe every man who is involved in this row is my friend and I would feel bad to know anyone of them thought hard of me because of this letter. But as I have already expressed myself, there is a faction for and a faction against the present adminsitration—in fact, there are things the present administration has done that I did not and do not approve of, but we all can't see alike.

The fight is on against Judge Reynolds and his friends, and I am beginning to believe that those boosting the fight do not and will not stop at anything. But like Mr. Devaughn in The Union-Banner of March 17th stated, he did not believe in keeping one man in office all his life. Well, I don't either, but if the masses of the people want a certain man for their officer, I am ever ready to hands down. I feel sure there are enough fair minded men in the Republican ranks of old Chilton to take care of the present situation. But if there are enough people in Chilton county who believe in such tactics as are being practiced there now to push such a move through a very few times, then your party is divided and will have to go down.

I have no axe to grind. I am not expecting any favors from either side, but all the interest I have in me is centered in my Chilton County friends and associates, both politically and socially, to the extent that I do not believe there is any man living that feels a greater interest in Chilton County and its doings than I do. — Respectfully, the same old Friend, Enoch H. Foshee.

LONG-LEAF PINE DISEASES NOT SERIOUS IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., March 23.—The Long-leaf Pine brown-spot needle disease so prevalent in Florida, Mississippi and other southern states is also found to some extent in Alabama, says Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester. The disease is not very destructive in this state, however, accordnig to the investigations made by the forestry department.

The disease is scientifically known as Septoria acicola. It affects and even kills the leaves wholly or in part. Since the leaves of a tree comprise both the lungs and stomach of the plant, anything that damages the foliage necessarily interferes with thrifty growth. In the case of the brown-spot needle disease, however, it is fortunate that only young trees are affected, and as soon as the seedlings reach a height of a foot and a half or two feet the disease is no longer serious.

It has sometimes been thought that burning the forest floor, and incidentally the affected leaves of the young long-leaf seedlings, would tend to eliminate the disease. However, it has been shown that this sort of cure is worse than the difficulty it is designed to remedy, since the destruction of the foliage by the woods fire is much greater than the injury from the disease itself. The young long-leaf seedlings soon pass the stage during which they are affected by the disease, and this fact renders the latter of comparatively slight consequence to timber growing in Alabama.

"REACH FOR A CHECKER INSTEAD OF A TIT"

And that exclamation among the younger generation of cattle—marking the passing of old methods and the beginning of the new—is the result of the latest experimental information released from Purina Experimental Farm at Gray Summit, Missouri, making possible the replacement of the old messy, unsanitary method of gruel feeding with a small dry cube in a feed box or trough.

"Gone are the days of heating water on cold winter mornings, mixing the calf meal with water, carrying this gruel mixture to the calf, and later the hard job of scrubbing all the utensils," says E. B. Powell, manager of the Purina Experimental Farm, and who was in charge of the calf experiments.

Powell points out that it is generally known that the calf that was permitted to run with its mother—getting access to its mother's milk at will—developed as nature intended it to and in the end was a better calf than those fed by the old hand methods.

With this new method of simply feeding a small checker, which contains all of the essential things that a calf needs for growth and development, an untold amount of labor is eliminated and at six months a calf is produced that is exactly as good as the one that is permitted to run with its mother.

The cube method of feeding will permit the calf to eat when it wishes just as it does when running free with the cow, and that makes possible the steady flow of food through the digestive system in the normal manner. By feeding at intervals a given amount the calf tended to become "pot-bellied," a condition that was not favored by the calf raiser. Calf checkers are sold locally by J. L. Ruffin.

EAT MORE GREENS AND HAVE BETTER HEALTH

The old spring remedy of "sulphur and molasses" used by dear old grandmother was not valuable as she thought. The real value was in the dandelion greens which were eaten when the dose was given in spring when "the blood needed thinning."

These facts have been brought out by Miss Helen Kennedy, extension nutrition worker at Auburn, in connection with facts about foods. Sulphur contains no mineral salts and molasses almost none, added Miss Kennedy.

"But they are contained," she continued, "in turnip greens, dandelion greens, spinach, cabbage, beet tops, in fact all greens. At first it was for their minerals (calcium and iron especially) that greens were considered most valuable. Now it is for both minerals and vitamins. These green foods supply most of vitamin A (for health and growth) and vitamin C (to prevent scurvy) also B (for the nerves and for growth) and G (to prevent pellagra)."

Since vitamins are easily destroyed by cooking, Miss Kennedy said that raw vegetables should be eaten daily. This is where raw salads come in—raw cabbage, and all other salad greens—lettuce, romaine, endive, watercress, celery, parsley—are all good. The green leaves are higher in vitamins than the bleached ones.

To preserve vitamins (especially vitamins B and C) and minerals, Miss Kennedy gave the following instructions for cooking greens:

"Wash the greens thoroughly and put into a small quantity of boiling salted water. Cook without a cover for as short a time as possible to make tender but still form. Some greens (spinach and young dandelions and tendergreens) will need no water except that which clings to leaves after washing. Cooking without a cover will help to keep the green color."

HERE ARE SOME BRIEF NEWS ITEMS OF INTEREST TO FOLKS

The Wisconsin legislature has enacted an unemployment insurance law which is intended to assure the employee a fund upon which to live in times of unemployment and all-the-year employment if possible.

Both chambers of the government in Sweden have adopted a bill authorizing the government to grant companies or persons a brief moratorium on payment of debts. The action was a repercussion to the death of Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish match king.

In 1931 Alabama farmers made 231 trench silos. F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist at Auburn, says that "every last one of them was satisfactory." He hopes that the number will be doubled this year. Rations are improved and feed costs reduced with a trench silo, he added.

The farmer who plants good seed of the best variety of cotton this spring will be awarded when he goes to sell next fall, for he will have better cotton to sell. The best cotton is worth more and should receive more on the market, according to J. C. Lowery at Auburn.

Great Britain recently paid $150,000,000 to the United States and $65,000,000 to France on the $400,000,000 borrowed in August of last year. "This is one of the very few really constructive pieces of news since the German crisis began to develop the latter part of last May," remarked Barron's Financial Journal.

A London dispatch today says that "The British birth rate both for the last quarter of 1931 and the whole year, was the lowest ever recorded, and there is a suggestion that the population of England and Wales will soon become stationary at around 40,000,000. In the last decade the annual rate has fallen from 20.4 to 15.8 per 1,000. The death rate for this period has remained more or less constant at about 12 per 1,000.

BEGIN SPRING GARDEN NOW

A year around garden every year should forever be the slogan of all farmers whether it be during hard times or days of prosperity. The same should be adopted by most villagers and urban people, though many of them fail to realize the economic importance of the home garden until periodic depression come. Every one with a plot of ground that will grow grass, be the plot ever so small, can graw vegetables. The success in growing vegetables depends primarily upon the following: thorough preparation of the soil before planting, supplying the necessary plant food through proper fertilization, good seed, selecting, and then cultivating or working sufficiently to keep down weeds.

The garden should be plowed thoroughly before spring plantings are made. When barnyard manure is available, it should be broadcast in liberal quantities before breaking the soil. This is an excellent garden fertilizer and can be used with certain degrees of success where other materials can be had, although best results are obtained where this is supplemented with commercial forms of nitrogen, phosphate and potash.

MORE SOYBEANS ARE NEEDED IN ALABAMA

Hay is one crop of which Alabama farmers are certain not to produce too much this year. On the other hand, there has been a hay shortage from year to year.

To replace a portion of the acreage in cotton, and to provide feed to make more livestock more profitable, the Experiment Station at Auburn recommends planting a much bigger acreage to soybeans. The best planting season in Alabama is from late April through May.

"For hay the Otootan variety is preferred," says R. Y. Bailey of the Experiment Station staff. "It yields well and the stems are fine, making it a very desirable hay plant."

For hogging down the mammoth yellow and Biloxi varieties are preferred. They produce more beans and a big top plant. However, the stems are large and coarse, making them objectionable for hay.

Soybeans may be planted alone or with corn. If interplanted with corn the two make a splendid crop for finishing hogs in the late summer or early fall. One is a grain and the other is a legume.

Another fortunate fact about soybeans is that Alabama farmers saved more seed last fall. Some saved for planting their own farms and others saved enough for sale. Several Alabama county agents are very hopeful that there will be a very large increase in the soybean acreage this year.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Query.—When farming pays so little, how can we have the heart to undertake another season of planting?

Ans.—Present prices are indeed discouraging; but, if farmers will live at home, producing their own table supplies and feed on the farm, they are far better off than any other class of people at the present time. City people have no resource except to buy, buy, buy. The farmer can prevent buying. Thousands of farmers in the south produced their entire table supplies and livestock last year, who had never done so before. Plant a good home garden. Provide fruit of many kinds in some way. Have a good thrifty poultry yard. Keep one or two good brood sows and raise good litters. Not less than two milk cows should be kept for every family on the farm. A surplus is always desirable along all these lines.

Query.—My neighbor has suggested planting wilt-resistant tomato plants. Please explain what that means.

Ans.—The wilt disease often kills the entire lot of tomato plants about the time they are beginning to blossom or soon after. Many fields are infested with this disease, and the soil cannot be disinfected. Strains of several varieties have been developed which will resist this disease and will not be killed by it. Seedsmen can supply seed, and plant dealers can supply plants which are resistant to wilt. Other tomato diseases can be controlled by spraying while fighting the tomato worms with poison. Use Bordeaux and poison together.

Query—Please explain the benefits of bare fallow in the spring before planting corn and other crops.

Ans.—After the ground is plowed early, then keep it harrowed frequently for three or more weeks. During this time the insects will be hatched out and killed. Weeds will be sprouted and killed; and the soil will be put in fine condition for planting. Try this plan.

FARMERS SHOULD OBTAIN PERMIT BEFORE SELLING PRODUCE IN BIRMINGHAM

Alabama farmers expecting to sell farm produce in the city of Birmingham should obtain a "farmers permit" from the city comptroller, Birmingham, before entering the city to sell products, advises Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture.

As a result of several arrests and fines by the city of Birmingham, commissioner Storrs calls farmers' attention to the following section of the license Code of Birmingham.

"It shall be unlawful for any farmer or other individual engaged in the production of farm products to sell within the corporate limits of the city of Birmingham any articles produced by them without first having secured the "farmer's permit" provided for by Section 15 of the License Code of the City of Birmingham."

Commissioner Storrs says that a permit will be issued without cost to farmers who produce their own products, but that farmers selling or disposing of farm products not produced by them are subject to payment of license. "Farmers wishing to sell farm products in Birmingham should write the city comptroller for an application blank," advises Storrs.

ALABAMA IS FIRST TO ACCREDIT HONEY BEES

Alabama is to be the first state to accredit honey bees and queens, reports Thomas Atchison, apiary inspector for the department of agriculture. "This is being done to promote and develop the apiary industry of Alabama," he said.

Don't let them count you out!

"I am simply overjoyed that I have back my beautiful clear skin ... that my appetite and strength are again as they should be ... and now I work and mingle with my associates and friends with confidence.

"People admire me and ask how I did it. I tell them about S.S.S. and how it gave me the glow of health. It is a wonderful aid to the system. It improves the appetite ... clears the skin ... and thru its regeneration of the red-blood-cells and hemoglobin I feel like myself again."

Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS OVER THE STATE BY C. E. STAPP

March 1st Crop Report

Fifty-seven per cent of last year's corn crop was found on farms in Alabama on March 1st this year, as compared with 39 per cent a year ago and 47 per cent in 1930. This is a reflection of the larger crop produced last year. Of last year's corn crop 5 per cent has or will be shipped out of the county of production as compared with only 2 per cent shipped the two previous years.

Eight per cent of last year's oat crop was found on farms March 1st, compared with 4 per cent last year and 5 per cent in 1930.

Sixty per cent of the cows on the farms were being milked March 1st, with an average production of 1.4 gallons per cow milked.

Egg production on March 1st was 48 per one hundred hens.

Farm labor supply was 195 per cent of the demand.

The weather up to March 1st this year was unusually favorable to farm work, the winter having been mild and open. Since March 1st the only real cold weather of the winter has occurred, which found vegetables unusually well advanced, and which did some damage to early vegetables, and particularly to strawberries. Later reports may indicate this damage to be greater than is now apparent.

Farm Credits

The outlook for farm credit this year is not very good locally. A survey made by the Alabama Extension Service discloses the fact that Alabama banks will be able to supply little more than half the farm credit which they extended last year. This situation is due to the fact that small returns from money crops last year prevented many farmers from paying their bank and store debts extended to them. Banks now seem to be disposed to carry these balances without forcing foreclosures. In order to do this they will be able to extend little more credit for this year. More than 40 banks have closed in the State since January 1st, 1931, up to date, and there have been several consolidations. This situation calls for very careful financial management on the part of the farmers this year. Fortunately ample food and feed supplies have been produced, and a very small volume of credit will be needed by the farmers, unless they attempt an over-production of money crops in 1932. It will be the part of wisdom to follow up the production of home supplies and to curtail the acreage of money crops. At the same time, there is at present a splendid opportunity to engage in some soil building projects on acreages formerly devoted to the production of cotton. These projects will certainly bring returns in increased yields in the future without the expense of artificial fertility. With extreme economy and thoughtful management, the present situation may well give place to a better system of farming in the future.

Messrs. Jack Billingsley and Wilson Jones of Indian Grave were in Clanton with some of their folks on Friday of last week. While here they visited The Union-Banner and looked over our list of curios. They were especially interested in the hoot owl looking bean pod brought in last week by Mr. J. H. Jackson.

Senator John A. Darden, of Goodwater, was in Clanton Monday. He spoke at the courthouse in the interest of his candidacy for president of the Alabama Public Service Commission.

ALBERT KELLER'S ELECTION

We congratulate the educational leaders of Alabama upon their election of Albert Keller, of Andalusia, as President of the Alabama Educational Association.

There is not a man in the educational system of Alabama more deserving of his position than Mr. Keller. He has risen from the ranks of the plowboys to the towering heights of Alabama's most able school administrators.

Born and reared in Cullman County, he worked on the farm, taught schools, and burned the midnight oil to obtain an education. He graduated at Cullman County High School in 1913. Later he took a few steps higher up the ladder by graduating at Florence Normal College.

After some more teaching experience he was elected Superintendent of the schools of Covington County. He has served in that capacity for several years. Under his administration, the schools of Covington County have been developed to a position among the very best in the State of Alabama. His fruits are the testimony of his worthiness.

The school teachers, school officials, and the whole educational interests of Alabama have in Mr. Keller a leader whom it will be safe to follow. It would be a happy day for Alabama if the high ideals and noble purposes that rule in the great mind and honest heart of this man could be made the warp and filling of our entire school system from top to bottom.

A UNIQUE PROPOSAL ON POLITICS

One fellow out in the rural section, who is considerably bumfuzzled over the Republican political situation in Chilton County, has figured out a rather unique way to settle the differences that appear to exist among our party high-lights.

This man said here is my plan:

"I think the Republican voters ought to come together in a mass meeting and tell these high-muckety-mucks just what we think about the situation the Republican party has got into. In this meeting, my plan would be to have all the office holders and party leaders present, but not let them talk. They will talk too much if they get started. They have talked too much already. What they need to do now is to listen to some common sense and reason. I believe the rank and file of the Republicans of this county still have enough common sense to settle all their differences; and I believe they could do a lot of good to get into a meeting as I suggest.

"If our office holders and party leaders would agree to listen to the voice of the Republican citizens, I believe much of our political discord and dissatisfaction would be overcome. These leaders who are acting funny now and stirring up the muddy waters of politics just as well calm down and listen to the common folks. They are going to have to listen to us on election day anyhow."

WE MUST NOT APE CHINA

China long ago set the world an example of disarmament. But it is not recorded that other old and great nations followed her example, as the pacifists assure us the nations would if the United States would now lead the way in reducing arms.

Instead the great powers have humbled China, exploited her, held her beneath their boots, the while they wrangled over the spoils Today finds China at war, although Japan does not choose to classify the use of her ships and men. Outraged, shelled, peaceful nature has been her undoing.

While she is being attacked and subdued, the other nations look on, not, it will be noticed, in any desire to help poor China in her distress, but fearful lest their own interests there be endangered by the disturbance.

The United States must never become another China. It must never trustingly prostrate itself at the feet of less idealistic nations, which would not hesitate to take every advantage of its comparitive defencelessness.

The United States must maintain a navy and an army that will command respect, that will deter other nations from running wild on sprees of international lawlessness.—Portland Press Herald.

A FARMER'S PRAYER

"I am thankful that I own no stock which I had bought at peak prices. I am grateful for guidance that kept me out of the speculative markets. It is good not to read the stock market quotations each morning before prayer, in order to find how much poorer I am than I was the day before.

"I am glad that I am not a laboring man without a job or in danger of losing the one I might have. I wear no man's collar to the office, wonders whether I am to remain until night. I surely am fortunate that I am not a coal operator nor steel manufacturer, nor any other official hunting trade where there is no trade.

"Give me my pigs and chickens and cows, my health and strength and my freedom and faith. I am not making any money, but I am not losing so much that I face disaster and hunger. I still have a place to sleep and three square meals a day.

"Once I looked with envy upon my fellow citizens. I thought they lived in luxury and peace. This morning they need comfort and divine grace to face their plight.

"I am grateful for the small blessings and regular blessings that fall upon me and mine, and my land. I hope my sins, my hypocrisy and my shortcomings will be overlooked, and believe me I am content that I am not as many others are."—Ex.

In the old days a fellow's wealth out in the country was measured by the number of farms he owned. Now it is measured by the number of farm mortgages.

Roosevelt and Taft caused a split in the Republican party in 1912. Isn't it possible that Roosevelt and Smith may do the same thing to the Democratic party in 1932?

THE PACIFISTS SEEM TO WANT WAR

Sensible men have tried to warn the internationalists and pacifists that they are idiotically belligerent in demanding that the United States slap an embargo on trade with Japan as a coercive measure. The boycott is vested with moral worth to persons who are addicted to peace pacts and international conferences. It is a vent for the indignation with which the illusionists see their world upset and their theories routed. Senator Borah has his soft spots, but he has endeavored to subdue the enthusiasms which would start the United States upon these wild courses.

A boycott is a warlike measure. Regardless of its ecanamic effect upon the nation adopting it as a policy, it is an invitation to retaliation, and inasmuch as trade relations have caused many wars it is an open door to warfare. A nation which breaks its commercial relations with another and tries to coerce it by starving its industries and its people should be prepared and ready to follow that up with coercion undertaken with its armed forces. In this case the American pacifists, true to tradition and form, demand that the United States step out alone with a gun to protect another country which would not be in the fix it now is if if had not become just what the pacifists want to make of their own country. The American pacifists would do just that.—Chicago Tribune.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

No matter what we may think as individuals as to the extent of the depression and the length of the road we have yet to travel before we shall start up out of the valley, it must be admitted, even by the pessimists that there are now certain constructive factors apparent which could not be discerned a few short months ago. To realize the big change in international psychology we have to think back only a short distance in national and world affairs.

Only a few short months ago it looked as though the predictions of the extreme pessimists, to the effect that the end of modern capialist society had been reached, were not far out of the way. Central Europe ceemed to be sinking into financial chaos. It seemed that Germany might be forced to repudiate all debts both public and private and that Great Britain too was in for bankruptcy. What seemed like the final straw came with the abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain. Conditions in the United States seemed but little better. Great Britain's apparent collapse was followed by what amounted to a financial panic here. Banks were soon closing by the dozens and Europe was withdrawing its gold from Amarica as rapidly as possible.

But now a new year has gotten under way, and while we are still in the trough of the depression, and there is no appreciable improvement in actual business conditions, it must be admitted that there are signs of hope on the horizon that were not apparent a few months ago. In Great Britain especially has there come improvement. That nation is balancing its budget. It has paid off the greater part of the money it borrowed from the United States and from France in an effort to bolster the gold standard in England, sterling is going up on the world markets and British employment is picking up due to the adoption of the protective tariff, and the safeguarding of the English market for home industries. In the United States the closing of banks seems to have been definitely checked. The stock market has established what the experts call a "tripple bottom" and for the past three or four months has seemed disinclined to go any lower while there has been a distinct improvement in the bond market, always the first signs of stability. While many raw commodities do not yet seem to have reached the bottom, it is true that the decline has grealy slackened. And wheat remains persistently above the low price established last fall which would seem to be a good sign of stabilization in that important commodity.

It seemed that last year all the news was bad news, especially that which came from Europe. Now we are getting an encouraging dispatch from across the waters occasionally. Among the constructive factors have been the new nationalist government in Great Britain, the decline of hoarding in Europe, the constructive program put under way in the United States with the consequent clearing of the financial skies and the tendency of securities and commodities to establish a bottom.

Of course we are not out of the woods yet. We will doubtless have many ups and downs before we get on the highway of prosperity once more. The pessimists say that the improvement is only temporary, due to desperate remedies taken by the Federal government to resuscitate business, like oxygen administered to the patient who is critically ill, as a last desperate hope. Nevertheless there are encouraging signs on the horizon, and we are now beginning to see that the pessimists who a few months ago predicted the end of our modern business structure, were as far wrong as the optimists who in 1929 told us that hard times and bear markets were gone forever.

THE NAVY WE SHOULD HAVE

In ordering a favorable report on the Hale bill, the Naval Affairs Committee has acted wisely. The Senate ought to go on record as endorsing the proposition that our Navy shall be built up to the maximum limits permitted by the London treaty, or by any successor treaty whenever such a treaty may be framed and adopted. This does not mean, of course that the United States should rush headlong into construction of naval vessels in such manner as to make our building program lop-sided. There should be no alternating periods of great construction. Rather the Navy should be brought to the treaty level over a period of years and then carefully maintained at that level by making the necessary replacements.—Providence Journal.

BORESOME BOARDS

Senator Glenn, Illinois, Republican, will lead a fight to eliminate the many revenue sapping bureaus, boards, commissions and other barnacles that through the easy going years have attached themselves to the ship of state. In his battle he will have the moral support of a lot of us who are carrying paternalism to the point where he is a meddlesome old relative, and others who think that the Goddess of Liberty has become a back seat driver.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

A Park For Clanton—Last week in this column I made mention of a park for Clanton. Don't you think this town needs one, and could afford to fix up a park? As I was passing a big grove one afternoon a short time ago, I noticed a big crowd of children playing. All kinds of games were being carried on—everything from marbles to tennis and basketball. And what a time these kids were having, rolling and tumbling in the leaves. A few grown-ups were standing around, too, and it seemed they were getting as much kick out of watching the kiddies romp as the children, themselves were. I don't think it would cost so very much to rig up a public playground, or park of some kind. And I don't know of many towns the size of Clanton, which do not have some kind of place of this kind, where the little folks can meet and play, and where grown-ups can loaf and take it easy for a while. Think this over.

Alabama—Time was when Alabama was considered as just another one of these states which go to make up that "unlearned and hard headed" region known as Dixie. You will excuse that "unlearned and hard-headed" break—that is the term an English writer once used to describe the people of the South. During recent years, however, numerous events and people have caused Alabama to get "on the map", so to speak. In other words, these events and people have "advertised" Alabama very widely. At one time or another, in late years, this state has been credited with having one of the best school systems to be found; some of the finest roads in the country are here; one of the greatest coal and iron regions in the world is here. Alabama leads the Southern states in variety of crops and industries. All this, and more, is the just boast of Alabamians. Nearly anything you can mention, from green beans to steel products are shipped from Alabama—oranges from south Alabama, watermelons, potatoes, peanuts, and numerous other kinds of truck from the same part; apples from the Sand Mountain district; steel and iron products from the Birmingham district; rubber goods from Gadsden, where the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company already have great manufacturing facilities and plans which call for regular additions until it will rank with the biggest rubber plants to be found anywhere. In short, I reckon we're in a pretty good place, after all.

Swapping Horses—I heard somebody talking a few days ago, and he said: "Well, I never did like to trade horses in mid-stream," when a candidate asked to be considered on primary election day. Hearing this, I couldn't keep from thinking of some situations whiih might cause that man to "trade horses," even in the middle of the river. Suppose he should drive his team into the stream, and along about the middle some one or two of his horses should decide to take advantage of the situation; suppose they became unconcerned, decided to stay put for a while; in plain driver's language, suppose they got hard-headed and balked on the job. And if, about that time, some fellow should drive in beside him and want to trade horses, offering a horse which looked like he was "rarin' to go"; don't you believe he would trade? Bet your life he would, and thank his lucky star for the chance. And, too, whether he was in mid-stream or not, if he should get hold of a bad horse, he would trade the very first chance he got. In either case he'd know he had all to gain and none to lose. Somebody has said: "Nobody gains in a horse trade," but I believe that are times when a trade wouldn't lose anything for anybody.

Walking The Straight And Narrow Way—Have you ever been 'possum huntin'? I know you have, before you answer. Maybe you have had the experience I had one night. We were 'possum huntin', the night was one of the darkest I can remember, and the weather was just about at the freezing point. The woodland we were in was dense. One or two of the fellows in the crowd knew the woods well—where the numerous trails led, and all that—but I didn't. One of the leaders called out, as we heard old "Rattler" let loose his long, lonesome "tree" bark—"let's go this way, fellows, here's the creek; he's treed across the creek, and there's a log right up here, we can cross on that." I followed the crowd, but was the last to get over the log, and found myself quite a distance behind the gang when I reached the other side. I listened a moment, and decided to take a near cut to the tree. And right there is where I missed it. I hadn't gone 30 steps before I was all tangled up in briars and bushes, and bogged up to my knees in mud; and the bad part of it was, I couldn't get out—I couldn't see well enough to back out, and the briars and mud had me stopped cold. COLD is right! The longer I stayed there the colder I got. After the other fellows had all the fun of catching the old 'possum, they came back and got me. I have thought of that bitter experience many times, and every time I see somebody trying to take a near cut on someone else, it comes to mind again. It was a good lesson, and now that it is all over, I'm a little glad it happened to me—I guess it has kept me out of lots of briar patches and bog holes since that time. Lots of times I see people taking near cuts—in lots of ways—in business, in church affairs, and in politics. And I always feel like saying: "Better watch out buddy, or you'll get all bogged up in a mud hole with lots of briars in it. Better stick to the trail, even if it does take you a little longer to get where you are going, than to get all tangled up and have to be helped out, and that after all the fun is over."

Pilots—To keep on the high road to success it would be a pretty good plan to follow the lead of those who are successful. The air service is one of the main units of our country's defense program. The government keeps on hand many experienced pilots, who take the green men up, after they have served their apprenticeship on the ground, and turn the ship over to the student pilot. Before doing so, he gives orders that in case the old ship begins to slip out of control of the new pilot, he must immediately turn controls back to the experienced pilot, before it is too late. If they were to just go on using the old pilots—never training new ones, the time would come when there would be no pilots. By using part of the experienced men to train new ones all the time, an endless supply of pilots are kept. Suppose the idea would work in politics? I believe it would. If we never give the younger aspirants to office a chance to learn how to run our affairs, time will come when we will run out of old political pilots, with nobody on hand fitted to take over the management. Then we'll be in a pretty pickle.

Glimpses—Spring must be just around the corner—I see a bird with a string in its beak, on its way to build a nest. Here's a top spinning contest—what fun those boys are having. And here's a boxing match—little "Gabby" Tiffin and Davis—pretty good little scrap. Polk Brothers has a line of cars all shined up and standing out where they may be seen—drawing a crowd too. Too bad, I missed Amos 'n Andy again—just means I'll have to sit up until 10:00 o'clock tonight. I'm going to church—now ain't THAT news?—Man in the Moon.

NOW GO AHEAD!

The country is now prepared with weapons to fight further needless deflation. Before long the newspapers should be recording bank reopenings rather than fresh failures. Redepositing rather than hoarding should likewise make its appearance. Expansion rather than further contraction of bank credit will be in order.

In short, there is reason to conclude that the long, painful, catastrophic descent is about to be arrested and the upward journey begun.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

I was standing by the creek bank when I saw a large bull frog coming toward me. He was covering the distance by leaps and bounds. He passed me in great haste, without speaking a pleasant "good morning," and made a dive for deep water. I stood there a few moments, wondering why the frog had so hastily come from the swamp. On hearing a sound in the direction from whence the frog had come, I glanced in that direction, and I saw a tremendous snake following the trail of the frog. That frog had met with that danger far out in the swamp, and he knew it. He acted the part of wisdom and made haste for the deep water. I would that men and women could be induced to show a like amount of sense. The bull frog sees danger and scurries, but men and women will see danger and dare it. They know that there is danger in playing around at night, they know that there is danger in tampering with the bottle, they know that there is danger in selling rum, but they tarry around these things of danger and take a dare. Sad indeed, that so many, who thus tamper with danger, never find the refuge of safety. They go to feed the morbid appetite of the snakes of sin.

A layman was talking to a layman and here is how he accused him, "You spend more time and more money in your lodges, than you do in your church life. You attend lodge meetings twice each week, and stay from two to three hours in each session. You pay your dues promptly, and they amount to more than you pay to your church. How can you face God at the Judgement and say to him that your heart was in His church?" I am a great believer in fraternal orders and in clubs and social gatherings, but my first belief is in the church of God. The command is: "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God." There are a lot of folks in our town and county who are in need of the words of this godly layman. Any church member, I care not to what denomination he may belong, if he gives more of his time and money to his fraternal order, or to his club or party, than he gives to his church, that one is fooling himself, if he thinks that he is giving God and his soul a square deal. When people spend their time in lodges, golfing, and partying, their hearts are there and their pleasure is there. Where your treasure is there is your heart. It is time for us to make first things first.

Along with my Lettergraph was sent a kind of fluid called "Correction Fluid." When I am cutting the stencil for printing, if I make a mistake, I can take some of that fluid and spread it over the mistake made, and then continue writing correctly. That fluid is a great asset when a fellow is operating a machine. Somehow my typewriter has never learned to spell, and it knows nothing about grammar, and it is often doing the wrong thing. How fine to spread a little correction fluid, and then go on as though no mistake was ever made. If I had some correction fluid that could be used on human life, I could do a landslide business. The best of us are constantly making mistakes, but there is no fluid that will correct a mistake made. We may see our mistake and never make it again, but the mistake made is there to stay. How careful we should be in cutting the stencil of life, for our mistakes must go into the record on high.

The court was investigating the wrecking of a ship. The witness on the stand was giving a description of what he saw from the deck of a vessel standing by. He said: "I saw scores of men and women flounding about in the water, and I heard them calling for help." The judge, leaning toward the witness asked, "And sir, what did you do?" The man replied, "I did nothing." "Nothing," shouted the judge, "and men and women were dying all around you." The witness was hissed from the room as one unworthy to give testimony. That thing is being repeated a thousand times over every day, in almost every community. There are men and women, young and old, who are dying all about us. We see them sinking in sin, we hear their cries of distress, and we are doing nothing to save them. Awake, ye Christian men and women and throw out the life line.

"Who kidnapped the Lindbergh baby?" The answer to that question is the longing passion of every American heart. Only one class of people have been left out of the charges made. No one has yet dared to charge the church with that crime. We do not charge the church and Christian people with doing things like that. The deed sounds like the dastardly work of the underworld, and all efforts are being made to locate the crime there. The church is the one great influence and the one great institution that lives to oppose such things. The crushed hearts of devoted parents, turned at once to the church, and they made their appeal, "Christian people of America, pray for the return of our babe." The church of God is the greatest institution on earth. She is not charged with dastardly deeds but she is appealed to when the heart is crushed, or when there is a crying need anywhere.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

Too Much for Words

Talk about sights. Your man has seen plenty of them this week. The havoc that was brought to our county by the storm Monday night called for something besides words. It demanded action, and I have been so busy trying to do my bit toward helping the stricken that I have not had had time to eat, much less write. I have cut my column short this week. Will have lots to tell you later on.

Business and Politics Adjourned

Business, politics, and everything else has been adjourned in Chilton County until the storm stricken area has been put back on the map. The response of our people in evevry walk of life has been noble. This calamity has brought a great crisis into the lives of many of our citizens. Those who were fortunate enough to get by unmolested have jumped into the work of relieving the suffering in a most wonderful manner.

Rehabilitation To Be Pushed

The next few weeks will see a widespread program of rebuilding and rehabilitation of the stricken storm areas. The general program is under the direction of County Agent C. E. Stapp. Associated with him are chairman of many committees for different phases of the work. Beginning Wednesday morning, armies of volunteer workers were being sent to the devastated areas with instructions to help people get their places reconditioned so as to make them habitable. It will take a long time to do this, and much work. But our people will do the job.

In arguing about what they will do in the matter of German reparations, the French and English are giving us another example of counting the chickens before they are hatched, especially in view of the fact that Germany says there ain't going to be any reparations.

HAS McADOO STOPPED GARNER?

The old cleavage of the Democratic party is reappearing. The Smith-McAdoo battle lines are being drawn. Today we have Mr. McAdoo himself coming out for Speaker Garner, of Texas. This makes a pretty distinct lineup back of the speaker. Mr. Hearst "brought him out" so to speak, raising his candidacy at once to nation-wide notice. Then Senator Shepard, the original dry leader at Washington, indorsed him. He thus is today Hearst Dry McAdoo. He may step away from the dry label. And unless he does, he will be the champion of one wing of the party, when he probably would want to be a candidate acceptable to both sides.—New York Post.

J. E. Bledsoe conducted a singing at Mt. Moriah last Sunday evening. Cleve Langston of Pletcher was a prominent visitor.

In this issue of the Banner, appeared the following advertisement: "Boy wanted, about 15 years of age; apply at The Banner office." This is the advertisement that resulted in the present editor of the Union-Banner, W. M. Wyatt, getting into the game. This little advertisement is followed by this small bit of philosophy, which is rather significant: "Every dog has his day and every other dog thinks how much nicer it is than his day."

HOUSE SLIGHTLY BURNED BEFORE NOON ON MONDAY

The little frame building, the home of Mrs. Daily Miller, on Second Avenue between First and Second Streets, caught on fire Monday just before noon. The fire wagon was summoned and put the fire out without even turning on the water; the chemical guns did the work.

The building evidently caught from the chimney, as the fire was up in the wall above the fire place. The damage was slight.

ALABAMA BEARS BRUNT OF STORM

Death Toll Climbs to 200 Mark As Communication Lines Are Re-established

Birmingham, Ala., March 22.—Five Southern States tonight counted a total of 275 persons killed, more than 2,500 others injured and made homeless, and viewed unestimated property damages caused by a series of tornadoes that struck numerous communities last night and early today.

The storm struck with its greatest fury in Alabama, leaving 220 dead and many hundereds of others injured and homeless. Buildings were literally torn to pieces and the dying and injured thrown to the mercy of the elements. Heavy downpours of rain accompanied the wind and lightning and added to the grimness of one on the South's greatest disasters.

In Georgia 34 persons were killed. Tennessee counted 17 dead, while Kentucky and South Carolina had two deaths each.

From remote sections where communication lines had fallen and strewn wreckage had practically isolated the communities, belated news of other deaths was received Tuesday night. Many of the injured died during the day.

The twisting, roaring wind struck first at Marion, Alabama, then at Northport, both in the west central portion of the state. Twenty-nine were counted dead at Marion. Appearing next at Demopolis, the tornado cavorted into Faunsdale and Linden, all in the same area, and then jumped to the central part of the state striking Lomax, Columbiana, Thorsby, and other communities.

At the same time another tornado dipped into a half dozen Tennessee communities. At Pulaski, five members of one family were killed under the wreckage of their home. A man was blown from sight and had not been located late Tuesday night. He was believed dead. At Cleveland a baby was snatched by the wind from its mother's arms and dropped into a well where it drowned.

Rescuers Working

Rescue workers pressed into wrecked communities and homes throughout the tornado ravished areas all day and night still were working tirelessly in aiding the hundreds of injured, and in providing shelter for those left without homes.

The Red Cross was organizing in Alabama for quick relief of the injured, and Gov. Miller appealed for contributions for the storm sufferers in a formal proclamation to the people of this State.

Saying "There will be great suffering unless they are aided properly." Gov. Miller's proclamation called on people of the State to contribute relief funds for distribution through the Red Cross.

At Northport, aided by three companies of National Guardsmen, rescue work proceeded rapidly and by early afternoon it was believed all the dead and injured had been cared for.

Tuscaloosa hospitals and the University of Alabama gymnasium cared for the injured from Northport and Red Cross workers were directing the relief of the homeless tonight.

Red Cross at Work

Local committees functioning under the direction of a Red Cross disaster worker were rapidly bringing order out of chaos at Sylacauga, Alabama, where 18 were killed and approximately 300 were injured. The most seriously injured, numbering more than 80, and 20 of whom were in critical condition, were cared for in Sylacauga hospitals. The others were transferred to a lodge hall.

Weary rescue crews pushed their work in Perry County seeking between 10 and 15 missing persons, most of whom autorities said they believed were dead. The homeless in Perry County were estimated to total about 500, possibly more. This is a cotton farming section where land is tilled by negro share-croppers and they suffered most.

Clanton also rapidly organized for relief work and tonight had the situation well in hand. Scores were injured in the immediate vicinity north of Clanton which itself was undamaged. Relief headquarters had checked 50 dead and more than three score injured, several of whom may die.—Montgomery Advertiser.

CIRCUIT COURT RECESSED

Judge Tate recessed the Circuit Court of Chilton County Tuesday in order to release everybody to aid in relieving the storm sufferers. Only one civil case of minor importance was tried Monday.

BETTER PICTURES AT WADESONIAN

New "Sound on Film" System Recently Installed Produces Better Talkies for Theatre

Patrons of the Wadesonian Theatre are delighted with the improvement recently made by the management, in the installation of "Sound on Film" system for the presentation of talking pictures.

For several years Mr. Wade has presented talking pictures by the use of the "Sound on Disc" system. In recent years the production of the "Sound on Film" has been developed. It is a much more satisfactory method of presenting talking pictures than the old way.

Mr. Wade installed the latest sound on film equipment only a few weeks ago; and already his patrons have been delighted with the improvment. This places Clanton's picture theatre in the class with picture show houses of the best class in the cities. It is no longer necessary to go away from Clanton to see the best picture shows.

The new system makes it possible for Mr. Wade to get the very best and latest programs to show here, and he assures his patrons that he will do this in the future.

GASTON SCOTT HERE MARCH 19

Mr. Gaston Scott of Montgomery was a vistor to Clanton last Saturday. Mr. Scott is doing a little scouting around over the State of Alabama these days in the interest of securing an uninstructed delegation for the Democrats of Alabama at the next national democratic convention.

"I am not in favor of sending a delegation to the convention instructed for Roosevelt, Al Smith, or anybody else," said Mr. Scott.

He left with us an article concerning this subject, with the request that we publish it. Elsewhere yiu will find the piece which sets out in full the position of such Democratic leaders at Mr. Scott.

Prof. Ellsworth Ellis, of Marbury, was in Clanton Monday shaking hands with friends. Prof. Ellis was principal of the high school here some years ago.

RIGINAL

UNCLE NEWT HENLEY

On Tuesday night, March 15th, the death angel claimed the life of Uncle Newt Henley, of Selma, formerly of Chilton County, and for many year known throughout the county.

Uncle Newt had been in bad health and an invalid for many years, having strokes of paralysis. Since coming to Selma he had gained many friends through the Yoke Fellows Bible class and many other Christian associations in which he took part as far as he was able. The one best friend we feel sure he gained was that of his heavenly father, through the prayers, Bible reading and talks of God to him by the good Christian people, he said, long before his time came, that he was ready to meet God.

Uncle Newt was laid to rest at Pleasant Grove cemetery, Brislin in charge. Funeral was conducted by Rev. Wardlon of Selma. May God's richest blessings cheer the bereaved ones.—A friend.

T. C. Connell of Route 5 sends an interesting report on his chicken business. He says he put 63 eggs to settin' and hatched and raised 62 chickens.

Dr. C. O. Lawrence of Calera was a visitor to Clanton last Friday. He went with a party of friends to Lake Mitchell and spent the afternoon fishing. The group reported good luck.

Chilton County High School Effects Activity Program

—o—

J. B. Varnell

Department of Science

—o—

Undaunted by discouraging prospects of a possible short term, the faculty and students of the Chilton County High School at Clanton last September set up a program of activities based on a nine months term of energetic work. Taking the reins of uncertainty in their own hands, and guided by the plans of Principal L. C. Warr, the school to date has made gratifying progress toward the attainment of the five objectives of the activity program. The objectives are as follows:

1. The presentation of an electric clock system to the school by the senior class.
2. The establishment of clubs and other extra-curricula activities.
3. Beautifying the school grounds by the students taking the agricultural course under the leadership of their instructor.
4. The addition by the students and teachers of the equipment necessary for a profitable study of future home life.
5. The erection and building by the County Board of Education to serve as a school gymnasium and also as a storage building for the school buses.

When the 1931-1932 session opened the senior class found a small balance left in the treasury by the class of 1931. The members decided to use this balance as part of a fund for the purchase of a senior class memorial. To this amount they have added throughout the session and recently purchased an electric time system for the school. The equipment has been paid for in full.

Some of the clubs organized in accomplishing the second objectives include the Forensic Club sponsored by Miss Nell Wells; the Utopian Scientific society, organized to stimulate interest in science; the Stunt Club, sponsored by the physical education classes and directed by Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin; the Inter-Se Club, sponsored by the advanced Latin students; the Junior I English Club, organized to encourage interest in public speaking and current literary activities, and sponsored by Miss Margaret Kendrick; and the Current Event Club sponsored by Miss Josephine Martin of the History department.

Directed by J. B. Varnell, director of agricultural classes, the school grounds have been much improved since September. Experiments in the selection and planting of lawn seed and in soil testing have resulted in a beautiful lawn surrounding the school building. Many flowers and shrubs have been planted and a rockery has been set up in which more tha nthree hundred tulips of different kinds have been planted. In this work of beautifying the school grounds the High School P.-T. A. have been of material help to the students.

The combination gymnasium and garage provided by the County Board of Education has been completed. In this building the class in manual training under the direction of Mr. T. H. Walker has recently installed up-to-date shower baths and dressing rooms.

The Home Economics Department has been furnished with some very valuable equipment, which is not only used in the regular classroom work, but which is frequently called into service when groups of various sizes are entertained in the school.

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION FOR ELDER BLOSSOM AND BANNER

Editor Union-Banner:

Some weeks ago Elder Blossom said he wanted those who liked his sermons to write to him. I am writing to tell you how much we appreciate the entire paper. We would be lost without it. Since we moved away from Clanton, some over two years ago, we have hardly been without it. We look forward to its coming, as we would a dear friend. We try to see who can get the paper first when it comes.

We think the editorial page is just fine. I am sure that everyone who reads it will feel that it is well worth their time. I am sending a little poem which I composed myself. If you think it is worth the valuable space in your paper, I would like for you to print it.—Best wishes to the paper, Daisy Lee Jones.

The following is the poem composed by Daisy Lee Jones:

How dear to my heart is the old Union-Banner.
The one aspirant I look forward to
Oh, the comfort and joy I find in this manner,
As the dearly loved pages I read through and through.

Oh, the dear county paper I hail with pleasure,
I value it with the most precious pearls.
You'll never find a paper to compare with its measure,
If you search throughout this wide, wide world.

How quick to the box I rush to receive it,
As posed to the steps, I still to it cling.
No full steaming dish can tempt me to leave it,
Tho, filled with food that's fit for a king.

The Man on the Corner, I read every time,
And, who wouldn't read the Man in the Moon?
Elder Blossom sermons are the best of their kind,
But Moral Echoes ends too soon.

Now if you will listen, I'll tell you my mind,
Our little paper means very much to me.
My little poem is not so very fine,
But if you will print it, I'll very happy be.

Mr. Gemosie Connell and wife and children of Titus, spent Saturday night and Sunday with their parents Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Connell, near Clanton.

Miss Agnes Peters has returned from Anniston, where she has been visiting friends and relatives.

Many attended the prayer meeting held at Mrs. J. A. Peters last Wednesday nigt.

We are sorry that Miss Winifred Suttles is on the sick list this week. We hope she will soon be well.

Miss Eloise and Francis Rasberry visited in this community last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Peters of Maplesville celebrated their Golden wedding anniversary last Sunday, although it was a surprise to them. The children and grandchildren prepared the dinner. Three tables were placed in the long hall. The room was decorated in pink and white. A large vace of pink and white roses were placed in the center of the table. The wedding cake was also pink and white.

Many delicious things were served. After dinner all retired to the living room, where they sang songs that were enjoyed very much. Mr. and Mrs. Peters were showered with many lovely and beautiful gifts. Mrs. I. G. Mooney, (Margie Peters) of Florida sent a very lovely gift.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

Editor Union-Banner:

Sinc you has been so good ter print mah surmons, Ah wants yer to print dissen effen you will.

Ah notice in las weaks paper dat you called me Ender Crab Apple Blossom. Now, suh, Ah wants to tel you dat Ah could hab got outen bein a Elder cause Ah could hab fused to do whut de Lord wanted me to do, des lack lots ob other people, an Ah wouldnt hab bin no Elder. But Ah couldnt hep bein a Blossom, cause mah daddy wuz a Blossom befo me; but bout dis Crab Apple stuff, Ah's bin noted all ob mah life fur mah sweatnes ob disosishion an noted also fur mah lak ob crabidness.—Yours, Elder Blossom.

Elder Blossom Fills His Pintment at The Shiloh Church (Colored)

Will you please lisen whilst Ah reads one ob de hardes chapters in de Bible? It is in Matthew 23. De reason Ah says it is de hardes is cause de Lord calls dem scribes an farises jes whut da wuz. Who could no whut de wuz cept de Lord? Da appeard outwordly to men to be righteous, but de Lord could look inside an see de filth ob sin an unrighteousness. Effen de Lord hadent tole his disciples on dem da wood never nowed but whut da wuz real good people an Ah wish you to unnerstan too da wuz de church members ob dat day an time; da wuz very strick in caryin out de law but wuz holley lackin in righteousness an love. An de reason Ah sa "wholly lackin" is cause de Lord called dem hypocrites; an a hypocrite laks ebrything. Ah wonder how many hypocrites dar is here dis mawnin?

Now, jes let me read mah tex, Matt. 23rd chapter an de 32nd verse Lissen whilst Ah reads: "Fill ye up then the measure of your Fathers." Now we's gwin ter stan an sing dat ole stan-by song "Am I a Soldier of the Cross," an Ah wants all ob you whut dont no fur shoah effen you is a soldier to sing "Am I a Soldier?," and all ob you whut do no dat you is to sing "I am a Soldier ob de Cross." Cause dar aint no use ob singing dat you is effen you aint; cause de Lord noes effen youse tellin de truf or not. Ah sho do thank you for dat song.

In de year ob 1906 de guvermint passed whut wuz called de pure food law. Ah kin member before dat law wuz passed dat de whol country wuz flooded wid imitashuns; da eben tuck punkins an made stuff dat da called tomater kechup. Now, under de pure food law da must print on de packag dat it is an initashum. Sumtimes Ah wishes dat Ah could tell de diffence twixt de imitashun an de real Christian. Did you eber meet any ob de Tater fambly? Ise gwin ter tell you bout dam. Fust dars Richard Tater; we calls him Dick fur short, an he is a shoahnuff dictater. Dar am dictaters in mah church; da wants ter dictate to de partor whut he shall preach. Den dar's his wife, Aunt Aggie; an Ah wants to tell you we is got lots of agitaters in our churches. Des let sum little thing git started an Aunt Aggie will start agitatin it, an it aint long befo it is a great big sumphin. An their daughter Emma is a sweet girl an is got good sense, but dars nuthin original about her. She's jes an imitator. Hit dont make no diffence whut other folks do she imitates dem.

Ah aint no imitater myself. Ah bleaves in thinkin fur mahself. An das got a son, his name is Hezzie. You jes think how many hesitaters we has got in our churches today. Des gib some ob dem sumpthin to do and da will axcept de job an den hesitate an never do it. Mah way is to neveh take a job lessen Ise gwin ter do hit; an effen Ah takes de job Ah jumps at it an not keep on hesitatin about hit. So dictaters, de imitaters and de hesitaters is jes er bout got de church today. But Ah would rudder be enny ob dem dan a imitater, cause dat wuz what dem pharisees wuz. De tex say Fill ye up them the measure of your Fathers. Now, mah hearers, Ah calls upon you dis mawnin to fill up de measure ob your fathers. Brudder Rubin, you'se bout de oldes person here today. Ah wants to ax you dis question: Did your daddy buy or sell anything on Sunday? No, he tryed ter keep dat day holy; an so did all of de church folks. Did day hab men teachin Sunday school whut went to dances an drunk likker to drunkenness? No, suh; an effen any one ob de church members done dese things da withdrawed fellowship frum dem. Now da can do inny of dese things an still sta in de church. Dat wus de measure of your fathers.

An Ah calls on you and evy body elce in de church an in all ob de churches to fill up de measure of your daddys. Effen us keeps on gwyn lack us is today, what will de church be in de nex generation or two? It makes mah ole haid ake to think how we treats de church today. De line dat separates de church fum de world today is so dim dat de world can't see hit. You knows whut Ah means; effen you don't Ah will tell you. Ah means dat de average church member is so much lak de average sinner dat de average sinner con't see no diffunce in de two; an as long as dat existes we preachers cant do no good wid de sinners. Wese jes got ter snap outen dat an begin ter practis our ligion evy day in de week, or begin to fill up de measure ob our fathers.

Dem ole phariseas wanted evybody to libe rite an da demselfs do jes as da pleased. Dat is de way wid de church people today. Da wants ter do inny thing an evything da selves but de preachers mus be Jonny on de spot wid evything. Now, effen you require me to libe a true Christian life, an effen dat is important to de welfare ob de church an de success of mah ministry, how much more portant is it fur de church to libe rite. Mah brudders, Ah no dat Ah wants to see sinners saved, an Ah no dat Ah trys to preach de gospel, an Ah knows dat Ah trys to libe a true Christian life; an Ah study and Ah prays, axin de Lard to hep me be jes sich a preacher as he wants me to be. Ah trys to fill up de measure of de preachers whut has gone befo me.

Less git back to de ole land mark; less begin to ax a blessin at de table an less open de Bible at nite an read an den git down on our neas wid our family an thank de Lord fur de blessings ob dat day an ax him to keep us thru de nite. Ob course Ah noes dat de larger chulden is gone at bed time. An dat makes me think how many of you parrents prays fur your girls an boys while da is gone at nite? May de good Lord help us to fill up de measure of our fathers. Ah has talked long enough now, so when Ah reads mah poem we is all gwine ter close.

Cum mah brudder an mah sister,
Lissen to whut Ah say.
You cant lib a Christian life
Effen you dont read an pray.

Our daddys read de Bible
An didnt furgit to pray
An libed a happy Christian life
An pleased de Lord each day.

Less fil de measure ob our fathers
While He looks frum his throne;
Den de church will be happy
An come into hits own.

H. L. MIMS WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper for a few lines, in reply to Mr. J. H. Jackson's letter on the prophecy of Jeremiah; and also the reply of Parson to Edwards. I say, with due respect to all those parties, I don't write for an argument, but that I may throw some light on those two articles.

I say to Mr. Jackson, that the prophecy of Jeremiah was all fulfilled in one hundred years. Jeremiah saw the most of his prophecy fulfilled. He was speaking of the desolation of Jerusalem. God warned him to do this because his people had been thrown back in sin. Jeremiah plead hard and suffered much under the king of Judah. Nevertheless the king of Babylon came, or sent his General; and Judah and Jerusalem were captured, the people taken captives and the temple burned down.

This desolation lasted 7 years, and was finished 600 B. C., or 2,531 years have expired since their prophecy was fullfilled.

Daniel 1 "In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakum, king of Judah, came Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon unto Jerusamel and besieged it." This was the first time that Jerusalem was laid or made desolate.

Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego were taken at that time. It was at the end of this prophecy of 70 years when Daniel understood by the books, 70 years in desolation and Jerusalem would be restored. Now, Daniel had been in captivity 70 years. This was the first year of Dalius and he sent the Jews back home to Jerusalem. The Jews had been taken captive four times before this, but this was the first time their holy house had been destroyed, Solomon's Temple.

So the prophecy that Mr. Jackson has reference to was fulfilled 2,531 years ago.

Now Mr. Headley said that he does not believe that there is a man living that understands Daniel and Jremiah. Yes, but that does not make it so. I am not a Russelite. I do not believe in such tom rot. But if I did not understand Daniel, neither could I understand Russell. Prove all hold fast, that which is good. How then can we prove everything. We must know it first. I have some of the Russell books. I am not afraid of them, but I am proud of them. The Lord said that the sheep knew his voice and could not be led astray. They might be dangerous to people that have not made their choice.

I guess Mr. Headley is educated and I am not, but I would like to explain the prophecy of Daniel if I had time and space. This was the book that John saw, and the seals were opened; but not at the time that Rutherford claimed in 1918, nor just prior to that. I admit it was in time of war. But this war came off 1,848 years before the time Rutherford claimed it came off.

The Bible is its own interpreter, and when we think we are smart and apply the scripture thoughts wrongly, we become entangled. The plan was so fixed and the only thing we can do, is that we may fit ourselves to the pattern. We cannot trim the pattern to fit ourselves. The Revelations were to make known what was to come soon, and not what was to come 2,000 years from that time. If we cannot learn what has already passed, how can we learn what is to come?

I will go to any church in Chilton County and explain Daniel and Jeremiah upon the invitation of the church.—H. L. Mims.

HARK, YOU BOOSTERS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your wonderful paper.

I receive the Union-Banner each week and sure am glad when it reaches me, which is usually on Saturday, and it is just like a letter from home. But there are a lot of things missing, a lot of places that are not represented. There is nothing I enjoy more than to receive the Union-Banner and sit down and read all about what is going on down there. I am a long ways from Chilton County, but I sure do like to know what is going on down there. So come on boosters and lets hear from you. I would like to hear from Coopers, Mt. Creek, Lomax, Providence, Jacksons Chapel and Vida. Thanking you, dear Editor, for this space, I will sign off.—A lonesome lad.

Central Singing Society

"I wasn't there but I've been told" that the Central singing society had a mighty good singing at Maple Springs last Sunday afternoon. There were so many directors that not all of them could be used, and the class was large and filled with the spirit to sing. Prof. O. L. Devaughn had the afternoon's proceedings in charge and as he usually does, presided to the complete satisfaction of all.

No, the secretary of the Central singers and the writer of this piece was not there last Sunday, which is somewhat very unusual. I believe that this is the second meeting of the society I have missed since it was organized eighteen months ago. The writer attended the splendid singing at Collins Chapel last Sunday afternoon, and certainly enjoyed the afternoon.

There will be no meeting of the Central singers next Sunday afternoon, on account of the Easter singing at Poplar Springs. On the fourth Sunday afternoon in next month, April, however, if the Poplar Springs folks are willing, the society will meet at Friendship instead of Poplar Springs, since the latter place shall have had two fourth Sundays in succession, and further because Providence will have their annual May singing the fourth Sunday following. Definite announcement of this will be made later.—T. E. Wyatt, secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Connell spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cleckler, at Lomax.

LIBERTY HILL NEWS
(Too Late for Last Week)

The Liberty Hill Singing Society met Sunday afternoon, March 13th, with a small crowd present. The singing was good, but we hope to have a better one next time. Directors for the afternoon were: J. W. Lowery, Hiram Littlejohn, W. G. Culp, Dr. J. B. Williams and Mr. Leonard Culp. Pianists were Mr. W. G. Culp, Miss Gertie Lee Lowery and Mrs. Herbert Devaughn. We were indeed glad to have the visitors with us and extend to them a hearty welcome to visit us again.

We are hoping to have the United Singing Society and Clanton Quartet with us next Second Sunday afternoon. We invite every one to come and be with us, and let's try to make this the best singing that we have had this year.—Secretary.

DEATH KNELL OF PEOPLES TELEPHONE CO. SOUNDED

Unless somebody else takes an interest in the Peoples Telephone Co., and pays up their fees, operation of the central for the remainder of the year is impossible. This conclusion has just been reached by members of the Board of Directors; however, the next regular meeting of the Board will be held Monday, April 4th, and at that time, if those who have not yet paid do not rally on payments, the operator will be released from the contract and not asked to answer calls any longer.

The Board of Directors is in a bad predicament in this matter in regard to those who have paid their fees already. If the central is closed, these people will not get what they have paid for, which is not right, the Board is frank to admit. But on the other hand, is it right to require someone to operate the central the remainder of the year without renumeration? Mr. Giles has agreed to take produce in payment of fees, if people want to pay that way.

There are enough people getting fair central service who have not paid their fees, who if they would pay would keep the central going, thereby giving themselves service, as well as those others who have already put their money into it. It is such people as these on whom the future operation of the central depends.

Not many weeks ago somebody who is a main leader in a church not far from Clanton, asked for central service. The operator asked if they had paid their fees, and after a lengthy hesitation came the answer "yes." But the truth of the matter is that person had not paid then and has not paid yet. There are many such cases as this, which accounts for the fact that there are no funds to operate on.

Now, the thing has gone as far as it can this way. The matter is squarely up the phone-holders; if you want your phone company to continue to operate, you will have to pay up, otherwise further operation is impossible. What are you going to do about it? If anyone has a plan to offer, the board will be glad to listen to it at their meeting on April 4th. They will meet at the Union-Banner office at 1 o'clock, and they will be glad to have anybody interested to meet with them.

UNITED SINGERS MEET AT COLLINS CHAPEL SUNDAY

The regular monthly meeting place of the United Singing society last Sunday afternoon was Collins Chapel, and it is needless to make much further dissertation about the proceedings—our readers know what inevitably happens when a group of singers meet together at Collins Chapel. And if there was any exception Sunday it might be expressed in the words of Prof. Z. Y. Appleton, who acted as chairman: "This is the best afternoon singing we have had in a long time."

The service was called to order by Rev. Appleton at 2 o'clock, and prayer was offered by Mr. G. F. Harper of Thorsby. The chairman called on the following to direct lessons: T. E. Wyatt, Burl Martin, W. L. Sanders, Jesse C. Jones, M. B. Campbell, W. G. Culp, Floy Devaughn, A. H. Glasscock, T. E. Martin, E. L. Glasscock. The closing song was sung by Rev. Appleton, and the benediction offered by Rev. Mabry. Pianists were Miss Giula Collins and Mr. W. G. Culp.

According to announcement, the Clanton Quartet was there and filled up quite a bit of space on the program, but taking up room was not all they did. Their rendictions were mighty well produced and received with appreciation by the class and audience.

It was announced that it was reasonably certain the United Singing Society would not meet next Sunday after noon at their regular meeting place but would give their members a chance to attend the Easter singing at Poplar Springs which will be held all day.

BOYS IN JAIL

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow us a small space in your paper. We are prisoners of The Chilton County Jail and we wish to thank our friends and relatives for their kindness and gifts they have brought us, and we also wish to thank our Sheriff, Mr. Gillespie, for the courtesy he has shown us and especially do we thank the good people of the Foursquare Church, for their interest they have taken in us. The prayers and talks they have brought to us each week, we appreciate these visits and hope they will be rewarded. We only wish there were more of these kind of people. Signed.—The White Prisoners.

CLOTHES FOR THE NEEDY

Relief committees of the ladies of Clanton were busy Wednesday morning sorting out clothing that has been brought for distribution to the destitue in the storm sections of the county.

A vacant building in Clanton has been requisitioned for this purpose, and a generous spirit among our people everywhere has filled it with clothing of every kind.

REV. J. ROBERT BEAN WILL PREACH AT FRIENDSHIP

Rev. J. Robert Bean will fill his regular appointment at Friendship church next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. The night services will begin at 7 o'clock, and the Sunday morning services at 11, following Sunday school. As per order at conference last meeting time, the church will go into conference at every Saturday night service, if for no other reason, it may be on permanent record that church and preaching services were held. Anyone referring to the minutes in the future may be informed of this fact.

The Central Singing Society would have met with us Sunday afternoon, but for the annual Easter singing at Poplar Springs. They will skip us on this round for this reason, we are sorry to report.

All people in reach are invited to attend preaching services. There will be nothing said or done that will hurt you. Bro. Bean talks pretty straight sometimes; but if you hear him, you will feel better after he has had his say, even if he does touch you up a little. Try and arrange to attend one or all of these three services.

MR. LITTLEJOHN SPOKE SATURDAY

Candidate for Commissioner Addressed Voters At Courthouse

Rev. E. H. Littlejohn, of Shoults, in Beat 7, spoke to a gathering of citizens at the courthouse in Clanton last Saturday afternoon, in the interest of his candidacy for County Commissioner of the Third District.

"The Pride of Chilton County," was the subject of the speaker. From this subject he expanded his remarks to cover some interesting phases of county politics and local government administration. Below we give a summary of his address:

"The pride of Chilton County is and should be its white citizenship of the genuine Anglo-Saxon race, who, according to some of the best historians of the world, trace their origin back to the lost ten tribes of Israel; and are found in greater numbers across the southwestern part of the United States than any other part of the world.

"Some of the characteristics of this people are freedom, liberty and justice. These principles, no doubt, were in part responsible for their dispersement in the Northern Kingdom, as outlined in the Bible.

"This being the case, Chilton County has her share of these noble people. She has more home-owners and stable citizens than most any part of the country, according to her population.

"God said to Moses, 'what is that in your hand?' Moses said, 'it is a rod.' God told him to cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent. God commanded him to take it up again, and it became a rod, the instrument that did rule the most haughty monarch by the mighty signs.

"So it is with this noble people of Chilton County who hold their ballots in their hands to cast intelligently for the governing of their county. But, unfortunately, if they have cast their citizenship aside, they might find themselves in the coils of a mighty political foe. I doubt if any man should ever go out and try to sew up or obligate the ballot of a free-born citizen of Chilton County. That is his birthright to use at his own discretion on the day of election. Every citizen should be intelligent enough to cast his own ballot, and should be left to feel free to do it. This, I think, would be safe and sound government.

"I have come to you in the interest of the Republican party and our noble citizenship, as I have outlined, genuine true service in whatever capacity my lot may be cast.

"Should you see fit to support me as Commissioner of the Third District, I shall be just as free to serve you as I am to speak in your interest and giving every interest entrusted to me watchful care, co-operating with the other county officials."

Mr. Littlejohn reports that he was delighted with the splendid audience which listened to his remarks, and was greatly pleased with the attentive manner in which they listened to his address.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Happy Easter greetings to all. Let us all rejoice on Easter day. It is the day that means more to us than any other day of the year. On that day we are called upon to think of the victory that Jesus won over death and the grave. Blessed be God. There is a life beyond this life.

We are rejoiced to have the Knight Templars with us in regalia dress next Sunday morning. They will occupy the center aisle, and will be guests of honor. We are inviting all who will, to come and worship with us on Easter day. There will be special music and a special message.

Our Sunday school meets at 9:45 a.m. Preaching at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The service on last Sunday night conducted by the Young People of the church, was a great success. The large crowd and the splendid program made the occasion a happy one.

Our orchestra, under the leadership of Mrs. Grady Broadhead, is a great asset to our church life. We are pleased to have Mr. and Mrs. E. E. McGraw as members of our church.

TINGLEY SPEAKS HERE

Rev. Tingley, the radio preacher of Birmingham, with his wife and a few friends, stopped over in Clanton last Saturday evening and spoke to a small crowd at the courthouse at 8 o'clock. Had it been known by more people, it is presumed that there would have been a much larger crowd present. Rev. Tingley is a mighty interesting lecturer. He has attracted wide attention on the air. He speaks daily over WBRC.

Word from Miss Madelyn Orr, who was operated on in Selma several days ago, says that she is improving and will be able to return the middle of this week.

J. H. JACKSON LETTER

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please permit me to say a few words in answer to the Man in the Moon of last week's issue. His discourse is very discouraging to we people who have been trying in our weak and humble way to explain the meaning of some of the prophecies. I think that when the public pays for a newspaper that they should be given at least one page to express their views on any subject.

I don't think there is any subject more essential to get before the public than prophecy that pertains to the present order of things. Sometime ago I read an article from a person who said no man knew anything about Revelations. That was only evidence that he knew nothing about them. Revelations is the most beautiful picture of all prophecy. After a person once gets a vision of them.

Now, back to the Man in the Moon, we read where God created two great lights. One he called the sun and one the moon. The sun was to rule in the day. The moon to rule the night. So we find that the revelator uses these two great lights as symbols in his prophecy. He says, "I saw a woman clothed, with the sun and the moon under her feet." Now friend catch this will you. The sun is a symbol of the light of the church, and the woman is the church, and the moon is the political or law face of the picture.

Now, Mr. Man in the Moon, you have your emblem very well placed. Now I get the interation of your discourse of last week this way: "Get out of here boys with this Bible stuff, this is a political house, and we are going to set a political table, and we only invite our political guests. When we people read we want political news, and not interpregation of prophecy, especially against our present order of things. Us poor mortals spelling for sympathy."

But oh, them all wise and immortals, prophet interpreters, they interpret bad things against us. May God help us all to be children of the day and not of the night. May God help us all to get out of the Moon and be clothed with the sun, and to be children of the day, that the sun rules. And keep the moon under our feet. I have enjoyed the letters written by others on the prophecy. But it looks now that the chance to see much more are getting dim. When it becomes boresome, its poor encouragement to ask for space, we may make mistakes, but Paul says, we that are strong ought to bear the infirmaties of the weak.

Now friends I shall discontinue to write any more through the Union-Banner in regard to the prophecy and the signs of the times, for the reason stated above.—Respectively, J. H. Jackson.

SINGING AT THE ALMSHOUSE

There will be a singing at the almshouse next Sunday afternoon, in the old books. We hope to see most of the old book singers in the county at this singing. Those old folks are in a helpless condition. They cannot go out and enjoy singings as others do. So I think every singer should make some sacrifice to get there. We hope to have West Chilton singing society with us at this date.—W. L. Sanders.

SPECIAL SESSION UNITY BAPTISTS

Will Be Held at Billingsley Baptist Church on March 25th

In response to a call of the State Baptist organization through its secretary, that all the Baptist churches in the state be called together in their respective Association in a one-day session between the 21st of this month and the 2nd day of April, 1932, the Executive Committee of the Unity Baptist Association has designated Friday, March 25, 1932, as the day on which to meet and the Baptist church at Billingsley, Ala., as the place to meet.

I, therefore, as moderator of the said Unity Baptist Association, hereby respectfully call upon all churches in said Association to immediately take the necessary steps to have delegates appointed to attend this meeting of the Association.

This is to be an inspiratonal meeting, and it is hoped that great spiritual blessings will come from same.

Delegates are to appointed, just as they are in our stated annual meetings, but there will be no reports to be made, as they are in our annual meetings.

It is expected of each delegate to carry lunches, that there may be no burden on any one church and community.

Churches that will not have regular preaching or business meeting between now and the 25th, of this month will please have a call conference at some suitable time between now and the 25th, and appoint the proper number of delegates to attend this meeting; and I call upon the clerks, deacons, and pastors of all churches to see that this is done and that each church has a good representation at the meeting.

Remember the time and place, on March 25th, 1932, at the Baptist Church in Billingsley, Ala.—Yours for the on-going of the Kingdom work, J. Z. Mims, Moderator.

MERCHANT KILLS PRATTVILLE MAN

Prattville, Ala., March 21—Opening fire without warning, K. W. Cook, 40, Prattville storekeeper, Monday shot and killed Cecil Dickinson, son of J. L. Dickinson, former Judge of Autauga County, Inferior Court, and wounded his brother, Bert Dickinson, in a shooting affray at Cook's market.

Deputy Sheriff C. O. Herrod, who witnessed the slaying, took Cook into custody and later entered a formal charge of murder against him.

Deputy Herrod said Dickinson was shot down as he entered the market, the full charge of Cook's shotgun striking him above the heart. As Dickinson fell, the officer said, he drew his gun but died before he could return fire.

Shortly afterwards, Bert Dickinson entered and again Cook fired, Deputy Herrod said, striking the youth in the hand and arm. His condition was not regarded as critical.

Officers investigating said they could assign no motive to the shooting.

BURTON HIGGINS FINISHED UNIVERSITY LAW COURSE

Mr. John Burton Higgins, who has been studying law at the University of Alabama, was a visitor with home folks in Clanton the past week. Mr. Higgins was very jubilant over the fact that he has now completed his law course, and has successfully passed the bar examination for the State of Mississippi.

He announces that he has formed a very satisfactory connection with a law firm in Jackson, Mississippi, where he will soon enter upon the practice of his chosen profession.

His many friends in Clanton rejoice with him, and wish that his future career may be cheerful, happy and profitable.

MORE THAN 200 HOMES HIT IN STORM AREA

Damage Ranges From Partial Destruction To Complete Devastation

SECOND STORM FOLLOWED PATH OF THE FIRST ONE

Six Killed and Many Homes Demolished Last Sunday In Lawley Community. Several Homes Destroyed Near Collins Chapel

The storm of last Sunday, the second within a week inflicted heavy damage at Lawley, just over the Bibb County line from Chilton. This community is adjoining the community of Shoults, where the storm of Monday night previous made wholesale desolation.

At Lawley Sunday the family of Eugene Adams were injured. Mr. Adams and his wife, Sadie Adams, and two children, James and Vera, were brought to Clanton by Spigener's ambulance. They were given treatment for their injuries at Central Alabama Hospital.

Emmett Lawrence and his wife were hurt but not seriously. They were given first aid treatment at a temporary aid station which the doctors and Red Cross relief workers established in a vacant store building at Lawley.

In the family of Walker Lawrence four out of six members of the family were killed. Mr. Lawrence and his daughter, Katherine, were placed on a train immediately after the injuries, and carried to Montgomery. The man died before the train reached Montgomery. The little girl, age 11 years, died in a Montgomery hospital Tuesday.

In the family of Walker Lawrence, Austin Lawrence, age 2, and Mrs. Jane Green, age 88, were killed instantly when the house collapsed. Dessie Lou Lawrence, age 9, and Mrs. Dessie Lawrence, age 38, were injured, but not seriously. They were treated at the first aid station, and remained in the community.

When the storm srtuck the home of Perry Hicks, he was killed instantly. Mrs. Willie Hicks, his wife, was seriously injured. She was carried in a passenger car to Selma and placed in a hospital. The three children of the Hicks family were injured, but not seriously. They were given treatment at the local aid station, and remained in the community. Mrs. Willie Hicks is the daughter of Charley T. Walker of Shoults, and a sister of Prof. Horton Walker, of the Chilton County High School.

Lurline Latham, a girl in the Lawley community, saw the funnel-shaped cyclone approaching. She was seized by cramp, and became unconscious at the appalling sight. When Dr. Dubose, of Maplesville, found her and made examination, it was determined that she had suffered a ruptured appendix as a result of her frenzy.

Mr. Elliot, of Selma, volunteer relief worker, with Pope Payne, Dr. DuBose, and Dr. Charles Parnell, left Maplesville for the Lawley settlement when they saw from Maplesville that another storm was passing throug that area. They arrived at Lawley just as the disturbance had passed that place. A local first aid station was set up in a vacant store building, where the doctors remained and treated the injured as fast as they were brought in.

Mr. Elliot reports that within an hour after the storm, all the injured had been found and given treatment. A passenger train on its way to Montgomery, was held for ten minutes until some of the most seriously injured could be placed aboard.

Ambulances from Clanton and Selma rushed into the neighborhood and carried out some of those who were more seriously injured.

The homes reported destroyed Sunday in the Lawley community were Eugene Adams, Walker Lawrence, Perry Hicks, Willie Heard, Dennis Lawley.

At Randolph, which is near Lawley, it was reported that the home of the Scott family on the G. A. Freeman place was destroyed, but none were killed or injured. Some damage was reported to have been done to the Ray home on the Cox place, but no injuries or deaths.

After the storm left the Randolph and Lawley communities, it followed closely in the path of the storm which happened less than a week before, striking in the Macedonia and Pleasant Grove communities. The home of the Aultman family on the Ben Glass place was destroyed; also

TENTS PROVIDED FOR HOMELESS

Important Phase of The Relief Work is Aided By The National Guard

Early in the morning of the first day after the sorm struck Chilton County, answering an inquiry from Jean Gore, of Clanton, Colonel Hartley A. Moon, head of the Alabama National Guard, advised the Chilton County Post of the American Legion that the National Guard would furnish all available tents in which to house the people temporarily in the storm-stricken area, and send a detachment of guardsmen to help erect them.

Under direction of Capt. R. D. Woodson, commander of the Legion here, a preliminary survey was made Tuesday morning, preparatory to locating the tents. Colonel Moon sent Capt. Hardy here with a detachment of his Selma Guard Unit, and all the tents that could be prepared.

The Alabama Highway Department detailed Milton Smith with one of the State road trucks to join in with the National Guard and the American Legion in the work of supplying and erecting tents.

By the time Capt. Hardy and his guardsmen arrived here with their tents, the American Legion detail had locations mapped cut, and the tents were put up at widely scattered places from one end of Chilton County to the other. It is 48 miles from where one tent stands in the Shoults community at Sam Moton's to where another stands in Stumps Hills at Posey Cleckler's. In between these two are more than a hundred others.

When the supply of army tents was exhausted, there were still many folks begging for them. The Alabama Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists came to the rescue by voluntarily offering about sixty tents which they had stored in their warehouse at Clanton. These were turned over to the Legion and were erected by the gurdsmen, legionaires, and highway crew, at places where temporary living quarters were needed most.

But alas, another trrible storm was coming. It arrived Sunday afternoon, and ripped its way right through the area where the tents had been erected. Most all of them were blown down, and many were torn into shreds. Monday moring the men went over the area in trucks, gathering up the fragments of the torn tents, and putting back into shape those that had been merely blown down.

The work of the National Guardsmen, the American Legion, and Milton Smith's road crew has done a great service to the relief of the homeless by their prompt and tireless work in supplying tents, cots, and blankets. In all they have put up over a hundred tents in which are living families whose homes were blown away by the furious storms.

PERMANENT REBUILDING PLANS ARE BEING MADE

Total Property Damage In Chilton County Is Estimated To Be More Than Four Hundred Thousand Dollars To Farms

Red Cross officials at the Birmingham central office speeded emergency relief into the new storm areas of Chilton and Bibb counties Sunday afternoon, while other workers, who have been here more than a week, continued their relief work and rehabilitation plans in the sections devastated by the storm of last monday.

By last Saturday the emergency relief work, under the direction of the Red Cross, and assisted by local workers, had been practically completed and organized in the first storm areas. Beginning with Sunday the survey to obtain accurate data on storm damage will proceed rapidly, and the study of individual cases to determine needs for permanent rehabilitation will go forward. The study and work of the Red Cross organization now passes from the mass consideration to the family unit basis.

The staff as completed contains workers of broad experience in tornados, floods, and other calamities. Some of them are veterans of the flood areas in Alabama of three years ago.

Investigation has revealed that the plight of the storm victims is more serious than was anticipated. Instead of exaggerating, the first reports underestimated the seriousness of the damage in Chilton County. Explorers into the back country during the time since the first storm, have uncovered additional cases of suffering, destruction, and privation.

It is announced that the Red Cross is holding workers in reserve that they may send additional help into the stricken areas if needed.

The permanent rehabilitation program of the Red Cross will involve the collection of a vast array of data concerning the conditions and circumstances of every family that suffered injury and loss of property in the storm stricken areas.

Investigations into the needs of the sufferers will be made by trained workers, and will be handled in the strictest confidence. Records of these investigations will not be made public under any circumstances.

No one will ever know the things that are recorded in these surveys except the Red Cross officials who are handling the cases. Local committees of citizens will act in an advisory capacity with the Red Cross workers, and they, likewise, will keep all information confided to them.

Our suffering people are advised to promptly furnish the Red Cross representatives all the information asked for. It will be kept confidential, and the promptness with which this information is completed will govern the measure of time required to get permanent rebuilding under progress in individual cases.

The work of the Red Cross in every phase of relief program has been marvelous. Its value can never be estimated. The workers who have come into the stricken territory have come as ministering angels to the suffering and distressed.

But our own home folks have done their part too. Our doctors, nurses, undertakers, town officials, county officials, all have dismissed everything but the storm relief since the first twister ripped through our county Monday of last week.

Relief headquarters were established at Clanton, Thorsby, Jemison, and Maplesville. Together with the Red Cross workers, a local citizen at every place was placed in charge for direction. These relief committees marshalled all forces and went about their work tirelessly, and have kept it up continously.

The second storm which came Sunday brought new disasters and new sufferers. These cases of damage were cleared out in an hour's time, and the injured were treated. Pope Payne and his crew from Maplesville, went into the Lawley settlement on the heels of the tornado. Reuben Foss and his crew from Thorsby were in the Macedonia and Pleasant Grove area in a few minutes. The ambulances from Clanton and Selma were there to carry the injured to first aid stations.

COUNTY PROVIDE DISASTER RELIEF

Commissioners Pledge Full Cooperation With Red Cross and Citizens

Whereas, a great calamity has recently befallen our county, and our people are now in the midst of great sorrow and hundreds are in dire need and distress;

And Whereas, the court of County Commissioners have been appealed to by many citizens desirous of aiding the distressed and suffering and there exists no legal authority to authorize a direct contribution to this cause;

And whereas, the officials of the National Red Cross have today been in conference with the Court of County Commissioners and other citizens of the county and the Red Cross outlined fully its procedure with reference to the relief plan and it was considered advisable and advantageous that the Court of County Commissioners follow the plan so outlined for the relief and rehabiltitation of our people in the devasted area.

Be it therefore Resolved, by the Court of County Commissioners that we urge our people to contribute to our stricken neighbors as liberally as possible through the Red Cross and other relief organizations administered to their needs;

Be it further resolved that the Court of County Commissioners pledge its support and active cooperation to the plans as outlined and we urge our unfortunate friends and neighbors to be as patient as possible under the circumstances that the resources available may be used to the advantage of those entitled thereto;

Be it further resolved that we sincerely thank our friends and neighbors in the adjoining counties and nearby cities of Birmingham, Montgomery and Selma for their heroic efforts and sacrifices in administering to the needs of our distressed and worthy citizens and especially do we thank the officials of our National Red Cross, the American Legion and its Auxiliary, the Boy Scouts and other organizations that so promptly came to our assistance.—L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate; J. E. Cobb, J. M. Mims, J. L. Burnett, A. P. Vinson, Commissioners.

ELMORE STORM ON LAST SUNDAY

A storm of cyclonic proportions swept across Elmore County Sunday afternoon crossing the river at Jordan Lake just north of the Jordan Dam plant of the Alabama Power Company.

An eye-witness reported that the writhing tornado struck the west bank of the lake a short distance from the power plant, bounded into the river, throwing up a huge pillar of water, rushed over to the east bank, where it uprooted a pine thicket, and then lifted from the earth with its burden of swirling trees.

L. C. Watts, of Montgomery, was in a motor boat half a mile above Jordan Dam, when the storm struck him. It gripped his boat and spun it like a top, throwing it into the water and carried off his outboard motor. Mr. Watts said he swam to the shore with much difficulty in the high waves. The boat was washed ashore and off again by the waves.

The destruction of several fishing camps on Jordan Lake were reported. Terrific rain and hail followed the storm. Widespread property damage was reported in the vicinity of the old State Farm.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

Elder Blossom Fills His Pintment at The Mt. Giliad Church (Col.)

On dis 4th Sunday, in March, 1932 Ah am gwyin to administer de ordinance ob Baptism to de fust candydate since Ahs been yoah pastor, an here we is at de waters edge jes as Ah nounced at de church two weeks ago. Ah am not gwyin to take no Tex, but jes read a fiew scriptures an den talk a little while. De fust Ah shall read is in de book ob Genesis, 1-9, "And God said let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place and let the dry lan appear," and it was so. Now Ah wants to talk bout dat jes a little. Dis scripture souns lak dat God intended fur us to dip all believers under de water, couse de whole worl wuz under de water. In udder words it wuz "Baptized," an dat word "Baptise" means to stick em under de water. So, befo de worl culd begin to function as a worl it had to be Baptized. Den mah Brudders, ain't dis a Baptist worl? Is you shamed cause you ain't a Baptist? Ah ain't, I am glad Ahm a Baptist, an glad Ise livin in a Baptist worl, an des lak dat dry lan apperd, des dat way will dis young girl appear frum under de water.

Now de nex scripture is foun in John 3-23, "An John also was Baptized in Aenon, near to Salim, be cauz there was much water there, an they came and were Baptized." Now de only thing Ah wants ter sa dat is, effen jes a little bit ob water woud do, why did John take his candydate to a place where dar wuz lots ob water? Takin dis scripture long wid de one above, dis worl couldnt function as a worl untill it come up outen de water, or atter it wuz Baptized, jes so it is wid dis candydate, an jes dat way it wuz wid Jesus. He didnt begin His ministery, or any ob His wurk till atter His Baptism. An He walked a long ways to be Baptized too.

Some sa sixty-three miles, do you kno? We is got lots ob good people in dis country whut aint functioning as Christians, des because da ain't ben Baptized. Ah knos a man whut is a good man, an is a grand daddy, whut clames to be a Christian, an wont jine de church an be Baptized. Now dem kin ob people cant function as Christians untill da jine de church an be Baptized.

De nex scripture is in Collosians, 2-12, "Buried with Him in Baptism wherein also ye are risen with Him through the faith ob de operation ob God, who hath raised Him from the ded." Now to take dis scripture in connection wid Romans, 6-4, which reads dis way, "Therefore we are buried wid Him by Baptism into death, that lak as Christ was raised up from de dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness ob life."

Now de question in mah mine is how is we gwyin to symbolize de burial ob de Lord in any other way, but to dip de candydates under de surface ob de water? Ah thinks Ah kno why some folks wont jine de Baptist Church. One old lady sed to me once, "Brudder Blossom, Ah woud quit mah church an jine yourn effen it wasnt fur one thing, an dat is dat Ah woud hab to go down in de water an be dipped under." Well, Ah says, what ob dat? an she sa, "jes think ob me climin outen de water wid mah cloes stickin tite to me." An Ah sa, Ah wouldnt mine bout de cloes stickin to me jes so Ah stuck tite to whut mah Lord sa fur me to do an dat Ah had ruther hab mah cloes stick to me jes a few minutes than to hab mah conscience stick me all de ras ob mah life fur refusin to be buried wid mah Lord in Baptism. An she sa "well Ah reckon Ah will sta where Ah is cause none ob mah people ever belonged to de Baptist Church."

So Ah feels lak dat effen we woud let um put on bathin suits, lots ob folks woud jine de Baptist Church, but Ah am dis way bout it, effen folks is satisfied wid some other way wy, dats dem, an Ah aint got a word to sa. Some folks sa dat Baptism is only an anser to a good conscience. Well, Ah will jes grant dat it is in order to gree wid em, but Ah think dat we shood anser dat good conscience in de same way dat our Lord did. An unbiased reading ob de new testamint will sholy teach dat he wuz dipped under de surface ob de water.

One ebenin las spring Ah wuz passin by a house an de man wuz out in de yard wid his hose-pipe an lettin de water go up in de air an den fall on de flowers, an Ah sa, "You is makin it rain is you boss? An he sa, no im Baptisin em. Now whut do you think ob dat? Effen you will look at 1st Peter 3-21, you will see dat de words, "Anser to a good conscience" is inclos in parenthesis, which means dat de sentence in which de words is foun is complete without it, an has de marks showin dat it is in parenthisis. De verse reads dis way, "The like figure whereunto even Baptism doth also now save us (Not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God by the resurrection of Jesus Christ.")

Now Ah will close an git ready fur de water. An atter de Baptism we will reassemble here at de water an extend de right han ob fellowship to de young sister. An Ah want evy member ob dis church to come forward an tak her by de han an tell her dat you is gwyin to help her to lib a Christian life an dat you is gwyin to prey fur her. Atter we gits through wid dat, Ah will read mah poem, an den we will be dismis.

Now let evy body come rite on an take her by de han, an dont nobody slite her. Now den, Ah thanks you all fur bein here, you will lissen while Ah reads mah poem.

Jesus's feets walked de way,
Fur evy body to go;
He came to earth fur de purpose
Ob man's road to show.

De road dat He maped out,
Leads rite down in de water,
An effen wes gwyin to follow Him,
Ah knos dat we all oughter,

So effen wes gwyin to follow Him,
An carry out His will,
Den we mus allways try
His righteousness to fullfill.

Now les stan an be dismis.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., March 28.—A South whose people will cease to be as good-mannered as they are now, a south in which more divorces will take place, and a South with plenty of labor troubles was the picture portrayed by Dr. W. F. Ogburn, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago and director of reseach for President Hoover's committee on social trends, in an interview here Sunday.

Dr. Ogburn said that mechanical inventions are to cause all of the social changes which are taking place and which are due to take place in the South. He said that it will not be long before there will be a mechanical cotton picker and a corn puller which will revolutionize agriculture in this section of the country.

"This rapid change will cause a great migration of negroes to the cities and northward. The small farmer will also leave the rural sections; this will probably mean technological unemployment, and would undoubtedly mean larger farms in the South.

"Two good cotton-pickers are already on the market. Before this machine will probably come the corn-puller. There has been demonstrated one which goes into an acre of corn and it comes out with the corn shelled."

Dr. Ogburn said that he believed that such a mechanical revolution in agriculture would be a good thing for the South. "There are too many farmers; it will not be long before one farmer will be feeding ten people. It will be a great thing for the South if you could persuade the farmers to leave the submargin lands where it is very difficult to maintain decent American standards of living.

"At present the South is the breeding ground for the United States. In the rest of the country there are not enough babies being born to replace the existing population. Shutting off the gates of immigration has meant expansion of migration from the South, both white and black. The mechanical corn-puller and cotton-picker would further accentuate this movement. The South is also being affected by invention in communication which is drawing it more closely to the remainder of the country."

University, Ala., March 28.—Forty members of the sophmore medical class at University of Alabama have already been granted entrance to many of the better four-year medical colleges of the country. They will enter next fall. These colleges include Harvard, Rush, University of Louisville, Bellvue Hospital medical college; Buffalo University.

The Southern regional committee of the Social Science Reseach council met here Friday and Saturday. Discussions included a proposal study of taxation in the southeast and comparative salaries and teaching loads of college professors in the north and south. Ten prominent university and college heads of the south were present for the latter conference last Saturday morning, March 26.

President George Denny told delegates to the annual convention of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments held here Thursday, Friday and Saturday that the presence of women on the campus had notably improved scolarship, life, and dances at the University.

Four of the chemical faculty attended the American Chemical Society meet at New Orleans March 28-April 1. They are Prof Jack Montgomery, James L. Kassner, and Geo. Palmer, and Miss Ruth Foust.

First Lieut. Arthur Pence, for the past four years assistant professor of military here, has been ordered to Vicksburg, Miss., to become assistant to the district engineer there. He will be succeeded by Lieut. Beverly Snow at Fort Humphrey, Va.

Lesson for March 27

JESUS RISES FROM THE DEAD

LESSON TEXT—John 20:1-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Conqueror.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loving and Serving the Risen Lord.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Fact and Meaning of the Resurrection.

I. The Empty Tomb (vv. 1-10).

John does not enter into a description of the resurrection of Christ or give any proof other than that the tomb was empty, and that Jesus had repeatedly manifested himself after the tomb was found empty. To see the body of Christ with a spear-thrust and nail prints and the empty tomb was all that faith needed.

1. The testimony of Mary Magdalene (vv. 1, 2). This woman, out of whom Jesus had cast seven demons (Mark 16:9; Luke 8:2), announced the fact of the empty tomb to Peter and John. Prompted by great love to him for his kindness to her, she went early to the tomb even "when it was yet dark."

2. Personal investigation by Peter and John (vv. 3-10). The news of the empty tomb which Mary brought with breathless haste so moved John and Peter that they both ran to investigate. When John came to the empty tomb, he gazed into it, but when Peter came he entered it. This investigation convinced them of the reality of the resurrection. The removal of the stone from the sepulchre, the arrangement of the grave clothes, convinced them that the enemy could not have done this.

II. The Manifestations of the Risen Lord (vv. 11-29).

1. To Mary Magdalene (vv. 11-18).

a. Mary weeping at the empty tomb (v. 11). Peter and John went home, but Mary could not. She stood weeping. Home was nothing to her while her Lord was missing. Earnest love need not to weep long for Jesus is found of those who love him. She should have been rejoicing that the grave was empty, for the empty tomb was eloquent proof of his messiahship and deity.

b. Mary questioned by the angels (vv. 12, 13). Through her tears, she saw angels at the tomb, who inquired as to the cause of her sorrow.

c. Jesus revealed himself to Mary (vv. 14-16). She first saw the angels and then her eyes lighted upon the Lord. She did not recognize him in his resurrection body, but his voice was familiar to her. As soon as he called her by name, she recognized him and fell at his feet weeping.

d. Jesus forbade her to touch him (v. 17). This showed that she was coming into a new relationship to him.

e. Mary's testimony (v. 18). She told the disciples that she had seen the Lord.

2. To the disciples (vv. 19-29). He appeared to several of his disciples at different times during the day. This is the first appearance to the disciples as a body. The rumors of his several appearances on that day caused the disciples to assemble to talk over the matter. For fear of the Jews, they met in a private room and barred the door. While they were discussing the strange happenings of the day, the Lord mysteriously appeared to them.

a. When Thomas was absent (vv. 19-23).

(1) His message of peace (v. 19). This revealed his attitude toward them. He did not come with censure for their failure and desertion.

(2) He showed his hands and his side (v. 20). Having calmed their fears, he gave them unmistakable evidence of his resurrection.

(3) He commissioned them (v. 21). "As my Father hath sent me even so send I you." This commission was not simply to a class, as the eleven, but to all Christians (Luke 24-33).

(4) He bestowed the Holy Spirit upon them (v. 22). This was their equipment. Only as empowered by the Holy Ghost can one go forward as a successful witness for Christ.

(5) The disciples' authority (v. 23). This authority was not by virtue of office, but by virtue of having the Holy Ghost. This spiritual gift gave spiritual discernment to know who had or who had not repented and consequently to pronounce pardon or withhold it.

b. When Thomas was present (vv. 24-29).

(1) The victory of sight and touch (vv. 24-28). The Lord graciously supplied the evidence which Thomas needed. The Lord does not rebuke those who sincerely seek light.

(2) Greater blessing for those who believe, not having seen (v. 29).

Editor Union-Banner:

I desire a short space in your paper to say a few words in regard to Mr. C. L. Wilkins, who is asking for a place on the school board of Chilton County.

ANNUAL EASTER SINGING

Sunday being Easter, it was the day for the annual singing at Poplar Springs. Owing to the unsettled weather and the recent storm, there were not nearly so many there as always are, though there were many good singers present and the singing was fine.

In times of trouble and disaster like there has been all over the state for the past week, people are not in the spirit for singing, though that should be the time that we should praise God for sparing the remainder of us.

The singing was called to order about 10:00 by Prof L. T. Grant, who sang one song. Officers were then elected for the day. L. T. Grant was elected chairman and Gladys Wilson, secretary. A committee consisting of W. M. Devaughn, W. H. Wilson, and J. B. Hammond was elected.

The following directors sang two songs each:

Dr. J. B. Williams, Everettt Devaughn, J. B. Hammond, W. M. Devaughn, O. L. Devaughn, C. F. Hull, John M. Dye, and Prof. Shirley from Birmingham. This brought them to the noon hour, adjourned for one hour and twenty minutes for dinner, during which a bountiful dinner was spread and which every body enjoyed.

About one o'clock the singers were called back by the chairman, who sang one song. The directors for the afternoon were: Lee J. Grant, N. A. Smith, O. L. Devaughn, John M. Dye, J. B. Hammond, C. F. Hull, Ralph D. Grant, and W. M. Devaughn. Several quartets were arranged in the afternoon by Prof. W. M. Devaughn. Pianists for the day were: Misses Bartie Grant, and Violet Hammonds, Prof. John M. Dye, and C. F. Hull.

We are sorry the entire Clanton Quartet could not be with us, though others were substituted and many good songs were rendered, which were enjoyed by all. The crowed was small in number but large in voice. Everybody come back next Easter and maybe the weather will be better and all the storms over.—Gladys Wilson, Sec'y.

A REPLY TO MR. J. H. JACKSON

Dear Mr. Jackson:

We, the readers of The Union-Banner, would like to know just what you see wrong with the letters of The Man in the Moon.

I think that The Man in the Moon is doing some good writing. I am a long ways from Chilton County, and never get my Union-Banner until Saturday, and sometimes Monday, but when I do get it, the first thing I look for is The Man in the Moon, and when I have read everything else in the paper and have nothing to read, then I read the letters of Mr. Jackson, and then burn it up.

There are some other good writers that always have a letter in our paper. Mr. Jackson, why do you always pick on The Man in the Moon? It is a wonder that you wouldn't give Mr. Man in the Moon a break and pick on the Man on the Corner, he is a good writer too. There is only one thing that I can see wrong with The Man in the Moon, he don't write enough. Hoping that this does not go into the waste-basket. I will sign off. — A nonesome lad from Baltimore, Maryland.

SWEET MUSIC

JACK PAYNE

JACK PAYNE and his Orchestra, playing from London, will be heard throughout the United States on Tuesday evening, April 5th, when they are introduced to American listeners, from New York, as one of the features of the Lucky Strike Dance Hour, by Walter Winchell. Beginning at 10 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, Jack Payne's Orchestra, which is one of the most popular both in London and on the Continent, will be heard over a nationwide NBC network, sharing the hour's dance program with the American favorite Joe Moss and his Orchestra.

It will be the second time that the sponsors of these popular broadcasts have gone to the Prince of Wales' home town. Walter Winchell's "Okay London" introduced Jack Hylton, from the same city, three months ago and the broadcast of April 5th promises to be equally exciting and the music equally distinctive.

ELLIS MIMS WRITES IN FAVOR OF DEVAUGHN

To the Republican voters of Chilton County, Alabama:

Mr. O. L. Devaughn, a neighbor of mine, is a candidate for commissioner of the fourth district and I want to make an appeal to you voters to vote for him.

He is the type of man that we need for commissioner. He is a farmer and has made a success of his own business, and I am sure that if he is elected, that he will make a success of the county's business. He has had experinece in road building, so the work as commissioner will not be new to him. He is also a loyal Republican and has always stood by our ticket.

I have known him the forty-one years of his life, and have always found him to be truthful, honest, and upright in all his dealings. I believe that if we nominate and elect Mr. Devaughn that we will have a commissioner that our party will be proud of.

OUR COUNTRY ROADS

The writer has had a revelation of one thing in particular since the storm-relief work has been in progress in Chilton County. This reference is to the rural country roads.

Everybody has literally been everywhere, and there has in every place been a good road where you could make as much speed as your nerves could stand.

Our good roads have been one of the greatest blessings in facilitating the work of relieving the suffering. On the fatal night of Monday, March 21, when the dead and injured were being brought out of the devastated area, in spite of the downpouring floods of rain, traffic was maintained over our roads in the backwoods as well as the highways. The only obstruction was trees and demolished buildings in the roads.

Our county road working crews were the vanguard of relief operations on Tuesday morning. By noon Tuesday one could take his automobile and penetrate the deepest corners of the county. The logs and trees were cleared from the roads in record time.

This is the conclusion: If the people of Chilton County are not proud of our rural roads and satisfied with them, it would indeed be an interesting flight of fancy to know just what they would ask for and be satisfied with.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

It goes without saying that the past two and a half years have been anything but pleasant for at least ninety-eight per cent of the American people when we examine this thirty months period from the financial standpoint. Practically everyone has taken a loss of some sort or another. As one man put it to the writer the other day: "If you had anything in 1929, and still have it, then you have lost money." This is a broad statement but one which is pretty generally true. Real estate, securities, commodities, all have shunk in value during the past three years.

And so, if we fail to give the matter a sufficient amount of philosophical thought, we are apt to come to the conclusion that our lot, in these days of 1932, is about the hardest of any in the history of the country. Of course this is a pessimistic exaggeration. The United States has ridden safely through a number of depressions, some of them as bad as the one we are now going through. Moreover our method of living and our standards of living are so high today, that the comforts and conveniences of the average man, on a small salary, would have appealed to the rich as luxries a few generations ago, even if they had been obtainable at any price. The lighting and heating of our homes, our fine highways and hospitals, are a few examples.

Those of us who cannot be convinced that times have ever been harder in the United States than at the present, should study the life and writings of George Washington, whose bicentennial birth year is now being observed. The terrible handicaps he had to overcome make our present day difficulties seem trifling. Some time ago Alexander Brin, chairman of the Program Committee of the Massachusetts George Washington Bicentennial Commission, in an address summed up some of the hardships which the founder of the nation had to undergo. Some of the things worth repeating, in Mr. Brin's address follow. Read them and then thank fortune that your lot is not as hard as was that of George Washington.

"A knowledge of the trials and tribulations of Washington will make Americans realize the folly of under-valuing our own country, of growing impatient with American progress and of losing confidence in America's destiny. Washington's courageous and steadfast devotion against unexampled odds, his belief in the possibilities of the American Republic, are a challenge to us today.

"From Washington's own diary and letters we learn that in the years when he led his country in the battle for independence, that even the troops under his command were dispirited and dissatisfied and in some cases were in mutiny; that the currency issued by the Congress had lost all its value; that there were no funds with which to pay the soldiers; that the army was lacking in food supplies, ammunition and thansportation facilities. In early spring of 1781 the Continental currency was worth only a fraction of its face value. For example a $500 bill was worth but one cent. One had to pay $75 for a simple breakfast. In May of the same year this currency ceased to have any value. No one would accept as payment any note or bond issued by authority of Congress. Even the troops would accept nothing except gold or silver, and that could be had only on the credit of individuals. The government could get nothing on its credit. Within less than one month before the surrender at Yorktown, Congress was advised that if provisions were not immediately forthcoming it would be necessary to disband the whole army. It is in times like these that Washington's greatness was tested to the limit.

"Only a passionate rekindling of the spirit of America as Washington understood it can give power to the western republic as the champion of that which is worthy in human life. As the guide and preceptor of a floundering world, we are the only abiding hope of the modern world, the bulwark of human progress, the most perfect embodiment of political idealism that this world has known."

The progress of the World Court resolution seems to be somewhat delayed by the riddle: "When is a reservation not a reservation?"

If we ever get prosperous again we are going to take out some depression insurance.

It is said that the world disarmament conference at Geneva will continue until the delegates can find some good excuse for postponing the gathering for a few years.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

Job was a religious, prosperous and happy man. There was none like unto him in his day. The devil charged that Job was being hedged about and protected by God, and that he was serving God for pay. A tornado swept his whole family away, his possessions went and he himself came down to sickness and suffering. "In all this Job sinned not." In his desolation he said, "The Lord hath given and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord." The Master said that the rain and the sunshine would come to "The just and the unjust alike." As we look over the wreck and ruin of the recent tornado, we can not understand. It came to the just and unjust and both alike suffered. After all, it is not the attitude that the tornado assumed toward us that hurts, but it is our attitude toward God because of the storm that will bring to us untold injury. If we are serving God for pay then we feel that we have had a raw deal, but if we are serving Him because we love Him, then we will join in with Job and say: "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord." All things work together for good to us if we love God.

Three hours after the tornado had done its worst, a truck was slowly wending its way over a country road. In trying to get by rubbish in the road, the rear wheel slipped into a ditch. The driver stopped his engnie, and got out to see what his trouble was. He heard the faint cry of a little child some distance out in a field. He left his truck and went in search of the lost babe. He found it sitting on the ground, weeping in the darkness. It was a mile from its home, and for days no one knew to whom it belonged. Tell me not that God did not hear the cry of that babe. It's pitiful appeal was heard in heaven, and God sent his angels down to push that truck into the ditch at that point, so that the driver would hear the cry of the babe and go to its rescue. Such things as that are not mere happen so. There is an eye in heaven that never slumbers, and there is a heart that beats with everlasting love, and that great One will ever take care of his own. God sent that man that way, and he had conditions arranged so that the cry of the babe could be heard.

I was out in search of cases in need, and I came to where a home was before the storm. A tent had been erected on the ground, and the owner of the property was under that tent, putting down flooring, preparing to bring his family together again. Like a hero he was working alone, preparing to go on in spite of his loss. He told me that he had lost his earthly home but that he had a home where moth and rust, where storms and tornados would never come, and that he was going to do his best to serve God in fidelity until he was called to live on high. How uncertain are these things that we have down here. One day we have health and the next we are flat of our backs in sickness. One day we are happy, the next we are in tears. One day our homes seem secure, the next we are splintered and are thrown to the winds. It behooves all of us to make plans for another world. Put your trust in God and heaven, and not in the things of this world.

Uncle John stood by the scattered remains of his home at Lomax. He had come from back in the day of slavery, carrying the name of his old master. In his own way he told how suddenly he and his family were in danger. I asked of him, "Uncle John, did you have time to pray when you saw the twister coming?" The old darkey looked away to the woods and replied, "No, Sah, Boss, it was done da, and there was no time to pray." Scores of lives were snuffed out without even a moment in which to pray. How necessary it is that we stay prepared to meet God all the time. We should so live as to be prepared at any moment to go. Keep your grip packed and then if the train blows at noon or at midnight, all you will have to do will be to climb aboard and go on that long journey.

In les than twenty minutes after the demon of the air had dealt his fatal blow, the phones were ringing, and automobiles were flying in every direction. Rescue work was in full swing, and in a few hours sympathetic hearts were relieving suffering and housing the homeless. We sometimes think that folks are rather selfish, but when there is a real need, we forget classes and clanishness, and reach out our hands to assist. The automobile is a great blessing, as well as a great curse, in this, our age. If it had not been for the rapid means for scattering news and transporting the suffering, the tragedy would have been more fatal than it was. Now that we know the good of the automobile, we should certainly use them to carry us to God's house on Sunday, and not off on trips of pleasure.

While I am writing this the sun is shining and the birds are singing. There seems to be a voice echoing in nature, "Be still and know that I am God." Yes, the storm is over, and now we have time to be still and meditate. I am wondering if our people are going to continue to live as they have been living. It is time for all of us to stop and think. You had better give up your ways of sin, you had better find your place in the worship of the sanctuary, you had better snap out of your indifference, and prepare to meet God.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

After the Storm—During a period of calm and serene existence, it is all right for people to have their little differences—that is only natural, and to be expected. Everybody can't see things alike, and nobody can blame the other fellow for having his own opinion in certain matters. But it made me feel good to see the unselfish way in which our people fell in line to help these victims of the storm last week. Of course, it was a matter of duty, but the call of duty is not always responded to as quickly and unselfishly as was the case last week. Rich and poor, great and small, skilled and unskilled, all seemed to forget everything but the fact that, really, we are all brothers, and found their respective places and helped all they could. Without thought of recompense, doctors, nurses, pharmacists, ambulance drivers and helpers, people in all walks of life responded wonderfully. One instance I noted in particular, gives an idea. A certain man, (he lives in Clanton,) is very proud of his fine automobile. It is a nice one, and I believe, in normal times, he would walk across the street to flick a speck of mud from its shining coat. But on Monday night that pretty automobile was driven from its nice dry garage and put into the thick of service, to bring in the dead and dying, where they might be found. After a few trips, you could hardly tell the color of that car, the mud was that thick on it. Somebody mentioned this to the owner, and here is his answer: "I am glad that I can be of service. Without boasting, I wish to say that when I become so stuck up, and so careful of my possessions that I will not put them into the service of my fellow man when they are needed, I hope somebody will remind me that I have become a parasite instead of a citizen. Let that car do what it can, tonight; I will have it looked after later." And with these words he rushed away, helping wherever he could. As long as our people still possess this kind of spirit, we can rest assured that our civilization and citizenship is sound and conscientious. May it remain so, forever.

Fading Out—Have you ever tuned in on your radio early in the morning, while the air is still cool, and the full force of the sun's rays have not yet been felt? If so, you will have noticed that the reception is exceedingly strong. And, then, as the sun rises, and its heat begins to beat down, reception becomes weaker and weaker, finally dwindling away to nothing, particularly with the weaker stations. In fact the weaker stations are the ones which fade away, altogether. The strong ones may weaken to some extent, but never completely fade out. I think this is a pretty good parallel to the ideas and contentions of people. Notice it when you please—a person whose ideas are well founded and will do to bank on, will find that when the searchlight of public opinion is turned on them, though they may weaken, they will never finally be squashed, but rather gather force and power until they become the whole show. On the other hand, other ideas, fully as strong in the beginning as those mentioned above, are really weak at the bottom, and, as the searching finger of the light is brought into play, they lose their force, little by little, until they are completely burned out to nothing.

"Facticns" And "Fractions"—I noticed an article signed by Charles Cooper,, Mt. Creek, in last week's paper, in which he ran the gamut in queer words from "bally-hoo" to "red headed step-children." In fact, that article is so twisted up until I don't believe the author, himself, knows just exactly what he wants to know—one thing I am quite sure of, and that is if he does know what he wants, he is the only one who does—one would be unable to tell, from his article, just who he wanted to write to or about, or what he wanted to say to them or about them. In short, I think he should have headed his article thus: "To whom it may concern, in regard to this, that, and the other, or what have you?—or sump'n." Let's look the harangue over. If there are factions, probing in them will only tend to widen the space between them. And I don't believe chickens and politicians are the only things that culling would help—"scatterloads" cover lots of immediate territory, but don't get very far—and that letter was a scatterload if I ever saw one. And I don't believe so many people want the candidates to specify just what ditch they will fill up, either—we elect men to these jobs to use their brains, and a candidate who would set himself a job of marking off any certain ditches to be filled or opened might finish the job just in time to find that they had spent some very valuable time trying to do something that very few would take interest in. Now, as to people signing other folks' letters, as a matter of fact, that letter reads like it might have been written by somebody with a relapsed case of chronic gripes. Now, in conclusion—if you were to go for a drink of water, you wouldn't drink from the first old mud-hole you found. Would you? No! You would hunt around until you found a nice, clean spring or well. In other words, you would consider the source from which you would take your drink. Well, folks, in this sad vale of tears, things have come to the point where you have to consider the source of nearly everything you see, hear, or read about. Govern yourself accordingly.

A Democratic Victory in the Air—Not very many mornings since, I picked up a morning paper, and right up on top of the front page was a big scare-head: "Democratic Victory In the Air." I wouldn't doubt it, not a bit. To tell the bare truth, that's where most Democratic victories are to be found—you don't hear of so many of them ever coming down where we can examine them. It's been so long since the Demmies won a national election that most school children have to go to their history books to find the exact date. We hear of them being "in the air" every now and then, but some way or another they have a habit of staying up there, or landing off somewhere where nobody ever knows what becomes of them. Maybe that's what causes all the storms—the scientists tell us that these storms are caused, in part, by hot air. And I wouldn't doubt that, either. The surplus hot air that has been popped off, spewed out, etc., by different institutions over the country is enough to start nearly anything.

Au Revoir—According to an announcement by Mr. J. H. Jackson in last week's issue of The Union-Banner, he has brought to a close a series of "lectures" on the Bible. It seems that he took offense at the way I wrote concerning these "lectures." As usual, he got all tangled up in his construction of the article. It seems he got the idea that the article in question was written for his benefit, alone. He shouldn't have flattered himself so. That article concerned a big flock of so-called "lecturers," "exhorters," and the like—but you know how things like that go—when you shoot into a flock of birds, "the hit bird falls." And there the matter rests. I can't be responsible for him putting himself in shooting range. In bidding Mr. Jackson a fond farewell, and bowing him out of the picture, I would like to call my readers' attention to the way some people consider the matter. I would like for you all to turn to a letter, printed elsewhere in this paper, and written to Mr. Jackson through this medium, which says in part: "Mr. Jackson—why do you always pick on The Man in the Moon? It is a wonder you wouldn't give Mr. Man in the Moon a break." That is only part of the letter. I will be glad to have you read it all. Well, so long, Mr. Jackson—I'll meet you over at the bird-thrashin', where you can explain every prophecy there is, while we scramble through the sawbriars and sumach bushes together.

Glimpses—A large crowd on the corner—looks like a candidate putting in a word—no, they're talking storm pits. Judge Tate adjourns court for this term—says folks in Chilton County have many things to do which are more important than court. Everywhere I go I see storm pits—new ones—lots of them. And that makes me think—I believe I'll dig one for myself.—Man in the Moon.

THE GREATEST DISASTER IN OUR COUNTY'S HISTORY

Chilton County is sorely wounded by the greatest calamity that has ever been visited upon us. The forces of death, suffering, and destruction have laid waste a wide strip thirty-odd miles long, through the entire length of our domain.

More than fifty of our citizens have been buried as a result of the tornadoes of Monday, March 21, and Sunday, March 27. More than two hundred happy, comfortable homes have been wrecked by all stages of destruction from partial damage to total obliteration from the face of the earth. Hundreds of people are groaning under severe physical injuries. Such is the picture of our material situation following this major disaster.

Mentally and spiritually, our people are aroused as never before. We have had to come home to us for the first time such a grave situation as only we have read about in other places in the past.

The people in the stricken area have been dazed and torn up so badly that it will require months for them to get back to their normal ways. The hearts and means and resources of all others everywhere, both inside the county and throughout the State and Nation are bent toward one purpose, to reestablish the equilibrium and comfort, to relieve the distress and suffering of the victims of the storm. And be it said as we pass that Chilton County is not alone in this crisis. Many other counties in Alabama and other Southern States are in the same catagory right now.

From the first moment possible after the storm every person and every means has been busy in the effort to recover the losses and repair the damages. Locally, throughout the State, and even from the the far corners of our country, have come every possible means of assistance

It is useless to try to single out any person or any agency that has risen above the other in the effort to bring relief. Likewise is it useless to try to enumerate them. The situation can be covered correctly in saying that everybody, even the sufferers themselves, have shown the most hearty and ready response to meet the needs of this grave hour.

Organized emergency relief has been established. Effectual and praiseworthy work has been done. Volunteer work has been noble and plentiful. It will continue. Permanent rehabilitation will be accomplished before the task is left.

Out of their agony, suffering, and privation, the people of the storm stricken area of Chilton County are grateful for the assistance that has been rendered by many unknown friends elsewhere.

We in the county who were spared the terrors of this mighty force of destruction, are likewise grateful for the sympathetic and valuable assistance that has come to these people, our neighbors.

Chilton County has been sorely hurt. But we look beyond the dark horizon to that bright and happy day when we shall have cleared away the wreckage of the disaster of 1932, and re-established our injured in comfortable situations, and helped them back to a life of peaceful and profitable pursuits.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

A Good Joke, As Usual

Rev. F. A. Gibson, of Pleasant Grove, stopped a minute with me on the corner Tuesday. I knew I was in for a good joke. He never fails. Here it is:

Bishop Anderson, of the Mthodist Church, went to Mobile one time. When he got off the train he asked a negro to tell him the way to the First Methodist church. The negro, somewhat puzzled, scratched his bare, wooly head, and said, "Boss, I declare I hardly knows whar at dat particklar church."

Another negro nearby, who recognized Bishop Anderson, came up and inquired, "Boss, what is it you wants to know?"

The reply to his question came from the first negro: "Dis gennemun wants to know whar at de Fust Meffolis Church."

"Dis white man ain't no gennemun," informed the second negro, "he is Bishop Anderson of de big white folks Meffolis Church, whar at is right down dis street three blocks, and on de next street two blocks to de left."

This was such a good one, declared Rev. Gibson, that Bishop Anderson had to tell it on himself.

Some Day, This Easter

Easter Sunday of 1932 will go down in history as the most distracting time in the life of Chilton County. The whole country was alive with visitors from far and near to view the terrible wreckage of the storm that passed over the country on Monday before. And to cap the climax, a second storm swept over the same area, catching hundreds of visitors in its wake. They came to see what a storm could do, and they actually saw one do its stuff. The fear and trembling that was caused by the second storm was awful. People were uneasy, terrified, and almost resigned to accept the worst fate imaginable. They had seen what the other storm did, and they had but to look to the southwest to see another one coming.

Counted the Automobiles

Uncle Jim Mims was at Jack Robinson's in Jemison, last Sunday afternoon. Automobiles were passing back and forth thick and fast, bearing visitors to and from the storm area. Mr. Mims decided to check up on them for a while. He held the watch exactly 60 minutes and counted 475 passing automobiles. It was that way all day long, both to the north and south of the storm area. You can imagine about what such a day meant.

You Just Wait, Charley

Charley Cooper, the political bombshell of last week's paper, was in to see me Tuesday. He was having a barrell of fun over the letter which he wrote last week. He said he didn't think we would publish it. That's all right now Charley. We have been here long enough for our political hide to get purty tough. But you just wait. Your time is coming. When we get some of this storm emergency business out of the way, we will "tend" to you, as Uncle Jim Grant used to be accustomed to saying when somebody got a political skinning.

Will Build Chimneys

While Mr. Cooper was here Tuesday he told me to say to the folks in the storm area that he would rebuild some brick chimneys for them if they were in need of his services, free of charge. "I haven't any money I can give," he said, "but I will make some donations in that way." If you know of somebody who is in need of a chimney being built, sick him on to Charley Cooper. Just write him at Mt. Creek, and tell him when and where you want it built.

The Latham Family at Stanton

One of the odd occurences of the storm was at the home of Jack Latham, near Stanton. In the family were Mr. and Mrs. Latham and nine children. When the home was completely demolished and blown away, the father and mother and the five oldest children were killed outright. They were all buried the same day at Ebenezer. The four young children were seriously injured and carried to a hospital in Selma. On the day of the burial, word came from the hospital that two others of the children were dying, and graves were dug for them. They did not die, however, and the two graves were filled with earth as the graves of the father, mother and five older children were closed.

Digging Storm Cellars

It is reported that many people in Chilton County are digging storm cellars as a precaution against the ravaging of cyclones. Not a bad idea, I think. Seems to me I would feel better if I knew I had a good safe hole to get in when the next one comes.

STORM DAMAGE THORSBY AREA

Official Summary of Storm Effects in Thorsby District, including Easter Sunday Storm

Thorsby district, dead 13, injured, 57, houses totally destroyed, 44, partially destroyed 20. Easter Sunday storm, Commie Collins and Dalton Martin, home's destroyed near Collins Chapel; seeing the twister coming, they ran a short distance and all escaped injury. A Mr. Tubbs was killed and a child injured at Pleasant Grove. In the negro settlement west of Thorsby, an old negro and his wife, who lost their home in Monday's storm, had been given a tent and some supplies, the Sunday twister visited them again, wiping out everything they had and blew the wife some distance, she was considerably bruised but not seriously injured. They were given a new stock of provisions.

Hundreds of people came from miles around to see the devastated area Sunday, and many Thorsby citizens watched its progress, some were uncomfortably near its path and only escaped by "stepping on the gas."

While the force of the pendant part of the cloud was terriffic, it's progress was slow, so that sprinting autos could, and did, outrun it, several times it very accomodatingly changed it's course, greatly to the relief of terrified spectators, who knew of no way to escape. Among these were Rev. and Mrs. Each, Rev. Fred P. Ensminger, and Marcell Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Gray and guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Colley, of Prattville, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Gray and family of Wadsworth, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin with Peggy Mims and their visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Jones and son, Charles, Miss Ethel Riley, Mr. Riley of Greenville and Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway of Clanton. There were probably others of Thorsby who had joined the sightseeing throng whose names we did not get, who had an exciting race with the destroyer.

The following, former residents of Thorsby, paid visits to friends here to see for themselves the results of the storm from Birmingham: Miss Anna Werniss; R. A. Turner and son Harris; James Kincaid; the Langvilles; the John Johnson family; Arnold Soberg; Mrs. Anna Phalin and son Thomas, who brought witn them Mrs. Kent and daughter, Lois, of Tuscaloosa; Dr. Frank Smith and wife; Yancey Kelley and a brother, of Andalusa; Mr. and Mrs. Reno S. Villadsen, of Aldrich; Miss Bertha Littleton; Mrs. Herbert Peterson; came from Birmingham to attend the funeral of Mrs. Walter Littleton, a storm victim.

Mrs. Foster and Miss Laird have arrived from Red Cross Headquarters, in Washington, D. C., to take charge of Red Cross relief and rehabilitation in Chilon County. Mrs. Foster will be in general charge at the Clanton office, while Miss Laird gives personal attention in the relief station at Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Moody and Miss Mary Ella Gerald, came down Saturday afternoon and took Mrs. Moody's mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, home with them Sunday to spend several days.

Aunt Lucy Pate, of Pates Chapel, who was a storm vicim and aslo very old is not making a very rapid recovery, has been brought to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pate in Thorsby, where she will receive loving care.

Mrs. F. E. Jenkins, of LaGrange, Georgia, on learning of the storm hastened to her daughter, Miss Helen C. Jenkins in Thorsby, Tuesday of last week, hoping to be of use or help.

For the week end, Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland, of Piedmont College at Demorest, Georgia, came with her auto, bringing former students of Thorsby Institute, now in college at Demorest, Miss Katherine Foss, Miss Doris Freeman, and Byron Bean, all of whom returned with Mrs. Loveland Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Jenkins, whom they left at her home in LaGrange.

Mr. A. N. Laurell went to Birmingham Sunday, and his wife was alone in their storm shattered home during the Easter Sunday excitement.

Mr. I. N. Gibbons, of El Dorado, Arkansas, arrived Tuesday if last week to attend the funeral of his grand mother, who was killed in the tornado last week. Mr. Gibbons left this section about eight years ago, and was greatly surprised at the improvements developed in Thorsby since he left.

THORSBY FRUIT GROWERS

Mr. Foss says that all members should get to work as soon as possible to prepare for growing vegetable crops for market, such as string beans.

He urges everybody to be careful and properly look after their strawberry acreage.

At the home of Mrs. Christiansen, north of Thorsby, the Monday's storm carried away their chicken house, during the week, her son, who is a carpenter, and lives with her, rebuilt it only to have it destroyed by Easter Sunday twister.

Mrs. Villadsen's garage in Thorsby was destroyed by the Monday storm, Ronald Lucas and Oscar Bean, each had a car in the garage, which were tumbled about and considerably damaged.

We heard of a place where the house was totally destroyed, while a hen with a brood of chickens in a coop in the yard were not disturbed.

Mrs. Oscar Bean has as her guests, her children, Sherman Bean, of Atlanta, and Mrs. G. L. Maddox, of Birmingham Sunday.

Rev. Howard Higdon and wife, of Campbelville, Kentucky, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Franklin, returning Monday, they took Mrs. Franklin with them to spend a few days.

"A Thrilling Tale of the Phillipenes" is the title of a stereopticon lecture to be delivered next Sunday night by Rev. J. E. Each, at the Congregational Church, beginning at 7:15. These very interesting lectures are given to stimulate interest in Missions, and if more than expenses are received from the offering to be taken, it will be used for mission work of the denomination.

Next Sunday at the regular service, communion will be observed.

Rev. Fred P. Ensminger, District Congregational Superintendent spent the week end in Thorsby and occupied the Congregational Church pulpit Sunday morning, relieving Rev. Each, who was exceedingly busy all last week in Red Cross work.

Announcement was made from the pulpit of both the Baptist and Congregational churches, requesting that anyone who knows of storm sufferers who are not receiving assistance, will let it be known at relief headquarters in Thorsby town hall.

A collection was also taken at both these churches Easter Sunday for the relief fund.

Boy Scouts

Mr. Norton, as representative of Thorsby Institute in boy scout matters, received a call Saturday from John J. Sigwald, District Executive of Boy Scouts of America, as a result of interviews with people interested in scouting, it is hoped that in the near future Thorsby Troop of Boy Scouts will be put on a better working basis. Mr. Norton will be glad to discuss this matter with any who want information about this matter.

All people who were in the first storm, please call at Red Cros Headquarters and be supplied, as we have plenty for all.—Mrs. Clyde Lewis, Chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Blue and children and Miss Jene Swanson, of Union Springs, Alabama, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mixson Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard spent Friday with J. B. Marlar and daughter, Mrs. Annie Thacker, of near Clanton.

Mr. Joseph Miller, of Davison, Michigan, has been spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lucas. Also spent several days at St. Cloud, Florida, with friends, returning Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Hussey, of Elmwood, Illinois, called on Miss Jenkins, Saturday night. Mrs. Hussey was in the same European party last summer in which Miss Jenkins was.

Mr. John Smith, of Atlanta, Georgia, visited the Piper family this week.

Dr. O. C. Carmichael and wife, of Montevallo, were visitors at the home of Mrs. C. M. Williams Monday. They were looking over the storm area.

Thorsby Institute expects to close May 26. Earlier than scheduled in in the catalog—instead of having the annual April 1 picnic the school voted to give the money which would have been used for provisions, to the sufferers from the tornado. In order to make up time because of closing school earlier, school will be in session April 1 and on Saturdays, April 2-16-30. The Saturday session will omit chapel and begin at 8:30 and run one session.

UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATES TO DEMO. CONVENTION

Say They will Have as their Slogan "The Party First"

Montgomery, Ala., March 15.—In a clear-cut statement to the voters, the eight prominent Democrats running for delegates at large to the Democratic National Convention on a platform calling for an uninstructed, unpledged and uncontrolled delegation declare they wish to represent "the Democracy of Alabama rather than the personal ambitions of any man" and will cast their votes for the most available presidential candidate when the convention meets, but will under no circumstances vote for former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, because they are convinced his nomination "would be disastrous to the Democratic party."

Signed by William P. Screws of Montgomery, Hugh Mallory of Selma, George M. Grant of Troy, Woolsey Fennell of Tuscaloosa, Douglas Arant of Birmingham, Shelby S. Fletcher of Huntsville, T. S. Faulk of Samson, and R. B. Evins of Birmingham, the statement asserts that their slogan will be "The Party First," strongly opposes a hog-tied delegation, and declares that since Alabama has no favorite son in the presidential contest "it is without question the wise thing to send to Chicago an unpledged and open-minded delegation that will be free to carefully weigh the merits of every candidate in the light of conditions then existing and vote for the man best qualified to lead the party on to victory and properly administer the nation's governmental affairs."

Pointing out that "certain of our citizens, inspired by interest in only one presidential candidate and commonly reputed to be pledged to him, have announced themselves as candidates for delegates at large," the unfettered Democrats declared they are "deeply convinced it would be injurious for Alabama thus to tie her hands and preclude her convention delegation from considering the merits of other presidental candidates."

"We believe," this statement continued," that the Alabama delegation should be free to act in the best interest of the Democratic party when the convention nominates its candidates for president and vice-president, and should not be hog-tied to the political ambitions of anyone. If Governor Roosevelt at that time seems to be the logical man, we will vote for him, but we do not think Alabama's delegation should go to Chicago pledged to him or any other man. We hold no prejudices; we have no favorite; we are for the party first."

They said they are convinced "by recent political history that former Governor Smith is not and can not become an available candidate."

The Democrats who seek to go to the convention with open minds and a free hand to do the best thing for the party will be opposed in the primary of May 3rd by a slate of candidates put in the field by W. C. Fitts, personal representative of Governor Roosevelt. Mr. Fitts and Warren S. Reese, Jr., of Montgomery, president of the Alabama Roosevelt clubs, recently announced that the candidates on their slate are all committed to the New York governor.

Toll Marcus, of Birmingham, was in Clanton Tuesday canvassing.

JESSE BAKER

Candidate for County Treasurer

In the Republican Primary of May 3

To the Voters of Chilton County:

It is perhaps well known by most all of the voters of Chilton County by this time that I am a candidate for County Treasurer.

I had planned to begin an active campaign a week ago, and try to see every voter in the county; but owing to conditions that have been brought about by the storms that have visited portions of our county, I do not feel that I should bother the people at this time by making a canvass.

On the other hand, I feel that I should do all I can at present to help relieve our people who have suffered from the effects of the storms, and this I am doing.

Later on when the emergencies that have been created by the storm situation have been cared for and the people get settled back to business, I hope to visit every voter in the county and talk to you about my candidacy.

Should I fail to see any voter, however, I want all to know that I will appreciate your vote and influence, just the same.

Respectfully,

JESSE BAKER.

REFUGE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space to say a few words in regard to this place.

Saturday and Sunday were regular meeting days here. We had a large crowd out both days.

There were two members added to the church Saturday, they were: Eugene Powell and wife.

We were glad to have a goodly number of visitors out Sunday. May we insist that more of our parents take an interest in church going?

Bro. M. J. Parrish peached here Sunday, useless to say, he delivered a masterful sermon.

There was a wonderful spirit exhibited towards helping those that are so in need because of the recent disaster.

Our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, recently took a trip into the Pates Chapel community and found the church building off the blocks and considerably wrecked. He arranged a day with the good people of the community to make an effort to put the church back on the blocks. We are informed that today, Thursday, March 31 is the day set apart for this important task.

A large crowd are planning to accompaning our pastor and render any assistance possible.

Our B. Y. P. U. is moving along stadily in spite of the bad weather. Our new literature has come and we hope to have a large crowd out Sunday night.

BICENTENNIAL FLOWERS

This is the time of the year to think about planting flower gardens. Every back yard, every strip of fertile soil is a potential flower garden and may be made bloom in honor of the Father of his Country in this Bicentennial year. Even as little as fifty cents worth of seeds will plant a garden anyone may be proud of and which will give joy to hundreds of passersby.

A nation-wide broadcast at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, March 17, the secretary of Agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde, officially opened the Bicentennial flower garden campaign which is being sponsored by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission. The United States Marine Orchestra played a program of appropriate music, and Congressman Sol Bloom, Associate director of the commission explained the proposed plan which is, to have every vacant space all over the country bloom with flowers this summer in honor of the Bicentennial year.

The garden clubs of America are cooperating in this plan as well as school garden clubs and other floral organizations. The Bicentennial committee in each state is promoting interest in planting flowers in honor of this great celebration. The United States Department of Agriculture is cooperating also and horticultural experts attached to Agricultural colleges in each state are doing effective work in promoting this activity, through the schools of each state.

In consequence, hundreds of amateur gardners will plant Colonial flowers, annuals and perennials, which were familiar in the time of George Washington and which will bloom each year as a permanent memorial to his memory.

HEAVY TIMBER DAMAGE BY ALABAMA TORNADO

Montgomery, Ala., March 28.—The recent windstorm which took so many lives and destroyed a great amount of structral and personal property also worked havoc upon many valuable timber stands, says Colonel Page S. Bunker, State Forester. Air reconnaissance reveals large areas where practically every tree has been blown down. Some of these tracts comprised a large portion of the remaining virgin timber of Alabama.

No current facilities exist for making an accurate estimate of the timber damage caused by the tornado. Neverthless, it is evident that it runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. However, a substantial part of the loss may be mitigated if the down timber is promptly utilized. Every effort should be made by sawmills operating in the strcken localities to leave live timber standing and obtain their logs from the wind thrown material, says Colonel Bunker. In this way a considerable waste will be avoided and the standing timber meanwhile will gain additional volume through spring and early summer growth.

INCREASE IN FOOD ACREAGE PLANNED

Present indications are that Alabama farmers expect to plant 11.3 per cent more acreage in food and feed crops this year than was harvested last year, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician for the department of agriculture, who said:

"From the expressions of the regular crop reports, the United States crop reporting service, cooperating with the Alabama Department of Agriculture, reports the intentions of Alabama farmers regarding their crop acreages for the current season as follows:

"Corn. 107 per cent; oats, 130; potatoes, Irish, 103; potatoes, sweet, 135; sorghum, 125; sugarcane,11; soybeans, 120; cowpeas, 130; peanuts 120; hay 112.

"This of course expresses only present intentions, which may or may not materialize at planting time.

"Any reference to cotton acreage at this time is prohibited by law."

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

Sugar recently hit a new low by dropping to 4 cents a pound in New York for the first time since May 14 1914. The price has been 4.15 cents but declined .10 then.05 cents.

In 1930 there were 920,000 tractors reported on farms in the United States compared with 246,000 10 years ago; also 900,000 trucks on farms compared with 139,000 in 1930.

The world's Grain Exhibition and Conference at Regina, Canada, has been postoned from July 24 to August 5, 1933. Entries will close on January 31, 1933. It is expected that this will eclipse any grain exhibition yet held anywhere.

It is not too late to plant lespedeza seed this spring and expect a reasonable good growth next summer and fall. Furthermore, lespedeza is a very valuable legume for Alaabama. It is good for pasture, for hay, and for soil improvement, according to reports from county agents.

During the last thirty years the acreage planted to cotton in the southern states has incerased 17 times over the previous year and decreased 13 times. It has never decreased more than two consecutive years. There was a slight reduction in 1930, and a larger one in 1931. If the acreage is reduced this year, 1932, it will be the third consecutive reduction. During the thirty years it has increased five consecutive years, 1922-26, inclusive.

TORNADOES CAUSE HEAVY FARM LOSSES IN ALABAMA

Tornadoes in Alabama Monday, March 21, destroyed over 1,600 farm homes and buildings and left thousands of farm families homeless and without clothing and food.

A majority of those killed and injured were farm men, women and children.

Farmers suffered heavy losses through the destruction of livestock, poultry, feeds, foods and timber.

Surveys of farm damages have not been completed but county agents of Alabama Extension Service made the following reports on March 23.

C. E. Stapp, Chilton County agent: "In Chilton County 150 homes, barns, and buildings totally destroyed with 40 others damaged. Estimated 25 head of work stock and 25 cattle killed. No estimate made on number of hogs or poultry killed. Feed and timber loss heavy. No accurate estimate."

R. D. Finch, county agent of Marengo County:

"Three separate tornadoes hit Marengo, Jefferson, Demopolis, Allanville and Faunsdale. About 400 farm homes and buildings valued at $250,000 destroyed. Timber valued at $15,000. One hundred and ten head of livestock valued at $5,500 killed. Four thousand head of poultry, mostly baby chicks, valued at $1,500 destroyed. Humans, 15 are known dead and 125 injured."

F. M. White, county agent of Clay County:

"Tornado damage very severe. Twelve persons dead and 200 injured; 70 seriously. Courthouse being used to house some homeless. Church at Lineville turned into temporary hospital. Several injured hospitalized at Talledega and Anniston. Seventy-five to 100 homes destroyed; probably 400 homes and outbuildings destroyed. Much poultry and some mules and cows killed. Millions of feet of timber blown down. Red Cross community organization and U. S. Army caring for situation."

R. M. Reaves, county agent, Cullman County:

"More than 100 farm homes damaged, 65 of which are completely demolished. Three hundred people left absolutely homeless; 23 dead and 75 injured, many very seriously. Fairview High School and two churches demolished. Heavy damage to timber in tornado's path. Livestock injury throughout the 20-mile path of the tornado, impossible to make accurate estimate of damage will possibly run into hundreds of thousands. This is incomplete house to house survey."

M. T. Gowder, county agent of Jackson County:

"Tornado struck East Jackson County in neighborhood of Paint Rock station on west traversing county through Tennessee Valley and Cumberland Mountain section to the Georgia line on east and destroying about 100 to 125 farm homes. Mules, cattle, dead but cannot be estimated accurately. Damage to homes, timber, livestock, and personal property on farms estimated at about $750,000. If the weather conditions are favorable much feed and personal property will be saved and if unfavorable weather the damage will be greater. Red Cross erecting tents and supplying cots for colonies."

R. C. Lett, county agent of Tuscaloosa County:

"Estimate 300 farm buildings destroyed. Large number of poultry and some livestock. Some farms only land left. Can't give definite information."

J. P. Robinson, county agent of Perry County:

"The damage done in Perry County is as follows: 125 farm homes destroyed, 600 people destitute, 150 wounded, treated up to date. Twenty-one found dead so far. Timber loss great. Livestock, poultry, crops and land slight. The total loss estimated at $250,000."

W. T. Coker, Talleddga county agent:

"Thirty-two farm families on 21 farms suffered heavy losses. Total loss in buildings and timber $26,000 no livestock reported killed. But little included in losses. Some farms were completely stripped of building and contents."

COTTON CARRY-OVER IS LARGEST ON RECORD

Auburn, Ala., March 28.—With the largest carry-over of American cotton recorded, southern farmers are now planting another crop of cotton. Official figures from the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that the supply of cotton now on hand is greater than the combined consumptions of the last two years.

The total supply of American cotton for the 1931-32 season is 25,700,000 bales compared with world consumption of American cotton of about 11,000,000 bales in 1930-31, and 13,000,000 bales in 1929-30.

Production has exceeded in each of the last two years, and the world carry-over of American cotton on August 1, 1931 was about 8,800,000 bales. The current supply is 5,500,000 bales greater than it was a year ago, and 2,40,000 bales larger than the previous high-record supply of 1926-27.

WHAT DOES THE VARIETY OF OUR COTTON MEAN?

One bale of cotton would be lost on every nine and one-half acres of cotton by farmers growing the poorest of the twelve leading varieties of cotton in the variety tests of the Alabama Experiment Station. These variety tests covering a period of six years include the most common and the most popular varieties of cotton being grown in Alabama.

A bale of cotton is a big loss on one's labor, fertilizer and other expenses involved in growing nine and one-half acres of cotton.

Furthermore, the amount of money lost on every ten bales of cotton making staple shorter than seven-eighths inch based on 1931 prices, equals the value of approximately 1 500-pound bale of cotton.

The loss on staple shorter than seven-eighths inch is $4.65 per bale if figured on the discount made over a period of five years by the central cotton markets.

A desireable variety of cotton is one that makes a high yield per acre, gives a good "gin turn out," and produces a staple fifteen sixteenths to one inch in length. D. P. L. 4-8 is the variety that comes the nearest to meeting these requirements.

This variety has been grown with satisfaction by many farmers in this county and by thousands of farmers over Alabama. The cotton mills find it satisfactory.

There is available nearly 50,000 bushels of Alabama grown D. P. L. 418 seed produced under special conditions to prevent crossing in the fields by insects and ginned in accordance with standards that prevented mixing of seeds in ginning. Now is the right time to obtain the best seed available of this variety.

How to Obtain Seed

1. By swapping ordinary seed with other farmers in this county who have good D. P. L. 4-8.
2. By swapping surplus corn and hay for good D. P. L. 4-8.
3. By swapping common seed with oil mills which have pure D. P. L. 4-8 available.
4. By buying the seed for cash or by arranging to pay for them next fall either with money or with cotton seed.

Let us grow only best cotton in Chilton County every year. Make Chilton County noted for good cotton.—Yours very truly, C. E. Stapp.

POULTRY

BAILEY GIVES FACTS ON POULTRY STATUS

Auburn, Ala., March 28.—With eggs selling for around 10 cents a dozen there are farmers and poultrymen in Alabama who are inclined to get rid of their flocks but Herbert Bailey, extension poultryman at Auburn, does not agree that it should be done. Instead he is insisting on "rigid culling right away, as the first stop in offsetting low prices of eggs.

"Don't go out of the poultry business," continued Mr. Bailey. "You should give your flock a thorough culling and remove all except real good birds. Sell the inferior or poor birds.

"Next, produce all the food that you can at home, for home grown feed is cheaper than buying it. In fact, it is hardly possible to buy feed and produce eggs profitably if the eggs are sold for a dime a dozen."

Mr. Bailey explained that a good ration can be made by feeding home-grown corn along with a protein supplement made for feeding under such conditions. Green feed must be added, either by grazing or by cutting and supplying. It is needed every day of the year.

Along with good birds and good feeding must go good management. This includes proper housing. Many Alabama hens will produce more eggs if housed properly; and housing is not expensive.

Mr. Bailey added that the county agents and home demonstration agents are giving as much attention to poultry development now as they have done for many years and that better results will be obtained by advising with them and following information obtained from them.

Senior II Play Friday Night

The Senior Two's are putting on the final touches to the play they are going to present next Friday night in the High School auditorium, beginning promptly at 8:00 p. m. If you want to be well entertained for one full hour and one-half, don't fail to come out and see, "George In a Jam."

Zeke Stebbins, rural detective, will keep you uproaring with laughter from beginning to end. Clarence Easterling, who takes this part really has the makings of a real detective. Tina Hyman is a scream as, "Odessa," the colored cook. "Jack Carson," played by James Arnold, has to become a Dutch maid to save his friend. Clyde Popwell talks with a real French accent which he acquired in Paris last summer. "Ma" and "Pa" Larkins, played by Margaret Jones and Dewey Williams, have just inherited a fortune and they come to the city to get their daughter, Sara Jane, (Imogene Sims) educated. Sara brings her teacher, (Mary Robinson) along with her. George, played by Clarence Fiquette, "is always in a jam." The last one was too much for him, so he had to call for help. Come out and see for yourself, they help him solve his problem.

MORE COTTON STORED IN STATE WAREHOUSES

There was 824.437 bales of cotton stored in Alabama warehouses on March 1, this year compared with 782,799 bales on the same date last year, reports Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture. "This is an increase of 141,638 bales over the same date last year.

H. S. Holloway, chief of the gin and warehouse division, department of agriculture, reports 279 state bonded and 22 federal licensed warehouses in the state. This state's bonded warehouses contain 240,749 bales and the federal houses 283,688 bales.

WHY GROW ONE VARIETY OF COTTON IN THE COMMUNITY?

The farmers of a community patronizing the same gin will find it prifitable over a period of years to cooperate in adopting only one good variety of cotton having a staple length of 15-16 to 1 inch.

By cooperating in growing only one good variety, crossing of varieties in the fields by insects is prevented.

2. All farmers growing the same variety prevents mixing of seed at the gins.

3. Farmers growing a better staple variety in a one-variety community do not suffer heavy penalty because their good cotton is planted with 3-4 and 13-16 cotton that is ginned just ahead of their bales.

4. The ginner by having larger quantities of the same kind of cotton can adjust his machinery for this particular kind of cotton and therby do a more satisfactory job of ginning.

5. A community adopting one variety usually arranges with a few farmers whose lands are isolated from other varieties of cotton to be stock seed breeders. These stock seed breeders can obtain seed of better varieties which the experiment station finds and multiply these for the entire community at the cost of oil mill seed and enough extra to pay for the extra trouble involved.

Therefore, an entire community can be changed from one variety to another within two years without farmers having to send out of the state for high priced seed.

6. Large quantities of good cotton attracts the trade and gives the community a reputation. If many varieties are grown there is such a great variation in staple length that the cotton trade is forced to discount the cotton heavily.

As farmers of Chilton County why not grow one good variety of cotton? Fifteen to twenty different varieties of cotton being grown in this county means ununiform cotton. — C. E. Stapp.

CAN CHILTON COUNTY AFFORD TO LOSE $22,505?

Can Chilton County aford to lose $22,505 on her cotton crop? But it would have cost the county at least this much in 1931 if 35 to 40 per cent had been shorter than 7-8 as was the case in 1930 and 1929. At the five-year average discount for 3-4 and 13-16-inch cotton on central cotton markets this loss would reach a total of more than $41,850.

The cotton crop of this county showed much improvement in 1931 over the past two years. The county's reputation for large lots of good staple cotton is being reestablished. 16,000 bushels of good D. P. L. 4-8 seed are available for planting purposes in this county.

Every farmer having short varieties taking full advantage of the present opportunity to get good seed at a very low cost will mean reestablishing this county's reputation for good cotton and save farmers from heavy penalties such as were suffered in 1929 and in 1930 because of 3-4 and 13-16-inch staple.

How to Get Seed

Good seed can be bought at a very low price.

In some instances two to three bushels of ordinary seed can be swapped for a bushel of D. P. L. 4-8.

Others are swapping some surplus corn and hay for D. P. L. 4-8.

Don't take a chance on losing two to five dollars per bale by growing 3-4 and 13-16-inch cotton. Play safe. Buy or swap for D. P. L. 4-8

"Make Chilton County Famous for Good Cotton."

SEA SCOUT SHIPS WILL HAVE SPECIAL EVENT ON MAY 6TH

Opelika, Ala., March 28.—President A. L. Thomas of the Central Alabama Area Council has completed arrangements for Sea Scouts to enter special events in the scoutcraft jamboree in Auburn May 6th. Boy scouts from all over the central Alabama Area Council will spend the day at Auburn to compete in many scoutcraft events.

Auburn, Selma, and the Opelika Sea scouts have organized the Merrimac, Saratoga and Davy Jones ships, respectively. Alexander City will register their sea scout ship the Albatross, following the jamboree, it is understood.

To qualify, all sea scouts must be registered with the Council office not later than Friday, April 15. The dead line for Sea scouts to register in order to participate is May 1. Sea scouts are urger to wear their white duck uniforms, but the uniform is not being required this year. Chief Judge Grady Bradshaw of West Point, will bring a few of his sea scouts with him to aid in performing his duties.

The first event is a brief talk, "High Lights of Sea History," to be given from memory by one Sea scout from each ship.

The second sea scout event is divided into two parts, the first is a knot display board. The second part is to be given by three scouts, each tying one of the following splices: long, short or eye splices. Speed, accuracy and neatness will all be taken into consideration in this event.

The third and last event also consists of two parts. One scout will be tested on his knowledge of telling time by the ship's bell and another sea scout will box the compass giving 32 points.

Commodore P. M. Monroe of the sea scout committee for the central Alabama Area Council is urging the various skippers of the sea scout ships to have scouts start practicing immediately.

A special cruise of three days on Lake Martin is slated for the last half of August for all sea scouts. Executive Sigwald at that time will put on the thirty-hour elementary training course for sea scout leaders and all the campers on the cruise regardless of whether they hold any sea scout leadership position will be eligible for training. Next year the cruise will last a week and the sea scouts will go down the Alabama River to Selma and return.

In home demonstration work in Alabama last year the county home agents reported that 1,903, 637 qts. of fruits, vegetables, and meats were canned for winter use; $57,517.80 was saved by home sewing and dry cleaning; vegetables valued at $308,098, poultry at $449,881.20, and dairy products at $396,192 were consumed at home, and food products from farm houses were sold for $1,104,646.36.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank everyone, especially Dr. N. S. Johnson, Dr. Franklin, and nurses for their kindness, sympathy, and aid to us during our recent loss and bereavement.—J. W. Littleton and Family.

Vatchel Lindsey spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Thomas at Log Cabin Beach below Mitchell Dam. He walked part of the way down there Sunday morning, but Stuart Armstrong brought him home Sunday afternoon. Vatchel said that he had a mighty good time; he said that he went boat riding and got back to the camp just before the storm got up. When asked if he fished any, Vatchel answered: "Fish on Sunday? Why, I wouldn't even steal from a blind widow woman, much less fish on Sunday."

CUSTARD COOKING HINTS ARE GIVEN

Auburn, Ala., March 28.—Cook-too long or with too high temperature will cause curdling of custards. The high temperature cooks the eggs too hard and causes them to separate from milk.

"To prevent curdling," said Miss Helen Kennedy, extension nutritionist of Auburn, "cook the soft custard over hot, but never boiling water, and stir constantly. Stop cooking as soon as custard coats the spoon. If it starts curdling set it in a pan of cold water and beat with a Dover egg beater."

"I have spent nearly $20,000 on that girl's education, complained the aggrieved father, "and here she goes and marries a young fellow with an income of only $1,000 a year."

Well, said a friend of the family, that's 5 per cent on your investment. What more would you expect in these times?

RIGINAL

Appeal For Funds To Relieve Tornado Victims

GOVERNOR MILLER NAMES RED CROSS OFFICIAL RELIEF AGENCY

$25,000 Given From National Red Cross Fund to Start Work Of Relieving Suffering and Rebuilding Devastated Areas In Alabama

Although Congress is considering a measure providing for loans on long terms at moderate interest as an aid measure, the sufferers from the recent tornadoes in Alabama will depend for their immediate relief upon volutary contributions administered through the Red Cross, which has been proclaimed the official relief agency by Governor Miller. As the case is put by Henry Upson Sims of Birmingham, "the national Red Cross furnishes the machinery but our people must provide the money which will be needed, if we can do so." Senator Hugo Black, who has contributed to the fund, says, "I am firmly of the opinion that the Red Cross is the best relief agency for emergency and rehabilitation relief."

Before the storm, the Red Cross was represented in each of the afflicted counties with a local chapter. These sprang into action immediately of their own initiative. And a few hours later a central relief office was set up in Birmingham on instructions from the nation-Red Cross headquarters in Washington. One week to a day after the distaster, the Red Cross started its permanent rehabilitation work under Maurice Reddy of the national disaster staff, as director of the work in the entire storm area, including Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee. Meantime the fund campaign had started under the leadership of Mr. Sims, a member of the central governing committee of the national Red Cross and former president of the American Bar Asociation. The first contributor was the Birmingham Post No. 1 of the American Legion with a check of $550, and the national Red Cross followed with $25,000 from its treasury. Since then the fund has grown steadily, although still far short of requirements.

All money collected in Alabama will be expended in that state. Mr. Sims urges people to contribute, no matter how small the amount, as the depression has affected those who could formerly be counted upon for large gifts. This money may be sent to the local Red Cross chapter, or to the Jefferson County chapter at Birmingham.

NO CIRCUIT COURT THIS WEEK

Judge F. L. Tate came to Clanton Monday morning and announced adjournment of the criminal division of the circuit court for this week, on account of storm disturbances.

Big Hen (boastfully)—I get thirty cents a dozen for my eggs. How much do you get for yours?

Small Hen—I get twenty-five cents a dozen.

Big Hen (scornfully)—Why don't you lay big eggs and get thirty cents a dozen too?

Small Hen—Huh, I should exert myself for a nickel.

SYMPATHY FROM DR. AND MRS. S. C. WOOD

The editor of the Union-Banner received the following telegram last Wednesday, from Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Wood, former residents of Thorsby, who now live at Uvalde, Texas:

"We wish to express through The Union-Banner our deepest sympathy to our friends in the storm-stricken sections of Chilton County." signed Dr. S. C. Wood and family.

AMERICAN LEGION MEETING NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Commander R. D. Woodson, of Chilton County Post No. 6, American Legion, makes a special reminder this week of the regular monthly meeting of the Post, which will be held at the courthouse next Monday night.

Every Legionaire and ex-soldier is urgently requested to come to this meeting. There are many important matters concerning the relief activities of the Legion in the storm areas to be taken up.

TYPHOID INOCULATION FOR PEOPLE IN STORM AREA

Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer, has decided that the people in the storm area of Chilton County should have inoculation against typhoid.

In accordance with this decision, four centers have been designated in the county where people may obtain the treatment. The first inoculation will be given on Saturday, April 2; the next on April 7; and the third on April 14.

The station at Maplesville will be in charge of Dr. J. J. Dubose; at Thorsby in charge of Dr. Horace G. Franklin; at Jemison in charge of Dr. R. B. McNeill; at Clanton in charge of Dr. T. J. Marcus.

This treatment will be free to everybody, but especially those in the storm area are urged to take it as a precaution against typhoid that may develop out of the temporary living conditions which the people will be under for some time.

HIGH SCHOOL DISMISSED ON LAST TUESDAY

The Chilton County High School was dismissed Tuesday on account of the death of Mr. Perry Hicks, brother-in-law of Prof. Horton Walker.

Mr. Hicks was killed instantly at his home in Lawley when the tornado struck there last Sunday afternoon.

Members of the High School faculty and student body attended the funeral of Mr. Hicks Tuesday.

H. S. SEWELL IS IN VETERANS HOSPITAL

Mr. H. S. Sewell, of Clanton, veteran of the Spanish American War, left last Thursday for Hines, Illinois, where he will undergo a surgical operation at the Veterans Hospital. Mr. Sewell recently moved to Clanton from Shoults community.

MIGHTY PARTICULAR

A welathy society lady had just engaged a new maid and was instructing her in the duties of waiting on the table.

"At dinner, Mary," she explained, "you must remember always to serve from the left and take the plates from the right. Is that clear?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered the gril condescendingly. "What's the matter, superstitious of something?"

Dad—I never smoked when I was your age. Will you be able to tell that to your son when you are my age?

Son—Not with as straight a face as you do, daddy.

Passenger—Conductor have I time to say good-bye to my wife?

Conductor—I don't know sir, how long have you been maried?

Traffic Cop—Don't you know that you must give the lady one-half of the road?

Motorist—I always do, when I find out which half she wants.

What's all the loud talk in the dining room sister?

Father and mother are swapping animals.

Swapping animals?

Yep. She passed the buck and got his goat.

A farmer asked the editor of a country paper for advice, as follows: "I have a horse that at times appears normal, but at other times is lame to an alarming degree. What shall I do?"

The reply came, "the next time your horse appears normal, sell him."

MR. L. H. BEAN WRITES IN REGARD TO HIS CANDIDACY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your valuable paper to say a few more words to the voters of this county. I am going to see as many of the voters as I can before the election. I am sure I cannot see you all, but if I fail to see you, I am asking you through the paper to give me your support and influence. I have to work and it is a hard matter for me to be away from home very much.

I only want the Treasurer's office one term. I am not asking for a life-time job or two terms. One term is all I want and then I will be ready to help some one else four years from now. Each one of my opponents have had this job and I believe these political jobs should be passed around to others every four years.

If these long term jobs still continue, what future is there for our young generation? It seems to be talked in general that everybody wants to make a change, so this will be a good time to place new men in office. I hope the voters of Chilton county will see fit and make up their minds to try a new bunch of officers. Our old heads have been good and faithful, but the time has come when we should train a new bunch to carry on the county business. I do not criticise anyone, and all the candidates have my best regards.—L. H. Bean, Jemison, Ala.

SECOND STORM

the homes of Henry Thacker, Carl McCarty, Lige Gore, and Green Cofer.

Only one man was killed in the Macedonia community, Rev. Tubbs, a Methodist preacher, who was at the home of Carl McCarty.

The Sunday storm passed over a lot of the same territory where the first storm went on Monday night before. A great many tents and themporary structures which had been erected to house the homeless of the first storm were torn down and demolished.

Captain Hardy and his detachment of National Guardsmen, who were here all of last week erecting tents, went out over the area again Monday and gathered up the fragments of the tents that were destroyed Sunday.

The storm crossed the Birmingham highway north of Thorsby at exactly the some place where the other one crossed. Telephone, telegraph and electric light wires, which had just been replaced from the first destruction, were torn down again as badly as they were the first time.

East of Thorsby Sunday the storm struck in the Collins Chapel community just on the south edge of the path of the first storm. Reports Monday gave the following homes in that section destroyed or partly destroyed: Commie Collins, Wash Heflin, Perry Cleckler, Phillip Gentry, Dalton Martin. No deaths or serious injuries were reported there.

Passing on into the Mineral Springs community damage was done to property at the homes of Buck Paschal, Pate Headley, and John Bean. No persons injured nor deaths were reported there.

The storm of Sunday sent hundreds of sightseers scurrying into ditches and any available place of refuge. The country was working alive with folks in automobiles. They had come from far and near to view the terrible scenes that were enacted on Monday night when the first storm passed through. When the second one came Sunday it caught hundreds of people in or close to the path of the storm. In many instances they merely stepped on the gas and rode out of the path of destruction Several cars on the highway were ditched when the storm passed over.

SUGGESTION TO WHITE FOLKS

A negro mammy had a family of well-behaved boys. One day the mistress asked:

"Sally how do you raise your boys so well?"

"Ah'll tell you, missus," answered Sally. "Ah raise dem wid a barrel stave and Ah raise 'em frequently."

J. M. CONNELL WRITES

I was once a resident of Clanton, being reared and educated, and taught schools in Chilton County, at Mt. Zion, Mineral Springs, Rocky Mount, Collins Chapel, Cane Creek and other places in the county. I trust someone who reads this will write me and give details of the cyclone and other information of Chilton County.—A friend, J. M. Connell, Alba, Texas.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Another month has passed. March was one of the hardest church months this pastor has ever known. It seemed that everything militated against successful efforts for the kingdom, but we are not quitters. Roll up your sleeves and start April right.

Sunday school meets at 9:45 and preaching at 11:00 a.m.

Sunday night Dr. N. B. McLeod will preach at 7:30. We invite all who really enjoy a great sermon to be present. After the preaching service Dr. McLeod will hold our second Quarterly Conference.

If you should see a storm coming toward your home you would make this kind of a prayer, "Lord, if you will spare me, I will go to church and Sunday School every Sunday." Why can not you be a loyal church goer without being scared into it? This is a good time for all Chilton county to resolve that they will: "Pay their vows to the Most High."

BEWARE

People are soliciting funds for Red Cross and storm sufferers without being authorized. Beware of such people, as this is a means that many people have of obtaining money for themselves.

THE WORM TURNS

When the clock struck the midnight hour, father came to the head of the stairs and in a rather loud tone said: "Young man, is your self-starter out of order tonight?"

"It doesn't matter," retorted the young man, "as long as there is a crank in the house."

GABBY GERTIE

"The plaintiff can hardly claim the defendant's lean if she has no judgment."

DR. BARSON WILL FURNISH GLASSES FREE OF CHARGE

Dr. S. A. Barson, optometrist, of Montgomery, who comes to Clanton regularly the last Monday in each month, was here Monday of this week.

While here he authorized the Union-Banner to say that he will replace glasses for any person who lost same in the storm, in cases where the parties are not financially able to do so themselves.

If you lost your glasses, and are not able to buy more, get a statement of your case through the Red Cross investigators, and Dr. Barson will fix you up.

BAKER SCHOOL NEWS

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days at Highland. Rev. A. E. Trice delivered two excellent sermons.

A large crowd attended the Easter program at Liberty Hill, Sunday. It was greatly enjoyed by everyone.

Several of our pupils attended the singing at Poplar Springs, Sunday.

A large crowd of our pupils attended Sunday School at the different churches.

A large part of our community was injured by the tornado. Some were killed, a number injured and several homes destroyed.

The Y. W. A. of this community met last Friday night at the home of Miss Annie Mae Bice. The program was carried out nicely.

GRAGG EXPLAINS HOSPITAL STORM RELIEF ACTIVITY

Place Had Been Closed On Day Before The First Storm Came

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a little space for an explanation to the directors and stockholders of the Central Alabama Hospital regarding opening the hospital for the storm sufferers. As you will recall the hospital was closed March 20th by order of the directors for reasons explained in my statement two weeks ago. Our nurses were gone, our equipment had all been packed up and nothing was ready to receive patients, but in the late afternoon of the following day, the worst wind storm that has ever visited this section, so far as we know, swept through this and adjoining counties, leaving many killed and many more wounded.

I felt it my duty to suffering humanity to re-open the hospital, but had no opportunity to communicate with directors or stockholders; so acted on my own initiative and without hope of fee or reward.

More than sixty-five wounded were rushed to the hospital during the night. Citizens and officials came to our assistance with clothing, bedding and food. They spared not anything. All through the night many residents of Clanton and surrounding communities worked with all their might. Cots were brought in, quilts, linens, etc., were supplied from stores and homes. Some laymen even did dressings and with their help and that of a few trained nurses, Dr. Marcus and myself dressed about sixty-five wounded who had been brought in from along the path of the storm from west of Maplesville to Columbiana. In the early morning many doctors and nurses from Birmingham, Montgomery, Selma and other points came in and began a general clean up that lasted all day. The wonderful work of our officials and citizens was so sacrificing and so general that it would be useless to undertake mentioning names. However, I will mention that the greater portion of these patients were brought in by the Martin Ambulance service, for which, I understand, no charge whatever was made. If the directors or stockholders feel that I did wrong in re-opening for this emergency, only, I would be glad to hear their view in person, and explain to them my feeling in the matter.—Sincerely, Dr. V. J. Gragg, president, Central Alabama Hospital.

CLUB BOYS HAD A GREAT MEETING

430 In Attendance at Courthouse In Clanton Last Friday

The 4-H Club Boys of Chilton county had one of the most rousing and enthusiastic meetings in the history of the organization, when 430 of them assembled at the courthouse last Friday for the annual business session.

Most all of the local clubs in the county were represented. The largest delegation from any single club was from Jemison, headed by Prof J. P. Montgomery.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Clyde Popwell, president; James Dennis, vice president; Jack Jones, of Plantersville, secretary and treasurer.

A number of speakers were on the program to make short talks to the boys. These included Hugh Comer, of Sylacauga, Rev. D. W. Haskew, of Clanton Methodist church, Judge L. H. Reynolds, W. M. Wyatt, John C. Page, Rev. J. T. Nelson, L. C. Warr and Miss Pickens, of Auburn.

The Kiwanis Club entertained the boys at an egg hunt at noon. Sixty dozen eggs were hidden in the Ellis Grove. The finder of the golden egg was awarded a prize of $2.50 in gold by the Kiwanis Club. This went to Dalton Mims, of Union Point. A prize of $1 was offered to the boy who found the most eggs. Two boys tied on this score with 20 eggs each.

Special mention is deserved the talk which was made to the boys by Rev. J. T. Nelson, age 99 years, the oldest man in Chilton County. He stood before his youthful audience, recounted some of the interesting experiences of his life, and offered some mighty sound advice. He declared that he had never tasted tobacco or whiskey in all his life.

WOODMEN LOG ROLLING

It is announced that the Woodmen of the World will have a Log Rolling Association at Clanton on Friday, April 29. Speakers of prominence from other parts of Alabama will be here. All W. O. W. camps in Chilton County will come together in the celebration, and members from other camps in the district are invited.

Next week we will perhaps have for publication a complete program of the whole affair.

CHARLES COOPER IS BUSY

Charles Cooper, of Mt. Creek came by Tuesday morning. He stated he is so busy building the schoolhouse at Billingsley, and building some chimneys for the storm sufferers, he has not had time to write this week in reply to The Man in the Moon.

"I will get around to him later," said Mr. Cooper, "but you might tell the folks the big ditch in the road has already been filled up, and I see that my writings have accomplished some good already."

"The speed, power, performance, comfort, and beauty that you have expected only in the highest priced automobiles is offered in this New V-8 Ford.

"You are cordially invited to learn the full story of this remarkable achievement at our showrooms on Thursday Friday and Saturday of this week. The new car will be here each day and late into the night in order to give everyone in Chilton County an opportunity to see it."

He urges all voters to take time to study this list carefully and see that their names are entered properly thereon. The first publication of the list is made for the purpose of verification and correction.

Any voter not on the list, or improperly entered, should confer with the Probate Judge immediately after the publication, so correction may be made by the time the list must be closed in accordance with the law.

EXTRA SPECIAL PICTURE SHOW

Western Melodrama Full Of Action To Be Shown Here Soon

Mr. Wade, the manager of the Wadesonian Theatre, announces the coming of an RKO Pathe Western feature, "Sundown Trail," on Friday and Saturday, April 8th and 9th.

Tom Kenne is the daredevil cowboy star of this picture. Marion Shilling plays the leading lady role. Others in the cast are Nick Stuart, Hooper Atchley, Stanley Blystone, Louise Beavers, Alma Chester, William Welsh and Murdock MacQuarrie.

The story is a western melodrama full of thrills and action. Dottie Beals has inherited the Lazy B ranch from her father, and arrives there with her lawyer and suitor, George Marston. Both Dottie and George are prejudiced against Buck Sawyer, manager of the ranch, from the start. But Dottie cannot help admiring him when he puts up a stiff fight against the bandits who hold up the stage that is taking Dottie and George to the ranch. Marston tries to make Dottie believe the whole affair has been framed to impress her, but she realizes the fight was a real one when she discovers a wound in Buck's shoulder.

Flash Prescott comes to the ranch and offers Marston $10,000 for a herd of cattle. Both Marston and Dottie recognize his voice as that of one of the bandits. Marston, afraid of Flash, gives a bill of sale for the cattle and accepts the cash.

Buck learns that the sheriff is looking for Flash and rides out to tip him off. He knows he is really not one of the gang—just a kid who is influenced by bad company. He finds him bound near the corral. Flash explains that Currier, the leader of the gang had tied him there when he objected to Currier's plan to swoop down on the ranch while Buck was delivering the cattle, and take the $10,000 from Marston.

Buck rides back to the ranch just as Currier is planning to run off with the money as well as the girl—and puts up a fight which saves both.

And then Dottie realizes that she needs Buck at the ranch after all—and that she has really loved him all along.

Robert F. Hill wrote the story of "Sundown Trail" and directed the picture as well.

Some Tricks of the Storm

The recent tornadoes in Chilton County played a lot of mighty funny tricks. Most of them would be hard to believe if the scenes which were left in the wake of the storm were not so impressive of the power of the raging elements. Below we have gathered together a few of the strange tales. We do not vouch for them. But they have been told upon good authority.

Old Hen and Chickens

Down at the Jack Latham place near Stanton it is said an old hen was sitting on a nest of eggs in a trough in the barn. The whole place was blown away. Two days after the storm it was reported that the trough, hen, eggs and all were found a long way from where they started. Then hen was peaceful and contented. Soon the eggs were hatched. The baby chicks were carried to Selma where they were auctioned off Sunday by Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, two baseball comedians, bringing over $200, which was applied to the relief of the surviving children of the Latham family.

Lee Caton's Mortgage

Here is one we can vouch for. Lee Caton, of Mt. Pleasant community, near Clanton, had a mortgage in the tray of his trunk. His house and everything was blown away. On last Saturday Mr. Caton received from O. L. Russell, of Fayetteville, Talledega County, a letter enclosing the mortgage, saying it was found after the storm in the mountains above Fayetteville. The mortgage is not damaged a bit, and does not show the signs of even a single drop of rain touching it. The one consoling fact about this instance is that the mortgage was marked paid by The Peoples Savings Bank before it blew away.

The Truck Passed Over

Red Retherford, Ewart Corley, and Curtis Hurt were on Waxahatchie Creek fishing when the storm passed over them Monday night, March 21. One day last week someone in town was telling a story of a Ford or Chevrolet truck that was blown from the southwest part of Chilton County over to some place in Shelby. Red said, "Yes, that is right. That truck passed over where I was, and I heard the horn blowing as it went by." We do not vouch for this one.

Martin Gourds Intact

Here is a true story. Everything on the place of John Caton, near Collins Chapel, was blown away. Even the pillars of the house were scattered all over the adjacent field. On the day after the storm the writer visited the place. The only thing left standing was a long slender pole on top of which was suspended half a dozen martin gourds. The martins were passing in and out as if nothing had happened.

Twice in the Same Place

Up above Thorsby when the first storm passed through, a farmer found his wagon the next morning wrapped around a tree some yards away from the house. He got it untangled from the wreckage and brought it back to where the house was. When the second storm passed over the same area the following Sunday, it blew his wagon away again and wrapped it around the same tree. The man said he was going to let it stay there this time.

Flying Cows

A man in the Union Grove community said he was blown about two hundred yards from his house, and landed face up in the middle of a plowed field. Not being hurt, he soon gained his balance, and lay flat of his back on the ground to keep from being killed by flying timbers and wreckage. As he lay there he said two cows passed over him, lowing and beliowing as they went by.

Story of the Rooster

Rescue workers in some part of the storm area reported that they found a rooster wrapped in a quilt and lodged high in a tree. Removed from his lofty perch where the storm deposited him, he is aid to have shaken his disheveled plumage and walked away in search of food.

Last Wednesday, just nine days after the storm, Uncle Jim Mims, county commissioner, dug a rooster out from under a pile of debris. The old fellow was mighty weak, but when released he realized that what he needed worse next to being unimproisoned was water and worms, so he went after them.

In Reply To Charles Cooper

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

Since Mr. Charles Cooper, of Mt. Creek, seems to be unable to understand why I am interested in the matter of electing members of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, I shall take a few minutes time to see if I can tell him.

In the first place, I will say that I am a Republican voter, and I believe that any Republican voter has a right to be interested in the election of members of the Republican Executive Committee, since such committee is supposed to be the official governing authority of the Republican party in the county. Therefore, I feel that every Republican has a right and a duty to be honestly interested in the election of the members of the committee.

There are some things about the proposed election of members of the Republican Executive Committee in the Primary of May 3 which I do not understand. However, I suppose there is no use to ask any questions about it. I have seen already that there is little to be found out by asking questions. Nobody seems to be disposed to answer questions. Bill Benson asked some questions which, if answered, would have cleared up the situation a whole lot. But no answers came.

I do not understand why the Republican Executive Committee of the county failed to establish and proclaim publicly to the voters the necessary provisions for electing the members of the new committee. Under the law, it is the duty of the present Republican Executive Committee to set out the manner and procedure by which the new committee shall be elected, specifying how many members shall constitute the committee, and how long their terms of office shall be. If the present Executive Committee has done this, I have not heard anything about it.

There is a sub-committee of the Executive Committee with powers to act for the whole committee in certain matters relating to the primary. This sub-committee has arranged for a county delegated convention in the manner prescribed by law. If the said sub-committee made any reference to or provisions for electing members of the Executive Committee, I do not know about it.

But there is filed in the Probate office a list of two candidates for members of the Executive Committee in each voting precinct in the county, with no provisions announced by the Executive Committee as to how they shall be elected, or how long they shall hold office, or how many members shall constitute the committee. At least, if such provisions have been made, I have not heard about it. I may be wrong in saying that the present status of the proposed election of members of the Executive Committee in the Primary May 3 is vague and complicated and difficult to understand. If the matter is clear and constituted according to law, and the best interests of the Republican Party, I wish somebody who does understand it would kindly explain the situation to the voters. I know that I am not the only one who does not understand the present arrangement of things.

Mr. Cooper endorses the plan, I would assume, from his letter. And as I recognize him as a man of experience and intelligence, I would certainly assume that he understands any political plan which he openly endorses. Then, for the information of myself and other voters who are interested, and have a right to know, I would ask Mr. Cooper to please explain why some of the old committee was put on the proposed new list of candidates, and some left off. The only reason I can see for such picking is that some of the old committee did not suit the ones who were doing the culling. Who has the right to "cull" the Executive Committee of the Republican party of Chilton County but the voters?

I am not making any fight against the men who are on the list of candidates for Executive Committee. But at the same time I wonder what reason anyone, who had anything to do with selecting this list had for leaving off the list the following members of the present Executive Committee:

J. L. Burnett, Beat 1; C. W. Scott, Beat 2; W. F. DeShazo, Beat 3; R. E. L. Ward, Percy Pitts, O. H. McDowell, Beat 4; J. W. Howard and W. S. Clark, Beat 5; L. C. Keen, Beat 6; J. R. Bearden, Beat 7; Bill Benson, N. Hays, and Leon Popwell, Beat 9; R. E. Jones, Beat 11; W. J. Vinzant, Beat 12; Walter Kendrick, Beat 15.

Now a word about factions. I want to ask Mr. Cooper if he does not recognize the existence of factionalism in the Republican party of Chilton County, when he knows that a hand-picking and culling program

JUDGE S. M. ADAMS BURIED SUNDAY

Died at Masonic Home in Montgomery Last Friday Night

Hon. Samuel M. Adams, formerly Probate Judge of Chilton county, and recently Senator of the Fifteenth Alabama District in 1923, died last Friday night at the Masonic Home in Montgomery. In addition to his political prominence, Judge Adams was one of the most widely known Baptist preachers of Alabama.

Samuel Memory Adams was born December 10, 1853, in Dallas County; son of Alfred A. and Elizabeth (McGough) Adams. He was educated by private tutors at home, and attended Howard College for a few months. From Dallas County he moved to Bibb, and represented that county in the House of Representatives of Alabama in 1889-90.

From Bibb he came to Chilton County, and was Probate Judge here for six years from 1898 to 1904.

He was president of the Alabama State Farmers Alliance from 1887 to 1892.

While living in Dallas County, he was married to Martha Whatley. She was his faithful and devoted companion for a long time, departing this life a little more than two years ago. Mrs. Adams was a sister of Mrs. C. V. Heath, of Clanton.

There were four children in the Adams family. Dr. John B. Adams, the elder son, died at the age of 30. Enoch, the second son, is the only child still living. He is in Bryce Hospital. There were two daughters, Leila and Lillie, twins. Leila was the wife of Jim Hester, brother of Mr. Joe Hester, of Clanton. She died in her early years. Lillie never married. She died at the age of 24. There are eight grandchildren surviving Judge Adams.

As a minister of the Baptist church, Rev. Adams worked and served various churches in Dallas, Bibb, and Shelby counties throughout his career. He was recognized as one of the most powerful preachers of the day.

The body was brought to Clanton Saturday by Spigener, where it was seen by hundreds of his friends. The funeral wa conducted at the Clanton Baptist Church Sunday at two o'clock by Rev. S. J. Ezell. Additional remarks were made by Rev. Buford Lawrence and Rev. F. A. Gibson.

Thorsby Masonic Lodge, of which Judge Adams was a member, attended in a body. They were joined in their rites by many other Masons of other Lodges in the county.

The Masonic burial ritual was carried out at the grave as a last tribute to the life of the deceased brother, as the body was lowered into its last earthly resting place, in the Clanton cemetery beside the grave of his devoted wife.

The Musical Festival, conducted at the Bibb County Training School, Sunday, April 3, was a splendid success. The schools that participated were, Autauga, Chilton, Bibb, Shelby County Training Schools, and Nelson School in Bibb County.

The purpose of this contest was to give the pupils of these various schools a bit of contact, which is so much needed in our schools and to serve as a tangible effort to find students with ability.

Each School represented with five selections. First, second and third prizes were awarded for the best numbers rendered. FAVORS CHARLIE DUKE

Lots has been said through the columns of your valuable paper about our candidates, so I want to say a few words about Mr. Charley Duke, who is in the race for Commissioner from the Fourth District.

First, I will say that I am 58 years old, and have known Mr. Duke's parents all of my life. I have always known them to be honest, fair, and reliable in every respect; honest and upright people; full of good common judgment, and good financiers.

I have known Charley all his life, and have always found him reliable and trustworthy in every way; nothing but a gentleman in every respect; always ready to do his bit in everything that was good. Charley is a good farmer, managing his own financial affairs successfully. He is fully capable of managing the affairs of Commissioner successfully, and I believe if nominated and elected will make us a Commissioner that we will all be proud of. I believe he will treat all alike, and not be pulled nor pushed about by any individual or set of individuals.

I believe he will use his own judgment in all matters, and grant special favors to none—a man who will attend to his duties in a business way.

We have some good officials in our county, but we have some men just as good who have never held an office of this kind; I say it is just to give them a chance. I believe it is right for us to vote for men whom we know, and on whom we can depend to give us a square deal.

My knowledge of Mr. Duke behooves me to recommend him and to support him. Knowing him as I do, I recommend him to the voters of the county as a 100 per cent Republican gentleman, asking to be your servant. He is fully capable to carry out the duties of the office, and worthy of your vote and support.

With best wishes for our party and all our candidates, I remain,—E. E. Plier, Clanton, Ala., Route 1.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. A. J. GRAY

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Gray and brother, Omar Gray, on March 19, 1932 and carried away from their home, their beloved mother, Mrs. A. J. Gray. She was sick only a short time with the flu, when pneumonia set upon her, and God saw fit to take her beloved soul from our midst. He saw fit to take her out of this old world of trouble, sickness and sorrow, which we must all leave sooner or later in that day to come.

So weep not dear children for God saw fit to take her from us and His will must be done, and not ours. All was done for Mrs. Gray that loving hands could do for her on earth to save her, but the Lord saw fit to take her away. So be reconciled one and all to His will for He knoweth best. Mrs. Gray died at her home in Sylacauga.

She lived to be 74 years old, and left behind to mourn her loss, four sons, Charley C. Gray of Texas, M. M. and Omar Gray of Sylacauga and Willie Gray of Clanton; three daughters, Mrs. Katie Bone of Talledega, Mrs. Nettie Summerlin of Clanton, and Mrs. Lela Scott of Verbena, and a host of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Gray's body was laid to rest on Sunday at Bethany church, near Enterprise. So let us all prepare to meet her in a better world on high where there's neither trouble, sickness nor sorrow, for we know not when we will be called to leave this old world of sin. So let's try to live in a way so that we can say to our loved ones here when we are called to leave this unfriendly world, I'm ready and not afraid to die, but all is well.—Written by a friend.

Don't let them count you out!

"I am simply overjoyed that I have back my beautiful clear skin ... that my appetite and strength are again as they should be ... and now I work and mingle with my associates and friends with confidence and enthusiasm.

"People admire me and ask how I did it. I tell them about S.S.S. and how it gave me the glow of health. It is a wonderful aid to the system. It improves the appetite ... clears the skin ... and thru its regeneration of the red-blood-cells and hemoglobin I feel like myself again."

You, too, may have a clear skin

POOR OR

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

Elder Blossom Fills His Pintment at The Shiloah Church (Col.)

Well de fust Sunday in April, 1932 is here, an we is here, but mah good people, dar am lots ob folks whut wuz at church de fust Sunday in March dat aint at church today. An whut is more, it aint no fault ob theirs. Lots ob dem will nevah attend church no mo on dis earth, an lots ob dem aint able yit to go to de church, but Ah will vinture to sa dat some ob dem whut is gittin well ob their hurts will attend church mo regular atter de storm, dan da did befo. Hab you noticed dat de fust storm come on Monday ebenin, rite atter lots ob folks missed gwyin to church on de Sunday befo, and dat de second storm comes on Sunday ebenin while some ob dem same folks wuz out lookin at de havoc played by de fust one. Ah can see dat mah congregashun is biger to day dan usual. But fur what reason, Ah cant tell, lessen hit is because some ob you has got scared at las. Ah recon dat it is alright fur de Lord to scare folks to church, effen He cant git um dar no oder way. We sa some times dat it is too late to lock de stable doah, atter de mule is gone, or it is too late to pray atter de debil done come. But Ah recon it aint too late to dig storm pits atter de storm done come, because lots ob folks is at it rite now, an dats alrite, cause dar will come some more storms yit, dats enuf fur dat.

Let me read you a lessen foun in de Book ob Ecclesiastes, 11th chapter. Now Ah wants you all to stan an sing, "When de Roll is called up Yonder." (they stand and sing.) New be seated. De tex fur today is in dat same chapter, at de 9th vers, which reads dis way, "But know thou that for all these things, God will bring thee into judgment." Ah wants to preach a sermon ob repentance dis wawnin. Ah has ben preachin to de church most ob de time since Ah has ben her pastor, but Ah feels dis wawnin dat is some here dat ought to cept Christ. De writer ob de book whur mah lessen is foun, is called de preacher. In de 12 chapter, de 10th vers ob dat chapter he says, "The preacher sought to fin out acceptable words; an dat which was written was upright, eben words ob truth." Mah sinner frins, dar has ben church-houses and preachin in dem church-houses evah since you could remember. Ah will venture to say dat most ob you cant recall a time in all ob your life when dar wuz no church-house fur you to go to, an neither can you recall a time when dar waznt preachin in a church house near enough to you fur you to go. An in all ob dem sermons, de preacher sought out words dat he thought would cause you to stop an think. An in all ob dat time, you hab let dose words fall flat, an took no heed whatevah. Ah feels dat de reason dat sinners will not heed is because dey think de danger is so far away. Effen you will go wid me to any cemetery, Ah will show you dat dar is mo short graves than long ones, so de danger aint as far away as we might think sometimes. Brudders, Ah must tell you dis, Ah wuz walkin home one ebenin las week an a young man overtook me and exed me ter ride, an atter we gat started Ah axed him if he wuz a Christian, an whut do you think he sed? He sho did sprize me wid his anser. He sa, whut is dat? Ah wants to tell you, Ah jes cant splain de feelins dat Ah had, to think dat he had ben rite here in Chilton County all ob his life an den didnt no whut a Christian wuz, an he saw how Ah hesitated, an he say, does you want me to be a Christian? An Ah managed to sa yes, an he sa, well, you want me to be somethin dat no other person in dis country is. So Ah thought fast. Ah sought out words den Ah sa, aint yoah mother a Christian? An he sa, effen dar eber wuz one she wuz. An Ah sa, den yoah mother aint libin? An he sa, no she wuz killed in dat storm. Atter Ah told him how Ah sympathized wid him, Ah sa, when she lef dis earth, dar wuznt no moah Christians left den? Atter he locked up de road a little he sa, dar mought be a fiew left. So befo Ah lef him he promised me to try to meet his mother up yonder. Ah no, an so do you, why dat young man thought dar wuznt no Christian in dis country. It is because he cant see nobody actin lak one. We are not actin or livin our ligion, we is got it alrite, but it is under a bushel an dont shine out an unto de life ob sich young men as him. No mah sinnah friens, Ah cant make you be a Christian, Ah cant stop you fum sinnin, but Ah can tell you dat, fur all ob dese things, "God will bring you into judgment." Is you gwyin to let dis chance slip, jes lak you hab let all de others slip? Is you gwyin to pas up one more chance?

Ah wuz standin dar in Clanton one ebenin waitin fur dat traffick lite to change an a Brudder cums up to me an atter Ah howded wid him, Ah locked and it still sed stop. An Ah sed to anuder man whut wuz standin dar, aint dat lite nevah gwyin to change? An he sa, yes it changed once an den changed back. An Ah sa, well Ah lost mah chance to cross den, but bout dat time it changed, back an Ah had anuder chance. Now mah frins, you is got anuder chance, but Ahs not gwyin to promis you dat you will hab anuder chance atter dis one.

Des keep on turnin a deaf year to de Gospel. Des keep on refusin de offer ob salvation. Des keep on turnin down de chances whut de Lord gibs you. But remember dat fur all ob dese things, "God will bring you into judgment.

Ah wuz passin a house one time an saw a litle baby crawlin towards de edge ob de porch, an it wuz high ofen de groun, an Ah run in at de gate, which wuz hard to open, an cotch dat baby jes as it wuz fallin to de groun. You see, Ah took de chance to sabe dat baby when de chance come. Sposin Ah had stood in de road an let it fall, an sa, Ah'l ketch it nex time, an de baby had been killed. No, de time to take vantage ob a opportunity is when it is presented to us. Wont you take Jesus fur your Savior to day, while time an opportunity is afforded you?

Now Ah will close, but Ah mus read mah poem to you, cause Ah feels lak dis sermon wouldnt be complete widout it.

De gospel sounded in mah ears an
Convicted me ob sin;
An made me feel all broke up
An started a storm within.

Den Ah got on mah knees
An begun to pray;
Den de Lord cum in an tok
All mah sins away.

Will you not call on Him today?
An ob yo sins repent?
Fur all ob dese things will sholy be Brought into judgment.

Stan an be dismis.

ERRORS MADE IN ARTICLES WRITTEN BY LITTLEJOHN

In the article of Rev. E. H. Littlejohn in the Union-Banner of March 17th, in setting the type "the" was changed to "my," which somewhat altered the meaning. The writer intended to say: "Some may say, 'stay out of politics, they are rotten'. But that is not the case." The printer changed it to read: "That is not my case," which is incorrect and places the writer in a bigoted position which he did not assume.

Also in our article in the issue of March 24th regarding Rev. Littlejohn's speech at the courthouse on the Saturday afternoon before, we made a quotation from him which read: "And (the Anglo-Saxons) are found in greater numbers across the southwestern part of the United States than any other part of the world." This should have read "the southestern part."

The publishers assume all responsibility for these errors, and hope that they have not caused in the minds of any of our readers a wrong impression of the views and attitude of Rev. Littlejohn, who is a candidate for Commissioner from the Third District.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

On Friday of this week there will be a working at Pates Chapel church. The purpose is to tear down and rebuild. Doubtless as you noticed in an article of last week's paper that the house would be raised back on the blocks. We had a goodly number who responded but upon a thorough investigation by Perry Littlejohn, who was directing the work, decided that the best thing to do was to pull down and rebuild.

We are asking all who might be interested to meet us at the church early Friday morning and bring tools sufficient for the job mentioned above. The church building was swerved off the blocks during the twister that visited that community on March 21.

So come on and let us pull together and put this building (God's House) back in pre-storm condition. Mr. Littlejohn who is in charge of the work has promised to give his work in tearing down and rebuilding and also says he will give $5.00 extra, is enough to arouse the zeal of anyone, as he doesn't live in that community.

Mr. Littlejohn said: "I am making this offer simply because I cannot bear to see the church and school fail, knowing the vast importance of each."—M. Lockhart.

POOR OR

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

A call at Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association office Monday morning revealed that their manager, C. R. Foss, has returned to his duties in connection with the association, and with the assistance of Miss Christine Bosworth, was trying to check up the number of strawberry crates that the growers had taken in for this years crop and lost by the tornado.

This work is considered necessary that arrangements may be made that all growers hall have the crates needed to takd care of such crop as they may yet have after the freeze that took away the early berries.

The vines of the growers now indicate that there will be something of a crop to be harvested yet. The vines are blooming quite freely, but nothing like what the freeze destroyed, and there are quite a showing of newly formed berries as large as peas.

We also noticed in the office with Mr. Foss, Miss Laird, the Red Cross representative assigned to Thorsby, in charge of rehabilitation. We understand that 5 cases had been passed on and appropriations for rebuilding had been made for them. Miss Laird will continue this work as fast as possible, until all who come within the cases she is to deal with have been served.

Relief work which has headquarters in Thorsby Town Hall, for issuing supplies for storm sufferers, will still be carried on there, in charge of the local Red Cross Committee, and their volunteer assistants, which include many of the ladies of Thorsby, who are giving their services in relays sufficient to carry on the work without a hitch.

Managers in Red Cross work assigned to Alabama districts are greatly pleased with the team work exhibited by the people of Thorsby, and also, the generous and self sacrificing contributions of the people of the whole area, in contributions of money, goods, and service, for the benefit of storm sufferers.

Walter and Arnold Littleton are improving slowly in recovering from their injuries, Eugene has practically recovered. They are all staying with Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Billingsley. Mrs. Billingsley is a sister of Walter Littleton, who, with his son, Arnold, are still confined to bed.

From latest available reports of the tornadoes in Chilton County, there were 57 deaths. 263 injured. 151 homes destroyed and 53 houses damaged, which shows that Chilton County suffered considerably more than any other county in Alabama.

A report came over the radio from Washington, Tuesday morning, that Senator Hugo Black, Democrat of Alabama, will intorduce a bill appropriating five million dollars as a fund to be loaned to storm sufferers in Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky, for a term of 10 wears at five per cent per annum. No one loan to exceed five thousand dollars. It seems quite probable that this legislation can be speedily put through, as the money is to come from the great reconstruction fund already appropriated, and the committee in charge of that fund believe that the numerous small loans can better be handled by the states affected than by the reconstruction committee.

Mr. Ed Piper reports being very busy lately settling storm insurance claims, of which there were several among Thorsby storm sufferers.

Mrs. I. S. Gerald of Birmingham spent the week end in Thirsby. Mrs. Gerald, who spent last week in Birmingham, returned home with him.

Rev. Noble, a Methodist Evangelist from Indiana, accompanied by two ladies, enroute from Florida to their home, stopped for morning service at Thorsby Congregational Church Sunday.

There was a full house last Sunday night to hear Rev. Each deliver his steroptican lecture on the Phillippine Islands.

Rev. E. W. Butler went to Eclectic with Clyde Kink, Saturday afternoon, where Rev. Butler preached in a congregational church, whose pastor, Rev. Nelson, of Eastview, was absent.

Mr. J. B. Marlar and daughter, Mrs. Annie Thacker, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Mrs. Each, who has been ill with mumps the past week, is improving slowly.

Mrs. Connatser went to Birmingham Sunday for a few days visit.

Rev. J. W. Jones reports that he received from the Baptist Sunday School Board at Nashville, 50 Bibles for the storm sufferers, who lost their own.

Next Sunday will be regular preaching day, morning and night, at Thorsby Baptist Church.

Cecil Eeach, of Birmingham, was a visitor with home folks Sunday.

Mrs. Sam Pate, who has been ill for several days, is improving.

Mrs. W. F. Blood spent Sunday and Monday in Birmingham, visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walker, Mrs. E. L. Pate and H. L. Collins visited Montgomery Sunday.

The Congregational Ladies Aid meets this week, Thursday, with Mrs. Clyde Meade.

Mr. Grady Billingsley entertained a number of the younger set at a party last Saturday evening.

Effie Loue Nugent and her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Strange, are visiting this week at the home of Mrs. Strange's son, Mr. John Strange of Verbena.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gray of Ensley were week end visitors with Mrs. Gray's mother, Mrs. Enoch Adams. On Sunday they attended the funeral of Mrs. Gray's grandfather, Judge S. M. Adams. Judge Adams is well known in Thorsby as he is over the country.

Mr. V. H. Sutlive, wife and mother, Mrs. Janie Sutlive, left Saturday for Blakely, Ga., to visit Mr. Sutlives aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Freeman. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman having lately suffered quite a loss by fire. The Sutlives returned Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Gibbons of Prattville, were visitors here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Blackmon of Birmingham visited Mr. Ora Kelley Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. N. Laurell is in Birmingham for a visit of a week or ten days.

Mr. Moore is on a leave of absence from the First National Bank of Birmingham on account of illness.

Thorsby Institute gave up its annual school picnic in order to give money and provisions for the tornado sufferers. Friends in the Community Congregational church, Birmingham, sent money to the school to be applied where needed.

ZACK LOWERY FAVORS WEBB FOR COUNTY BOARD

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

I want to say a few words in the interest of Mr. S. J. M. Webb, who is a candidate for member of the Chilton County School Board. I have known Mr. Webb for several years and I have always found him to be upright and honorable and a man who is strong enough to stand for what he thinks is right.

He is a man who is educated sufficiently to understand the educational problems that arise. During his term many financial problems have come up and he together with the other members of the Board have weathered the storm and our schools have continued for the usual length.

Until Mr. Webb was elected, the central and eastern part of the county always furnished the members of the board, and to leave him off at this time would mean that we were again turning the entire county over to one section. Just to illustrate what I mean, suppose that Mr. Robinson is elected. He and Mr. Yates who is a present member of the Board, and whose term is for two more years, are citizens of the same community, and patrons of the same school. I am asking then, would it be fair to give that section double representation and leave the western side off?

I believe if Mr. Webb is re-elected that our schools will continue to progress and that our children will have educational advantages in Chilton county that we shall be proud of.—Yours for better education, Zack Lowery.

When TEETHING makes HIM FUSSY

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable is to see that little bowels do their work of carrying off waste matter promptly and regularly. For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently you can give it to young infants to relieve colic. Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—is absolutely harmless. When your baby is fretful with teething or a food upset, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name:

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

2-MULE OUTFIT LEADS TO BETTER FARMING

Auburn, Ala. — Through research study Prof. M. L. Nichols, of the department of agricultural engineering of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, has found that several distinct gains are made when a farmer changes from one-horse to two-horse equipment. Outstanding gains are (1) a reduction in per unit (pound, bushel, or gallon) of production, (2) opportunities for producing feed crops and raising livestock along with cotton, and (3) growing winter legumes for soil improvement and pasture.

Prof. Nichols explained that the cotton farmer who has only a one-mule outfit can do very little except produce cotton and his cotton costs are high because of the inefficient use of his time. With a two-horse outfit much of this handicap is removed. The man is twice as efficient, and man efficiency is the most important, he said.

GAINS IN LIVESTOCK WERE MADE IN 1931

Auburn, Ala. — Substantial progress was made in livestock farming in Alabama in 1931. The number of animals on farms increased, quality was improved, and better methods were practiced in feeding and in mangement.

These facts are recorded in the annual report of extension work last year presented to Director L. N. Duncan by F. W. Burns, Dr. R. S. Sugg, and C. M. Ling, extension animal husbandmen at Auburn, who work in cooperation with the county agents.

It is reported that all cattle increased 39,000 (from 771,000 to 810,00;) milk cows increased 19,000 (from 371,000 to 390,000;) dairy heifers increased 4,000 (from 100,000 to 104,000;) hogs increased 87,000 (from 870,000 to 957,000;) sheep increased 9,00 (from 50,000 to 59,000.) Horses declined 4,000 (from 62,000 to 58,000;) and mules declined 3,000 (from 322,000 to 319,000.)

PREPARE LAND WELL BEFORE PLANTING IT

Auburn, Ala. — One handicap in the production of corn in Alabama is poor preparation of the soil before the seed are planted. There is an old saying that when the land is prepared properly and seed planted the crop is half made.

Land properly prepared for planting corn is well broken and thorougly pulverized by harrowing, says director M. J. Funchess of the experiment statioin at Auburn. When this is done it is ready for planting. Land is much easier cultivated if properly prepared.

Corn planted on such land requires only shallow cultivation with weeders, harrows, or sweeps. Cultivation should be done often enough to keep weeds and grass under absolute control. Weeds and grass compete with corn for water and plant food. Hence their control is essential.

FARM BUREAU WINS GREAT TAX VICTORY

Montgomery, Ala., April 5.—Organized agriculture in America won a decisive victory when the United States House of Representatives rejected the sales tax as a part of the Federal revenue bill, said President J. Litt Edwards of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

The American Farm Bureau Federation and other farmer groups have strenuously fought the sales tax as placing an inequitable burden upon farmers and workers.

"It has been our contention that the consumers would have to pay such a tax, since the manufacturers would simply pass it on to the retailer, and the retailer to the consumer with pyramiding of taxing all along the line," Mr. Edwards said.

The American Farm Bureau Federation presented a comprehensive tax program to the House Ways and Means Committee showing how the government could balance its budget without resorting to a sales tax. It was shown that much additional revenue could be obtained from estates.

It was pointed out that a sharp increase in corporation income taxes, which are now 12 per cent, would yield a substantial increase in revenue.

The American Form Bureau Legislative Department has taken the position that increased taxes should be levied on those most able to pay, including corporations, salaried individuals, and recipients of estates and gifts.

Many of the Farm Bureau recommendations were incorporated into the revenue bill which was finally passed.

TO ELECT BOARD OF COTTON CO-OP

Montgomery, Ala., April 5. — Responsibility of electing a board of directors to manage the affairs of their association for another year will soon be facing members of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

J. A. Beatty, acting general manager, says that a primary election will be held in May and the final election about two or three weeks later. Final arrangements for the election will be made soon by the present board of directors, and details announced, he said.

Meanwhile, Mr. Beatty is urging that members be prepared to vote. He is of the oponion that they should carefully weigh the qualifications of the most available men and be ready to nominate them in the primary.

In the primary two nominees will be selected from each of the 14 districts. The two nominees from each district will become candidates for director and one of them will be named in the final election. Every member will have one and only one vote.

"Since it is through the directors they elect that members exercise control over their association it is important that able men be chosen," Mr. Beaty said. Members are urged to pick out the best man in their district and vote for him in the primary."

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

Production in the United States of all meats last year was 16,777,000,000 pounds, or 1.4 per cent more than in 1930. Consumption of meats is estimated at 16,530,000 pounds, or 1 per cent more than in 1980. Most of the surplus of production over sonsumption was exported.

Young singers between the ages of 18 and 25 are preparing to compete in the sixth annual Atwater Kent audition. County auditions are being planned in Alabama with a view to the state audition which will be broadcast from Station WAPI in Birmingham in the early fall. P. O. Davis of Auburn is state manager.

In the dominion of Canada there are now 728,244 farms, an increase of 2.4 per cent over 1921, according to the latest statistics received by the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Naional Railways. More than half of these are in the five eastern provinces of Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Qusbec, and Ontario.

Writing in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post, ex-president Calvin Coolidge said that governmental expenditures in the United States rose from $1,570,000,000 in 1903 to $13,048,000,000 in 1929, the last year of "prosperity" tax returns. He declared that nearly one-fourth of the net income of farmers and railroads was demanded for taxes and that other industries were seriously handicapped.

Information received by L. O. Brackeen, of the State Department of Agriculture and Industries, Montgomery, indicates that over $2,500,000 worth of farm homes, buildings, livestock, feeds, foods, poultry, and timber was destroyed by the cyclone of March 21. The estimates were made by county agents. More than 1,700 farm homes and buildings were demolished, and others badly damaged. The majority of people killed were farm people.

POULTRY

CHICKENS REQUIRE GOOD GREEN FEED

Auburn, Ala.—Green feed is essential to success with poultry and R. Y. Bailey, extension poultryman at Auburn, says that sudan grass planted in April will make a good spring feed crop. It may be planted any time during the summer. If mowed to prevent maturing of seed it will give a good and quick second crop.

"Soybeans make probably the best and most suited summer green feed crop for the entire state. It is better to plant these in April or May. The October, or Laredo varieties are recommended since they are a fine stem plant with long growing period. Soybeans, when allowed to get six or eight inches high before chickens are turned on them, will supply green feed until frost.

"Cowpeas may also be used as a summer green feed crop. However chickens do not relish them as a rule."

FARMERS WISE IN INCREASING CORN, OAT AND HAY ACREAGE

Alabama farmers are using good judgment in planning to incerase their corn acreage 7 per cent, oat acreage 30 per cent and hay acreage 12 per cent over last year but a 20 per cent increase of peanuts is of doubtful wisdom unless preparations are made to feed the crop to hogs, declares F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician, who warns that a 35 per cent increase in the sweet potato crop can hardly be marketed at profitable prices.

TORNADOES DAMAGE FARMS $3,000,000

Tornadoes during March damaged Alabama farmers by $3,000,000, reports county agents of the Alabama Extension Service, Auburn, to the department of agriculture. Heavy damage was done to farm homes, buildings, livestock, feed, food, poultry and timber.

Counties hardest hit by the tornadoes include, Marengo, Perry, Hale, Chilton, Bibb Tuscaloosa, Shelby, Talladega, Clay, Randolph, Cullman, Chambers, Jackson and Morgan.

FERTILIZER SALES GRADUALLY INCREASING

Planting season has brought about a gradual increase in the sale of fertilizer to Alabama farmers, but the tonnage is still below that of last year. The state department of agriculture reports that 101,700 tons have been sold compared with 242,556 tons at the same time last year.

CHEAPER FERTILIZER OBJECT OF NEW BILL

Represtative J. Lister Hill, Alabama, has introduced into the House of Representatives a bill to put Muscle Shoals to work manufacturing fertilizer for the farmers.

The House Committee on Military Affairs has approved the bill which will receive early consideration by the house. If the bill is passed the fertilizer is to be offered to farmers or their authorized agents at a profit not to exceed 8 per cent of the cost of production and sale.

The bill creates a Government Board to lease the $150,000,000 plant at Muscle Shoals but if the lease is not obtained in 18 months the Board would be required to operate the plant, though at any time thereafter a leake might be contracted. Preference as a leasee is accorded to non-profit corporations exclusively owned and controlled by organization of farmers.

It is reported that many farmers are writing Representative Hill, in Washington, D. C., congratulating him upon his efforts to obtain cheaper fertilizer. Others are writing their representatives and senators urging them to support the bill which is known as the Hill Muscle Shoals Bill.

TIMBER GROWTH DISTURBED BY THE FREAKISH WEATHER

Montgomery, Ala., April 4.—The abnormal weather conditions prevalent during the past two years have made impress on the growth of forest trees, says Colonel Page S. Bunker, Alabama State Forester. The severe droughts characterizing 1930 and 1931 naturally restricted the development of wood through the deficiency in water and the forcing of the trees into their dormant state earlier than usual in the fall.

During the present spring another factor occasioning considerable harm has been the occurence of tornadic winds in various sections of the state. Such winds often cause the formation of what is known as compression wood. This is due to the bending of the growing trees to the extent that cellular deformation results, which in turn impairs the structural strength of the wood for certain purposes. This difficulty can be overcome somewhat by proper sawing in the course of manufacture and by using the lumber for purposes which will not be affected by this particular defect.

VERBENA 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Verbena 4-H Club met Friday night, March 25th, at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of electing officers for the year 1932. The following officers were elected:

Chester Messer, President; Herman Dubose, Vice President; Melton Hughes, sec'y,-treas; John A. Scott, reporter; Robert Williams, song and yell leader; adult leader, Mr. C. H. Hiten.

Plans were then made for attend- the rally.—Reporter.

OWL PATROL

Our patrol went to Lay Dam fishing last Tuesday in Sidney's Model T. Ford. She would coast down hill and we would push up hill. We fished here and there until 11:30, and we started dinner. We were cooking on top of a long hill. While we were cooking, somebody put a dead fish on Wade Alford's and Dan Sanford's hook, then they called them. They ran all the way down the hill. They liked to had a fit when they saw the dead fish, but after all it was a good joke to see them climb the hill again.

After dinner we went above the dam and borrowed some boats to go fishing. Sidney and Hubert were rocking the boat and a crazy trout jumped in the boat.

We visited the Lay Dam Scout Patrol room. They have a great many arrowheads. They have a wireless rigged up from somewhere. We rambled about the powerhouse the rest of the evening and got the lizzie cranked and came home. Owl's Patrol signing off till next week.—John Thomas Marlar, reporter.

Central Singing Society

The society had a fine singing last Sunday afternoon at Chestnut Creek, Coopers. There was a large class, and the singing considerably better than usual at that place. The scarcity of books handicapped the singing considerably. If anyone has a Henson or Stamps book, and if you are not going to attend a singing, please let somebody who is going to attend have the book. We must have more books, else our singings are going to suffer; and we are not able to buy any more books.

The society meets next Sunday afternoon at Walnut Creek. It is hoped that a good crowd will be present at this place, as it was rained out there two months ago. So, all singers in this section, make a special effort to attend next Sunday afternoon, and bring every book that you can scrape up; and let's have a good singing. Spring is now opening up, and everybody ought to feel like singing.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1932, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for April 3

GOD IN CREATION

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:1-5, 26-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.
PRIMARY TOPIC—In the beginning —God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God the Creator.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Maker of All Things.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God in Creation.

Genesis, the book from which the lessons of the quarter are taken, as its name indicates, is a book of beginnings. It contains the only reliable information we have of the origin of the heavens and the earth, plant and animal life, human life, human institutions, and human relations. Without it we would be absolutely ignorant as to the origin of these fundamental things. The first chapter of the book from which our lesson is taken is one of the most wonderful in the Bible. Indeed, it is the key to the whole Bible.

I. God (v. 1).

He was before all things. He had no beginning. Everything but God had a beginning. God, the uncaused cause, is the cause of all things. "Before the mountains were brought forth or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God" (Ps. 90:2.)

II. The Origin of the Universe (v. 1).

It was created by God. All things came into being by the will and act of a personal God. The Hebrew word translated "create," according to reliable authority, is the strongest word which the Hebrew language has to express the idea of the origination of substance. The first four words of the Bible exhibit the one fundamental, all-pervasive principle of philosophy of every right life. In the beginning of the universe—God. In the beginning of all science and philosophy—God. In the beginning of every life—God. In the beginning of every year—God. In the beginning of every day—God. In the begining of every business—God. In the beginning of every human relationship—God. In the beginning of every thought—God.

III. The Degeneration of the Earth (v. 21).

Between verses one and two is a clearly marked interval of perhaps long duration. The earth which was created by God was later overtaken in a cataclysmic judgment. The Hebrew word for "was" might just as well have been translated "became." Instead, therefore, the earth having been created a void or chaos, we see that it became chaos through a judgment. In Isaiah 45:18 the prophet expressly declares that God did not create the earth a waste, but that he formed it to be inhabited.

IV. The Regeneration of the Earth (vv. 3-25).

As previously noted, the second verse of Genesis does not describe the state of the earth when it first came from the Creator's hands, but a changed condition which took place subsequent thereto. The following verses reveal a new effort of creative power by which the earth is again fitted up for the habitation of man. The power active in this reorganization is the Holy Spirit. On the first day the voice of the Almighty was heard saying, "Let there be light," and the darkness was dispelled by the light. In the second day the expanse or firmament was made which separates the waters above the firmament from those below it. The third day dry land appeared clothed with vegetation. The fourth day witnessed the appearance of the lightholders, the sun, moon, and stars. They were not created then, but set free from darkness and ruin. On the fifth day fish and birds were created and on the sixth day cattle, creeping things, beasts of the field, and man.

V. The Origin of Man (vv. 26-31).

He was created by God. This precludes the foolish idea that man ascended from or through the brute. He came into being through a special creative act of God. This image and likeness is not physical or bodily, but intellectual and moral (Eph. 4:24; Col. 3:10). God's likeness is reflected in man's three-fold nature. Man is spirit, soul, and body (I Thess. 5:23). As there is a trinity and unity in God so there is a trinity in man. Spirit is that part of man by which he has the power to know God. Soul is self-conscious life, the seat of man's emotions and desires. The body is the seat of the senses, enabling man to have world consciousness. God made man to be a personality capable of having fellowship with himself, and with whom he could share his glory.

Song of Peace

The belfries of all Christendom now roll along the unbroken song of peace on earth, good will to men!—Longfellow.

Paths to Triumph

"God's trials nobly borne in obedience to his righteous will are the paths to victorious triumph."

A Favorable Light

Faith takes in a favorable light even what seems adverse.—Bengel.

Dr. T. H. Neighbors returned to Goodwater Monday, after the week end spent here with his family.

BETHSALEM SUNDAY SCHOOL

Our Sunday school was called to order last Sunday morning at ten o'clock by our superintendent, Mr. C. L. Wilkins. We had a fine lesson. It was taken from the first chapter of Genises.

Our subject for next Sunday's lesson is, "Our responsibility of Sin." Let us all study to find why we have sin.

The B. Y. P. U. is doing fine. Our contest closed the fourth Sunday in March, with group No. 2 winning. Group No. 1 gave the winning group a social at the home of Mrs. Melton Morris Saturday night.

We are starting another contest this quarter with the Bible reading added. Group No 1 is anxious to win out in this one. I think No. 2 will have a hard fight if she wins this one.

The W. M. U. ladies are doing excellent work. They have been making quilts for the people in the storm district. They are also filling the needs of some of the ones that are in need at home.

We want to meet Sunday afternoon and organize a singing society. We extend to each one of you readers a hearty welcome to come and be with us at any of these services. —The reporter, Mabel Wilkins .

An old codger was crossing a busy corner when a huge police dog dashed into him and bowled him over. The next instant an Austin skidded around a carner, bumped him, inflicting more severe bruises.

Bystanders assisted him to his feet and someone asked him if the dog had hurt him.

"Not exactly," he replied, "It was the tin can tied to his tail that did the most damage."

CHEVROLET PRICES REDUCED

And Issues an Important Statement of Policy for 1932

The leader always leads in giving value. Chevrolet—world's largest builder of cars for three out of the past five years—now takes pleasure in announcing substantial price reductions on the new Chevrolet Six.

These reductions were announced on the eve of the national exhibits of General Motors products which, were opened in the leading cities of the country, featuring special displays of various Chevrolet models.

The revised scale of Chevrolet prices now starts with a base price of $445, F. O. B. Flint, Michigan. This is the lowest figure at which a Chevrolet passenger car has ever sold.

Quality Will Be Maintained

The new Chevrolet Six is the same well-known product that was introduced to the public only a short time ago—and immediately won such a wide following. It offers you the built-in smoothness, quietness and flexibility that can only be achieved along with maximum economy in a six-cylinder engine. It offers that matchless driving combination—silent, non-clash synchro-mesh gear-shifting combined with free wheeling. It offers big, spacious Fisher bodies—styled gracefully long and low—and built of wood and steel—the same construction used on practically all high-priced cars today. It offers the same modern spring construction used in costly cars—four long, semi-elliptic springs, mounted parallel to the frame, and equipped with hydralic shock absorbers. In addition, the new Chevrolet Six possesses the same basic design and construction that millions of Chevrolet owners have proved in billions of miles of service. Its dependability, durability and economy are known quantities.

The Six Will Be Continued

In making this announcement of new lower prices—Chevrolet issues an important statement of policy:

Chevrolet will keep on building a six. Our recently announced six has met with such widespread approval that it is our intention to continue with a six-cylinder engine.

Chevrolet pioneered the six in the field of low-priced automobiles, and today Chevrolet is more than ever convinced that a six-cylinder engine is the ideal type for a car of lowest price. The six is the one type of engine that strikes a perfect balance of smooth performance and maximum economy.

With anything less than a six, motoring enjoyment is sacrificed. For it is a well-known engineering fact that six cylinders are the fewest that can be used in a car and avoid inherent vibration. Anything more than six cylinders and Chevrolet's unexcelled economy would be sacrificed. Chevrolet has proved that a six-cylinder motor can be engineered to operate at lower cost than any other type. And Chevrolet is committed to the policy of providing the utmost in motoring enjoyment that can be secured along with economy of operation.

Before deciding on any new low-priced automobile—read over Chevrolet's new reduced prices, and compare them with the prices of any other car in Chevrolet's field. Compare what you get for every dollar that you pay. Then, you cannot fail to recognize the significant fact that the Chevrolet Six is now, more than ever, the great American value.

THE DISASTROUS STORM

Just as the paper was going to press last week a windstorm like unto which was never before known in this state struck with the suddenness of a thunderbolt in as many as twenty communities and left about 300 dead and probably 2,500 injured, some of them maimed for life, and 7,000 homeless.

Time was when such a catastrophe would have been considered a special visitation of Providence upon the people by reason of their sin. But the people of the stricken areas are not sinners above other people of the state.

It simply means that nature in running its benign course sometimes "kicks out of harness" and the people who happen to be in the way when the breaks in its regular order occur, suffer.

Such disastrous freaks in nature usually occur in the spring when there is a sliding from the colder to the warmer season, or in the fall when there is a change from the warmer to the colder season. In the spring the disturbances usually take form of cyclones or tornadoes; in the fall the form of hurricanes, which sweep in from the West Indies.

Not much can be said here which will suffice to comfort those who have lost their loved ones and homes. Yet such calamities do afford a new evidence of the fact that there is still left much of human kindness in the world. The whole unaffected parts of the state were at once mobilized so as to render all service possible to the stricken towns and communities. Doctors and nurses from Birmingham and other cities sped in various directions to help the helpless; the city's ambulances were running all night; by order of the governor the national guard acted with decision and promptness to prevent looting; the Red Cross came quickly to the scene and took over relief measures; private citizens offered their service and thousands have contributed money, food and clothing to the sufferers.—Alabama Baptist.

An emminent lecturer is quoted as saying that Germany has suffered twice as much from the American tariff as from the World War. Next thing you know the free traders will be blaming the black plague of the Middle Ages on the Smoot-Hawley bill.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

In his recent book on war debts, David Lloyd George, Great Britain's nimble statesman, who is always an interesting and entertaining writer, blames Andrew J. Mellon, former Secretary of the United States treasury, and Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative party in Great Britain, for what he professes to believe are the hard terms which Great Britain got in the funding of its war debt to the United States.

There is much to be said on the subject, of course, and much of it was said and said well by Henry J. Haskell, editor of the Kansas City Star, in a letter recently written to the London Times, and published in that newspaper. Mr. Haskell states that as an American he supposes he ought to be gratified with the high tribute paid the American debt commissioners in their dealings with the British government by Lloyd George, adding that "we had not realized that our commissioner had out-traded Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Montagu Normen." Continuing Mr. Haskell writes:

"Mr. Lloyd George exclaims with amazement that the settlement if carried out will involve the payment of considerably more than twice our original debt. Alas, that unhappy situation has been deplored by many private borrowers who have been so unfortunate as to be compelled to liquidate a debt over a long term of years.

"But there seems no escape under the modern capitalistic system. Mr. Lloyd George's real complaint against the scoundel who invented interest."

Mr. Haskell in his letter infers that if there is to be any change in the debt settlements this will have to be done along the line of capacity to pay, which was the principle used in the original settlements. And in passing may we not ask whether this standard of "capacity to pay" may not be a two-edged sword. Can it not go up as well as down? Whenour settlement with France was made, the French capacity, owing to domestic financial difficulties was very low. But since that time, gold has flown into French coffers by the shipload and France is now in much better condition to pay its debts than a half dozen years ago. The question now is, if the capacity to pay is increased at any time, will the nations who owe us agree to increase their payments? You may answer this one yourself, but please smile when you do it.

In conclusion, Mr. Haskell writes:

"But may I point out, incidentally, that general cancellation of the interallied debts would not cancel debts of more than $10,000,000,000 still owing in the United States. Somebody must pay for these outstanding bonds. Cancellation would merely transfer the burden of payment from European to American taxpayers. In closing, may I express the admiration shared by my fellow-countrymen for the courage and fair dealing of Mr. Baldwin and the British government in making good their pledged word and agreeing to an honest settlement of an honest debt."

Here is the rub. These debts cannot be cancelled. If Europe does not pay them the American taxpayer will have to. Internationalists in our country glibly talk about cancelling the debts, as though our passing up what the allied governments owe us would cause the obligation to vanish into thin air. As Mr. Haskell points out, nothing could be further from the truth. There is no question of debt cancellation. The question is whether we permit the European nations who owe us, to transfer the burden of their debts on to the American taxpayer who already feels that he is paying for the World War several times.

SAMUEL MEMORY ADAMS

The writer has often contemplated this day when we should come to speak our last tribute to the life of Samuel Memory Adams, a man who has made a deep and lasting impression upon the pages of Chilton County's and Alabama's history.

Samuel Memory Adams. The name is significant. His memory will live throughout the years, even after those of us who have known him personally and intimately have passed from this life.

The history of Chilton County and of Alabama can not be adequately written without taking into account the life and service of this man.

Rev. Ezell, in the funeral services Sunday, made the best estimate of the man when he said: "Judge Adams was a man of very decided and uncompromising convictions. The temper of his wonderful mind and the warmth of his tender and loving heart made for him hundreds of friends who would have died by him; and also many enemies who fought him to the last ditch. He was a man of great courage. He spoke his convictions without fear or favor. He used very little of the things called policy. He hewed to the line of his convictions and let the chips fall wherever they would."

As a politician, Judge Adams was both a success and a failure. He rose from obscurity and reached the zenith of his career in the days when Populism was a power in Alabama politics. As a leader and champion of that movement he was known and honored throughout the whole State of Alabama. Then it was he became Probate Judge of Chilton County, which office he held for six years.

But Judge Adams was too plain, blunt, and straightforward to hold political success. When his mind and heart and conscience refused to allow political policy to outweigh his honest convictions, his political power began to wane.

Our estimate of the great worth of this man's life would not be his place in politics. Far greater would we value him as a kind, loving, sacrificing, serving Christian. In this respect he gave away every dollar of earthy possessions that ever came into his hands. Wealth and power were nothing to him. Service to his fellowman was everything. For half a century he was an active minister in the Baptist church. He was recognized as one of the most powerful preachers in Alabama.

Impetuous though his nature was, and much given to fiery outbursts, yet he was as patient as Job. He was tried in the fiery furnace of disappointment all through his life. More than once he was given to bear the loss of a son or daughter of great promise just budding into flower of usefulness. One by one these hopes were plucked from him until he was left to face the end of his way alone and unassisted.

But he never turned his face away from God. "Though he slay me, yet will I trust Him," was his expression of the faith which he held toward God and His all-wise providence.

His last days were spent in the comfort of the Masonic Home for old people at Montgomery. He had been a member of the Masonic Fraternity for a long time. At his funeral and burial at Clanton Sunday, the last rite was pronounced by a great gathering of his brethren of that noble order.

HURRICANES—QUESTIONS

"Does God send hurricanes and tornadoes?" "For what purpose do they come?" "Are they for punishment?"

Such questions will arise. Men are not satisfied to live in an unexplained universe. We are ever seeking out causes.

Our answers to these questions will depend on our conceptions of God and of the world. Many church members (even) go to the Old Testament for their conception of God. And that in spite of Jesus' authoritative: "You have heard that it was said—but I say unto you." Jesus teaches that God is so good that he treats everybody alike—the ban and the good. Hhe does not play favorites. He loves His loveless children just as much as his loving children. He is in no hurry to destroy or even to punish the wicked. He says, "Let both grow until the harvest," at which time the quality of the fruit will inexorably determine its destiny. Rain, wind, sunshine do not pick and choose on any basis of character those upon whom they shall fall. (Read Matthew 5:45-48 and Luke 13:1-5). These catastrophic visitations are not of the nature of retributions for evil deeds.

We do not claim to "understand all mysteries and all knowledge." No mind can comprehend anything greater than itself. A mind that could fully comprehend God would be greater than God—and could overthrow Him at will. A human mind can comprehend a machine or a dog. But neither dog nor machine can understand a man. So man cannot understand all the purposes of God.

And yet we are left entirely in the dark. God is more and more revealing himself to man,—as man applies himself to the search for truth. And we must remember that all truth is God's truth. There is no truth—of biology, geology, chemistry, electricity, sociology, religion, or of anything else—that is not God' truth. Truth is one. So the scientist by discoveries through his patient toil and carful watching is helping us to know more and more about God's ways of working in the world.

Science has taught us that this planet upon which we live is neither perfect nor completed. It is not like a clock finished and wound up and left to run itself, except when some outside force is exerted upon it to alter its movements. It is rather like dough in the process of being leavened and baked. And so we have uneven movements—collapses and earthquakes, and droughts and wind storms and floods. A disturbance here may cause a different and even greater disturbance yonder. Conditions of life cannot be settled and certain in an unfinished world. But is not this very quaility of uncertainty essential to the growth of character? And is that not our mission in this world? This is a poor world for absolute safety of life and limb and peace of mind. But it is a great testing ground for citizens of the kingdom of God.

No, God doesn't will the storm that destroys—just as he did not will the cruelty that nailed Jesus to the cross. But, although he did not will the cross, he did will the Christ that died on it, so while he does not will the storm that robs and mains and kills, he does will the love and sympathy and sacrifice of those who help the sufferers. To respond thus is to grow like unto God.—Abbeville Herald.

Necessity Knows No Law

The Central Alabama Hospital was closed on March 20, after which time no patients were to be admitted. In the county papers of the issue of March 17, in commenting on the closing of this institution, warning was sounded that the time would come when Clanton and Chilton County would feel the need for the hospital. Just how soon this prophecy would be fulfilled could not be known at that time. On March 21, just the next day after the closing, we experienced the greatest catastrophe in our history—the tornado which took over fifty lives, and left hundreds injured and homeless. Luckily, the instruments and other materials for first aid could be easily gotten to, due to the short time attendants had had to get everything in shape for closing—they had not been removed, and some were not packed. Just suppose we had not had that hospital, or that no instruments or materials had been available on the night of the storm. As it was, the hospital, as well as other doctors offices and clinics of the town and county, were all over-run, and if the Central Alabama hospital had not been able to take the major portion of the injured, it would have been a hopeless situation. Without doubt there would have been several more deaths to report. I have heard that there were some with whom the emergency opening did not set well. If there were, they should feel deep remorse that they have so little thought for the welfare of their fellowmen. Right here I wish to commend Dr. V. J. Gragg for his action in opening the hospital. I don't care how many mortgages were plastered on it, I hate to believe that there is a human with so little conscience as to censure this action. If Dr. Gragg, as well as other doctors of the town, should close up right now, and never do another creditable deed, Chilton County owes them a debt which cannot be paid with money. Dr. Gragg should have the commendation of everyone, instead of censure, for his action in opening the hospital on his own initiative in our hour of greatest need. Our doctors, all of them, are due nothing but praise for the manner in which they went about their work of mercy in that crisis. Another thing—I do not believe Clanton and Chilton County can afford to let our hospital close, even now. That it must close, for lack of support, is a blot upon those of this vicinity who have the means and are in a position to save the situation. That we will feel the need of this institution again, and again, I am sure. Just how soon, nobody knows.

Cleaning My Plow

As I walked along up the street one day last week, I overheard the following: "The Man in the Moon is going to get his plow cleaned pretty soon. I expect Charley Cooper will do it for him next week." Ho-hum! I wish somebody would tell me something I don't know or expect. I don't expect anything but a plow cleaning now and then. If I don't get it cleaned for me now and then it might get all choked up to the point where it wouldn't do first class work, and I don't want that to happen. In fact, I am disappointed at times when I don't get a "come-back"—it looks too much like I am being completely ignored. Sometimes I give a kick "in the slats" in an effort to find if there is any life in what I am kicking. If I don't get a kick in return, I know the "kick-ee" is either whipped or dead. No, folks, don't think I don't like to see a fellow stand up for his beliefs. In fact I like to see him do it. It would make me feel bad to know that I had kicked something dead. If you ever feel like kicking back, just let 'er rip.

A Democrat's Prayer

Oh, great ruler over the party affairs of us poor Democrats: Hear the prayer of this poor old "follow the leader" Democrat. Thou knowest that I am ashamed, deep down in my heart, every time I walk up to the polling place and cast my vote for men and principles for which I am not really in favor. Thou knowest that I only do it because pap did, and because all my family always have. I am ashamed to face my brothers and sisters, who know how I really feel, politically. But would be more ashamed to face them after being the first of our family to break ranks and vote the Republican ticket. Moreover, I am ashamed that I haven't the backbone to back my convictions with my vote, but what am I to do about it? There I have hollered my head off about white supremacy, nigger equality, and a lot of other things I know there is nothing to, and I can't afford to turn about and vote for the party I have been throwing all these things at. Of course, I know my brother Democrats feel the same way I do about the matter, but they just will not admit it. That puts me in a quandary—my vote is not my own. I wish I could muster courage enough to be my own master, but I would be called a traitor to my family tradition and their old party belief. I would buck up and do what I believe is right, but I am afraid I might be laughed at and pointed at. And, so, as another election draws nigh, let not my action be held against me, since I have made a clean breast of my real feelings. Even as I go up and vote for the dear old "lily whiters," let there be enough good staunch Republicans to carry the election, anyway. And, when the votes are all counted after the election next fall, I promise to be one of the very first to shout over the Republican victory which I hope is to come, even though I do have to go off somewhere where nobody can hear me, or breathe a prayer of thanks even though I must whisper it. Such is the humble prayer of this poor old trouble ridden Democrat. Amen.

Who's Who

Beginning next week, I expect to begin a series of "Who's Who" articles about various men and women of Chilton County. And it will not carry names of a few so-called "high-ups", either. Any man or woman may be called on for information about themselves. I expect to include doctors, lawyers, farmers, merchants, bankers, in fact any man or woman who has proved that he or she is a go-getter and worthy of mention in connection with their chosen profession. At the end of each of these articles, the name of the person to be "written up", so to speak, for the next week, will be given. For next week I expect to write about Mr. John Dewey Rockett, who, with his father, operates the Clanton Building and Supply Company, in Clanton. I hope to make this series very interesting. Look for it, beginning next week.

Glimpses from the Moon

More storm pits; I believe nearly everybody is going to dig one. Going through the storm area again; every time I go through, I see something I didn't see before. There's a mother cat carrying one of her kittens by the nape of the neck; makes me think of that old saying that a cat is warned, and that she always moves her kittens to a place of protection. "Uncle Monroe Parrish" in town; the old boy is picking up these days; believe I'll weigh him. Politics seems to be slow in picking up the loose ends of the rope, from where the storm broke it. A while back the war was all over the front pages of the papers; the kidnapping of "Lindy's" baby crowded that out; then the storm came; and now the old war is staging a come-back. Oh, well, somebody says a political race is one fool thing after another, and that a romance is two fool things after each other. That's that.—Man in the Moon.

It is said that many merchants in middle Western towns are now specifying that merchandise purchased by them be sent by rail and not by truck, and are refusing to accept truck shipments. Public sentiment on the railroad question has changed remarkably in the past few years, as the people come to realize what a valuable taxpayer the railroad is.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

In traveling over the storm smitten section I found scores of people with pick and shovel, digging storm pits. With the information these people had they were acting the part of wisdom. They knew that a terrific storm had swept over them, and they did not know when another would come. The idea of preparation had seized their minds, and they were using common sense, so that they would be prepared when the next storm came. Wish that I could get people at large to act with the same kind of wisdom in regard to the coming of judgment day. The fellow was not certain that another storm would ever come, but he was mighty sure to have him a storm pit in case that it did come. We all know that the judgment is coming—there is no uncertainty about it, but as long as we do not know when, we put off the matter of preparation. Better be using common sense and, "Prepare to meet thy God."

A few days ago I heard a woman praising the Red Cross. She said that it was the finest, the best and the most efficent organization in the world. I did not attempt to dispute anything she said, but deep down in my heart there was a rebellion against such statements. I will admit that the Red Cross is wonderful in handling cases of need, but it only handles what is given it. The source of supply, the feeding stream, of the Red Cross is none other than the church of the living God, none other than the Christian religion. If our churches did not stand for, and eternally proclaim the humanitarian idea the Red Cross could not exist. In fact the Red Cross is nothing more than organized Christianity in action. Its very emblem—the Cross, comes to it from the church. The Red Cross is good, but the church of God is better. Never allow your mind to put anything ahead of your church.

Recently I saw a strange sight in a civilized country. Men and women, boys and girls, congregated at a feeding station and dropped into a breadline. Each one had a plate and they were marching past a table, receiving food supply. It may have been a bit humiliating to some who were in the line to thus make application for help, but it was far better to do this than it was to stand away on pride and starve to death. They were hungry and the food was there for them, and why remain out of the line and starve. God has established a bread supply table at every church in America. On his table can be found, "The Living Bread that comes down from above." It is free, it is abundant, and it is easily obtained. When you see a person going to church on Sunday, he is in God's bread line. The foolish and the pride possessed, refuse to step into this line, and they starve their souls. Better see to it that you are in God's bread line every Sabbath. You have got to feed your soul from God's table, or it will starve.

I stood just over the lime line and watched two teams playing ball on the diamond. Soon I discovered that there was no contest, they were playing for entertainment, and not with a passion to win. The side that was on the plate lounged around, drug about and did nothing. The boys in the field made no effort to stop the balls. There was nothing to the game. I see scores of people on the diamond of life acting the same way. They are without a passion to win. They drift about like rubbish on the bosom of a pond. Life is a game, life is a contest, life has in it something to be won or lost. Put yourself into the game and make it interesting. Have a passion to win. Play the part of a real man where you stand.

A lady phoned another lady about a dinner that the church was going to serve, and asked would she accept an assigned task. The lady at the other end of the line was loaded for the occasion and she hastily shot her afflictions back at the one who was making the appeal for help. She wanted to help and was so sorry that she could not, but she thought that it was best that she remain quiet at home. On the very day when the dinner was served, that lady was spinning around her home like a top, and in the afternoon she was in her car on the highway. Another lady was asked and the job was done willingly and done well. If you want to find out, "What ails" a woman, or what ails a man, just ask them to do something of a public nature. That is one time when we ride our rheumatism, we lean lightly on our sprained ankle, we nourish our splitting headaches with great care, but we are ourselves just as soon as we are alone. After all, folks are funny things.

An aged lady said to me the other day: "The reason why I do not want whiskey to come back, is because I have fourteen grand sons." That is reason enough. It really looks strange that men could be so uncivilized as to advocate the return of whiskey. In Montgomery a few nights ago a man was before an audience advocating the return of the saloon, and actually running for office on that platform. Wonder if that man has sons and daughters to be thrown into the greedy jaw of the whiskey traffic. If so he is a racketeer of the deepest dye.

Judge Adams Passes On

Judge S. M. Adams, prominent in the history of Alabama for many years has passed from this world to that eternal resting place which was his hope throughout a long and turbulent life. He was friend of many. He had many enemies. This is not a reflection upon his career. It is testimony that he was a man who did things; a man of conviction; a man of power. His life was a blessing to the generation in which he lived. He served, he labored, he suffered. His cross was heavy. He bore it without flinching. With every trial, with every added burden, his faith in God grew stronger. That he now rests in peacefulness, awaiting the righteous judgment of the God he loved and served is the blessed assurance of those who shared his acquaintance in this life.

Building Storm Pits

Most everybody is building storm pits. Others are talking about it. Others are writing about it. Hence, I feel that I may as well say a word on the subject. First, I will say that I am building one myself. I hope I have not waited too late to start. I believe it is wisdom to prepare for the emergencies and disasters of this world the same as it is wisdom to prepare one's soul against that day that shall try our souls for a place in the world that is to come hereafter.

What Makes The Storms

I do not believe God sends the storms for vengeance upon people. I do not believe he sends diseases for vengeance upon people. I believe God made the universe and instituted certain laws that are immutable. Certain conflicts arise when these forces or laws happen to come into conflict. One such instance is the storm and winds. I do not believe God caculates in advance where the storm shall strike or who it shall kill. He gave us gumption enough to know that a storm may come our way, and if we do not care enough for our lives to be prepared to withstand the forces of nature in irrepressable conflict, we will perish. If we do not guard against the laws of God we would soon lose our health and perish. If we do not prepare our souls in the kingdom of this world, we will not be fit for God's greater and glorious kingdom that is in the next world, the spiritual world.

UNDER HIS WINGS, OR A TALE OF THE STORM

(By Rev. Wm. F. Price, Selma)

A Chilton County farmer built his little home in the valley beside a small stream, and under the brow of a little hill, almost a mountain. For said he, we can live here in safety beside the still waters, and plow and sow and reap, and pluck the flowers of pleasure in honest toil, and live close to nature, and worship nature's God. And so he lived and loved and laughed and labored on, and the birds of the valley echoed a sweet melody of song in his own breast as he waited for the harvest, knowing there were nine little birdies in the nest of his own home, and eleven mouths to feed from the product of his toil, so he labored willingly on and was happy.

"Who hath known the mind of the Lord? How unsearchable are His judgments, and His ways past finding out"! For as the evening shadows began to fall there came a mighty roaring, surging, whirling and twisting spectre of death over that mountain, and picked up that little house of Jack Latham's, with his wife and nine children, and scattered them—house, furniture, barn, stock, children and all, like a whirlwind scatters the leaves. The little home was caught in the very vortex of the terrible storm, and the timbers scattered over a radius of perhaps half a mile. Every tree on the premises was uprooted, torn and twisted and dashed to earth again, as by some mighty monster from an unseen world. There was hardly one stone of the foundation left upon another, and an automobile in the yard was so completely wrecked that every wheel and tire and the top were torn off. But the finding of the family of husband, wife and nine children presents the greatest enigma of the whole puzzling business. Remember the premises were almost swept clean and the home nowhere to be seen. It was scattered piece by piece over an area perhaps a half mile in circumference, with now and then a twisted iron bed to be seen a long way off. But the family, all eleven of them, were carried like straws before the wind and dashed to the ground two hundred yards away, and almost in the path from which the storm had come. They did not run out there; they were dashed down to the earth, as evidenced by the impression in the ploughed ground where the bodies struck, and the great spots of blood where the father and the mother and five oldest from 13 to 22 were killed. The four youngest, ages 2 to 9, were found in the soft ploughed ground in the same section of the others, badly bruised, but still living. These are in the Vaughn Memorial Hospital here in Selma, and will in all probability have to be sent to the Orphans Home. They do not know as yet that their parents are dead and one of them said to the writer, "I went to my mamma and shook her but she was asleep, and wouldn't wake up."

The funeral at Stanton presented a scene never to be forgotten. There were eight coffins all in a row (one being of another family) and an audience of perhaps one thousand people. The writer and one other minister assisted the pastor of the Baptist Church, and the services were conducted from the front steps, while a sea of faces looked on in silence. Seven members of the Latham family were laid side by side in the Stanton Cemetery, to await the call of the resurrection morning.

The storm always carries its freaks When the barn was blown away, almost the only thing left was a manger—the though from which the stock ate their food. In this sat an old hen on a dozen eggs. Well, ye philosophers who attempt an explanation of everything under the sun, explain this: Not an egg was broken and the old hen is still on the job in the same place! Four small children and one old hen, "under His wings."

Following the dinner, bridge and hearts were engaged in with Mrs. Robert McKaughan winner of the highest score in hearts and Mrs. Elizabeth Leight Tuttle winner of the highest score in bridge, who were awarded prizes for their skill.

Mrs. Evans, the honor guest, was presented with a handsome set of silver cocktail forks in the pattern which matches her silver.

MR. JACKSON WRITES AGAIN

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please permit me to say a few words through your valuable paper, although I have said I would not write any more about the prophecies.

I do not want to be an intruder. That is not my nature. But I would like to answer some of those who disagree with me.

Now, Brother Mims, I do not doubt your explanation of the city of natural Babylon in the least. But I am very sorry you can not see Babylon in a spiritual sense.

Now, Mr. Man in the Moon, if you will meet me at the bird-thrashing as you said, you would, I think I will be able to show you that the system we are under is ungody and a bloody one, as mentioned in Revelation 6 and 12.

Now, to the lad from Baltimore that fired the blank cartridge into the air. This is my second time to refer to the Man in the Moon. Now, lad, when you read this, burn it and sift the ashes over the big city of Baltimore, will you? Although I doubt if you ever saw Baltimore.

Yes, the Man in the Moon is a jolly good fellow. His piece headed after the storm was fine. But we should be more mindful of these things in times of calm.

I hope to see the day when people will be just as willing to help bear each other's burdens in times of calm as they are in times of death and destruction. Yours for Justice. —J. H. Jackson.

FAIRVIEW

To Whom it may concern:

The second quarterly conference of Verbena, in charge of the Methodist Church, will convene with Pleasant Prove Church, Saturday, April 9. All members of the charge are expected to be present, and visitors are cordially invited to be with us.

J. H. Limbrick will preach the Conference Sermon at 11 o'clock. Conference hour 1:30 o'clock. N. H. Culp, postor.

Now may I say a few words relative to the storm that has made its path through our land. Fairview did not suffer any loss. We who haven't experienced these things know not how we should sympathize with the ones that have been blown away. Many were killed, their homes are forever gone. We never know when the call is coming, and now, are we willing to help them? Yes, I know we are and will do so. I am willing to help until it hurts.

Some one spoke as that it was the devil's work, and some said it was God's work, and some say it was a course of nature. Doesn't differ who did it, it came and it may come again. I didn't go to witness the Union Grove tragedy. How it grieves my heart to think of the poor people up there and other places. That picture that was painted across the west will never be forgotten.

I wish I could just speak a word to each one, but I cannot do so. But dear friends, I am praying God's richest blessings and benediction upon you all. I am your friend always. —Rev. N. H. Culp.

Reply To Chas. Cooper

has been perpetrated by a few men who culled out those whom they knew or feared would not follow their lead, and culled in those whom they figured thy could decieve, blindfold, and lead into their schemes? If Mr. Cooper does not see the existence of such a dangerous situation in our party, he must have his head covered up in the sand.

I want to ask Mr. Cooper if he believes every Republican voter has a right to be interested in the party's affairs. Does he believe every Republican has a right to know the truth about his party affairs and the management of those affairs by the governing authorities of the party? In the matter of electing officers, does Mr. Cooper believe that every voter has a right to the expression of his choice between two or more candidates?

Now, if the present plan as it now stands was the only legal way to get candidates for members of the Executive Committee and only two names being chosen in each precinct, and if there are two to be elected as is assumed, how is there left any choice for the voter, with only two candidates running and only two nominated? There is no choice left. The choice of the voters was set aside by the fellows who picked the list. They, whoever they were, took away the rights of the voters to choose their own nominees, and picked them. Now they propose to have the names they have picked put on the ticket, and there is nothing left for the voters to do but accept their culling.

I say again, this thing may be supported and propped up by scattering technicalities of law, but I also say that my opinion is that it is totally unfair and in absolute disregard of the rights of the Republicans of Chilton County to choose their own party officials, and I for one do not endorse any such methods.

Yes, I realize there are those who go about crying peace, peace; and declaring there are no factions in the Republican party. I guess may be they are honest. But at the same time there are people in the Rpublican party in Chilton County who have exercised unfair and unjust methods in more ways than one. These kinds of things have gotten the Republican voters of this county all torn to pieces. If we do not get the tangled mess straightened out, we are headed for the rocks.

Now, as I am a candidate for Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee, I guess Mr. Cooper or some other of my good friends will be ready to say that I set myself up to be the Moses to lead the children out of the wilderness. Well, mybe I am and maybe I am not. But there is one thing certain and sure. If I am elected to the job, it will be in an election where the voters will have a chance to choose between another man and me. It will not be a one-sided, hand-picked proposition, where the voters will have to take a certain man or none.

And another thing, I may not ever be chosen as Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee, but if I am elected, I assure you here and now, once and for all, that the business of the Republican party of Chilton County will be placed back into the hands of the people of the county where it belongs. The business of the party would be open and above-board in plain view of the people whose right it is to know and understand and manage their party affairs.

Now, in conclusion, I will say with reference again to the present status of our situation relative to the election of members of the Executive Committee in the Primary May 3, the proposition needs explaining, if it can be explained to the satisfaction of the voters. Personally, I believe the Executive Committee of the county should be called back into session to straighten the matter out. I believe it is not properly constructed, and I believe the way it stands is not approved by the voters of the county.

I believe those parties who figured the scheme out and secured the list of candidates for members of the Executive Committee know that it was done in a way that was not wholesome, and that is contrary and prohibitive to the full exercise of the rights and privileges of the voters. I believe they know it, and I believe they ought to be honest enough, for the good of their party, to say so, and come out in the open like men, and unite with every Republican in a harmonious arrangement to safeguard the future of our party.

Again, I say, I have no fight to make against the men who are filed as candidates for members of the Executive Committee. So far as I know, they would make as good committee as any that could be selected. But the people would not be satisfied with the best man if his election were accomplished by means that took away from them their rights to express their own choice. It is the method of the procedure that is wrong. And it is a practice that is more dangerous than anything that has ever been attempted in the Republican party in Chilton County. If carried to its logical conclusion, and allowed to grow and continue to control our party affairs, it means disaster, and nothing else.

Respectfully,

W. M. WYATT.

CLARK HARPER DIED SUDDENLY

Seized By Heart Failure While Arguing Case In Court Tuesday evening

Information received by relatives and friends in Clanton Tuesday night brought the sad news of the sudden and unexpected death of Clark Harper, young lawyer, age 39 years, at Deland, Florida, late Tuesday evening.

Mr. Harper, it was stated, was arguing a case in court, when he was suddenly seized with a heart attack, and died instantly. He won his case but did not live to know it.

Clark Harper was born and reared in Clanton. He was a son of Mrs. A. C. Harper, brother of Mrs. Samuel Johnson of Washington, D. C., and Miss Lurline Harper, of Birmingham. For many years he was employed by the Jones Hardware Company, where he became acquainted with people all over Chilton county. He was one of the most affable young men, and everybody was his friend.

Some years ago he took up the study of law, and after being admitted to the bar, has practiced his profession with admirable success in Deland, Florida. He had a bright and promising future.

Mr. Harper married Miss Hattie Goodwyn of Montgomery, who survives him. They have two children.

CARD OF THANKS FROM THE HEADLEY FAMILY

The family of Monroe Headley asks the Union-Banner to express to their many friends their thanks for the sympathy and help extended them in the recent illness and ultimate death of their loving wife and mother. Their friends extended them every courtesy and consolation possible in their sad bereavement, and their thanks for same are unexpressable.

PARRISH TO PREACH AT WALNUT CREEK APRIL 17

The Union-Banner has been requested to announce that Rev. M. J. Parrish of Providence, Beat 16, will preach at Walnut Creek church at 11 o'clock on the third Sunday in April. The public has a cordial invitation to attend.

MORE TRICKS OF THE STORM

As time rolls on, we continue to hear of various pranks the recent storm played as it passed through our county. One is that the deeds to his home belonging to Mr. Fate Littlefield were found in Sylacauga and were not damaged at all. The tax receipts belonging to Mr. Littlefield were found under Rev. Dennis's porch two miles away.

Another report has it that pine needles were driven deep into large tree trunks like a nail would be driven in. The needles entered the trees as though the latter had been a pin cushion.

In Clay county it is reported that an old house built before the civil War, and said to be the strongest house in the county, was torn to pieces.

The most gruesome story of the storm came from Columbiana, where a negro woman was hurled 120 yards through the air, then driven head first through the wall of a house.

PEOPLE REQUEST JUDGE REYNOLDS TO MAKE SPEECHES IN THE COUNTY

Dates Announced for Meetings at Concord, Collins Chapel, Enterprise, Culp Schoolhouse and Mars Hill. Everybody Invited to Attend

Judge L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, Ala:

The people in the community around Concord school house want you to speak there Friday, April 15, at 7:30 p.m.

We want you to explain what we will have to do to reduce our taxes where they are too high. If you have blanks for the purpose please bring some with you. We also want you to explain the political situation in our county.

We want all candidates to be voted on in the Republican primary to come to the meeting. If you can come please put the notice in the Union-Banner, so the general public will know about the meeting.—Yours very truly, W. H. Taylor, John Baker, Jr., W. L. Mims, J. J. Johnson, B. G. Johnson, C. C. Johnson. J. M. Johnson.

Editor Union-Banner:

We people around Collins Chapel schoolhouse have been reading so much from the papers recently about politics and we feel like an old time Republican meeting will do us good and we have invited Judge Reynolds to make a speech for us Saturday night, April 16th, at 7:30 p.m. We want to see if he can explain the politics of our party. We want to find out, if we can, what has brought about this disturbance. We want all the candidates to be present and we would like to have a word from them. We feel like the voters have a right to hear them express themselves upon the public issues of the day.

We also want Judge Reynolds to explain the method of reducing taxes as we feel like many of our taxes are too high, and we are not able to hire a lawyer to get them straight.—Respectfully, B. G. Gore, J. D. Bean, T. P. Gore, G. W. Murrah, W. M. Benson, J. H. Bean, R. M. Benson, L. A. Gore, T. A. Maddox. W. J. Bean.

Judge L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, Ala:

We want you to speak at Enterprise Monday night, April 18th, at 7:30 p.m. We want you to explain how the taxes of the people can be reduced, as you know if the people have to hire a lawyer to make this of our party. We urge all candidates to be present. If you can come please put the notice in the Union-Banner.—Yours very truly, L. P. Cagle, G. Silas, S. D. Deloach, C. W. Gray.

out, it will be costly. We also want you to explain the political affairs

Editor Union-Banner:

I have received the above request to make a speech at Concord School house, Beat four, Friday night, April 15th, at 7:30 p.m.; Collins Chapel schoolhouse, Beat nine Saturday night, April 16th, at 7:30 p.m.; Enterprise schoolhouse, Beat six, Monday night, April 18th, at 7:30 p.m.; I have also been requested to speak at Culp schoolhouse, Beat fifteen, Friday night, April 22nd, at 7:30 p.m.

If nothing happens I will fill the above dates and will be glad to give the people any information about reduction of taxes and will be glad to explain any matters in reference to the political question that the Republican voters are interested in before the primary. However, I want to make it plain that I shall not attempt to advocate the nomination of any candidate for office in the primary. I am now, as I have always been, willing to leave the nomination of candidates to the voters of our party. I do not believe in the policy of county officials or other leaders trying to dictate to the Republican voters how they ought to vote. I believe the voters have a right to know how the candidates stand on all public questions and then they can vote intelligently for the nominees.

The Republicans of Chilton county for over forty years have been free to express themselves and the harmony that has existed in our party has cemented our people together and I hope to see harmony restored, and that every Republican voter will go to the polls and vote for what they think is best for their party and that every Republican in the county will be satisfied. I hope the ladies as well as the men will come to the speaking.—Respectfully, L. H. Reynolds.

A Dream In Reality

A few days ago Mr. Will Plier, of Clanton, Route 5, extended an invitation to a representative of the Union-Banner to visit his place, and take a look at some of the things he has developed there. Accordingly, the writer took a few hours time last Saturday afternoon to make the call.

When I arrived there, Mr. Plier was busy at work. He laid aside his tools and invited me to begin the inspection by having a drink of water from the pump well. This was a delightful beginning of a most interesting revelation. The home of Mr. Plier, with all of its natural conveniences, makes it a dream in reality. Words are not capable of describing the beauty and alluring charm of the situation. The future possibilities of the place are unlimited. Many developments have been made by the clever ingenuity of Mr. Plier. Many more are possible.

To begin at the beginning, it should be stated that the Plier place consists of 82 acres of land, eleven miles from Clanton, and about half a mile off the Lay Dam Highway. The tract of land is about equally divided by Yellow Leaf Creek, one of the most beautiful streams of water in Chilton County. A dam impounds the water of the creek, forming a beautiful pond about two miles long.

The home of Mr. Plier is situated about the middle of the tract on a slight elevation overlooking the mill dam, the pond above and the rippling shoals below. The pond and dam provide the means of furnishing power which is utilized for various things on the place, as will be explained later in this story.

The residence is a nice four-room house, papered and neatly furnished inside. It has a concrete cellar, and is electrically equipped throughout, with hot and cold water and all conveniences.

There is on the place a modern barn, built on a solid concrete foundation.

Waterpower from the creek provides means for a number of very interesting and valuable developments on the place. A flume to carry the water from the pond to the power house is built of concrete. The water operates a large turbine that supplies power for operating a saw mill, a grist mill, a wood lathe, a feed mill, a cane mill, and an electric generating unit that furnishes electricity for all purposes on the farm as well as the home of three or four other families in the immediate neighborhood.

The saw mill is fully equipped for cutting lumber to supply all building needs on the farm. Timber in all quantities needed is growing on the land close by. Community sawing is done for anyone who needs lumber. A logging equipment consists of a Fordson Tractor with trailer. With this device logs can be very readily brought from any distance and out of any kind of a place to the mill.

The grist mill, feed mill, wood lathe, and cane mill, not only supply the needs of the farm, but serves the community in these respects. A cut off saw makes wood of the slabs from the saw mill. This wood as it is cut falls directly into a truck body or wagon and is automatically loaded without handling.

The cane mill is so situated that a load of cane may be placed on a platform, from which it is fed into the mill by hand. The juice is automatically strained and pumped into the evaportaing plant some yards away. The pummings from the mill fall into the creek and are drifted away by the swift current.

The evaporating plant is in an excavation in the side of a hill. The large copper syrup pan is permanently placed over a scientifically constructed furnace which will burn any and all kinds of fuel. In the excavation which houses the evaporating plant there is a steam canning plant under construction. A well of water there provides these processes with all the fresh water necessary to the operations.

The wash place is one of the most unique arrangements on the estate. It is housed in a new building that is packed with sawdust in the walls to cause an even temperature. A

Thursday night a class of new members will be initiated with full ceremonies at the Maddox Hall in Clanton. Col. L. A. Ellington, of Montgomery, will be in charge of this part of the program.

The local committee on arrangements is composed of J. B. Atkinson, chairman, and Mancy Jones, and Joe Maddox.

All members of the Woodmen of the World in Chilton County are urged to attend both the afternoon meeting at the courthouse and the initiation ceremonies at Maddox Hall. This is expected to be one of the finest affairs ever held here by W. O. W. Many things on the program are calculated to be of great value and interest to Woodmen.

Delegations of visitors from camps in different parts of the State will be in attendance.

OLD BOOK SINGING AT COUNTY POOR HOUSE

By authority of County Cimmissioner, Joseph E. Cobb, we are authorized to announce that there will be an old-book singing at the County Poor House on the afternoon of the fourth Sunday in April, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

Everybody is invited to come. Singers are especially urged to be present, and help out in giving the old folks a delightful service.

Mr. Cobb stated that the county has gone to a bit of expense to provide a meeting place where the inmates of the home can have the privlige of assembly with their friends for worship, and he urges the people of the county to come to the services and help.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

We have interesting services every Sunday. It is worth while to attend Sunday school at 9:45. What is the matter with parents who will not come and bring their children to Sunday school? The penitentiary draws its patronage from among the boys and girls who do not attend Sunday school.

At 11 a.m. next Sunday the pastor has a special message on, "Dreams that will come true." Last Sunday night he spoke on, "Dreams that will not come true." Make an effort to hear the sermon next Sunday.

We regret to see the teachers of the Grammar school leaving us. They have meant much in our church life. We wish for them a happy vacation.

Attend the young people's meetings Sunday night at 6:45, and also preaching service at 7:30. We have a welcome for all.

OFFICERS CATCH NOTED CRIMINAL

Carl Payne Wanted By Officers For Robberies Over The State

Sheriff Gillespie and his deputies, on last Wednesday night, succeded in locating and arresting Carl Payne, a noted criminal, who was wanted in Tuscaloosa and Birmingham, for a number of charges of burglary and grand larceny.

After the arrest was made a coat found in Payne's car was identified as the one belonging to Deputy James Gillespie, which was stolen from the sheriff's office several weeks ago. This evidence convinced the officers that Payne must have been the man who entered several offices in the courthouse and stole a coat and gun belonging to Deputy Norris, and a coat belonging to Deputy Gillespie.

Chief of Police, Fred McDuff, of Birmingham, had furnished Deputy Norris with detailed description of Payne, and local officers were looking for him. Norris sighted him late last Wednesday evening as he visited the Clanton Laundry. They waited for him to come back to the laundry, according to his statement to the laundry clerk. But he did not come back. He sent his wife's sister.

The officers followed up their clue and found that Payne and his wife were staying at Mrs. Wallace's, his mother-in-law, at the old Goddard place just north of town.

When they had everything located, they perfected their plans for making the arrest. Due caution was exercised in the matter, in conformity with the reputation of the man whom they were after. Everything worked out allright, and the arrest was made without any touble. Payne had in his possession a Browning automatic sawed-off shotgun loaded with buckshot, a 38-calibre Smith & Wesson pistol, one stick of dynamite, one tear gas bomb, one pin-ray flashlight, and three bombs of nitroglycerine or dynamite, and something in a bottle, which was thought to be nitrogylcerine.

The arrest was made just as Payne and his wife were preparing to leave the place in their car They had their artillery, bombs, etc., all loaded into the car. Payne was waiting at the car while his wife was putting on her coat in the house, preparatory to leaving. At this stage of the game the Sheriff and his deputies took charge of the situation.

Everything went off all right, excusing a considerable bit of cussing, scratching, and one thing and another on the part of Payne and his wife, mostly his wife. Payne was held in check by a pair of handcuffs.

Mrs. Payne played a fainting spell in the midst of the excitement, but if this ruse was intended to pull something on the officers, it was a failure. They were on guard for such perfomances.

Payne was brought to Clanton and placed in jail. Chief Fred McDuff and other officers came and got him Thursday, and carried him to Birmingham. If Mr. Payne lives long enough to serve out the time he gets for all the robberies he has committed in other places, he will doubtless have a while coming to him for breaking into the courthouse here.

New Grocery Store To Be Open Soon

Will Be Under Management of Mr. William J. Billingsley

In the next few days a new grocery store will be opened in the building next to the First National Bank. It will be operated by William Billingsley.

It is understood that the business will be backed by strong local financial interests, and will make a strong bid for a share of the grocery trade in Clanton.

One of the promoters stated Tuesday, "We have the backing and the connection which will make us able to get into the grocery business in Clanton with everything that is required to carry on such a business and make prices that will compare with the offerings of anybody."

Further details of the new store will be announced in due time. At present the building is being remodeled and refurnished to take care of the needs of a first-class grocery.

RIGINAL

Peas For Seed

I want to give each family in Chilton County, who unfortunately had their house blown away in the storm, one bushel of seed peas. If those who lost their house in the storm will come to the Probate Office at Clanton, Alabama, on Saturday, April 16, 1932, I will deliver the peas to them. If it is not convenient for each family to send someone for the peas, they might send by their neighbor, or it will be satisfactory for one truck to come and get the peas for several families in the neighborhood and let each family bring a sack, if convenient, to put them in.

J. H. Martin Expresses Views On County Political Situation

Mr. W. M. Wyatt, Editor Union-Banner:

I want to congratulate you on your article in last week's paper explaining the political situation in the Republican party. There has been something said about this matter several times in the paper but a great many of us people can hardly understand or realize that three or four Republicans who would get together and pick out forty members of the Republican Executive Committee in this county and so fix it that the Republican voters could not exercise any choice in the matter.

The commitee meeting was held in Feb., and the committee did not make any arrangements about electing a new committee, and why is it that this three or four Republicans have taken it upon themselves to say just who the committee of the Republican party in this county shall be?

The Republicans of Chilton County have succeeded in electing the officers in this county, with two or three exceptions for the last forty years. During this time the Republican voters have been consulted in all matters pertaining to the party and the election of members of the committee. And why is it that the present leaders have ceased to take the voters into their confidence, but secretly say in what mode and manner the committee shall be elected and just who shall be elected as members of the committee. I believe that if this secret method is kept up that our party is headed for the rocks and ruin.

Mr. Wyatt, I am glad that you came right out and stated your position in this matter. I am glad that you stand for the business of the Republican party in this county being run openly and above board. And if you are elected Chairman, the Republican voters can know that all matters pertaining to the party will be managed in and open and straightforward manner. It seems to me that a change is certainly needed in the management of our party, for I do not think that if the present management continues that the party can continue to succeed. The Republican voters in this county believe that they have a right to express their choice in the election of a committee as well as all other officers. And under the leadership of the present chairman and secretary, we people out in the county know very little about what is going on in our party, because everything is done by cliques and rings secretly.

We have had nothing but strife and turmoil in our party under the present leadership and I do not see any chance for it to get any better until we get a new chairman and a new secretary. The people will have the chance on May the 3rd to vote for you for chairman and Mr. S. M. Pate for secretary of the Republican Executive Committee, and stop this strife and put our party back into the hands of the people, and stop this clique from their secret and underhanded methods.

The Republican Committee arranged to give the people a right to elect their chairman and secretary of the Republican Executive Committee. At that time Mr. J. N. Dennis made a speech against letting the people have the right to elect these officers by popular vote. I wonder if he had in mind then that a few would pick out the committee and that they would pick out one that would elect him chairman and Mr. J. Z. Mims, secretary again. It seems to me that if we permit three or four men to pick our committee it will be very hurtful to the Republican party.

I believe that every voter in the county ought to know which of our candidates endorse the method that has been used by these three or four in selecting the committee. Therefore I ask Mr. S. M. Pate, candidate for secretary of the Republican Committee and all other candidates to advise the people just how they stand on this matter, and to tell who handpicked the committee. This is a serious matter to the Republican party, and the Republican voters should know just how each candidate stands in this matter. It is time that this secret work was stopped, and we want to know just what candidates indorse these methods and what candidates are opposed to such methods.

I have always opposed tricks like this in any party and I am just as much opposed to it in the Republican party as I am in any party.

Hoping that you will see fit to publish this and, and that every candidate will make their position on the above matter clear between now and the primary, May 3rd, so the voters in the county can know just who endorses such methods and who will favor a continuance of these methods should they be elected.—J. H. Martin.

FAVORS CHARLIE DUKE

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like a little space to say a few words in regard to Charlie Duke for commissioner.

I have known Mr. Duke for a number of years. I believe he is honest and a go-getter, and if elected commissioner, he would serve the people of our county with a spirit of courtesy and special favors to none. I believe he would use economy and good judgment in spending the taxpayers' money that is apportioned for road work.

I know we have some good men in office, but, why not pass it around among your nieghbors occasionally.

Friends, you who do not know Mr. Duke personally, let me ask you to make some inquiry about him before you cast your vote.

If you feel he is your choice, I feel sure you will not regret it, and he will appreciate your vote very much.—J. Riley Scott.

RELIEF

from HEADACHES

COLDS AND SORE THROAT

NEURITIS, NEURALGIA

Don't be a chronic sufferer from headaches, or any other pain. There is hardly an ache or pain Bayer Aspirin tablets can't relieve; they are a great comfort to women who suffer periodically. They are always to be relied on for breaking up colds.

It may be only a simple headache, or it may be neuralgia or neuritis; rheumatism. Bayer Aspirin is still the sensible thing to take. Just be certain it's Bayer you're taking; it does not hurt the heart. Get the genuine tablets, in this familiar package for the pocket.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

POOR C

Central Singing Society

The Central Singing Society met at Walnut Creek last Sunday afternoon, it being four months since a meeting was held at that place. The crowd was medium and the singing was very good. Prof. O. L. Devaughn presided. Prof. George Anderson was with us and played for some of the singing. He was prevailed upon to sing a solo but declined on account of a bad cold. We were glad to have him with us and invite him back again.

The society meets next Sunday afternoon at Refuge, the weather permitting. It is hoped that as many as can will attend next Sunday afternoon as it has been six months since a singing was held there, the last two appointments being rained out.

The Clanton Quartet

The Clanton Quortet will sing with the class at Refuge. You know what to expect from the quartet, so don't fail to come out and hear them.

On the fourth Sunday afternoon in this month the society will meet at Friendship instead of Poplar Springs, since there was no singing at Friendship last fourth Sunday afternoon on account of the Easter singing at Poplar. Everybody bear this in mind.

EX-GOV. KILBY URGES USE OF MUSCLE SHOALS TO MAKE FERTILIZER

Says Alabama Agriculture And Industry Would Both Benefit

Florence, Ala., April 12.—Former Governor Thos. E. Kilby's plea for approval of the Hobb's Commission plan to utilize Muscle Shoals for fertilizer manufacture for the benefit of Southern farmers met with an enthuasiastic response in the Muscle Shoals district this past week.

In a series of discussions of the Muscle Shoals project Governor Kilby pointed out that agriculture is the basic industry of Alabama, and that Alabama farmers are now suffering for lack of cheap fertlilzers, while Congress dilly-dallies on the passage of the bill.

"Leasing of the Muscle Shoals plant on conditions that insure manufacture of a high grade and cheap fertilizer will be of immeasurable benefit to farmers in the South, especially in Alabama," said the governor today. "Approval of the Hobbs bill will also give employment to about 3,000 Alabama men directly, at Muscle Shoals and some 3,500 more indirectly. It is estimated that about $17,000,000 of new capital would be invested in our state to put the Muscle Shoals project into operation.

"It is not strange to find Senator Norris of Nebraska lining up in opposition to this measure which would mean so much to Alabama. Nebraska farmers use only a few shovels of fertilizer yearly. Southern farmers consume yearly over five and one-half millions of the eight million tons of fertilizer made in the United States or about 70 per cent. But it is very strange indeed to find Senator Black wearing the same harness as the Republican senator from Nebraska. Alabama would expect to see Senator Black working heart and soul to realize for his native state this great new industry which will mean so much alike to Alabama agriculture and to Alabama industry and labor.

Mr. Aubrey Taylor spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. Roland Taylor.

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

—With Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Chas. H. Fletcher

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

Sheer disappointment was written on the faces of a number of people who gathered at Friendship last Saturday night to hear Rev. Holland preach when, after anxiously waiting for several minutes, learned that Rev. Holland had already been to the church and, finding no one there had forthwith departed. The people, about twenty-five or thirty in number arrived only a few minutes after the appointed hour to begin, and were very anxious to hear Rev. Holland preach, since he has a number of close friends and admirers in the community. One man who lives a mile and a half from the church said that he missed his supper and walked over there because he wanted to hear Rev. Holland so badly.

It was a mistake when the service was announced to begin at 7 o'clock, especially since it was Saturday, inasmuch as people always have lots to attend to in closing up their week's business. Rev. Holland stopped at Dudley Collins's home on his way from the church and told them that he had fulfilled his promise by being at the church at 7 o'clock and had found no one there—not even the lights on. No blame can be placed on Rev. Holland for leaving, because the service was announced to begin at 7 o'clock and he was there at that time, and no one met him there.

However, may we not view the matter just a little from the view point of those who came in a little late? They will say, it is mighty fine for a man to live up to his promise, but is it not also fine sometimes for folks to exercise patience, allow folks a little time of grace and not be too quick on trigger? Is it not nice to accommodate people and bear with them a little in their shortcomings, which we all have, as well as to be prompt in filling promises?

We are sure that this was a disappointment to Rev. Holland as well as to the people of Friendship community who went there and failed to hear any preaching, and we are all sorry that it happened as it did, however, we are reminded that, "All things work together for good to them that love the Lord."—T. E. Wyatt.

ASKS DUKE SOME QUESTIONS

Editor Union-Banner:

I do not like to get in print, neither do I want to bring up a controversy in our party. I regret the confusion that our party has gotten into and I think the matter ough to be explained and straightened out at the earliest moment.

I feel like every Republican voter has a right to know how every candidate for office in our party stands on public questions, and I want to ask Mr. Charlie Duke one or two questions as he is a candidate for public office, not to embarrass him, but as I have stated, to let the people know his political record.

Mr. Duke did you vote the full Republican ticket four years ago after you was defeated in the Republican primary for Commissioner? Did your wife vote the full Republican ticket? Did your wife vote for Dr. Hinkle for probate judge? Did Dr. Hinkle assist in getting some of your folks paroled about election time? I noticed one Mr. Plier said you had always been a Republican and on account of rumors I feel like the people of the county have a right to know your answers to the above questions.

I am a straight Republican and have never failed to vote for every Republican in our party since I was twenty-one years old.—Respectfully, L. P. Cagle.

Foursquare Church

H. H. CASWELL
Pastor

Services for the remainder of the week are as follows:

Thursday evening, 7:30, Rev. H. H. Caswell will speak on, "Observing all things."

Saturday afternoon, 2:00 o'clock, children's church.

Sunday morning, 9:30, Sunday school. Everyone is invited to attend our Sunday school. It has been growing fast, and we are glad to note the interest that is being manifested by the young people and adults. We had a fine young people's class, and extend an invitation to all young people between the ages of 16 and 25, who are members of no other Sunday school, to come out and join us in studying the word of God.

Sunday morning worship at 11:00 o'clock. Rev. Caswell will give a chart talk.

Sunday evening, 6:30 o'clock, is our young people's crusader service. Hazel Johnson is in charge of this service this week.

Sunday evening exangelistic service begins at 7:30. Rev. Caswell will be bringing an illustrated message on, "The Hidden Cross." Many there are who admire the cross on their church, but shun it from their lives. It is not the beautiful, the bejeweled cross that redeems the world and the soul from sin, but the cross of Calvary, ón which Jesus died. This cross is often hidden from the sight of man. What is this thing that blinds the eyes of man, and hides from his view the rédeeming cross?

Sunday evening's service will be Brother Caswell's farewell message. They will be leaving on Monday, on an evangelistic tour, to hold some promised campaigns. It is their hope that in the near future they may again return to this field for service. Having been in Clanton for two months, they have learned to love the Clanton folks, and especially the Foursquare congregations with whom they have enjoyed Christian fellowship.

We are waiting definite word from Sister Ruth Grisham of Bradford, Pennsylvania relative to her coming to Clanton to assume a temporary pastorate of the church. There will be further announcements in next week's paper.

Foursquare Flashes

The waters which floated the ark to safety drowned the unbelieving world.

So Jesus Christ, who brings salvation, is either life or death to all men.

He who can take advice is often superior to him who can give it.

If évil be said of thee, and if it be true, correct thyself; if it be a lie, laugh at it.

A habit is like a cable. We weave a thread to it each day, and it soon becomes so strong that we cannot break it.

It is not the falling in the water that drowns a man, it is the lying in it.

IN MEMORY

On Sunday night, March 20, the death angel came into the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. White and bore away the sweet spirit of a dear loving father and grandfather, Mr. J. B. White, to that beautiful home above. Grandfather had been in ill health for several years, but during these years of pain and sufferng, he bore his suffering with patience till on March 20, when the dear Lord sweetly whispered, "My loved one, come home."

At the time of his death he was 82 years of age. He was born in Heard County Georgia, where he made his home until he was married to Miss Ruthie Serele, of Chambers County. It was here that they made their happy home, until about 27 years ago, when they moved to Chilton County, where he was living with his son in Bethel community at the time of his death.

In 1917 the death angel came into their happy home and bore away the sweet spirit of a dear loving wife and mother, to that home of smiles and sunshine. And now again our hearts have been made sad with the passing of dear grandfather. All was done for him that loving hands could do, but God loved him most, so He whispered, "Come home."

Grandfather gave his life to God when a young man at Bethel Church and lived a Christian life until God whispered, "My loved one, you have finished your work.

How lonely we feel since grandfather has left us. There is a vacant chair in his home that can never be filled. His sweet smiles we will see here on earth no more, but more beautiful in the beyond. Dear grandfather, we miss your sweet smiles and kind loving words, but we are praying to meet you some day, where there is no heartaches or pains, but all is happiness.

Grandfather leaves to mourn his loss, five children, two boys, Mr. Wessie White, of Jemison, and G. C. White, of Clanton. Three daughters, Mrs. N. A. Dennis, of Jemison, Mrs. Mollie Edwards, of Montgomery, Mrs. A. F. Pyron, of Deatsville. twenty-one grandchildren besides a host of friends. Weep not for grand father is happy over there. May his life be a bright light that will lead us all safely home where we again will meet him.

The remains were laid to rest beside his loving wife on Tuesday, March 22 in Bethel cemetery. Rev. Andrew Davis and Rev. Joe Howell conducted the services, with Martin in charge.—Written by his loving granddaughter.

"Way Back Home"

Synopsis of Famous Picture Coming To Wadesonian Theatre April 20 and 21

Seth Parker a genial, warm-hearted, shrewd old farmer, presides self-appointed over the minor and major destinies of the other people of the town and country-side of Jonesport.

Living with Seth and his wife is young Robbie, an orphan, whom they adopted when his mother died and his worthless father, Rufe Turner, deserted him. They love him like the son he believes himself to be.

Up the roadway, not far from the Parkers, lives "Runaway Rosie," scorned by all except the Parkers, because her son, David, has no legal name. David is employed by Wobblin' Duffy, a mean old farmer, whose daughter, Mary Lucy, is in love with David.

David is fired when Wobblin' learns of the young couple's affair. Seth attempts to befriend them only to arouse the anger of Wobblin'. And when Rufe returns to town the farmer tells the worthless father that the Parkers have never adopted Robbie legally.

Turned From Home

Mary Lucy attends a barn dance where she meets David against her fahter's wishes. When the latter learns of this he orders her out of his house. Mary goes to the Parkers for refuge.

Wobblin' arouses Rufe, who goes to the Parkers home and attempts to take Robbie who drives his father out of the house with a shot gun. Rufe leaves, uttering threats.

Meanwhile, Mary Lucy and David plan to flee town and marry. Seth learns of this and makes them promise that they will not leave until he returns from Bangor, for Seth is going there to start a legal contest for the guardianship of Robbie. Seth gives them money so they can be married.

Seth Saves Day

That night while the Parkers are holding an old-fashioned party, Rufe kidnaps Robbie from his bed and flees with him towards the junction where he intends boarding the train. Seth discovers the abduction and after a chase in his buggy, overtakes him. They struggle; Seth is no match for the sturdy villain, until he stuns Rufe with a blow on the head delivered with the family Bible.

The legal contest for the guardianship of Robbie in now under way, and while the court ponders over the case Robbie is placed in the care of an orphanage. Mary Lucy and David return from their honeymoon, and Seth announces their secret marriage. A wedding party is planned, but the question arises whether to invite David's mother. Seth talks to the neighbors and everything is forgiven

While gaiety at the party is at its height, Robbie arrives from Bangor, announcing that Seth has been named his legal guardian. Everybody is made happy and the meriment continues.

IN MEMORY OF B. H. BOWLES

On March 31, 1932, about 2:00 a. m. the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Bowles of Bethsalem community, and bore back to heaven's golden shore, with them, little seven year old Hershell. He was a sweet, loving and submissive child.

It occurred when the family sought refuge in a ditch from what they thought was going to be a terrible storm. When the down-pour of rain fell so fast, the ditch filled with water sooner than was expected, the father began rescuing the children, he put the little boy ashore and it is supposed he fell back. As soon as the rest of the family got ashore he was discovered missing. A search was begun which found his little body about a half mile below, where it had drifted ashore, but his spirit had already flown back to heaven, from whence it came.

He is now resting sweetly in the arms of Jesus. We miss him and loved him so much, but God loved him best and had a much better home for him.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bowles, five sisters, Theresea, Jocie, Lucille, Lillian and Dolly; two brothers, Ezelle and Wilton Donald, one brother who preceded him into eternity two years ago by drowning. We thank the many good people who gave beautiful flowers, and helped us in other ways, especially do we thank the kind nurse for her help. May God bless each and every one.—G. T. Bowles and Family.

REFUGE NEWS

Please allow me space for a few words from this place. We have a Sunday school which we are pleased with. Also our B. Y. P. U. is progressing nicely, although we were rained out Sunday night. The B. Y. P. U. subject was, "The art of home making," a subject which is very important. Let us not become discouraged, but study for the next lesson.

The singing and pounding which was given at the home of our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, last Friday night was a wonderful success. There were a hundred people present, and the singing was very good. There were a goodly number that was prohibited on the account of bad weather. The contribution amounted to $10.00. Contributions came from every direction for which we, as a church, are very grateful.

The pounding consisted of clothing groceries and cow feed. One thing of much interest and most worthy of mentioning, is the spirit in which the good women responded in giving their eggs, which were bulked together and sold, the money from which was used to purchase cloth for the good wife and children.

Many expressions were made in regard to the behavior which was had at the singing. Many said it was almost unequalled. Our pastor gave a short talk on the subject of "Rejoicing," after which a table was spread, which revealed 13 cakes, and everybody ate to their content, and boxes were filled and sent to sick patients, and then there was cake left. May we thank the good people again.—Mrs. Ethel Easterling, secretary.

A man has just found in his foot a needle he swallowed in 1865 and if he is a timid soul he will consider himself a reprehensible hoarder.—New York Sun.

It begins to look like the Root protocol to the World Court protocol is going to cause as much discussion and argument as the Wilmot proviso did back in ante-bellum days.

Spring is coming and soon the ice will be out of the streams. We hope also that something will happen to melt the frozen assets in various parts of the country.

A few years ago the bugologists told us that man was in danger of starvation because hords of insect pests were going to destroy his food. Now it begins to look as though we will have to start breeding insects to get rid of the surplus crop.

Documents have come to light which indicate that the Dutch almost sold New Amsterdam to Bavaria before the British grabbed it off and made it New York. Suppose the deal had gone through? Wouldn't Jimmy Walker look nice in one of those Bavarian holiday costumes?

Sugar producers the world over are worrying about the sugar surplus. One way to get rid of it would be to have Congress pass a law making the use of sugar unlawful.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

The World Court seems to be having its troubles these days, in added quantity, when it comes to the question of the ratification of the resolution for adherence by the United States. After the rejection of Reservation Five by other nations who are members of the Court is seemed that American membership had gone by the board. Then the drawing up of the Root protocol, which was said to be an "agreeable" compromise, revived the agaitation for American adherence to the Court. But it soon became evident, after the resolution was referred back to the senate, that the Root protocol was subject to various interpretations. Senators who strongly favored Reservation Five, which gave Uncle Sam the right to veto advisory opinions on questions in which he claimed an interest, declared that the Root protocol destroyed this reservation, and added the argument that if this were not true the nations who had rejected Reservation Five would have rejected the Root protocol. Even many of the Senators who favor American adherence to the World Court began to demand that the question of the Root protocol and Reservation Five be cleared up.

Senator Reed of Pennslyvania, offered a resolution to the effect that it was the belief and understanding of the Senate that the intention of Reservation Five was still in force and effect under the Root protocol. Then a dispute broke out as to whether this Reed resolution would have to be acknowledged by the other powers to be effective. Senator Reed said that it would not, but Senator Borah and others held that it would. Then Senator Pittman came forward with a reservation which would make it necessary for the President of the United States to ascertain from the other powers their views on the general question at issue with the understanding that American ratification would not be completed until answers were received satisfactory to the American government on the question of advisory opinions on questions in which the United States has claims or interest.

This resolution of Senator Pittman's, it is predicted, will pass the senate if and whenever the question of our adherence to the World Court comes up and it is believed by most observers that it throws the question back where it was two or three years ago. But that is not all. A new question has arisen to plague the advocates of American adherence to the World Court. The women are getting busy. The first intimation came when Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, himself an opponent of American adherence in the League of Nations and the World Court, offered a reservation which would prohibit the World court from administering any law based on the inequalities of sex, or which did not give the women of the world exactly the same standings as the men.

The action was followed by a cablegram from Mrs. Alva E. Belmont, chairman of the National Woman's Party, to Senator Johnson of California, denouncing the League for attempting to secure ratification for the Hague nationality convention which is said to discriminate against women. In her message Mrs. Belmont, who is in Paris, said:

"It is supremely important to American women not to lose their hard won gains for equality by our country entering into any international agreement recognizing a system of law founded upon inequality between men and women.

"I wish to express to you the grateful appreciation by the National Woman's party of your leadership in this fight to keep American women from losing through international action any of the equality which has now been established in our country."

It is not believed that European statesmen will relish this attempt of American women to place the League and its court in a position where there will be no sex discrimination, and so another vexing problem has come up to vex the league adherents in the United States. One can almost sense the joy which the efficient and chivalrous Senator J. Ham Lewis must feel in thus sponsoring the cause of American women, especially when his efforts are designed to do the cause of internationalism no particular good in the United States.

HOOVER AT THE THIRD MILESTONE

Herbert Hoover has completed his third year at the White House. In August he will be fifty-eight years old. That is rather young as Presidents go. Now and then one reads items about his weariness, his thinning hair, the deepening lines in his face. Yet he is probably in better physical condition than when he entered the White House, and his countenance—more impressive than three years ago—is that of a man with a clear conscience, with the motive power of definite purposes to urge and guide him, with the gift of sleeping soundly after a hard day's work. His responsibilities, probably heavier than those of any other man on the planet, are yet not so onerous but what he seeks to have them continued through a second term in office.

The best school is that of adversity. In that school Hoover has learned a lot. Through most of his administration, depression,—blowing up suddenly after years of abounding prosperity—has ruled in this country and in the world at large. It was not in the cards as he or anyone else saw them, and it clouded, and still clouds his political prospects. But it has brought out qualities in him which are recognized as valuable—dogged courage, patience, and a breadth of vision and a mental resourcefulness in which his countrymen find cause for satisfaction.—Cincinnatti Times Star.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

For several days terror reigned in West Montgomery. A huge animal would come into that part of the city in the night hours, and kill dogs and chickens and lap up the blood and dissapear. Some thought it to be a bear, some a coyote and others a wild boar from the river swamp. It mattered not what it was, it had the folks excited, and much effort and concern gathered about the nightly visits of the life destroyer. It looks a bit strange that human beings should become so excited over a destroyer of dogs, cats and chickens, and take so calmly the greater enemy that comes up into their homes and destroys their boys and girls. That one intruder created more excitement in Montgomery than all the blind tigers of the city. Mothers would not let their children get out of their sight for fear that the boar would attack them, and yet they will allow their boys and girls to rove the streets until midnight with dozens of tigers lurking on many corners. Most folks strain at a gnat and swallow a camel.

Saw a man approach a counter and spin a wheel of some kind. Ever and anon he would go to a clerk and buy something that looked like, "scraps of paper." Then he would turn the wheel again. He kept it up for an hour. In disappointment he walked away from the wheel saying to his comrade, "Well, I lost two dollars, but it was my money, and it was nobody's business." That youngster thought that his money belonged to him, and it was his right and privilege to spend it as he pleased. Not so. No man has a right to spend his money as he pleases, unless his pleasure is to spend it right. You have no right to waste your money any more than you have to waste your health and your time. If you spend your money in a way so as to intrude on the rights and privileges of someone else, you become guilty in your spendings. When a man spends his money foolishly and at the same time he has those who are looking to him for the necessities of life, he becomes guilty of injuring others. The law of right governs both the making and spending of money.

A mother made a fine cut glass vase, the depository of her savings. Little three year old Mary found the money in the vase and ran her hand down through the neck and grappled her hand full of coins. She tried to pull her hand out, but it would not come. Mary set up a yell. Father and mother became excited. The doctor was summoned. A consultation was held. The doctor advised that the costly vase would have to be broken in order to release the hand. When the crash came Mary smiled through her tears and said, "Look mudder at the money I'se got." If Mary had let the money go she could have withdrawn her hand, and the vase could have been saved. Why are we having a depression? It is because people who have money will not let go. They are setting up such a yell until the rest of us have become frightened. When at last the costly vase of American confidence is broken, then those hoarders will smile through their tears saying, "Look how rich I am." If the hoarders would let go the vase of American confidence could be saved. It sounds so silly for rich people to be yelling like a pig with his tail in a crack.

I see a bunch of people in for a good time of fellowship. One is seen to arch her brow and she asks, "Have you heard the latest on Mr. and Mrs. So and So?" Then the poison gas is turned loose. Each one chimes in with what she has heard. Soon a flock of vultures are tearing to pieces a defenseless one. It is all done behind the back of the one who is charged. Slander is like a tornado, it twists everything it touches out of shape, and flings character, splintered into atoms, in its pathway. Slander is like lamp-black, it is very cheap and that accounts for so much of it being used. Lamp-black never fails to turn everything it touches darker. About the best thing I ever heard about a saint in the church of God was, "She never said an unkind word about anyone."

Australia has a bulldog species of ants that likes to fight. This ant, like the American wasp, is large at both ends and very small in the middle. As long as the head and tail are connected, the ant will fight every other ant in its path. When the ant is cut intwo in the middle the battle is then set up between the two parts. The head will seize the tail in its teeth and the tail fight back by stinging the head. In America there is a species of human beings who like to fight. They fight when they are at home and when they are abroad. If they cannot shoot and cut, they seize with their teeth and they sting with their tongue. I saw a drunk man swaggering around at a picnic saying, "I want to fight."

There are always two sides to everything. If you want to know the truth, and have a balanced judgement, it will pay you to know both sides. If a man steps on your toes, it could be that your toes were too big for him to step over, or it may be that your toes were where they should not have been. It could even be that your toes were too long for him to go around. If we will make it a point to keep our toes out of other people's paths, we will not have so many mashed toes to cramp our feelings.

The MAN in the MOON

A Fairy Story

Once upon a time there was a great big world; about three-fourths of that world was made of water, but there was some land; one part of that land was called North America; in this North America, there was a country called the United States of America; one of these states was called Alabama; in Alabama there were several counties, and one of these was called Chilton; this Chilton County was divided into sections, called Beats, and one of these was Beat 5; in Beat 5 there were several roads, and one of these roads had a ditch in the middle of it (according to report); one day a man by the name of Charley Cooper wrote in and asked if the candidates would promise to fill the ditch up, if elected; and that old mean ditch was filled up the following week (also according to report); now wasn't that service? And now little children, it'll be time for all good little children to be in bed. Remember, this is only a fairy story, and may or may not be true. Just think—some thousand or two years from now, somebody may read this, and think, "Oh, for such service nowadays." Now laugh—it's all a joke anyway. If you care to sing, do so to the tune of "The green grass grew all around." How's that Charley?

Why it Doesn't Work

I was talking to a friend one day last week, and he put a question which I have heard many times—"Why doesn't the prohibition law work?" It does work! I must admit that it cannot work as well as it might on account of lack of cooperation with the officers, but, considering everything, it certainly has proved that it has teeth. Another big reason why the prohi law doesn't work better is the corruptness of some officers. Only a few nights ago I read in a paper a report of where a prohibition officer was fired from the squad on account of being caught driving an auto while drunk. Who could expect any better, when people will not work with their officers for enforcement, and when some officers, themselves, fail in their official duties. One thing I never have been able to understand is this—that the prohibition law is considered a failure by liquor sympathizers yet they want the law repealed or modified; on the other hand the "drys" consider it a success and want to keep it. If it is a failure, why does the liquor element want to do away with it? If it is weak and unable to cope with the liquor traffic, it seems to me that the "drys" should be the ones to kick. The next time you hear somebody kicking on the dry law, just look around a bit and see if that person isn't one of the liquor element, or, at least, a liquor sympathizer. I have yet to hear a real dyed-in-the-wool prohibitionist say the prohibition law is a failure. So, the next time you hear some guy yelping about how bad and weak the law is, just remember—"the hit pup always howls."

Who's Who—John Dewey Rockett

John Dewey Rockett was born May 20, 1898, about two and a half miles east of Cooper, the son of J. T., and Isabella (Clark) Rockett. He received his elementary education in the Cross Roads, Clanton Grammar, and Thorsby Institute schools. He received his high school education at Chilton County High School, at Clanton, finishing there in 1917. After this he studied at University of Alabama, for short courses. He married Miss Bertie Robinson January 13, 1921, and they have two daughters. After finishing school, Dewey kept a store at Cooper for some time, and then acted as clerk in the office of Tax Collector of Chilton County. In July, 1927, J. D., and J. T. Rockett opened the Clanton Building Supply Company, at Clanton. They ran this firm until November, 1930, when they bought the Jones Hardware Company. This firm operates in the name of the Clanton Building Supply Company. Since merging the two firms into one, they have installed a planing mill, so as to be able to furnish all kinds of finished lumber for building purposes. Dewey Rockett is general manager of the firm. He is also interested, with Mr. S. M. Pate in the Thorsby Hardware Company, which interest he took over in January, 1932. Mr. Rockett is known as one the the most wide-awake and up-and-going young business men in the county; he has been very successful in every enterprise he has undertaken. Dewey says: "I can furnish anything for the builder, from a pick and hole diggers to be used in digging the holes to put the house pillars in, on up to the caps for the chimney; and then, after everything is built, I can furnish that house with everything from tooth pick holders to complete suites of furniture. In short, I can furnish everything it takes to make a home out of a house except the people." That's being thorough on the job undertaken, don't you think? But, then, thoroughness—that's John Dewey Rockett all over. Now, about our next week's Who's Who—we will tell you all there is to know about General Monroe ("Mun") Wyatt, one of the oldest filling station operators in the county. Look for it.

A Democrat Comes Clean

Dear Sir: I read "The Democrat's Prayer" in last week's paper, and am writing this letter to let you know just how well the cap fit me. I have voted the Democratic ticket all my life, but for the past several years I have done so against my will and best judgment. My father before me voted this ticket because he hated the Yankees so, and he taught me, along with all my brothers, to vote it, too. Lots of times our family talk the matter over, and agree that we ought to back our own judgment and bolt the Democratic ranks, but about that time somebody comes along and breaks it all up, and we go on and on, voting the same old dead issues. Truly, I am ashamed, but, as the article said, I am more ashamed that I haven't the nerve to step out and vote for what I know is right. I hope something may happen soon to give me a loop-hole through which I may escape the bondage of my own conscience without suffering the "disgrace" of bolting the poor old dead Democratis party. It is dead, all right, so far as giving us anything to vote for. There might have been something for the Democrats of several years ago to vote for, but for the life of me, I couldn't name one good reason why I vote as I do. Understand, I know why I do it, all right, but my reasons are not reasonable. I just do it "because pap did." I hope you folks put it all over us this fall, as I am sure you will. We all expect that you will, and the most of us hope you will. Maybe, sometime, I can find a way to help you out with my vote. But, until then, just consider me a well-wisher to your cause. I am not signing this letter, as it might leak out, but you can rest assured that there is one Democrat, at least, who will be patting his stomach and rubbing his head so to speak, when election time comes around.—Perplexed

Glimpses

Dropping around by the Ford place to see Henry's latest; it's a hum-dinger; and, by the way, I wish I had a bit of space to repeat some of the questions and answers I hear; maybe I'll do that next week; they're funny, and would make good reading. And there's Mr. George Polk in to see the new Ford; wonders of wonders, he's actually sitting in it; but Georgie is a good hearted old scout, after all. I believe I'll just listen to Deputy Norris tell about how the Sheriff's force took charge of the desperado last week; interesting story, that. Here and there in the storm area, the people are making progress toward getting their homes back into shape; the work is going pretty slow, though. Quite a few golfers out on the course; you know the spring tournament is on, now; pretty soon we'll know who the Clanton golf champ is. Some day I'm going to try the game. There's a tennis game now; I always did like to play tennis; believe I'll just limber up my old stiff bones with a game or two. I'll be seein' you—next week.—Man in the Moon.

NOTHING TO APOLIGIZE FOR

There is nothing this year Republicans have to apoligize for, either in Kansas or in the nation. They have to fight, not because of any scandals in administration, nor political corruption, nor failures, but because of world-wide conditions for which Republicans are no more responsible than Democrats or Mugwumps.

Republicans have no occasion to apoligize for the Hoover administratoin and have every reason to support and approve it. With conditions such as have prevailed for more than two years in every country on the globe; Hoover has been and is more fully qualified to deal as president than perhaps any man who has preceded him, and is the only president in the history of major economic depressions who had a definite program for combating these adverse circumstances. Congress and the country have followed his guidance. It is the president who has conceived and promoted every object of rehabilitation and recovery that has been proposed. He thereby has been the leader in fact as well as in the titular right and duty of his office.

Kansas Republicans should unite in the single-handed purpose of standing by the president's leadership and administration. It is a clean cut party obligation, and implies complete forgetfulness of factional and personal differenees.—Topeka Capital.

One thing that is not worrying us is whether there will be a reduction in the salaries of baseball umpires during the coming season.

When eggs were sixty cents a dozen and ham fifty cents a pound we used to kick about the cost of a ham and egg dinner. Now with eggs at a dime a dozen and ham at twenty cents we can't afford the ham and egg dinner. Reducing the cost of living doesn't always work.

Putting a nuisance tax on bank checks would be a queer way of trying to induce the people to stop hoarding and to put their money in the banks.

Unless we miss our guess those thrifty Chicagoans will save the decorations of the Republican National convention for the Democratic convention. Of course it may be necessary to change a few of the oil paintings.

WRIGLEY'S SALESMANSHIP

The late William Wrigley was a great believer in advertising, as well he might have been for through advertising be built in a few years a great fortune through the sale of an utterly unnecessary article. He gave the philosophy of his salesmanship a few years ago in these words:

"Tell 'em quick and tell 'em often. You must have a good product in the first place, and something that people want."

SIGNS OF BETTER BUSINESS

Textile mills continue to speed up operations. Many plants are being renovated and newer and more modern machinery is being installed to replace the older units. Numerous additions to plant buildings are under way and contemplated. The Stevenson, Ala., Hosiery Mill has resumed full time operations after being closed down for some months, and 75 machines are running day and night.

Failures last week decreased 15.2 per cent against a normal expected drop of 7.4 per cent.

Bank debits increased 42 per cent for the week ending March 2, and bank clearings increased 35 per cent.

Stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange increased $1,208,341,443 in value during the month of February.

Ten idle mills of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Co., at Youngstown, resumed operations on March 7.

Henry Ford has 70,000 men at work in his factories to rush the production of his new V-8 cars. He expects to put out between 4,000 and 5,000 daily.

Ship lines are going to cut trans-Atlantic fares twenty per cent this spring. But we still think we will spend our vacation in the United States on the banks of a stream, just fishin'.

The Republic of Mexico is planning a fifty million dollar paving program. Now look for a general trek of the hot dog stand artists across the Rio Grande.

A sales tax of five per cent is to be levied on radios. Why not put a tax on the radio advertising to get even for the way it taxes the radio listeners?

What some of the professional pacifists seem determined to do is not to end war but to render Uncle Sam helpless before the next one starts.

Cheer up. The U. S. Treasury is still in better shape than it was when Alexander Hamilton took charge of it, at the beginning of President Washington's administration.

Minnesota Democrats will send two sets of delegates to their Chicago convention. This looks like they are copying after the Republican party in South Carolina..

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

The New Kind of Tires

Dief came by Tuesday morning, grabbed me off the corner, and said: "Git on this here Ford car. I want to show you the best riding you ever experienced over rough roads. Where is the roughest road we can find right quick?" Out the main street to West End, I said, and back the Selma Highway. We were gone before I had time to get my hat, and the way Dief was driving, I expected a thorough shaking up. As we sped along over the bumps toward West End, I was surprised that there were no bumps. I could see plenty of bumps in the road, but could not feel them as the car passed over. First I thought maybe Dief had one of the new model Fords. After I had expressed all kind of curiosity about what was going on, we arrived at the strawberry patch and got out. "Here is what is the matter," said Dief, "Look at these new Goodyear Air-Wheel Tires I have got on this Lizzie." As I am not writing this for a Goodyear advertisement, I will not say any more. But honestly, you will be surprised at the difference.

Now What About Berries

We turned our attention to the berry patch. A casual inspection revealed a heavy crop of fruit, some of it almost ready to turn red. There are plenty of berries on Dief's plants. Indications are now that he will have a bigger harvest than he did last year. But you remember Dief's berries were visted by a demolishing hailstorm just in time to hurt them very badly last spring. It made me feel mighty good to see this big crop of berries so promising. I am convinced now that the freeze of last month is not going to amount to so much damage as was feared at first.

Other Things Growing

Once Dief got me out to his place, of course I had to see all there was to it. He showed me razzberries, Irish potatoes, Delicious apple trees he got from Fred Howard, this, that and the other. While we were looking over the place he told me more than I could print in a dozen columns like this.

Will Soon Be His Own

I asked Dief if he owned all the land he is cultivating out there in West End. He replied, in his characteristic fashion, that he and John Page own it together. "I am going to let Page out of the partnership this year if my crop pans out according to prospects. I will be able to pay off my mortgage, and the whole place will be mine."

What's This House?

"What is this house up here in the corner of the berry patch," I asked of Dief. What kind of a foolish answer do you reckon he gave me? He said, "That is my packing house where I store my crates and prepare the berries for loading on the car. But I have another possible use for that house. In case my wife ever gets a notion not to let me stay at home with her and the children any longer, I can come out here and batch."

Dief's Sound Philosophy

"I tell you what is the matter with the country," said Dief, as he unloaded me back on the corner where he got me. "Folks need to quit wasting their time cussing Hoover or somebody else all the time and go to work producing something."

Praise For Red Cross

I have noticed that some ill-advised persons seem to be in a disposition to criticize the Red Cross for their manner, method, of procedure, or some other imaginary blame in handling the relief work of our storm stricken sections. Frankly, I have no patience with such talk. I know the Red Cross has not done it all by any means. Other agencies have had a part. Many individuals have had a part. But there was enough to be done to engage the attention of the Red Cross and all the rest of us. Leaving the Red Cross out, the emergency situation and the program of permanent rehabilitation would have been a task too big for us to handle alone. I am quite sure the people who have been the beneficiaries of this wonderful relief program have nothing but the friendliest feeling and the heartiest appreciation for the work of the Red Cross, and every other agency and individual.

George Bernard Shaw says that if he were eighteen years of age he would go to Russia and grow up with the country. Judging from the length of his whiskers he has already grown up with that country.

SOME THINGS WE CAN NOT ANSWER

Political Question Is the Most Interesting Riddle of Present Day

The Union-Banner has always been a kind of bureau of informaton to people who wanted to know something about everything that nobody else knew anything for certain about. People bring in all sorts of curious bugs and want us to name them, as if we were registered bugologists or something of the kind. Freaks of all kinds are brought to our attention. Folks even sometimes write in or call in and ask us to submit a name for their new born baby. Well, we have all kinds of questions propounded to us; some of them we answer and some we do not; some we connot.

The latter class is where the latest one would fall which we were called upon to explain. A citizen of Chilton County was in our office one day recently and said: "Mr. Editor, I notice in your paper where it is explained how the Republicans of the county are going to choose their delegates to the State and District Conventions; but I fail to find any light on as to how the members of the County Executive Committee are to be selected. Why don't you print that too?

Now, there is one for you. And we are not spoofing either, Messrs. Political Leaders. This actually happened; and you can guess about how much light we were able to turn on the matter for the inquisitor. We imagine that there are others over the county who would like to have a lot of light on this subject.

A World's Record

MORE than three thousand births without a single loss of either mother or child! That is the official Piatt County record of Dr. W. B. Caldwell, in fifty years' family practise in Illinois.

No wonder mothers have such entire confidence in giving little ones Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin!

If you have a baby, you have constant need of this wonderful preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs. A child who gets this gentle stimulant for the stomach, liver and bowels is always healthier. It keeps children's delicate systems from clogging. It will overcome the most stubborn condition of constipation. It builds them up, and is nothing like the strong cathartics that sap their strength and energy.

A coated tongue or bad breath is the signal for a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Children take it readily, for it is really delicious in flavor. Taste it! Take Syrup Pepsin yourself, when sluggish or bilious, or you are troubled with sick headaches and no appetite. Take some for several days when run-down, and see how it picks you up.

It is a prescription preparation which every drug store has ready; in big bottles, just ask anywhere for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

TIMELY HINTS FOR 4-H CLUB WORKERS

To be successful and make money during the year it is necessary for 4-H club boys to get a good start in the spring. The following suggestions will help to succeed:

(1) Please get started immediately if you have not started already. Get a pig or calf and plant your crop. And get started right.

(2) Organize your club and see that each member gets started with his work along with you. Plan and hold regular 4-H club meetings.

(3) If you have not received your certificate for your 1931 work get it, provided you are entitled to it, which you are if you made a report.

(4) Plan with your club advisor (or your local leader) for a 4-H picnic or fishing party for your entire club.

(5) Plan also for your club camp to be held this summer. Your club advisor or your local leader should arrange to be with you at this camp for all of us expect to have a good time.

(6) I hope you will write me or see me as often as you can about your work or the work of your club. It is not possible for me to visit everyone often.

(7) It is a fine thing for 4-H members to wear the 4-H pin. If you want one your secretary can get it for you. The price ranges from 27c down to 8c per pin. The difference is due to material. The gold filled pin with safety lock costs most (27c), while the bronze pin with the regular clasp costs least (8c).—C. E. Stapp.

BOARD REFUSES TO ADMIT TICKY CATTLE

Determined to keep Alabama cattle free of ticks, the state board of agriculture, has refused to permit cattle to be moved into the state from tick infested areas of other states, until Dr. C. A. Cary, state veterinarian, may determine that they may be brought from such areas without danger of infesting Alabama livestock.

DAIRYING IS BIG HELP

Centreville, Ala.—Little stories about what dairy cows mean to them are being told by Bibb County farmers. P. C. Cottingham said that without his six cows he hardly sees how he could have operated his farm the past two years. His cows have paid his farm operating expenses the past two years. L. H. Merchant has four cows. "I don't see how I ever farmed without cows," he said.

These two and other Bibb County farmers are demonstrating the advantages of dairying which is growing, according to T. Pete Lee, county agent.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q.—What crops will best stand heat for a summer garden?

Ans.—The garden crops which endure summer drought and hot weather best in the South are okra, table corn, tomatoes, peppers, egg plant, and vine crops, such as watermelons, cantaloupes, cucumbers, squash, and pumpkins. These can all be planted about as soon as the danger of frost has passed, and they are all killed by early fall frost. Several plantings of several of these should be made in order to have fresh products all during the summer.

Q.—What pruniing would you advise for shrubs which were pretty well advanced when the freeze in March killed the leaves?

Ans.—When some new growth has started, prune away the dead parts. Usually the old parts should be pruned near the ground. In doing the pruning, cut to a branch or forked place so that the sap can continue to rise up another branch. Never leave stubs.

Q.—Please list some annual flowering plants which are suited for flowering border?

Ans.—Tender annuals are usually sown in the spring and will blossom and die in the fall. Beautiful flowers can be expected in one summer from cockscomb, cosmus, cebea, castor bean, dahlia, gourd, martynia, nasturtium, petunia, verbena, etc.

FARMERS PLANTING MORE TESTED SEED

Alabama farmers are planting more official tested farm seed than at any time in the history of the state.

During the past three months the department of agriculture seed laboratory has tested about 800 samples of seed for farmers and dealers, reports Seth P. Storrs, commissioner.

NATURAL REFORESTATION IS THE BEST METHOD TO USE

Montgomery, Ala., April 11.—Between six and seven million acres of Alabama land has become reforested during the past eight years. This is shown by a careful checking by the state commission of forestry of areas formerly practically or wholly barren. The reforested areas comprist innumerable tracts, both large and small, located throughout the state with the larger proportion in the southern half.

The progress that has been made involved no spectacular features, but was accomplished through rational application of natural principles operating toward the desired end. To many the word reforestation signifies the artificial planting of forest trees. This, however, is a very expensive procedure, and if applied in Alabama would cost the State many millions of dollars. It was found far more efficient and economical to create conditions that would result in natural reforestation.

The restocking of woodlands by natural means is accomplished chiefly through leaving a sufficient number of seed trees per acre, elimination of undesireable species from the area, conducting logging operations in manners to protect existing young growth and by excluding fire from the woodlands. These simple precautions involve very little cost, but in nearly every case they will result in the reesablishment of forest growth. Planting will then be required only in very small spots which, for one reason or another, fail to respond to natural seeding.

TO PREVENT MAD DOGS

In response to a request from a group of ladies of Clanton representing the Study Club, City Clerk, Claudie Pipes, announces that the Town Council is planning to institute regulations whereby all dogs in the city will be inoculated against rabies.

Mr. Pipes says it is the plan of the Council to furnish the necessary serum, and that Dr. Hinkle has agreed to administer it free of charge. According to Mr. Pipes, an ordinance fully dealing with the subject is being contemplated by the Council, and that full details of the arrangement will be announced after the next Council meeting.

This measure is recognized as a very timely matter. Every dog owner should co-operate freely and fully with the authorities in carrying out the necessary regulations. This movement can be carried out fully without much trouble or expense, and it will be a great advantage to know that there is not a dog in Clanton that can go mad.

PROPER FEEDING AND GOOD BREEDING PAID

Montgomery, Ala., April 11.—What proper feeding and good breeding will do to increase the profits of livestock producers is illustrated by the experience of J. K. Knowles of Fitzpatrick with forty head of grade Angus calves on the Montgomery Union Stockyards market.

Mr. Knowles brought these calves to market and sold thirty-five of them for 5 and three-fourths cents and five for 5 and one-fourth cents which was about 1 and one-half to 1 and three-fourths above the market according to J. H. Botts of the Alabama Farm Bureau Livestock Commission Firm who handled the sale.

The calves were fed corn and cotton seed meal and were produced from common cows with a pure bred Angus bull.

Mr. Botts stated that if the calves had been pure bred they would have brought three-fourths cents per pound more and would have weighed from 100 to 150 pounds more at the same age.

MORE MIXING FERTILIZER

Abbeville, Ala.—More Henry County farmers are home-mixing their fertilizers this year than heretofore. They are following recommendations given to them by County Agent C. S. Keller, who is guided by experimental results from Auburn. Very little commercial nitrogen will be bought this year because farmers are using cottonseed meal for cotton and planting their corn after Austrian peas.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

The public generally is being informed about the hazards of raising rabbits. Official studies reveal that profits are uncertain and doubtful. However, extravagant claims are being made by promoters who are engaged in selling rabbits for starting into the business.

Lyle Brown, extension forester at Auburn, says that the value of fertilizer in leaves and straw which fall annually from trees on an acre of Alabama woodland is $1.25 per year for fertilizer. On better land it is more. It is estimated that 2,000,000 acres of woodland have been burned in Alabama this year, thus causing a loss of $2,500,000. "The lesson learned here," said Mr. Brown, "is prevent forest fires."

Franklin County home demonstration club women are retrieving and salvaging discarded chairs. Miss Clara Nale, home demonstration agent, has helped by giving demonstrations in paint removal, by making new bottoms of shucks, splits, and burlap strings, and in refinishing furniture.

It is estimated that during the 4 years beginning with the inauguration next March the expenditures of the national government will amount to more than $16,000,000,000. To this must be added costs of state governments, estimated at more than $7,000,000,000, and local governments, estimated at more than $27,000,000,000, making a grand total of more than $50,000,000,000, or more than a billion dollars a month for governments in the United States.

ALABAMA SUSPENDS 6,200 POUNDS BUTTER FROM SALE

During the past month 6,200 pounds of butter were suspended from sale by the department of agriculture, reports Dr. George Marsh, to Seth P. Storrs, commissioner. "This butter was suspended from sale because it was short-weight or short of butter fat," he said.

Much of the butter suspended from sale had been shipped into the state from other states.

WANTS CARLOAD OF BULLS

Union Springs, Ala.—County agent James Nunn is sponsoring a movement for bringing into Bullock County one carload of purebred bulls. Dr. R. S. Sugg, extension livestock specialist at Auburn, is cooperating with him. He is planning to use these bulls and grade cows, improving the quality of cattle at a low cost.

HOW TO PLAN MEALS IS TOLD BY EXPERT

Auburn, Ala., April 11.—How many housewives prepare their meals with no thought of their relation to other meals on the same day? It is never safe, from the nutrition standpoint, to plan only one meal at a time. Miss Helen Kennedy, extension specialist in nutrition at Auburn, says that a lack of carful planning leads to duplication of some foods too often, and may leave out other important foods. A safe guide is to be sure that during the day each member of the family receives milk (a quart for children, a pint for adults), vegetables, including a raw and leafy vegetable, fruit and some protein food such as meat, eggs, or cheese, whole grain cereal or bread, and 6 to 8 glasses of water.

The type of meals to be served depends upon the living conditions of the family. In some ways breakfast is the most important meal as it must supply strength and energy for the hardest part of the day's activities.

If a light meal is eaten at noon, a heavier supper may be served at night. If there are school children in the family, and lunch is eaten at school, the children should have vegetables for supper. For those who retire early a light supper should be eaten.

In planning meals for the day it is important to remember that it is not necessary to have each meal contain all foods necessary for health, but a check should be made to see that during the day all necessary foods have been included in the three meals.

The Making of a Good Farmer

I joined the 4-H Club in 1927 with corn as my project. I worked my corn according to the couny agent's instructions. The yield of corn was 56.5 bushels per acre.

In 1928 I decided to change my project to a pig, I bought a purebred Poland China pig from a hog raiser near by. I fed my pig corn and scraps from the table. I kept it eight months and killed it. When dressed it weighed 302 pounds. When I bought the pig it weighed 60 pounds.

In 1929 I used an acre of cotton as my project. I worked and fertilized it according to the county agent's instructions. I made 532 pounds of lint cotton on the one acre.

In 1930 I joined in the "Chilton County Jersey Calf Club." I bought a six months old heifer paying $109 for her. I knew very little about taking care of cattle, but I went by advice from the county agent. I had only a small woodland pasture, so this meant I must grow feedstuffs for her. I planted hay, mostly for feed and bought calf feed for her.

I won grandchampion of Chilton County in 1930, which I appreciated highly because it was my first year with a calf as my project. I carried my calf to the State Fair at Montgomery last year, but I received no prize there. I enjoyed the trip very much because it was my first time to go to any fair of that kind.

This year I fed my heifer as well as I knew how to make her fat and her hair glossy. This year I received grand chompion of Chilton County and fourth prize at the district fair at Anniston, Alabama.

My heifer calved the last of September this year, her calf being a bull. She is giving from 22 to 25 pounds of milk per day. I am feeding a balanced ration of cottonseed meal, corn, and hay.

I like club work and think all other boys should be interested in the work. It has helped me very much.

Lesson for April 10

HOW SIN BEGINS

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 2:15-17; 3:1-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Garden God Planted.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How Sin Started.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Overcome Temptation.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Responsibility for Our Sins.

A look out upon the world proves that man is not what he should be. It is not reasonable to suppose that man is now what he was when he came from the hands of the Creator, much less an improvement. The only way of accounting for this is by the historic fall of man as given in the Bible.

I. Man's Probation (Gen. 2:15-17).

1. The place (v. 15). It was in the beautiful Garden of Eden. Man's environment was suited to his nature.

2. The necessity (v. 16). This grows out of man's constitution. Adam was created with the possibility of character, but not with character. Alternative choice makes character possible. Freewill was what made Adam a real man.

3. The means (v. 17). It was most simple, just one prohibition. The tree of the knowledge of good and evil was forbidden. Alongside of this small restriction was placed a large privilege—the tree of life.

II. Man's Temptation (3:1-8).

1. The method (vv. 1-5). Satan, a personal, malicious being, appeared in the guise of a serpent. Notwithstanding the growing unpopularity of the doctrine, the fact remains that there is a personal devil. This is proven both by the Scriptures and experience. He did not appeal directly to the man. He chose to appeal to the woman through the serpent, and through the woman to the man.

a. He found the woman while alone.

b. He insinuated doubt into Eve's mind as to God's word and love. This is his method today. He tries to get people to doubt God's Word and then to doubt his goodness. He persuaded Eve that God was withholding from her something that was good. He today induces men to say that God is cruel, harsh, and unjust. He gets young people to think that father and mother are too exacting. As soon as one doubts God's word, he begins to criticize it and to disobey it.

c. To get Eve to doubt the penalty of sin. There is much flippant jesting about eternal punishment. Be it remembered, however, that this does not change its reality.

d. He appealed to innocent appetite. He agued that there would be no harm in eating, but great advantage.

e. Eve gazed upon that which God had forbidden and lusted after it.

2. The fall (vv. 6-8). The steps in the fall seem to have been rapid. From doubting God's love, Eve went to doubting his word. From gazing upon and lusting after that which God had prohibited, there was but a short step to indulgence. Eve not only disobeyed, but involved Adam in her sin.

III. Man's Judgment (vv. 9-24).

God's holy nature is such that when men sin he at once manifests himself. God called Adam and Eve to account the same day.

1. A disturbed relationship with God (v. 8). The introduction of sin marred man's familiar intercourse with the Almighty. Adam and Eve not only hid from God's presence, but when summoned by him began to make excuse and Adam even laid the blame on God.

2. The degradation of the serpent (v. 14). He henceforth became the type of sin and Satan (Num. 21:9; John 3:14; Rev. 12:9).

3. The undying enmity between the seed of the woman and the seed of the serpent (v. 15). This bitter enmity has continued from that day to this.

4. The ultimate victory of the woman's seed (v. 15). Satan's seed has harassed the woman's seed through the centuries, but on the cross the final stroke was made which crushed his head (John 12:31; Heb. 2:14; 1 John 3:8). This is the first gleam of the glorious gospel of Christ.

5. The judgment upon the woman (v. 16). This relates primarily to her as a wife and mother.

6. Man's new relationship to the earth (vv. 17-19). The earth was cursed on his account.

7. Death (v. 19). This includes spiritual and physical death.

8. Expulsion from the garden (v. 24). When man's nature was changed by sin, out from the beautiful garden he must go.

RANDOM SAYINGS

Apparent need is not always real need. He is our best friend who helps our real need.

It is a higher exhibition of Christian manliness to be able to bear trouble than to get rid of it.

* * *

If you have something good to say to a man better look him up and say it now. He won't be able to read his tombstone when he's dead.

SQUIRE DENNIS IS IN FAVOR OF CHARLIE DUKE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space for a few words to the voters of the county in behalf of C. D. Duke, for Commissioner of the Fourth District.

I have known Charlie Duke for years. He is a good man, and straight in all business. Voters, do not be afraid of him. Try him, and I think all will be satisfied with him.

Come out and let's nominate Mr. Duke in the primary and elect him in November. He is a man of truth and honesty, and you can't find aught against him. I ask your support for Mr. Duke.

I hear some talk about the committee. Don't pay no attention to that. It is done to cause strife in the party. It started at the courthouse, I hear, for a purpose. Come on, Republicans, and let us nominate our candidates and elect them in November.

Good wishes to all.—John S. Dennis, of Beat 11.

(Paid political adv. by C. D. Duke Clanton, Ala.)

FAVORS L. H. BEAN

Editor Union-Banner:

Without solicitations, I want to say a few things in behalf of Mr. L. H. Bean's race for Tresurer's office. I have known Mr. Bean since childhood days, in fact, I have known his family, and I take great pleasure in telling about him. I knew him for his truthfullness and honest dealings with all whom he comes in contact with, and I know him to be a good, conscientious Republican since there has been a Republican party in Chilton County. I have been around his place of business quite often, and listened in on a great many conversations between Mr. Bean and all his associates and he has never failed in one instance to uphold the Republican party, or anything else for that matter, that he thought was right.

He is outspoken and you can always, very easily find out just where he stands on any question, in fact, there is few men of Mr. Bean's ability. Everything considered, I believe every Republican in Chilton County will be proud of their theasurer should Mr. Bean be elected to that office.

I sure did like Mr. Littlejohn's reply to Cooper's letter in last weeks Union-Banner. I say hurrah for Mr. Littlejohn.—E. H. Foshee, Lowndesboro, Alabama.

Thousands of Mothers are waiting each week for this hour...

IT'S THE HOUR when son or daughter or old friends visit her each week from some distant place by telephone. How happily she looks forward to this hour.

Thousands of families are doing this each week . . . enjoying a short, inexpensive voice visit by telephone with mother or other members of the family living in other cities. Because your voice is you over the telephone, such visits are just as personal as though you were in the same room.

Visiting loved ones at regular intervals by long distance telephone is a most pleasing thing to do. Try it tonight and see for yourself. It's surprising how little it costs to talk with distant friends.

POOR C

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

Elder Blossom Fills His Pintment At The Mt. Giliad Church (Col.)

As Ah stans here in dis pulpit, dis secon Sunday in April, 1932, it brings to mah min de greatest day in all ob mah life. Dat wuz de secon Sunday in de year ob 1890. Ah wuz ordained to de work ob de Gospel ministery on dat day. So you see, Ah has ben a preacher for 42 years. So today Ah am gwyin to talk to you bout some ob de things dat has hapened in dat 42 years. Fust Ahs gwyin to read a leson foun in de book ob Deutronomy, 34th chapter. Now will you stan an sing a good song? (they stan an sing) Now jes stan lak you is. Effen dar is any body here dat is 65 years old, set down, an all de res remain standin. Now dars four. Now evy body dat is over 50 years, set down, well dars 9. Now evy body over 25, well sur, 22 took their seats. Now let dose over 15 set down, 29 in dat bunch. Now dat leaves 31 still standin, besides de babies, dat makes 95.

Now Ah will read mah tex, it is Acts, 4:20. "For we cannot but speak the things which we have sung and heard." In all ob dese 42 years, Ah has seen an heard lots ob things. De Lord wuz talkin to Paul when he used de language ob mah tex. An Paul wuz told to go to de Gentiles an tell his speriences, which he did at leas three times in his writins. An ob course, Ah cant sa how many times while he wuz preachin. Ah wants to tell you Ah believes dat effen we would leave off preachin sometimes an jes let evy body tell their speriences, it would do mo good. It would hep their feelins, an make dem feel better. Ah knos dat dar am lots ob folks in dis country whut says dar no feelin in ligion, but effen dey would sa, not as I knos ob," it would be allriate. Des cause dey aint had no feelins, aint no reason why Ah shouldnt hab none. Ah has feelins, an good feelins at dat, when Ah hears somebody tell their sperience. An besides dat, de Book say dat we know we have passed from death unto life, because we love the Brethren. Love is more than feelin, but love has feelin. Ah dont kno how love for mah Bruders and Sistahs could manifest itself to me thro mah hearin or seein, but Ah can easily see how Ah could feel a love for dem. Den agin, in Romans, 10th chapter, 10th vers, it sa, "For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confesion is made unto salvation." So you see, Ah can see mah mouth to tell whut de Lord has done fur me, but de sperience dat Ah would relate wid mah mouth, is felt in mah heart. Effen it wuzent, Ah wouldnt hab nothin to tell. Ahs afraid dar is lots ob folks whut ant got nothin to tell, all because dey aint nevah felt nothin.

In mah early ministery, Ah wuz prayin one nite fur a man whut libed nex doah to me, whut wuz a drunkard. His wife had axed me to pray fur him, an Ah sa "Lord Ah wants you to scare dat man nearly to def, cause he sa dat dar aint no heartfelt ligion." An atter de prayer, Ah opened mah Bible to read some mo, an a nock on mah door stoped me, an Ah sa, "come in," an dat man an his wife com in. He sa, Elder, do somethin fur me, cause Ah feels des lak Ah am lost furever. An Ah sa, feels, an he sa, dont sa no mo bout feelins. When Ah wuz arguin bout feelins, Ah didnt hab none, but now Ah can feel in mah hart dat Ah am lost. An Ah tole him to belebe in his hart dat Jesus is de Christ an den confess his sins, an atter we prayed he wuz saved. An today he is preachin de gospel an's got a ligion can be felt.

It would take me all nite to tell you all ob de things dat Ah have seen an heard. Ah heard a Baptist preacher sa to a young man one nite, why dont you go on an give de preacher yoah han? An dat boy sa, Ah dont feel dat Ah need to go. An dat preacher sa, you stan here an wait fur feelins, an you nevah will be sabed. Now let me tell you, effen dat boy had beliebed de gospel dat had been preached to him dat nite, he would hab bin all broke up over his sins, an felt dis lak he had outraged God. An he would hab ben in a repentant mood an wid a contrite hart, went forward an gib his han an fell on his nees widout any body urgin him. Another time a oman pulled one ob mah nieces out fum between de benches an gib her a shove an sed, go on an gib him yoah han, an she sa, ill not do it till Ah feels lak it. Dese are some ob de things dat Ah has seen an heard. Ah could tell you more, but you mite git tired ob hearin dem.

De Bible sa he wept, an Ah can imagine his feelins when his Brother Aaron an his sister Miriam caused a sedition among de people. Numbers 12th chapter, den Ah can imagine his feelins when de Lord tole him dat he could look over de riber an see de promise lan, but dat he culdnt go over dar. But atter all ob his ups an downs, an his bad feelins an his good feelins, he had de honor, an de glourius speriences ob bein de onliest man whut de good Lord evah sent his angels to bury. An Ah think dat his spirit mus hab had some mity good feelins, while it looked on dat sacred burial, whar dar wuz no mourners, but whar holy hans ob angels placed his lifeless body in a sepulchere. De location ob which wuz known only to dem an God, de Father.

Should yoah anser be, Ahm not
Nows yoah time to pray.

Hugo Black's Wife's On Gov'ment Payroll

The official records of the U. S. Senate show that Senator Black has his wife on the government payroll at $2,200 a year and also the wife of his secretary at $1,800 a year.

In this time of distress, with millions out of work, people struggling for existence and crushed with taxes the government is squandering millions in useless bureaus and salaries which are largely created for politicians and their friends and kinfolks.

Will the voters continue this outrage, or will they send in Black's place a man who will break it up along with other such extravagances, just as Kilby did at Mongomery?

JOHN CRAWFORD, LOMAX, HAD ANOTHER "REVISION"

John Crawford, negro of Lomax, stopped one of the Banner fellows last Friday and told us that he had something else he wanted published. He said that he had had another vision. If you remember, we published a vision which John had about a year ago in which he said he saw a whole army of cows eating up large fields of corn. He said that his vision foretold some kind of great destruction; he says now that the disastrous storm was the fullfillment of his first vision.

This second vision, he said, showed him large fields of young corn submerged under water. John interprets this vision as meaning still further destruction of property and people. He says that God is displeased with His people. Folks will not listen to the pleadings of the still small voice, so He has to send something mightier and more convincing. He added that folks do not have the love for each other and for God that would please the Almighty. John says that God has told him numbers of things in other visions. He says that people will not believe what he tells them, but sooner or later God will show them.

ARTICLE —. "(a) That the municipalities of the cities of Eufaula and Talladega, through their respective governing bodies, in addition to the taxes which they are by any other provisions of the Constitution, or any amendment thereto otherwise authorized to levy and collect, may each levy and collect from and after the adoption of this amendment, an additional tax of not exceeding one-half of one per centum per annum to be devoted to such purposes as may be designated by the governing body of the municipality, but before any such additional tax can be levied, it must be voted by a majority of the qualified electors of the municipality, voting upon such proposition at an election called by the governing body of said muncipality for such purpose; provided, that the total taxes levied for all purposes by said cities of Eufaula and Talladega shall not exceed one and one-half per centum in any one year on the property situated therein, based on the valuation of such property as assessed for state taxation. (b) That the municipality of the City of Decatur, through its governing body, in addition to the taxes which it is, by any other provision of the Constitution of the State of Alabama, or any amendment thereto, otherwise authorized to levy and collect, may from and after the adoption of this amendment, levy and collect an additional tax of not exceeding one-half of one per centum per annum on the property situated therein, based on the valuation of such property as assessed for state taxation; privided further, that a majority of the qualified electors of said municipality voting upon such proposition at an election called by said municipality for that purpose may vote an additional tax not to exceed three-tenths of one per centum in any one year for any special purpose or purposes, which tax shall be levied, collected and used exclusively for the purpose or purposes for which the same is voted; provided that the total tax levied for all purposes by said municipality shall not exceed one and one-half per centum during any one year on the property situated therein, based on the valuation of such property as assessed for state taxation. (c) That the municipality of the city of Bridgeport through its governing body, in addition to the taxes which it is by any other provision of the Constitution, or any amendment thereto, authorized to levy and collect, may without an election therefor, levy and collect from and after the date of the adoption of this amendment an additional tax of not exceeding 1 per centum per annum, based on the value of property situated therein as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year, to be used exclusively for the purpose of paying its bonded indebtedness and the interest thereon, evidenced by its bonds and interest coupons outstanding at the time of the adoption of this amendment, or refunding bonds with the interest thereon hereafter issued for the purpose of refunding any bonded indebtedness of the said city existing at the time of this adoption of this amendment; provided however, that when and after all of said bonded indebtedness of the said city existing at the time of the adoption of this amendment, and whether evidenced by its bonds and interest coupons outstanding at the time of the adoption of this amendment or by refunding bonds hereafter issued for the purpose of refunding said bonded indebtedness or any part thereof, shall have been paid in full, the said additional tax herein authorized may be levied and collected in such amounts and may be devoted to such purposes as may be designated by its governing body and voted for by a majority of the qualified electors of said municipality voting upon said proposition at an election called by the governing body of said municipality for such purpose; provided, however, that the total taxes levied by said municipality for all purposes shall not exceed one and one-half per centum in any one year on property situated therein, based on the valuation of said property as assessed for state taxation. (d) That the municipalities of Attalla and Altoona, through their respective governing bodies, in addition to the taxes which each of such municipalities is, by any other provision of the Constitution or any amendment thereto, otherwise authorized to levy and collect, may levy and collect from and after the date of the adoption of this amnedment an additional tax of not exceeding one per centum per annum, in such amounts and to be devoted to such purposes as may be designated by their respective governing bodies and voted for by a majority of the qualified electors of such municipality voting upon such proposition at an election called by the governing body of such municipality for such purpose; provided that the total taxes levied for all purposes shall not exceed one and one-half per centum in any one year on property situated therein, based on the valuation of such property as assessed for state taxation. (d) That the municipalities of the towns of Red Bay and Parish, through their respective governing bodies, in addition to the taxes which they are by any other provision of the Constitution, or any amendment thereto otherwise authorized to levy and collect, may each levy and collect from and after the adoption of this amendment, an additional tax of not exceeding one-half of one percentum per annum to be devoted to such purposes as may be designated by the governing body of the municipality, but before any such additional tax can be levied, it must be voted by a majority of the qualified electors of the municipality, voting upon such proposition at an election called by the governing body of said municipality for such purpose; provided that the total taxes levied for all purposes by said towns of Red Bay and Parish shall not exceed one per centum in any one year on the property situated therein, based on the valuation of such property as assessed for state taxation. (f) Each election held under the provisions of this amendment shall be ordered, held, canvassed and may be contested in the same manner as is or may be provided by the Law applicable to the municipal corporations for elections to authorize the issuance of municipal bonds. The ballots used at such elections shall contain the words: "For authorization of additional taxation at a rate not to exceed.....per cent for the year (or years)....., for the purpose or purposes of ....." and, "Against authorization of additional taxation at rate not to exceed .....per cent for the year (or years).... ....., for the purpose or purposes of ....." The rate of taxation proposed shall be printed upon the ballot in the space indicated therefor, and the year or years in which the proposed rate is to apply, and the purpose or purposes for which such tax is to be used, shall be likewise printed in the respective spaces therefor. The voter shall record his choice either for or against authorization of the proposed rate for the proposed purpose or purposes by placing a cross mark before or after the words expressing his choice. Nothing herein contained shall in any wise change or affect the rights of any holder of bonds of said municipal corporations heretofore issued. Elections in each of said municipalities to authorize the levy of such special tax may be held as often as ordered by the governing body thereof, but when a proposition is submitted to the electors of either of said municipalities for authorization to levy a special tax for a specific purpose and such proposition is defeated, no second election for the same purpose shall be held in such municipality within one year thereafter. This amendment shall be self executing and no Legislative Act shall be necessary to put said amendment or any part thereof in force and effect."

S. J. M. WEBB APPEALS TO VOTERS OF COUNTY

To the Republican Voters:

I wish to say a word to the Republican voters of Chilton County regarding my candidacy for re-election as member of the County Board of Education.

I am considerably handicapped as to canvassing this year on account of the serious illness of my wife. Her condition is such that I cannot afford to be away from her but a few hours at the time. This makes it entirely impossible for me to get out among the voters of the county as I would like to do.

However, I presume that most of the Republican voters of the county will read this letter, and I take this means of soliciting your vote and influence. I will appreciate anything that anyone does in my behalf. Please do not think that, because I am not going out much, I am unconcerned about the matter, because it is quite the contrary. I am deeply interested in my race, because I want to be of service to the educational interest of our county; and I believe that if I am re-elected, I can do more in this respect in the future than I have been able to do in the past.

I will close by thanking each and everyone in advance for any help that you may be in my behalf.—Yours very truly, S. J. M. Webb.

VISITORS INSPECT INSTITUTE PLANT

Delegation Composed of Sixty-Five Church People of Birmingham

Monday afternoon, April 11th, one of the boys of the school, while looking towards the highway, remarked, "Whoever, looks like all Birmingham is coming." What he saw was a procession of autos, leaving the highway and turning into Thorsby Institute campus, and there were enough of them to make an impression on any observer. As they filed past, a sign on white canvass, spreading over the spare tire read, "Congregational Community Church." Since there is but one institution in Alabama, officially bearing that title, it proclaimed visitors from Birmingham. They were not unexpected, as notice had been received that perhaps thirty of the members of that church would visit the school at that time, but when the number was swelled to sixty-five, they certainly made an imposing approach.

Why had they come? Just to get acquaintad! The visitors were from the recently organized and later augmented Congregational church in Birmingham, whose pastor is Rev. Trevor Mardecai, a well known social worker, who is building up a strong following of people who, "Do Things."

This particular contigent of the membership of that church, were for the most part, representatives of their Women's Guild, and they came by invitation from Miss Helen C. Jenkins, representing Thorsby Institute, who was hostess, assisted by the Ladies Guild of Thorsby, and the Congregational Ladies Aid Society of Thorsby.

Stepping out of the autos, the visitors were first shown the Institute buildings and grounds, finally taking seats in the auditorium, where Miss Jenkins gave them a few words of welcome, and a short sketch of the history and purposes of the school. This was followed by Mr. Butler, who, as treasurer of Thorsby Institute, made a brief report on finances. Mrs. W. C. Bonham, as president of The Women's Guild of the Congregational Community Church, responded and said that their Guild had voted to have Thorsby Institute as their Home Missionary project. Mr. Bonhm will probably be elected as a member of Thorsby Institute Trustees at ther meeting this week, was introduced as a representative of the Congregational Commmunity Church.

Other introductions followed, Rev. Joseph E. Each, as pastor of Thorsby Congregational Church. Mrs. Howard as president of the The Ladies Guild of Thorsby.

Mrs. Gerald as sercretary of the Board of Trustees, of Thorsby Institute, and Mrs. Butler, as president of the Ladies Aid Society, of Thorsby Congregational Church.

After these preliminaries, some of the class rooms, still in session, were visited by those interested. Then at 2:15 p.m. the guests, townspeople and the school assembled in Helen Jenkins Hall, the Institute assembly room, to hear a cantata, "The Culprit Fay" given by the Institute Girl's Glee Club, under direction of Miss Thoroman, music instructor of the school. Harold Broadhead read a summary of the cantata, and Alice Polk gave a reading during a short intermission.

At the close of the program, the guests were invited to assemble in the dining hall, where light refrehments were served by the Ladies Guild and Ladies Aid as hostesses. Here conversation was free and easy and everyone talked to their neighbors, many plasant acquaintances were begun, which it is hoped will be long continued. As the guests were departing, many expressions of delight and pleasure from the visit were expressed, and it was generally conceded that as a "Getting Acquainted" afair, the visitors and visited were convinced of its success.

The following is the names of the Birmingham visitors:

Mrs. S. G. Harris, Mrs. C. D. Thomsen, Mrs. Jack Morris, Mrs. L. E. Rush, Mrs. Carl W. Johns, Mrs. Powell Baker, Mrs. J. A. Dahl, Mrs. Ben McCoy, Mrs. S. W. Steele, Miss Lou O'Neal, Mrs. W. J. NOTICE BERRY GROWERS

From the office of Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association comes the following notice to berry growers who are members of the association:

All growers who lost any crates in the recent storm are asked to check up on the number of pieces they have of ends, sides, tops, dividers, etc., and report as soon as possible to the office, so we can take care of needs in this respect.

All growers who expect to ship Irish potatoes are asked to let the office know how many sacks they will need. The price of the sacks will be around six cents each. This includes printing on one side.

It is urged that all growers take necessary steps to properly look after the coming strawberry crop. This will be our first cash crop of the year, and it goes without saying that the growers need all the cash they can get out of their berries.

Thorsby berries are reported looking better. Prospects now indicate a shipment of 60 or more cars. The shipping season is expected to begin about May 1st.

Another shipment of berry crates is expected to arrive some time after April 20th. Growers who need more can get them then. Notice of arrival will be sent to growers. Some crates will be kept in the warehouse all the time to take care of unexpected needs.

At chapel Tuesday morning, Mary Ruth Nix read her Senior essay entitled, "Rural Recreation."

MAMY'S LIL' WILD ROSE

Several weeks ago a high class play, "Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose was given by the Thorsby Public school faculty and several talented people out of town. There was a great solicitation that it be repeated. It went over with a big hit. Several attempts have been made to repeat it, but something has prevented it each time. It will be given again next Saturday night, April 16. The pro-fine freestone spring comes up in a concrete basin in the corner of the house, providing more than an ample supply of water. Concrete tubs have been built, thus eliminating the necessity of any kind of basins. The wash pot is built into a furnace for heating the water. All waste from the wash place is carried in a sewer line emptying into the creek.

Mr. Plier devotes most of his farming operations to the care of cattle, hogs, and sheep. He has 40 acres in a sheep pasture, and 25 acres in a cattle pasture. His cattle herd is made up of fine registered Jersey cattle. There is under construction a 1,000 capacity brooder house being built according to the Auburn plan.

This wonderful place is only a few minutes drive from Clanton, with a good road all the way. It is right on the rural mail route, and a school bus line that runs to Clanton.

The work Mr. Plier has done to develop this place is remarkable. But he has just gotten far enough with his developments to make a real picture of what can actually be accomplished. He has an acre planted in strawberries, and has a sloping hillside cleared off for putting out an acre in a grape vineyard.

A place is being saved on top of a little hill for building a permanent home some time in the future. It is an elevation that gives a commanding view of the valley below, where all the operations of the farm are carried on. From a home on this site one can see the beautiful pond stretching for two miles up the creek. The dam and power house are directly in front and the swirling rapids below the dam are glittering down the stream.

To our great surprise, when Mr. Plier had carried us through the whole arrangement of things, and talked about the great possibilities of future development here, he told us he wants to sell this place to someone who is able to develop it and fully appreciate it.

We have often wished we were rich and had plenty of money to do as we pleased. And we wished it more than ever after we had seen this place. It would be the most delightful venture in the world to have Will Plier's place and make it just the actual accomplishment that is possible there.

In the waters of Yellow Leaf Creek at the Plier place is one of the best fishing retreats in Chilton County. Bass by the thousands come up the Creek from Lake Mitchell, three miles away, and congregate in the waters below the mill dam. "I guess there has been a ton of bass taken out of the place this spring already," said Mr. Plier as he waved his hand to indicate two hundred yards of swirling water flowing over the rocks in the creek bed.

The bull frog population of the mill pond is unnumbered. On any warm night it takes only a few minptes with gig and spotlight to bring in a mess of frog legs that makes the finest eating this side of heaven itself.

S. J. M. Webb of Isabella was in Clanton Saturday. He stated that the condition of his wife is unchanged except probably she is gradually getting weaker.

PLANS TO SECURE JOBS FOR IDLE

American Legion and Kiwanis Club Unite In This Very Worthy Cause

Local application of the nation-wide program to put a million idle men back to work is being pushed forward in Chilton County by the American Legion and the Kiwans Club of Clanton.

Some time ago Adjutant A. L. Robinson was named employment officer for the Legion. Last week the Kiwanis Club declared its cooperaiton and support of the movement, and designated C. E. Stapp as its local employment officer.

Briefly stated, the program, which is nation-wide, is designed according to the purpose of finding jobs that men can do, and putting idle men in connection with the jobs. This does not necessarily mean a program of permanent employment, while it may apply thereto. Any kind of a job, whether for a day or a year, will be considered.

The people of Chilton County are urged to co-operate in this movement. If you have a piece of work you can give some man for any length of time, you are asked to notify either Mr. Robinson or Mr. Stapp. If you are an idle worker wanting a job, you should also communicate with one or the other of these men, and let them know what kind of work you can do.

Elsewhere in this paper is an advertisement which publishers of the paper have donated to the cause, in hope that this very important matter may be brought to the attention of the people of the county and result in securing employmen to those who are idle.

The Kiwanis club of Clanton pledged it's whole-heated support in cooperating with the Chiton County Post of the American Legion in it's campaign against unemployment in this county, at the regular weekly luncheon Thursday.

R. D. Woodson, commander of the local Legion Post, was one of the speakers at the Kiwanis luncheon last week, and outlined the aims of the local post in this campaign.

A report of the activities of the Red Cross in the storm stricken areas of this county was given by Mrs. Vasilike Foster, area director in this section. Mrs. Foster's talk was interesting, and disclosed many items regarding Red Cross work that were good to learn.

Observes Garden Week

The regular weekly luncheon will be held today at 12:15, at the Baptist church. The program will be given over to a discussion of Garden Week. Mrs. John C. Page will be among the speakers on this subject. Mrs. Page will give word pictures of the good that can be done with flowers and shrubbery, something new for the members of the club, and this is being looked forward to.

WAR VETERANS MEETING HELD

Address Delivered By Charley Greer, Legionaire, of Birmingham

A meeting of much interest to ex-service men of Chilton County and the ladies of the Auxiliary was held at the courthouse Monday night. The attendance was good.

Charley Greer of Birmingham was the visiting speaker. His address on the Ideals of the American Legion was one of the most impressive and inspirational talks ever given to the ex-soldiers of this ciunty.

Mr. Greer is well acquainted with the plans and purposes of the Legion. He is chairman of the legislative committee of the Department of Alabama, and has intimate touch with legislative powers in Alabama for several years. He has maintained a close contact with every movement in the interest of the ex-soldiers, which fact makes him a capable exponent of Legion ideals.

The meeting Monday night was favored with a radio by Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company, of Clanton. This made it possible for those in attendance at the meeting to hear the nation-wide program of the American Legion, in which an address was made by the National Commander Henry L. Stephens.

There's all sorts of pills and fancy cures, but the best tonic for ailments is friends.

MORE SPEAKING DATES ARE ANNOUNCED

Judge Reynolds will continue to speak at different places in Chilton County during the next few days.

Elsewhere in this paper will be found a list of the places where he will speak, and the dates.

His subject will be reduction of taxes, and the present political situation in Chilton County. Everybody is invited to attend these meetings.

RELIEF PROGRAM GOING FORWARD

Red Cross Continues On the Job With More Supplies Coming In

The work of supplying the needs of storm sufferers in Chilton county moves forward with steady progress now. All details of the emergency program have been worked out, and now the problem is to take care of the temporary needs of the people, and the permanent re-establishment of their homes.

The Red Cross has already authorized the building of many homes. More cases are being worked out every day by the case workers. This part of the program will be carried on for several weeks yet.

Shipments of food and clothing for the sufferers continue to come in. A few days ago a supply of 45 cases of shredded wheat came from the factory at Niagra Falls, N. Y., addressed to the American Legion. This is being distributed through cooperation with the Red Cross.

This week a car load of government flour came in from a mill somewhere, for distribution through the Red Cross. The flour was made from wheat owned by the government, and distributed by special act of Congress.

A car load of corn, peas, beans, and other feed stuff arrived this week.

PARTY AT VERBENA

Miss Isabel Messer was honored at a home coming party, Friday evening, April 15, given by her sister, Miss Rachel Messer of Verbena, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Smith.

ABANDONED BABY BOY LEFT AT HOME OF HENRY GORE IN CLANTON

Note Left With Child Says, "Willie James Was Born January 3, 1932," and asks Mr. and Mrs. Gore to Take Good Care of Him

A visitor unknown, unseen, and perhaps never to be identified, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gore, in Clanton Monday night, leaving on the porch as fine a baby boy as ever any stork could provide.

Mr. Gore stated that he and his wife were awakened about ten o'clock by a noise that sounded like someone throwing rocks against their house. They got up to investigate, and saw a bundle on the front porch. At first they were afraid to go near the bundle, Mr. Gore stated; but when they finally made up their minds to see what it was they approached and found a baby boy wrapped in a blanket, and somewhat scantily clothed.

There was an old handbag near the baby. This contained a few old baby clothes. Inside the bag was a note, which read:

"Willie James was born January 3, 1932. I am giving you the baby and want you to treat it as if it was your own, Mr. and Mrs. Gore."

From the wording of the note, it appears that the baby was left there by someone who knew Mr. and Mrs. Gore.

Word of the find was at once communicated to the Sheriff by Mr. Gore, and he was instructed to keep the baby if he wanted it. Since the news of the mysterious occurence has gotten out, the home of Mr. Gore in the Gowan addition has been visited by many people who have seen and admired the fine baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Gore are delighted with the youngster, and already are making plans to give him a good home and the best of care. A baby bed was ordered the first thing Tuesday morning, together with all kinds of clothes and things to make him happy and contented.

BALLOON ASCENSION IN CLANTON NEXT SATURDAY

There is being advertised in Clanton and vicinity this week a balloon ascension for Saturday, April 23rd. The whole attraction will be free. It also adds that special bargains will be offered by the various merchants and business concerns whose names appear at the bottom. It is intended to stimulate local trade at-home business. The parachute leap promises a great thrill to the big crowd that is expected to witness it.

CASH GROCERY STORE TO OPEN

William Billingsley is as busy as a bee in a tar bucket this week getting ready to open the new Cash Grocery Store Friday and Saturday of this week.

The building next to the First National Bank has been remodeled and outfitted especially for this business, and it is going to be a fine looking store.

Mr. Billingsley invites his friends over the county to come to see him Friday and Saturday of this week, and all along in the future when they need to buy groceries.

A Good Letter Concerning The Political Situation in Chilton County

(By R. W. Kendrick, Plantersville, Ala.)

Editor Union-Banner:

I cannot refrain from saying a few words as to my opinion of the political situation of the Republican party of Chilton County.

If you will give me space, I will say this: Everybody knows that the difference of opinion starts right among the officers at the courthouse and that there are two crowds that are enemies to each other in politics. Now, the thing I wanted to say is for the people to stop and think how bad it looks when the officers they have elected and paid to do the work fail to work in harmony, and to be satisfied with what they have, and to keep the people's mind confused as to who is right in their attempt to lead the people. If it takes that to bring harmony in the ranks of the Republican Party, I say the people ought to do away with the whole "would be leadership" of the party and get some one else for the job.

The saying goes,"There are as good fish in the sea as has ever been took out." We all know we have friends in social and business life. But when ever it comes to politics, we don't know whether we have a friend or not after our vote is secured. When we come to think of the promises that are made and broken, when we think of the rights and liberties that have been taken from the people by legislation, we need not hesitate to think that the principles that our ancestors fought, bled, and died for have been lost in avarice, selfishness, and greed of the present day politicians.

As I see and believe it, the Republican Party of Chilton County during my days of observation has very nearly measured up to the standard of a govenrment of the people, by the people, and for the people, because where the whole people of the county were concerned, the voice of the people has been ascertained before any action was taken. Then, can we afford to let the selfish principles of any set or faction of our party get hold enough on us as to tear us loose from the good government of our county that we have enjoyed so long? United we stand, divided we fall.

The little matter, as some term it, of selecting a Republican executive committee will only illustrate the way people's rights are slipped away from them. Little grains of sand, enough will make great hills.

Of course I am one of Mr. Charlie Cooper's culls, and am glad to be freed from the burden of making trips to Clanton all but one thing; the people at my voting precinct voted my name on their ticket as a Beat Committee man. What right has any one, two, three, four, or a dozen men to notify some one else to qualify and get on the ticket and say nothing to me, when he could have notified me as easy as he could have the other man?. Now I never got one penny out of serving on this committee, but if it had paid five thousand dollars per year it might have been the same. So the principle is there just the same.

I did not intend to mention this, but it illustrated the thought I wanted to make. Our future rights and liberties depend on leadership that has mind to play fair with the people in politics.

Then we should be careful and watch our steps as we approach the primary, for there we are to select the men that are to make up the solid front and fight the battles in November.

I will write you again some time if I see this in print.—Yours for good government, R. W. Kendrick.

It's lots of fun sometimes to crawl inside another fellow's heart and look out his eyes. It makes things seem quite a lot different.

When old acquaintances git together time goes like a dollar bill once you bust it.

Did you ever notice that it's the feller that does the loving that gits the most fun out of it?

TAX PAYERS TO HAVE A MEETING

At Courthouse In Clanton, Saturday, April 30th, at One O'clock P. M.

A meeting of great interest and importance to every taxpayer in Chilton County will be held at the courthouse in Clanton, Saturday afternoon, Apr. 30. Attending the meeting will be Judge Herbert J. Ward and Mrs. Mabel Jones West, of Birmingham, who are co-chairmen of the Alabama Tax Payers League.

Mrs. West was in Clanton Monday of this week making preliminary arrangements for the meeting. A summary statement of the purposes of the meeting was made by Mrs. West as follows:

"We are not interested in politics. We want the people to understand from the beginning that the movement we are sponsoring does not concern politics, and is not seeking endorsement of any candidate for public office.

"We are interested in the things that concern taxpayers. The taxpayer has a right to know how his money is spent, and the purpose of the taxpayers league is to acquaint him with some very important facts about where the tax money is going.

"The Alabama Taxpayers League is organized under authority of the National Taxpayers League, which is already organized in thirty-eight states of the Union. It is a non-partisan, non-sectarian movement. Every citizen and taxpayer of Chilton county is urged to come to the meeting which we have arranged at the courthouse in Clanton, Saturday afternoon, April 30, at 1 o'clock.

STRAWBERRIES ARE COMING IN

The first strawberries of the season began to come in Monday and Tuesday of this week. They were being offered for sale on the local market by different growers.

Apparently the first berries are of extra fine quality, and it is indicated that the yield will be satisfactory in quantity, if the weather conditions are favorable through the next few weeks.

PEOPLES PHONE CO. MADE A FLOP

Appears That People Do Not Want a Rural Telephone System Here

The people in rural Chilton County do not want a telephone system, as was minfest by the lack of interest in the meeting called for last Saturday afternoon. Besides the Board of Directors there were less than a half dozen phoneholders present. Some sent in word that they would lend their support to any worth-while movement to keep the system going; but there was nothing in sight which made it look possible. ble.

Therefore, so far as the present board of directors is concerned, there is nothing that can be done to keep the company going. The business cannot run without money and support, and both of these essentials seem to be totally withheld. The operators at the office have been instructed to use their own pleasure about answering calls. They are no longer expected to give service, inasmuch as there is no money to pay them with.

FRANK MASSEY OUT OF STORE

Frank Massey states for the information of the public that he is no longer connected with the store of Holcombe & Massey, in Clanton, having sold his interest to his partner, Mr. C. R. Holcombe.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

SUMMER LEGUMES ARE ADVISED BY AUBURN

Auburn, Ala., April 18.—After a quarter of a century of experimenting, the Alabama Experiment Station at Auburn has concluded that it is unwise to plant a legume in corn at the last cultivation. Reasons given by director, M. J. Funchess are: Failure to get a stand three out of five years due to dry weather. If rains occur and cause good stands corn usually smothers the legume; and dry weather later usually cramps the legumes.

But the Alabama station is strong for planting summer legumes—soybeans, cowpeas, and velvet beans. Planting alone or interplanting earlier with corn are better ways to plant. Soy beans may be planted in the South from April through June; cowpeas as late as July.

BOYS IN 4-H CLUBS

Carrolton, Ala., April 18.—With 670 farm boys now enrolled in 4-H clubs a new high record is being established for Pickens County. F. A. Rew, county agent, has organized his boys into clubs and each will conduct work as directed by Mr. Rew.

POULTRY BUSINESS GROWS

Russelville, Ala., April 18.—Cooperative marketing is credited with adding $2,213.36 to the pockets of Franklin County farmers on 55,321 pounds of poultry sold during March. The total amount received was $7,043.44. The figure of $2,213.36 was ascertained by the study of prices, a drop of as much as 4 cents a pound the next day after the sale being recorded.

MORE GARDENS PLANNED

Grove Hill, Ala., April 18.—Clarke County gardens have regained most of the losses suffered by the March freezes, county agents, C. L. Hollnigsworth and O. C. Helms say. People replanted immediately after the freezes and the gardens are now promising.

The Clarke County Farm Bureau keeps garden seed available for those wishing to buy. Seeds recommended by the county agent are kept in order to get the best variety of different vegetables. This service was rendered last year and was very profitable.

DAHLIAS ARE GOOD FOR ALABAMA YARDS

The middle South is undergoing a renaissance of the dahlia although this garden flower is especially adapted to temperate rather than subtropical sections of the country. Proper attention to soil, moisture conditions, and varities is very essential.

Any well drained, medium sandy loam well supplied with vegetable matter will grow dahlias. Either tubers (roots, bulbs) or young plants grown from cuttings may be used. Tubers should be planted 3 or 4 inches deep and young plants about three inches to the top of their ball of earth.

Dahlias require an exceptional amount of cultivation and water. The soil should be worked several inches deep and in addition to this soil mulch and artificial mulch or leaf mold, compost, or peat moss will save excessive cultivating and produce finer plants. In this climate artificial watering will practically always be necessary. Water thoroughly—not a ten minute—as soon as the soil tends to dry out in the late spring. The best authorities recommend in addition to a deeply prepared soil (10"-12") a fertilizer composed of five pounds of bone meal and ten pounds of hardwood ashes to each square foot. If a mineral fertilizer is used it should be high in phosphoric acid. A mixed fertilizer containing 3 per cent nitrogen, 8 per cent phosphoric acid, and 6 per cent potash should be sought for. This should be well mixed with the soil and applied later as a side dressing but never allowed to come in contact with the tubers.

WITH PRICES LOW FARMERS EXCHANGE

Auburn, Ala., April 18.—With prices low and money scarce the old barter practice is thriving in Alabama. Farmers are exchanging seeds, livestock and equipment. They are also marketing among themselves.

To find a bigger outlook for miscellaneous farm and home products, director, L. N. Duncan, of Auburn, advised advertising in local papers, use of bulletin boards by banks, and an exchange list kept by county farm bureaus. Curb markets are good; and the same is true of cooperative sales.

Splendid examples of good cooperative selling are the hog sales of southeast Alabama and poultry sales at car doors. These have been very satisfactory to growers. County agents cooperate in these sales.

Opelika, Ala.—Eleven 4-H club boys of Lee County will have purebred calves by arrangement by County Agent C. H. Bedingford and the present owners. They will pay for them next November and will be allowed a price equivalent to 8 and one-half cents a pound for cotton. The calves are of excellent breeding and the intention of the boys is to start with them and develop dairy herds.

W. J. EASTERLING WRITES

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

I want to say a few words to you concerning my candidacy for member of the County Board of Education of Chilton County.

In the first place I will say that I am interested in the schools of Chilton County, because I would like to see every school child have the most possible advantages of education through the just and equitable expenditure of the school money. I believe I can render a service to our county if I were elected to the school board, and if the people want me to serve them in this capacity, I pledge to do my very best.

Politically I am a Republican. I have always voted the Republican ticket and nothing else. I believe in the principles of fairness that our party has always stood for in this county. I am in favor of the Republicans of the county having the right to nominate their candidates openly and free from secret political influences. And when elected, I believe our Republcian officials ought to strive to render service that will be a lasting credit to themselves and the Republican party.

I do not believe politics should enter into the administration of our schools. The school board and all school officials have a duty of service to everybody in the county, regardless of politics. While I am looking to the Republicans of the county to elect me to office, if I am elected; yet my service, if I get the office, will be devoted to the best ducational interests to everyone.

Regarding the matter of a county superintendent of education, I will say that I have found many people who think there ought to be a change made in that office. I would be in favor of such a change if a majority of the people think a change should be made for the best interest of the schools.

I will appreciate your vote and influence in my behalf in the Republican primary of May 3.—W. J. Easterling.

(Paid political adv. by W. J. Easterling, Clanton, Ala.)

RETARDED TIMBER GROWTH IS POSSIBLE THIS YEAR

Montgomery, Ala., April 18.—Deficiency in rainfall for February, March and April may result in a decreased rate of growth of forest trees for the year, according to computations made by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. The formation of spring wood depends among other things upon the amount of soil moisture present, and where this is less than the normal, the lack of water is reflected in diminished wood growth. The spring wood is the lighter part of the annual ring visible in a cross section of a tree, the darker ring comprising the wood formed during the late summer and fall.

While the total volume of wood formed in each tree may be less on account of deficient spring rainfall The difference is not wholly a loss, since narrow annual rings mean more rings to the inch, which is rated as adding to the qualtity of the wood. This is especially true if the dark summer wood maintains its average width, leaving the spring wood to carry the difference. Thus percentage of summer wood becomes higher which, together with the increased number of rings per inch, adds materially to the strength of the timber.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

"Alabama farmers can make a lot of good feed by planting a mixture of one bushel of cowpeas and 20 pounds of sorghum seed per acre on good moist land. The combination makes a very nutritious feed."—F. W. Burns, Auburn.

A farmer who wants to make plenty of feed this year should plant a big acreage of soybeans. This crop does well in Alabama, being perhaps the leading summer hay crop. Ask your county agent to tell you the best varities to plant and how to plant them, as well as how to fertilize them."— J. T. High, Auburn.

Jasper, Ala.,—Increased and improved poultry production in Walker County are being sought by F. H. Orr, Jr., assistant County agent, who is giving most of his attention to poultry. He has organized 4-H clubs of boys and is also conducting adult demonstrations.

Lesson for April 24

ABRAM'S GENEROSITY TO LOT

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 13:5-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Generous Uncle.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Abram Divides With His Nephew.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—An Adventure in Friendship.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Too Generous to Quarrel.

Apparently a famine was sent upon Canaan soon after Abram entered it. Because of this famine, he went into Egypt. Doubtless the famine was sent because of the wickedness of the Canaanites, but it was so timed as to develop the graces of Abram's heart. He needed to be taught the fact of his own weakness in order to fully realize God's power and faithfulness. It would have been far better for him to have remained in Canaan with its famine, knowing that he was where the Lord had led him, than to go into Egypt.

I. Abram and Lot Go Out of Egypt (vv. 1-4).

1. Thrust out by Pharaoh (v. 1 cf. 12:18, 19). By prevarication Abram deceived the king concerning the relation of Sarai to himself, but when the truth was known that she was his wife instead of his sister, Pharaoh thrust him out. This is not the last time that a child of God was rebuked and thrust out by a man of the world.

2. His wealth greatly increased (v. 2). Although Abram was away from the place to which God had called him, his temporal possessions increased. Increase in riches is no sign that a man is in fellowship with God.

3. He went back to Bethel (vv. 3, 4). Although he had declined from the pathway of faith and had suffered shame and humiliation before a heathen king, when thrust out he had the good sense to go into the place of the altar, where his tent had been at the beginning. It was here that he called upon the name of the Lord. There is no record of his having done so while in Egypt. His Egypt experience cost him much spiritually, though he became rich there. He seems even to have lost his influence over Lot.

II. Abram and Lot Separate (vv. 5-13).

1. Strife between their herdmen (vv. 5-7). The goods of both Abram and Lot greatly increased. This increase in goods threatened strife between Abram and Lot. When they attempted to settle down, trouble arose between their herdmen. This is the first record of relatives quarreling over financial matters. Riches often interferes with friendship. They engender greed and selfishness in men, and kindle jealousy and strife between them. For the chosen of God thus to quarrel is utter folly, and criminal, especially when the enemies of the Lord's people look on.

2. Abram's magnanimous behavior (vv. 8, 9). He made to Lot a generous proposition which relieved the disgraceful situation. Lot was allowed his choice. Though he owed everything to Abram, he was allowed to choose that which suited him best. Abram's behavior in this case is a fine example of the art of living together peaceably.

3. Lot's selfish choice (vv. 10-13). His selfish heart prompted him to grasp for the best. His action shows that his stay in Egypt was ruinous to him. One cannot go into Egypt without being affected by it. This was a fatal choice for Lot. Though he for a while prospered and even was elevated to high official position, it was an expensive undertaking for him.

III. Abram Delivers Lot (14:11-16).

Lot, with all his goods, was taken away when the confederate kings came against Sodom. Though Lot's trouble was the result of his selfish choice, Abram's magnanimity of soul expressed itself by taking up arms to deliver him from the oppressor.

Lot is an example of one saved so as by fire (I Cor. 3:11-15). He is an example of the man who allows the world to get the better of him. He set his affections upon earthly things, and the time came when he had to separate from them. The world and its lusts pass away, but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever (I John 2:15-17). Once his money and his family were in Sodom, he endured its wickedness while longing to escape from it (II Pet. 2:6-8).

In contrast with Lot who suffered from his evil choice Abram was greatly prospered. He grew rich in temporal things while at the same time he was rich toward God. Abram's whole life shows that those who make obedience to God first get the needed worldly things (I Kings 3:5-13; Matt. 6:33).

BETHSALEM SUNDAY SCHOOL

Our Sunday school was called to order Sunday morning at 10 o'clock by Mr. C. L. Wilkins. The subject of our lesson was, "The conquering power of faith." If we have faith enough in God we can accomplish more in life.

People let us see if we can have the faith Abraham had. We had 75 present with a large group of visiting brothers and sisters with us.

Following the Sunday school period, we had a wonderful sermon delivered to us from our loving pastor, Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby, Ala.

His text was, "Be sure that your sins will find you out."

On Saturday our pastor delivered another sermon, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." Who is our neighbor? The subject for next Sunday's lesson is, "Too generous to quarrel."

Don't forget the singing Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. We are expecting a large class.

And don't forget our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. We extend to all a cordial invitation any time you can be with us in any of these services.

POOR C

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

Elder Blossom Fills His Pintment At The Shiloh Church (Col.)

Dis bein de third Sunday in April 1932, Ahs gwyin to preach de same sermon an use de same tex dat Ah did on de third Sunday in April 1931. Ob course Ah didnt preach it here, cause Ah wernt your pastor den.

Ah wants to read a lesen foun in de 6th chapter ob Genesis. Now Ah wants you to stan up an sing dat good song, "There is a Fountain Filled With Blood." (They stan an sing.) Now be seated. De tex is in second Peter 2:5. Let me read it, "And spared not the old world, but saved Noah, the eighth person, a preacher of righteousness, bringing in the flood upon the world of the ungodly." Mah brudders and friens, Ah wants to talk to you jes a little while bout dat man Noah, effen you will take de time to read de fust 6 chapters ob Genesis, you will find dat de wrter followed de line ob descent as mentioned in dem, but he stoped long enuff at de 4th chapter an 16tn verse to tell us bout Cain leavin de res ob de folks an gwyin off to another lan, called Nod. Ob course de writer couldnt follow both lines at de same time, so in de 6th chapter he brings de two lines togeder an tell us dat when de sons of God (Dat is de line fum Adam to Noah.) saw de daughters ob men (Dats de line fum Cain down to de time of de flood.) Dat is, de sons of God took wives ob de daughters of Cain, an all become wicked. Now dont you think dat all ob dis hapened in de same length ob time it takes you to read it.

Remember dat Noah wuz five-hudred years old when he begun to build de ark, an you ad to dat de ages ob all ob dem fum Adam down an you can see dat it wuz rite at two-thousand years. So you see dat in dat time de descendants ob Cain became numerous also. Now jes think out ob all ob de people dat wuz livin in de time ob de 6th chapter, jes 8 wuz righteous. De tex says dat Noah wuz a preacher ob righteousness. Now, how he preached, Ah cant sa, but nearly all preachers an Bible-readers teach dat while he wuz workin on dat ark, he wuz preachin to de people. Effen anybody cumed roun whar he wuz at work an axed him whut he wuz doin, he tole dem dat he wuz buildin an ark to sabe hisself an family fum de flood. Dat wuz preachin, in a sense. But Ah belebe dat he did realy preach an tell folks dat dey ought to git rite wid de Lord, dat God wuz gwyin to destroy all ob de wicked people.

But wid all ob his preachin, an de buildin ob de ark rite dar befo their eyes, not one eber repented. In Mat. 24:37 Christ says, "But as the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be." An effen you will read de 38 and 39 verses also you can see dat Jesus recognized the old Testamint an its account ob Noah's ark an de flood. An den Peter, in mah tex recognized it. De reason Ah am goin over all oo dis, is cause some ob de big preachers sa dat de story ob Noah an de flood is jes fiction, dat is nevah hapened, an den de will go rite on an cept de New Testamint, an all dat Christ sed. As bein truth, efen Ah wuz gwyin to reject one, Ah would reject both, an effen Ah wuz gwyin to take one, Ah would take both. Dar is lots ob other places whar our Lord quoted de ole Testamint, showin dat He not only wuz familiar wid de ole Testamint, but dat He reconnized it as God's word. Noah wuz bout one hundred years buildin de ark, an in all ob dat time, not one person wuz converted.

Ah feel dat, when de water begun to rize up, he would hab took some ob dem in de ark, but he couldnt. Do you kno why? Ah will tell you, It wuz because God shut de doah ob de ark, an when God closes a doah, no man can open it. An Ah wants to tell you, mah sinner friens, when de doah ob de Gospel is closed, yoah chances fur salvation is passed.

Dar is lots ob preachin ob righteousness today, cryin fum evy hilltop, repent. An de people laffs at dem an wont repent. Evy time Ah reads dis scripture bout de flood, Ah feels lak Ah can hear dem people shreekin an cryin an callin on de Lord fur hep whin de water begins to cum up aroun dem, but it wuz too late den. An accordin to whut de Lord sa in de verse Ah giv above; its gwyin to be de same way when He cums back to dis earth. Den is when de gospel doah will be shut, dar wont be no mo preachers cryin repent. Dar wont be no mo meetins. Dar wont be no mo good songs. Dar wont be no mo prayer-meetins. De Bible wont be read to you no mo.

We read in Mat. 25:10 dat when de bridegroom came; they that were ready went in with him, an de doah wuz shut. An den all ob dem whut wuznt ready begun to beg fur de doah to be opened an let dem in to de marrisge. One time Ah went to my pintment an when Ah got to de church, dar wuz 35 or 40 people standin in de yard, an Ah sa why dont you all go in? An dey sa, "de doah is shut an locked an de man whut has de key is mad an wont com or gib us de key." So Ah managed to prize open a winder an got a side doah open an de crowd come in. An den we foun de organ wuz shut an locked, de organ key wuz on de ring wid de doah key. So we wuz put out erbout dat. But we sung some songs widout de organ, an Ah preached bout de doah ob de ark bein shut. Anuther time Ah wanted to git a check cashed at de bank, so Ah culd buy some grub, an when Ah got dar de doah wuz shut an a notis on de doah sed, "bank closed on account ob holiday."

So whilst we preachers is preachin an callin sinners to come in, den is de time to come in. Ah had a great deal rudder be a preacher ob righteousness dan a rejector ob righteousness. Ah had much rudder be on de inside lookin out, dan to be on de outside lookin in, atter de doah is shut. Now Ah thanks you fur yoah presence and good attention.

Ah mus now read mah little poem, an Ah wants you to pay strick attention to dis one, cause it expresses mah feelins better dan whut Ah has already sed.

De waters ob adversity may come,
An up aroun me rise.
It will not overwhelm me,
For my help comes fum de skies.

De Lord will not let me sink
Beneath de turbulent wave.
Cause His mission on dis earth,
Is immortal souls to save.

Mah sinner friens, wont you heed
De preacher ob righteousness,
As he tells you bout de Lord,
Who comes your soul to bless?

Now stan an be dismiss.

Catesby Jones and Barney Dill, of Selma, were visitors to Clanton Tuesday in the interest of matters concerning the American Legion. Catesby is trimming his sails to be elected as National Committeeman from Alabama at the State Convention in Gadsden this year.

MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL NEWS

Last Tuesday, April 12, marked the closing of the 1931-32 school year of the Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School. The graduating exercises were held the following day. Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, and Supt. B. Lawrence, were the speakers for the occasion. Dr. Ezell delivered an excellent talk on "The value of an Education." He wove into his talk numerous illustrations bearing out the theme. Supt. Lawrence spoke along the line of educational progress and conditions in Chilton County. A large number of both parents and children were present. A temporary stage was constructed and decorated with class colors and flowers.

The graduating class this year was composed of the following: J. P. Culp, class president; Mabel Gillespie, Dorothy Jones, Harry Parker, Lucille Price, Ilar Massey, Curtis Traywick, Annie Chambers, and Mazie Logan.

The P.-T.A. held its final meeting for this year last Wednesday, following the graduating exercises. The present economic conditions and lack of an auditorium has handicapped the P.-T. A. in many of its activities, but above these it has added to the school a complete set of shades, a large 10-gallon water cooler, a large handsome map of Alabama, and several other minor additions, including a generous donation to the boys and girls athletic association. The school and community are deeply grateful to Mrs. Frank Massey, president of our P.-T.A., for her untiring efforts and liberal contributions to the P.-T. A. activities this year.

On last Friday, the Mt. Pleasant school went on its annual picnic, which was given at Log Cabin Beach. About 110 pupils, the school faculty, and a large number of parents made up the big party. A highly delightful time was had by all present. The day was spent in varied pleasures, music, flower gathering, boat riding, hiking, kodaking, and games were among the pleasure-giving features of the day. Two large trucks and several private cars carried the joyful band of picnickers to the camp.

Our attendance per centage for this year is 91.16 per cent. This is the average for the full six and one-half months. Illness, farm wark, and the storm effects of March 21, tended to reduce the rating the latter part of school.

The school and community rejoices to know that Miss Virginia Littlejohn, popular member of the Jr. II class, has fully recovered from her recent illness. She was among those on the picnic last Friday.

Our principal, Mr. R. B. Johnson, plans to leave about June 1st for the State Teachers College, located at Florence, Alabama, and Miss Lera Bean, primary teacher, in planning to re-enter the State Normal School at Jacksonville.

The only kind of a popular tax bill we can think of would be one to load all the burden on to Santa Claus.

We are in favor of a sales tax provision which will exempt all foods except spinach.

So-called liberals hailed the breaking up of the Austro-Hungarian empire at the close of the World War as a great piece of constructive statesmanship. It begins to look now as though the statesmen will have to put it together again in order to save the pieces.

Now that congress plans to put a tax on steam yachts we guess we will put off buying ours for another year.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

In speaking of the American business men, in his statement before the Senate Finance Committee in the hearings on the tax bill, secretary of state Mills said in part:

"In times of active business when their capital is fruitfully employed and profits are large the government collects from them considerable revenue. When industry and commerce go flat, capital ceases to work, and profits disappear, their income likewise vanishes and so do our taxes. This is why the income tax as applied to individuals has failed us in this emergency. The large profits and the big incomes of $100,000 and over fell off by 66 per cent from 1928 to 1930, and have fallen off greatly since then. Men talk of doubling or tripling the rates on the very large incomes. Those that remain would probably seek isles of safety. But that isn't the point. Raising the rates on the larger incomes does not solve our problem. They are no longer there. There is no nourishment in the hole of a doughnut."

Here is a concise statement of the situation explaining the failure of the income tax provisions of our revenue laws to produce money to pay expenses of government in these subnormal times. It is to be hoped that the statement will be read and digested by that unthinking part of our populace inside Congress and out, which seeks to solve the deficit and the budget program by soaking the rich. Undoubtedly such a course would be entirely satisfactory to most of us. The trouble is that in times like the present the scheme doesn't work. Business institutions which ordinarily heap up good profits are no longer doing this, and what we are confronted with now is not a theory but a set of cold, hard facts, and not pleasant facts at that.

It is unthinkable that the national budget will not be balanced. Surely this will be done by Congress sooner or later. It is so vitally necssary to our welfare as a nation and to the ultimate restoration of prosperity that the final results of any other course are too serious to contemplate. Balancing the budget is now the most serious business before congress. How salutary an effect it may have can be gathered from what has happened in Great Britain since that nation's budget was balanced.

The question then is not whether the budget will be balanced, but how. The house passed a bill which falls short of the final balancing, but which furnished a big step in that direction. Undoubtedly the senate will make improvements in the house bill and it is to be hoped that these will be real improvements of the kind calculated to reassure the American public and not undly disturb its business interests.

Of course everyone will be called on to bear the increased burden of taxes either directly or indirectly. There is no such thing as passing it on entirely to the other fellow. And incidentally it is to be hoped that Congress will not forget the fact that there are two methods of budget balancing, one by increasing taxes, and more satisfactory one by decreasing expenses. Of course some increase in taxes is necessary in the present emergency program but it is hoped that the program of economy and paring expenses of the federal government will not be neglected.

THE PASSING OF JUDGE SAMUEL M. ADAMS

The death of Samuel M. Adams in the Masonic Home in Montgomery last week removed one of Alabama's most remarkable men. For more than 30 years he was in the limelight in Alabama.

Joining in the Alliance fight back in 1892 Judge Adams easily won his way to the front ranks. As a pulpit and political orator he had but few equals in Alabama. He made the strongest men in Alabama fear him. However, he outlived a great majority of his contemporaries and he outlived the Alliance and the Populist party. With his political influence gone, in bad health and almost alone his brilliant light went out last week almost unnoticed. It is a sad thing to think of his passing.—Prattville Progress.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

Doctor Slaughter, a unique Methodist minister of the North Alabama conference, was holding a meeting in his church without results. He announced at 11 a.m. that he would close the meeting that night if no one acceeded to his proposition. A dozen young men in the community got their heads together and agreed that they would go to the altar that night to keep the meetnig in progress. When the appeal was made the young gentlemen walked down the aisle to the delight of the preacher. The next night they did the same. The third evening these young gentlemen tanked up on whiskey, but to keep the meeting from closing, they walked down to the altar and knelt for prayer. Dr. Slaughter dropped down among them and prayed this prayer: "Lord here are a dozen young men who act like mourners, they even look like mourners, but if my nose deceive me not they do not smell like mourners." The meeting closed that night. Not long since I ran into a man who did not smell like a mourner, and yet he should have been. He should have been mourning because he was such a fool, because he was breaking the law, because he was spending his money foolishly and because he was breaking the heart of a loved one. A drinking man loses the capacity to mourn, unless he gets in jail.

Some nights ago some negroes near Castleberry thought to celebrate the closing of the Lord's day by gathering in the home of one of their number for a big dance. Before the fiddle was in tune there was a roar in the element and a tornado swept down upon that house and negroes, planks, fiddle and all went scattering through the woods. All the Lord had to do to break up that irreverent conduct on His day was to just open his lips a bit and half way blow. Some folks will say the tornado striking that house was just a happen so. No such stuff. Sometimes God's patience is limited, and he shows his power to make men think. The wonder to me is that when God looks down and sees so much irreverent conduct on his Holy Day, that he does not open his lips wide and blow hard. When I see how some folks spend the Sabbath, I am really surprised that God does not blow them into kingdom come.

Thanks to the State Health department, we have had a crew of men for more than a week going from house to house throughout the storm area cleaning out the wells and treating them against possible infection. They have found almost everything that you can mention in the wells except oil. In one well they found a large cured ham, a well grown country dog, several cooking pans and pots, an axe, screws, bolts, a chair and bushels of fine rocks. Those seeing the sights coming out of the wells are convinced that they should have been cleaned and treated. The tornado of sin that has been sweeping through our country for the past twelve years, has well nigh filled the souls of men with the rubbish of the world. Our trouble is that we think that we do not need a heart cleaning. Society, business, politics, all alike are drinking from our heart wells that are full of putrifying things. No wonder that we have the racketeers, the kidnappers and the bootleggers. Would that some kind spirit would come through our country and give our hearts a cleaning, and then treat us within against possible infection.

I was walking along the cement side walk, and looking just ahead I read this sign: "Always Reliable". That sign looked good to me and I kept my eye on it until I was opposite where it was hanging. I looked about for a business firm of some kind, but the sign was backed up with nothing but a vacant lot. I wonder if some one had just put that sign there to let people know that the only thing in that town was "always reliable," was a vacant lot. To my sorrow we have lots of people, lots of politicians, lots of business houses and lots of church members who are not reliable. If you think folks will not "jilt" you just try them out. I have found a few people who were reliable everywhere you touched them, but they are few and far between. After all I guess the sign was hanging where it belonged.

One day I was standing by a mud puddle and I noticed that two dirt dobbers would come and go together. I observed that one of the wasps would gather up a ball of mud and go away with it, while the other would go away single handed. I wondered if the dirt daubers species had drones like the bees. I followed them to the place where they were building their house. There I observed them at work. One spread its mud, while the other spooted water on it to make it smooth. Then they would fly back for another load. The truth was that one wasp carried mud and the other carried water, and together they built their home. That is what I call cooperation. There is a task for every member in every family. If every member of every family would do his own stuff, and do it in harmony with all the other members of the family, we too could build our homes. If every member of every church would do his own stuff, in harmony with every other member, we too, could build up the kingdom of God.

Frank James, of Birmingham, was in Clanton Monday morning. He and Mrs. James and some friends had spent the week end at their cabin on Mt. Manning, near Mitchell Dam. "We come down to our place every once and a while," said Mr. James, "and bring some friends for the week end outing. We find it is a wonderful way to relax and get away from the cares of business and the grind of city life." There are lots of folks out of the nearby cities who spend the week ends in Chilton County. They do quite a bit of fishing on Sunday, which practice is the subject of considerable comment and criticism now and then.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Tools

When a man goes to do a piece of work, most of the time he must use tools to work with. If the job is a big one, he uses a big tool; if the job isn't so hard, he will use a weaker tool; and if the work to be done is one of those mean, ticklish little jobs, where he must work in a close place, he must use a little weak tool. If he has a big hole to bore, he must use a big auger; if he wants a small hole bored, he'll use a gimlet; and if he wants to pull a cork stopper, he'll use a little weak cork-screw. From time to time I notice various letters and articles which remind me of augers, gimlets and cork-screws. In politics, if the questions to be discussed are broad and of real interest to the voters, the discussion is usually headed by people of real ability and whose word is of value and carries weight with the voters; if the discussion isn't of so much consequence, then a lesser light may do the job; and then, when the work to be done is a little mean, inconsequential affair, like prying into a candidate's personal, private, and family affairs, for political purposes, some of the small fry are appointed that job. Just think this over, and remember it the next time you read an article, or hear some guy bringing personalities into a political campaign. It's the old auger, gimlet, and cork-screw parallel all over again.

A Lesson In Poker

When you get out on the streets, highways and byways nowadays, about all you can hear is politics. You hear and run into lots of curious and interesting things, too. In listening one day last week, I heard where the leaders of a "faction" had been termed "the four aces, and a queen." Somebody spoke up and said: "Well, if it all turns out to be a poker game, after all, four aces and a queen will beat a king, three jacks and a deuce, every pop." It is very little I know about poker, so I suppose I'll just have to wait and see how these two "hands" pan out. But from the little poker I know, I would think "four aces and a queen" makes a fairly "pat" hand.

Peace and Good Will

Why is it that people get all "het up" about politics, and say things which they may regret later? Why can't they remember that, after all, we're just one big party family, and that, after the primary is over we must all come together as one and put our nominees over the top. For the life of me I can't see how a person can go out in a primary and stand around on street corners and belittle a candidate, and then swallow it all after the primary. I'll bet its a bitter pill. Wouldn't it be much better if every candidate would go to the people, ask for their votes, and let them decide for themselves. In that way they could, at least save their self-respect when the time to "fall in line" comes along. If the voters themselves would let such back-biters know that they don't appreciate such tactics, which I am sure they don't, I believe it would soon stop.

All Out May 1st

I have heard that in the larger cities of the United States the communists, or reds, are planning a nation-wide series of demonstrations for May 1, with all kinds of unemployment riots and what-not. On the other hand, the American Legion is making plans to curb these demonstrations as far as possible. Communism feels that it has good enough footing in America to raise its head and strike. Let's all help the American Legion in trying to keep the red flag of communism for waving above the stars and stripes. Let's just remember what communism and rioting did for Russia—that is exactly what is being tried on our government. Sitting still with folded hands, and saying nothing when somebody begins ranting about how we are oppressed can bring no good. All out May 1, and help us and our government to "keep on a-keepin' on".

Who's Who—General Monroe Wyatt

General Monroe Wyatt, better known all over Chilton County as "Mun" Wyatt, was born about ten miles east of Clanton, on November 28, 1878, the son of M. D. and Rebecca Anne (Parrish) Wyatt. The most of his school days were spent at Providence school. He married Miss Balzora Patterson November 5, 1899, and they have one son. Mr. Wyatt settled a few miles east of Clanton, and farmed until the year 1918. In that year he formed partnership with E. T. Weldon, and his business was named Main Street Garage, near the railroad in Clanton. Here he sold the first Woco Pep gasoline ever sold in Clanton. In 1922 the Wyatt-Weldon partnership was dissolved, and Mr. Wyatt continued operation of the Main Street Garage until 1926, when he closed the garage, and took up the filling station operation entirely, and moved his business to a new station built by the Brown Oil Co., on the new Birmingham-Montgomery highway, dispensing Motopower gas. He kept up this business until March, 1931, when he took over the Woco Pep station just across the street from the courthouse. In going back to his "first love", Woco Pep, Mr. Wyatt brought along another line which he has sold ever since he has been in business here, Firestone tires. As said before, Mr. Wyatt sold the first Woco Pep ever sold in Clanton—the gas business was not as great then as it is now, and for some time his Woco Pep and Wofford oils were shipped to him in barrels. He took on Firestone tires in the beginning, and has never switched from them. He sold the first set of balloon tires ever sold in Clanton, to Mr. Maurice Lande about ten years ago. From a small beginning, Mr. Wyatt has stuck to one line of business until he has built it up to one of the largest of its kind in the county. He is recognized as one of the best business men in the town, and he has built for himself a reputation of being a fair and square man with whom to deal. "Mun" says: "I sell the kind of goods I do, because I am wholly sold on them my self, and if I should ever get out of this kind of business I would keep right on using Woco Pep gas and oils and Firestone tires, because I think they are the best. I boost because I believe in them." I shall use the name of W. M. Polk, local Chevrolet dealer, as the subject of my next week's Who's Who.

Glimpses

There goes Claud Calloway with two glasses of water; truly the curb service in Clanton is getting to be something fine. More storm pit digging; there's Luther Teel after Ed Edwards to hurry up and finish his. Saturday afternoon, and the town chuck full of people; "Two by two, they go marching through;" you've heard that song I am sure. A big crowd of fellows are rushing to George McCain's mule lot to see Cherokee Bill ride a wild one; that ought to be a great sight. Some body showing a grown strawberry; it won't be long now, until the picking season will be on, and then "Oh, my back."—Man in the Moon.

WHY TIMES ARE HARD

Last summer an Alabama exile up in Tennessee wrote to the Montgomery Advertiser explaining how it happened that "hard times had come a-knocking at his door." It is a bit out of date, and yet it applies so aptly at present, we venture to reproduce here his earnest words. Says he:

"I bought a Ford instead of a farm and it is worn out, but the farm I figured on is a cow, and the radio gives static instead still O. K. I invested in a radio instead of of milk.

I am feeding five nice hounds instead of five pigs. I had our piano tuned instead of the well cleaned out. I spent all my cash in 1928, and used my credit in 1929, and traded up my future wages on installments in 1930, so hard times caught me in hard shape last fall.

"If I had spent my last $10 for meat and flour, instead of gas and oil, I would have been O. K. I built a nice garage last year instead of covering my barn, and I loafed in a mountain two weeks instead being in the pasture fixing it so's my cow won't get out, but she is dry and mortgaged to boot for two blankets my wife bought from an agent instead of paying the preacher.

"I am on a cash basis now, but ain't got no cash. I am tied to the end of my rope, and the man I am working for is busted on account of nobody wouldn't pay him, and his cotton won't sell 'cause nobody won't buy cotton clothes; all the gals wear slick silky stocking and silk underwear right here in our own cotton pathches. I had $4 saved up for a rainy day, but it turned dry and I spent the $4 for two inner tubes.

"I tried hard to make both ends meet with a turnip patch, but when I got the turnips ready to sell everybody else was selling turnips for nothing and the market was glutted. I am worried plum to the bone and my wife's kinfolks are coming over next Tuesday to spend two weeks.

"Write or phone if you hear of any relief from the government coming down my way. I am willing to be either a Democrat or a Republican for a few weeks if that will help out any. Yours truly in pain."

WE MUST PAY THE COST OF GOVERNMENT

If the tax bill were seriously expected to embody the high surtaxes, it would be necessary to discuss their effect in detail. For the moment, it is enough to say that they could not possibly yield the revenue expected of them by Mr. La Guardia. The Treasury experts have carefully gone over the figures and are able to show that, even without evasion or the flight of wealth into tax-exempt securities, the yield predicted from the much higher taxes in the higher brackets never could be attained. Even the "rich" of Mr. La Guardia's contempt cannot pay on what they have not got. As an alternative to the tax on manufactures the high surtaxes would be only as a penny whistle to a trumpet.

All this leads back to the main point emphasized once more by Speaker Garner. Some way must be found to make the federal expenditures. Retrenchment can do something, but the main part must come from new and higher taxes. Nobody likes them. Yet nobody can evade them. What is true here is true everywhere. England has made a heroic and apparently successful effort to balance her budget. It is expected that the chancellor of the exchequer will be able to report an actual surplus at the end of the fiscal year in April. The thing has been partly by savings, but more by drastic taxation. There is no mystery about the method. It is the one way of doing the necessary job. We also shall have to come to it.—New York Times.

The weather man has surely been against the merchant this winter. In the first place when the weather should have been cold it was warm, so that the merchant had difficulty in disposing of winter goods. And then when the Easter season came around and spring goods should have begun to move, the weather man gave us the winter we ought to have had back in December and January. By the way, isn't Hoover to blame for this?

One of the most encouraging signs of the recent German election was that in two years of distressingly hard times the Communists were able to make no appreciable gain in their voting stength.

Samuel Martin Successful

It is with great pleasure that the friends of Samuel Martin learn that he successfully passed the State Examination as a licensed embalmer last week. Samuel is a member of the firm of J. Mell Martin and Sons, Funreal Directors, of Clanton. As a licensed embalmer, he will continue his connection with the firm in future, which fact will add greatly to the scope of service which can be rendered by Martin and Sons.

Real Friendship

A friend of mine sends this little contribution, which is so good that I must pass it on to the readers of this column:

"O the Joy, the inexpressible joy of feeling safe with a person, having neither to weigh words nor measure thoughts, but pour them all right out—chaff and grain together, knowing that a faithful hand will take and sift them keeping what is worth keeping, and with the breath of friendship blow the rest away."

Lowci Making Clothes

Frank Lowci, tailor, of Clanton, is making some clothing for a number of individual customers. He can make clothes out of any kind of material desired. The most popular custom now is to use cloth that is made in Clanton's cotton mill. I have seen some samples of material and some suits Mr. Lowci made, that are as fine for summer wash wear as any that can be bought from any tailor. The price is low, too. If you would be interested in a suit of clothes or a pair of pants made at Clanton's cotton mill and tailored by a Clanton tailor, see Mr. Lowci. Every suit thus made and worn adds to the days of employment for the folks at our mill, too.

A. Clark Harper Died

A. Clarke Harper died suddenly at his home in DeLand, Florida, last Tuesday evening. Mr. Harper was City Commissioner of DeLand, Volusia County Purchasing Agent, president of the Deland Herald Publishing Co., and a lawyer of wide influenee. Thus is seems to me, comes the untimely end of a life of great promise and usefulness. But it is not for us to understand why such things be. What may seem to us a calamity or a misfit in the order of things of this earth is perhaps one of the well ordered plans of the Divine Engineer of our creation. Clarke Harper was reared in Clanton. He went to school here, and had a part in the joys and sorrows of many other boys who grew up with him. He was always a pal, bright, sympathetic and capable of getting along with other folks. To us who knew him intimately in the days when we were boys together it is no wonder that he became a man of success. That was his nature. Perhaps he worked too hard. But he knew that whatever Clarke Harper amounted to in the world had to be accomplished by none other than Clarke Harper himself. He did his best. I am sorry he had to lay aside his task so soon.

A Fitting Tribute

The best estimate of the life, purposes and accomplishments of Clarke Harper is given in an editorial in the Deland Herald, which newspaper he founded about a year ago, and backed up faithfully until his death. The words of the Herald editorial are as follows:

A Tragedy of Life

The mysteries of life and death are never more forcibly brought to our attention than when one, young and vigorous, in the full tide of active endeavor facing a future full of promise, is suddenly taken from our midst.

The death of Clarke Harper on Tuesday evening, at the climax of a legal victory, is one of the unexplainable tragedies of our perplexing existence.

Coming to DeLand less than eight years ago, he has become a prominent figure in the public life of the community, and his going leaves a place vacant that will not be easily filled.

Mr. Harper's character was many sided. Accustomed to carrying many heavy burdens, he had an indefatigable capacity for work and his labors knew neither hours nor limitations.

His mind was capable of storing away an almost unlimited amount of information, and his knowledge embraced many phases of life and endeavor. He was a man who knew something about many different things but he never pretended to know everything.

He was capable of intense concentration in whatever he undertook to do, and was never satisfied until his efforts had reached a successful conclusion.

As an example of his dogged determination to accomplinsh whatever he undertook to do may be cited his study of law. Although he attended Stetson Law school for a time, the greater part of his study was carried on privately, and it was almost entirely by his own efforts that he prepared for and successfully passed the State Bar examinations in October, 1928.

Instead of being obliged to go through months of waiting for clients, practice began immediately, and he was in a short time regarded as one of the most competent lawyers of the county.

More than anything else, Mr. Harper hated shams, humbugs, misrepresentations, deceptions, and above all, he detested, and fought with all the vigor that was in him, falsity to a public trust.

Determining to devote himself to the conflict with the corruption in public life, he realized the need of a weekly newspaper in Volusia County, and set about to establish the DeLand Herald.

In spite of forbidding financial conditions, he was the prime mover in the promotion of this paper, which began publication May 8, 1931.

To it he gave in unstinted measure his best efforts and more financial support than he could really afford. It is a testimony to his effort, his ability and popularity that, after the first few months, the paper has been on a self supporting basis.

It should also be said in this connection that in his position as county purchasing agent he worked to the utmost of his opportunity to give more than full value to the county. He did not regard the office as a political plum, but took his work most seriously and made every effort possible to effect real economies in the spending of the county money.

The country needs such men as Mr. Harper in public life. Men who look upon public office as an opportunity to give service to their fellow men instead of considering it a means of self aggrandizement or enrichment.

Men who are willing to render accounting of their stewardship. Men who stand for pure democracy, for constitutional rights and limitations, for all that should be the heritage of the people of this free republic.

But now he has gone and who will take up the banner that has dropped from his hands?

Let it be hoped that the people of this community will take a lesson from the life that has ended, and determine that the ideals set before them shall prevail.

RIGINAL

IN REGARD TO OUR POLITICAL SITUATION

Editor Union-Banner:

Just a few words in regard to the political situation in this county. I am a voter, and a voter has something at stake when it comes to putting men in office.

I think we should put men in who do not want office just for the money it pays them. We have men in office who do not care for you after the election is over until their term is almost out. They then know you some more. Those kind are going to step out one of these days. People are beginning to see some things and taking notice.

There are good men in the county. Some are out and the best will go in office if the voters care anything for their welfare. We have got as good men for chairman and secretary of the executive committee of the Republican party as are in the county. I am in favor of keeping them as long as they will serve.

The commissioners have been there long enough. Put them out and let someone else get some of the pie, if there is any pie. There must be some good in it or so many would not want it. Charley Duke is the man for that place instead of Mr. Vinson. Mr. Vinson has served three terms. It is time he was out, and as for me, he will go. Others need to go just as bad.

I think stumping the county is just bunk this time, for people have got waked up to some things, and it is high time.

Men have stole or bought offices in this county long enough. Times are waxing worse and worse. We just can't get a square deal.

Time is short from now until the primary. So get your mind right and put two men in for commissioner and you will see a difference in the future.

There is a place near me on Route 4 that is mighty bad to get over, but the commissioners never come over it. I guess it is because he don't think there is a vote over this way for him. If he would go over the road he could see what should be done for the public.

I hope this will put those who want good men in office to get to considering what we need and act to get men out. You have to put new ones in and we want new men in the next go round that mean the first chance we have to move them. Someone will knock me, but that is O. K. too.—J. A. M. Jacks, Clanton, Ala., Route 4.

WASHING HOUSE IS NEW IDEA

Buck Hart has sprung a new idea in Clanton. It was noticed one day this week that his house was shining bright and new. First thought was that a new coat of paint had been applied. Looking around on the other side of the house, there was Buck with a bucket of water and a brush giving the house a bath.

The improved appearance is worth the effort. The dust and dirt can be washed off and the appearance improved almost equal to a new paint job. This will doubtless become a popular plan.

We wish to heartily thank the men who helped to rebuild our home, which was destroyed by the tornado. Also the people who donated feed stuff and other articles that was destroyed.—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gentry and daughter, Mrs. Hermie Smitherman.

Chas. Cooper Says

Elitor Union-Banner:

In your issue of March the 31st we notice that The Man in the Moon, who looks over all and overlooks none, failed to assimilate my article of the preceding week.

Inasmuch as the Man in the Moon seems to be the only individual that failed to follow our drift, we attribute his shortcomings to the fact that he is not familiar with the ways and doings of people who reside on terafirma, however, we hope he knows "his onions" when it comes to thing in the moon.

Now here comes Mack asking a common layman like myself to explain the political situation of Chilton County, with reference to the election of Beat committeemen.

Since Mack is located right in the hub of the political system of Chilton county, it seems somewhat strange that he would ask a hillbilly out in the country for information on such an important question. The best information I have on culling and hand-picking referred to by Mack is as follows:

"It seems to me that a law has been passed requiring all candidates to file a notice with the probate judge on or before a certain date, setting forth their intentions of being a candidate for some particular office, otherwise a candidate would be barred from being a candidate for that office.

I figure the the present committeemen who failed to file notice of their intentions to be a candidate, just did not care or choose to succeed themselves. I notice that Mack is running for Chairman of the Executive Committee, but still I do not feel that he was handpicked for this run.

If Mack receives more votes than the other fellow, then he should fill the place, even if he was not handpicked.

We notice that brother Littlejohn is the only one so far who has answered our questionaire for a few weeks ago. Several voters tell me that they are anxiously awaiting the answer of other candidates.

We just want the candidates to outline the platform on which they expect to stand if elected.—Yours very truly, Chas. Cooper.

FISHERMEN HAD GOOD LUCK

Otto Burnett, Burber Bean, Kelly Bean and Rube Riggins came by last Friday to show the Union-Banner their catch of fish which they made Thursday night in Lake Mitchell below Lay Dam.

They had a total of 63 pounds, the largest fish of the bunch being about 25 pounds. They say they only fished one night.

Black Votes Against Relief Bill

Eight Million people are out of work. One bill for their relief was defeated in the Senate — Senator Black VOTED AGAINST IT. How do the unemployed and their friends like that?

(Paid political Adv. by F. J. Bradley, Birmingham, Ala.)

FOR CHAIRMAN AND SECRETARY REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Whereas, the Executive Committee in session by unanimous vote requests that J. N. Dennis announce as a candidate for Chairman and J. Z. Mims announce as a candidate for secretary of the Chilton County Republican Executive Committee to be elected at the Republican primary to be held in Chilton County on the third day of May, 1932.

In view of the harmony which has existed in the party and fairness of the management of the affairs under the administration of the said J. N. Dennis and J. Z. Mims for chairman and secretary respectively, we therefore as Republican voters of Chilton County hereby announce J. N. Dennis as a candidate for the Chairmanship of the Republican party and J. Z. Mims as Secretary of the Republican party at the primary election on May 3, 1932.

(Signed) W. H. Conway, J. N. Scott, W. H. Hayes, J Wiley Littlejohn, W. C. Robinson, J. N. Calloway, W. A. Norris.

Concord-Billingsley

Rev. G. W. Stewart filled his appointment at this place Sunday and Sunday night. The message that he brought to the people made an impression on the minds and hearts of those that heard him, that, I am sure, will last on through life. I feel that Chilton Circuit is fortunate indeed, in having secured such a man as Rev. Stewart, as her pastor. So lets selp him to make this one of the best years in the history of Chilton Circuit.

Our Sunday School and Christian Endeavor are growing in number and in interest. We invite every one who is not in Sunday School or C. E. somewhere else to come and help us, we need you.

C. L. WILKINS WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me to say a few words to the voters of Chilton County, through your paper in regard to my candidacy for member of County Board of Education.

First I want to thank you in advance for anything you may do humbly in my behalf. I want to say I will appreciate your vote, and if you see fit to elect me to this place, I give you this promise in print I will do my best to serve you to the very best of my ability and knowledge, to be fair to all, I would like to see all children have the same chance in school. I would like to see all public affairs controled by the people. I am glad to see the patrons vote for their trustees, and will be glad when we can vote for our superintendent of Education. Yet, we might have the one we mould vote for, but I am sure we would be better satisfied if we were to vote him in by majority of the voters.

I would like to see our people in general use more precaution in spending our money since times are so hard and money hard to get. It behooves everyone to take care of his earnings and more so, does it become the duty of any one who has in his or her charge, money and property beloging to some one else. For instance, two years ago, I was elected together with Mr. W. W. Broadhead, and Mr. J. B. Boyd, trustees of our school at Enterprise. Taking the times into consideration, we decided to spend as little as possible. We had, at that time, about $5.00 in the treasury and now we have just closed school and we have in the treasury about $100.00, and somewhere about 40 cords of wood to start next time. Everbody is well pleased, as far as I know.

Of course this is very small, but it is important, I think. I have never voted any ticket except the Republican Ticket. I try to be fair and reasonable in all things.

Now, as I am no hand to write, I shall close, by saying if I have not made myself clear, or any questions I will be glad to answer, if possible. I will be glad for you to ask my people at home about me. If I did not think they were in my favor, I would not ask you to vote for me. So with best of wishes to you all, I submit myself to you voters to do as you will and I am satisfied.—C. L. Wilkins.

"SEED" BROUGHT TO THE SCREEN IS CHALLENGE TO WOMEN IN LOVE

Charles G. Norris' Great Novel, Transcribed to the Films, Proves to Be One of the Best Talking Pictures Ever Produced

A challnege to women in love! That is the absorbing theme of the picture "Seed," filmed from Charles G. Norris' great novel, with John Boles, Genevieve Tobin and Lois Wilson in the leading roles, at the Wadesonian Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, April 27 and 28.

There have been many "triangle" pictures, but never one like this production. It is startling in its sincerity, and the lifelike quality that dominates everything about it—story, players, and direction.

A screen play dealing seriously with domestic problems is always full of interest, if it is well done. And "Seed" is much better than "well done." It is superlative—without doubt one of the best talking pictures ever produced.

And in its unfolding the challenge to women in love, which is its motivating theme, builds up to a great and totally unexpected climax.

The story was adopted from Norris' much-discussed best-seller, and its principal roles are acted by a trio of players whose ability is of a very high order. John Boles is seen as a husband and father whose latent abilities as a writer have been wrecked because he must continually devotes himself to the difficult task of supporting a large family of children. The handsome Boles reveals new powers as a dramatic actor, and proves that he can register a distinct hit in a part that does not call for the use of his singing voice.

Genevieve Tobin gives a magnificent portrayal of the boyhood sweetheart of the would-be writer. She appears ten years after his marriage and stirs his ambition which, under her inspiration, flames into successful creative writing. Then there is the third member of this remarkable trio of players—Lois Wilson, in the role of the author's wife, the mother of his five children. Her performance is a classic of acting—unquestionably the greatest mother-portrayal ever seen on the screen, and utterly natural.

It is the situation between the two women for the love of the man that dominates the action of he story; and in the telling of it, Director John M. Stahl has acheived an extraordinarily dramatic and interesting production. It is the finest work this gifted director has yet contributed to the screen, and proves once more that he is a master in the field of domestic problem dramas.

CANE CREEK

Our Sunday School at this place is progressing nicely, but we would be glad that more would come.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

The many friends of Bernie Davenport will be sorry to learn that he had to have his leg re-broken and reset on last Thursday. He is doing nicely. Next Sunday is regular preaching day and every one is urged to be present.

There was a large crowd present at S. S. last Sunday. We are glad to see the S. S. growing.

J. L. SMITH WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

As I am a candidate for member of the County Board of Education, and will not have time to see all the voters in the county, I take this means to try to let the voters know who I am and what I stand for.

I am 51 years of age. I moved from Coosa county to this county several years ago, and have been residing in the Poplar Springs community ever since, with the exception of one year.

I had two boys to finish highschool at Clanton, Ira and Dewey. I am telling you this because a number of people have asked me if I were the father of these boys.

It is useless for me to tell you that I am a Republican. If I was not, I would not be running on the Republican Ticket. I am a Republican by inheritance and choice, and while I haven't anything against a man or woman for being a Democrat, that is their priviledge, and I have a lot of Democrat friends.

Now I will tell you what I stand for and what I will do if nominated and elected. I believe every child should have at least a common school education, and since we have compulsory law, I believe the school should be run free, or as near free as possible. I believe I have a plan whereby incidentals fees can be eliminated to great extent. I am in favor of tearing up any more of our community schools.

I am infavor of our schools being run on as economical basis as possible. I thing our bus drivers should be good steady men and competent drivers. And if I am elected, I will not vote for a man to haul our children unless he is well recommended by the best men in the community in which h lives.

I have been asked by a good many people how I stood about the superintendent. I will say that I am willing to abide by the wishes of the majority of the people, and the best interests of the schools.

I hope I have made myself plain as to who I am and what I stand for. So if you fit to cast your vote for me on May 3rd, I will greatly appreciate it.—J. L. Smith, Clanton, Alabama Route 2.

Mrs. Renfroe Mullins is spending this week in Huntsville with her daugter, Mrs. Frank Scott.

FROM D. S. ROBINSON, CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Editor Union-Banner:

All the candidates in the Republican primary have been requested to state their views on certain political issues that the Republican voters are interested in and that will be settled at the primary, May 3rd. We were asked to state whether we stand for the people nominating candidates for Republicans to vote for or whether we believe in three or four men selecting these candidates.

I want to say unqualified without any reservations whatever that I believe in the rule of the people, and I believe that every Republican voter has a right to vote for the candidates of their choice without the dictation of anyone. I am opposed to any few voters selecting candidates for our party.

I am candidate for member of the school board. I have raised a large family and all my children that is grown, I have given them a fair education. I have raised several school teachers. I love the schools of Chilton County, and I feel that our school system could be improved on in some instances, and it is my opinion that when expenses has to be reduced in times of depression like we have now that the first reduction ought to be the overhead expenses, and if possible not reduce the time our children ought to be in school.

I have talked with a great many people. I have been to several public meetings and it is my opinion that a change in the Superintendent of Education office would be to the intent of the people of Chilton county.

I believe that school teachers and everybody that is connected with the school system ought to have the right to vote for who they please.

I believe the Superintendent of education, whose sacred duty it is to look after the education of our children, should stay out of partisan and politics and ought to give their entire time to the training of our children.

I hope I have made my position plain to all the voters of Chilton county, as I never want to sail under false colors. I wish every voter in the county knew exactly where I stand on any public question, and if there is any further information any voter wants to know I will be glad to furnish it to them.

I hope to be at all public speakings as I believe in public politics and I do not think secrecy has any place in our government.—D. S. Robinson.

A. P. VINSON WRITES VOTERS

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

As it has been practically impossible for me to see in person each Republican voter of the county, and as the election is less than two weeks off, I would like to state very briefly that I appreciate the voters who assisted me in my race for Commissioner of the Fourth District, and also for those who have expressed themselves in my favor. I have already stated to the voters my views and what the Court has accomplished during my term of office, and my plans in the future, if elected, particularly with reference to reducing taxes. I might say that I have never failed to vote every Republican ticket and for every officer who was nominated on that ticket, and not only have I voted the ticket straight every time, but I have helped elect the ticket and whether nominated or not, I will continue to do so.

Mr. J. H. Martin asked the candidates certain questions and particularly about the recent method of selecting members of the committee, and in reply to that, I might state that I have already been at all public speakings that have been held, and will continue to do so, and have publicly expressed each time that I was against such method of selecting a committee. I have watched many political campaigns and have seen parties rise and fall, and I believe from my experience that I can say that no party can exist unless the majority of the people are always consulted and have a voice in that party. If a few men in a party can select the committee of the whole party and can control the whole party, then naturally the majority will be dissatisfied and the majority will not control, and, eventually you will have no party.

I want to say to you that if I am elected that I will not only do my best to be economical with the county's money, and fair to all people, but I will always in any way I am able, fight to my very utmost, all and any attempts to take the Republican party of Chilton County out of the hands of the majority. And I might say that I believe in keeping a party a public matter and not a private one, and I am sorry that a good many candidates have not seen fit to come out publicly before the people and state their stand upon such matters.

It will be impossible for me to see all the voters between now and the primary; but I want everybody to remember I will appreciate your vote and influence.—Yours very truly, A. P. Vinson.

(Paid political adv. by A. P. Vinson, Clanton, Ala.)

Mrs. A. C. Harper will leave at an early date for a visit to her son, Douglas Harper, who resides in Texas.

BEARDEN WITHDRAWS FROM THE SCHOOL BOARD RACE

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

After careful consideration, I have decided to withdraw from the race as candidate for member of the Chilton County Board of Education.

I have come to this conclusion, after relizing the responsibilities attached to that office and on account of my personal responsibilities, I am afraid that I would not be able to give all the time required.

I want to take this means of thanking the people for their words of encouragement and especially thank those who have promised to vote for me. There are five other candidates to select from for this office and your decision shall be mine and it shall be my pleasure to help elect the nominees.—Sincerely J. R. Bearden.

REFUGE NEWS

Please allow me space for a few words in regard to this place. We have a splendid Sunday School at this place, we have 100 on roll, of which we are pleased.

The Central Singing Society met with us Sunday with a large number present. We are very glad to have them with us. The singing was extra fine. The Clanton Quartet was with us and kept our hearts filled with joy by singing five quartets, which were fine. We were very glad to have them with us, and extend to them a cordial invitation to visit us again.

We were glad to have the visitors with us. And invite the good singers to come and be with us any time.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day, and we are hoping to have a good number present.

Mr. W. M. Polk has brought to Clanton the household goods of his mother. The collection includes what was left after the storm at Columbiana. It is stated that Mrs. Polk will continue to keep house and will offer several items of household furnishings for sale cheap after it has been cleaned up and reconditioned. The goods are stored in the warehouse at Polk Brothers.

Judge L. H. Reynolds went to a Methodist Conference at Pineapple, near Greenville, Tuesday.

Central Singing Society

One of the best singings of the season was held at Refuge last Sunday afternoon. Service was called to order a few minutes past 2 o'clock by the chairman, Prof. O. L. Devaughn, and prayer was offered by the chaplain, R. M. Robinson. All the memebrs of the committee were present, who arranged a lengthy program among the several directors present. The Clanton Quartet rendered numbers, all of which were fine. The society is always glad to have the quartet with us.

The society meets next Sunday afternoon at Friendship. Everybody is invited to attend; and don't forget to bring your books.

WRITES IN FAVOR OF MR. A. P. VINSON

Editor Union-Banner:

I have lived on the Glade road, just north of Clanton and have known the same all my life. I would have to say the Glade road is one of the best roads in Chilton County, and has been one of the worst roads in the county.

The last four years of Mr. Vinson's administration as for Beat four, I would have to say there has been more improvement on roads than anyone could expect. I don't see any use in trying to put another man to take Mr. Vinson's place. Anyone who knew the Glade road four years ago would bear me up in this statement that it is now one of the best roads in the county.

I don't see any use in making a change at this time. I will ask the voters to go to the polls and consider before you vote, and vote for what you think would be to the best interest of the tax payers.—Respectfully, John Smitherman.

(Paid political adv. by Mr. A. P. Vinson, Clanton, R. 6.)

WILL GIVE HOME TO A BOY

Mr. Mancy Jones wants a boy to live with him on his farm and work. He will feed and clothe him, and take care of him, the same as if he were one of the family.

In making this announcement, Mr. Jones said, "There may be a boy 12 to 18 years of age somewhere in the county who would be interested in such a situation. If there is, I would like to get in touch with him and discuss the matter. I have a small farm where such a boy could work and earn his keeping, and my wife and I would do our best to give him a home that would be pleasant and comfortable."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to our friends of this community for their kindness shown us during my recent illness. Those that brought plans and assisted in the work were: J. S. Davis, Lewis Wright, Alphus Wilson, Earnest Davis, Tom Wells, Robert Davis, Carl Gray, Alvin Davis, Lonza Davis. We also thank each and everyone that lent a helping hand. May God bless you all.—Oscar Wells and family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good neighbors and friends for their kindness to us after our home was blown away in the storm. We appreciate all donations in work and other things, and our gratitude is unexpressable in words.—Mrs. Emma and Eula Foshee.

WALNUT CREEK

The regular services were held at this place last Sunday, April 17. We had a nice crowd at Sunday school and a better one for the preaching services. Bro. Webb Parrish preached for us and everyone seemed to enjoy and appreciate the splendid sermon that was so ably delivered.

We had a good Christian Endeavor program Sunday night. Most all those on program were present and carried out their parts as best they could. The program was put on by the young people under 30 years of age. We have on a contest. Those under 30 years of age against those over 30 years of age. Our society is doing nicely now, but we are hoping that it will be better now that spring is here. The subject for next Sunday night is, "Opportunities for life investment," and will be discussed by those over 30 years of age. After the Christian Endeavor program, Cleveland Driver is going to make a talk. His subject will be: "The Nature of Sin." He requests that as many of the young people be present as possible.

The womens missionary society of this church is putting on three short plays on next Saturday night, April 23, at 7:30 o'clock. They are: "Socks and Suspenders", a black face play by Louise Johnson and Rachel Lynch.

Her Forgetful Husband, the characters are: John Robinson, the young husband, Bill Coggins; Mrs. John Robinson, the young wife, Aberdeen Coggins; Mrs. Samuel Patch, her mother, Mrs. J. J. Johnson; Mrs. Arthur Cross, her friend, Mrs. R. E. Powell; Miss Martha Savage, a maiden, Gulma Miner; Mary Ann Cook, a culinary specialist, Ora Bell Baker.

Not a man in the house, the characters are: Mrs. Maria Bings, a widow with experience, Mrs. P. A. Lynch; Miss Lucy Rider, her maiden sister, Mrs. J. A. Thompson; Aunt Belinda Rider, her aunt whose sympathies are with the young, Mrs. Tobitha Wright; Kate, a servant girl with a suitor, Opal Lynch; Jessie Ray, Mrs. Bing's pretty young neice, Lucille Johnson.

The plays will begin at 7:30 o'clock. The admission will be ten cents. The proceeds will go to the womens missionary society. The public is invited to attend these plays.

Ernest Moore of Billingsley was in Clanton Monday. He reported that his little girl, Ernestine, fell into a ditch Sunday and bruised herself up quite a bit, although there was no serious injury. She fell off a plank footway across a ditch ten or twelve feet deep.

WRITES ABOUT THE STORM

Editor Union-Banner:

I have been very much impressed to write to your good paper about the storm, but thought I would wait until I got better reconciled, and that the people would be better prepared to hear what I say.

First of all, we want to thank the Red Cross and all the good people for what they have done for us. We feel like they have been ministering angels to us people in Beat 12. May God's wonderful blessings rest upon them all. I feel that I can express the sentiment of all my people up this way.

Our deepest sympathy and prayers come from the depths of our hearts for those who lost their homes. Not only their homes, but some lost their loved ones, which was the saddest of all. It seems to me if I could visit every home that was swept away and talk to the people and pray with them it would give me more relief than anything I could do. I have been a praying man for many years, but I think I have prayed more in the last three weeks than any other period of all my life. I have felt a greater need of prayer than ever before. I still feel that way. I am asking all people everywhere to continue to pray, because all the disasters have not come yet.

God helps every one of us to get our hearts right. Then when troubles and disappointments come our way we will be better prepared to meet them. Jesus said all things work together for good to them that love God, to those that are called according to His purpose. I feel that there is no cloud hanging over us so dark that has not a silver lining somewhere. Let us remember Paul's words to the Galatians, when he prayed that they might become reconciled to God. Reconciliation of course means peace. So let us all get our minds off of the sad occurrences as much as possible and look for happier days.

Well, I guess now I am going to get on the toes of some of the preachers, but if I do, maybe it will be good for them. I love the preachers. I have a right to love them.

Some preachers seem to think God had nothing to do with the storm; that it was just the laws of nature taking its course. I do not believe any such thing. I believe God has something to do with all things. They claim the devil is the power and prince of the air. Yes, but listen. God has all power in heaven and earth. The devil has even tried to outwit God, but has never succeeded and never will. He tried once to take God's kingdom, but failed.

I could just keep writing on this question, but I am getting tired. Maybe I will write again. Let me say in conclusion that I believe with all my heart that on the 21st night of March, 1932 it was through prayer to God that saved my home and family.

I am going to give the Union-Banner readers the different scriptures on the storm. Please do not read them for argument, but read them prayerfully: Nahum 1-3-4; Job 27:21; Psalms 83:15; 107:29-25; Isa. 4:6; 25:4; 28:2-17; 29:6; Ezek. 38:9; Mark 4:37; Luke 8:23.

With this prayer I close: May God comfort every home that is bereaved.—J. R. Cost, Clanton, R. 5.

THANKS FROM CARTER WILLIS AND FAMILY

Please allow me space in your paper to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the public for their many heartfelt sympathies and kindnesses shown me in the greatest trouble that has ever fell to me to bear. The storm that swept our homes away, Monday, March 21, took from us the most precious of all, our darling wife and mother. It has cast a dark shadow on our lives that time alone can fade.

We had just eaten supper when I heard a roaring that sounded like far away thunder. I went to a south window to look at the clouds and just as I neared the window, I saw that it was giving in, and that a storm was near. So I started back to my wife and children in the bed-room adjoining, when every window and door crashed, and threw me against the floor. The next thing I knew, the roof went off and the house just exploded. Everything was dark as pitch, with balls of fire flying through the air. When I came to my senses, I crawled to my wife and put some cotton around her, my baby girl, Myrtle, came to us and helped me the best she could, to fix her mother comfortable. My youngest son and his wife lived across the road from us, and their house was in the same condition. We all got together and tried to keep warm, and in about two hours a car made its way to us. Over trees, rocks, and lumber, that had the road almost blockaded. The lights of this car was a most precious sight to us. Mr. Zeb Lockhart was the first to us, and rushed us, as quickly as possible, to the hospital in Clanton. May God Bless him, and send His richest blessings and comforts on him.

Never can I thank the people for all they have done for us. The Red Cross, one of the most wonderful organizations known, has aided us in every respect possible. Not only have they supplied us with nice wearing appearel, but nice boxes of groceries have been given us, as well as bed-steads and bed clothes. With all our heart, we thank them, but God will reward them most. These good loving people, who have opened up their hearts and gave so liberally. We want to thank all who took a part in helping to pick up and save what was left from the wreckage. Because every little item picked up and saved was a golden deed in our sight, for we are at such a stage that we feel lost and ruined. The world holds a host of good people yet, and in a way, life seems to have a bright side yet. No one left out anything it seems, even the veterinarians took it their part to help, and with willing hands and mind, went around to see to the stock. Even though my mules died, I thank these doctors just the same, and every body else that did anything for them.

Our relatives in Clanton did a wonderful part, such a part that I can hardly describe. My nephew, Arthur Willis and wife, did everything that lay in their power, to help. And comfort us. My baby girl, 17 years old, was carried to their home on Tuesday evening, and all the care and attention was given her that anyone needs. May God bless these two true, loving, free-hearted, people. I never can thank them enough, not only those, but all the relatives did everything to make us comfartable, and greatly do I appreciate it.

The doctors and nurses will be rewarded for their special service and attention, and especially, do we thank them.

Nearest and dearest of all to my heart, was my precious children, who so faithfully have cared for us, and done everything in their power to comfort me. Their never-failing attention has shown their love and affection for me. My true loving wife was laid to rest at Collins Chapel, while Dr. Ezell spoke true and comforting words to this bereft family. We thank Dr. Ezell for his service. We also thank Mr. Mell Martin, and all, who took any part in helping us in any way, great or small. Then, after all, we realize that life is uncertain, and death is sure, and that God in all His divine wisdom saw best, and that we must submit to his will, and that in heaven, we all hope to meet again, where everything is love, peace, and happiness, and no dark clouds of sorrow can reach us. Our family have an interest in heaven, a greater interest than ever, and let us live in a way to be happily reunited again.

—Carter Willis and family.

IN FAVOR OF MRS. CALLOWAY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to say a few words to the voters of Chilton county in regard to Mrs. Gertrude Calloway, who is a candidate for nomination and re-election to the office of Treasurer of our county.

I have known Mrs. Calloway for some time, and have always found her to be the same considerate, accommodating woman, no matter where or under what conditions. I have had dealings with her in and out of office, in personal and official matters. She is always the same.

Mrs. Calloway came to my assistance one time after I had exhausted every other source of help I could think of, and I feel that the least I can do for her is to speak a good word for her. I do not write this because I merely owe her a debt of gratitude, but because I believe we should nominate and elect officers who have the happiness and well-being of the people at heart, and Mrs. Calloway has proved that she is this kind of officer, without a doubt.

In the past, it has been the policy of the Republican party to give an officer a second term if their work was found to be good, and, although I have never taken time to examine any of her books, I have heard it said by many people who are in position to know, that she has made an excellent record, so far as keeping the affairs of her office straight.

There is a great number of women voters in our party, and I believe the voters ought to be willing to give us one office, at least, out of the entire lot. I think we are due that much consideration.

In conclusion, I want to urge every voter to think the matter over carefully, and then make up your mind to come in and help us put Mrs. Calloway over to top on May 3rd.—Respectfully, Mrs. T. F. Hawkins,

(Paid political adv. by Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway, Clanton, Ala.)

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother; and especially do we thank Dr. Johnson and Mr. Brand and his assistant, Mr. Ray, for their service, kindness and sympathies.—Mr. G. M. Durbin and family.

Peas For Seed

I want to give each family in Chilton County, who unfortunately had their house blown away in the storm, one bushel of seed peas. If those who lost their house in the storm will come to the Probate Office at Clanton, Alabama, on Saturday, April 23, 1932, I will deliver the peas to them. If it is not convenient for each family to send someone for the peas, they might send by their neighbor, or it will be satisfactory for one truck to come and get the peas for several families in the neighborhood and let each family bring a sack, if convenient, to put them in.

C. D. DUKE WRITES

I wish to thank the people for their courtsey and good encouragement shown me during this campaign. I have been very busy, as I have a crop, and had to work some in the field. I haven't got to canvass the county as I would liked to have done, but I aim to try and see as many more of the voters, between now and the primary, as I can, and if I happen not to see you, please take this as a special invitation to vote for me on May 3rd. I will assure you no one will appreciate your vote more than I will, and if you favor me with your vote, and I am elected, I will try to conduct myself so you will never have just cause to regret doing so.

I have always wished to serve the people of Chilton County as commissioner, as I am a great believer in good roads. There is nothing that helps the looks of a farm more than a good broad road running thrugh it. I believe every man should have his road worked to his house. If I am elected I will not be commissioner for one man, or for one set of men. My ambition will be to serve all the people, and all the people alike, from one side of the county to the other.

The county will be my interest and service, my motto. As a last word through the paper, let me say that your choice will be my choice, and when the people have spoken it will be my pleasure to get behind the nominees and fight until victory is ours. And let us not be satisfied with anything else than the greatest victory in the general election that we have ever had. We have a bunch of good people from which to select our nominees, thereby giving no excuse for a serious mistake.

I would like to insist that every Republican go to the polls on May 3rd, 1932, and cast your vote untrammelled for the person whom you think is fitted for the position they seek.—Yours for the success of the Republican party, C. D. Duke.

(Paid political adv. by C. D. Duke, Clanton, R. 5.)

Foursquare Church

H. H. CASWELL
Pastor

We are glad to report that the church and Sunday school at this place are doing well. For the last several Sundays, the Sunday school attendance has been increasing rapidly. Last Sunday there were 94 present.

Rev. H. H. Caswell delivered two fine sermons last Sunday, and good crowds attended both services. At the night service several duets by Rev. and Mrs. Caswell, and others by Girthie and Marion Easterling helped greatly in rendition of a good musical program.

Rev. and Mrs. Caswell left early Monday morning for Cleveland, where he will direct the song services in an evangelistic campaign to be held there; at the close of this campaign they plan to visit several northern cities, holding short campaigns, and returning to take up his work here in about two months.

Next Sunday morning there will be Sunday school at 9:45. Sunday evening at 6:30, the Crusaders program will be given, followed by a prayer service. An invitation is extended to eveyone to attend any and all services.

The ladies met Monday at the home of Rev. Caswell to do the necessary work on two quilts which had been donated by Mrs. Lonza Robinson to the storm sufferers. Those present were Mesdames Gladys Johnson, Sam Johnson, Russell Cleckler, Arthur Miner, J. M. Johnson, Paul C. Mims, T. M. Taylor, J. H. Johnson, W. E. Easterling, Alvie Smith of Birmingham, J. J. Mims, Ruth Plier, Lessie Lowery, Joe Mims, R. S. Easterling, P. G. Marcus, C. G. Johnson, Pearl Sewell, Leroy Rhodes, T. O. Mims; Misses Gertie Mae Easterling, Hazel Johnson, Bettye Mims, Ella Mae Johnson, Juanita Mims, Amie Easterling. At noon all of these, with Messrs. J. M. Johnson, and J. J. Mims, enjoyed lunch together. In the afternoon games were enjoyed to round out a pleasant and worth-while day.

THORSBY BAPTIST CHURCH

The pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, announces regular services at Thorsby Baptist church next Sunday night. Day services at 11 o'clock and evening service at 7:30. The Clanton Quartet will be present at the evening service and will sing a few select numbers. The public is corially invited.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

I was in a Clanton home last week where there were five children and not one of them in Sunday school. There is a vast difference between our city schools on Monday and our Sunday schools on Sunday, and yet there should be no difference.

Next Sunday is the day for the opening of our missionary barrels. This is an attractive service and we want every one holding a barrel to take part.

There are two important messages next Sunday for all who will worship with us. At 11 a.m.: "Church Loyalty." At 7:30, "Using what you have." The pastor of the Methodist church is not preaching for a job. He is preaching because he is called to the task, and because he loves men. Our services are soul refreshing. Not mechanial, not common, but full of spirit and done in decency and in order. Worship with us.

SAYS DID NOT SIGN NAME ON PETITION CALLING SPEAKING

Verbena, Ala., April 25, 1932.
Editor Union-Banner:

I notice in the April 14th issue of your paper you published my name in connection with a speaking that was to be at Enterprise.

Now, Mr. Editor, I wish you to state to the public in your paper that I did not sign that petition. I did not see that petition, and further, I did not authorize anyone to use my name in any such manner nor for any such purpose as that, nor to sign my name to that or any other petition of that nature.

If I know myself, I propose to do and stand for the right thing, but I feel that such tactics as that is going too far. I do not know who wrote my name to that article, but I presume it was written when you received it.

I want the people to know that I do not stand for such work as that. I hope this will never again occur. Yours very truly,—S. D. DeLoach.

HUBBARD SAYS STAND FIRMLY

Former Tax Collector Wants Republicans of County To Be Loyal

Jemison, Ala., April 28, 1932.
Editor Union-Banner:

Just a few words before the primary closes. First, I have been with the Republican party through all its history in Chilon County. I am true to the party now, and expect to remain true.

I never can forget my many old friends of former days, when I was your tax collector for three terms. I recall the Pates, Robinsons, Calloways, W. C. Edler, and many others of those days, when we stood shoulder to shoulder for the Republican party. Many of the heroic old warriors are gone. some of them still linger this side the setsing sun. I now appeal to them, also the young men and ladies too, to let us stand with the old time loyalty to the Republican cause.

Now, a few words for Mr. A. P. Vinson, candidate for Commissioner: He has been one of our best Commissioners. He knows how, and he is willing to do. As an executive official he is one of the best. He is a loyal Republican. He has the necessary training and experience. He is the first Commissioner I heard of proposing tax reductions—just what we all need and want. He is able to carry our his plans. I can most heartily endorse Mr. Vinson. Of all the worthy candidates, I know of none that excel Mr. Vinson.

I also recommend Mrs. Calloway, the lady candidate for treasurer. Her record speaks for itself. In giving her the second term, I believe we will act wisely. She is loyal to Republicanism.

I am glad to have the privilege of appealing again to my old friends for he cause we love. And never will forget our battles and victories of the past. I am now among the oldest in the ranks, and I am with you to a finish. Yours for the Republican party.—T. J. Hubbard.

ADD THIS TO YOUR LIST OF CURIOUS THINGS

Henley Moore of Coopers reports another incident that will make a valuable addition to your list of curiosities, a goslin hatched with four legs and a perfectly good foot on each leg; no wings at all. And for the information of those who may not be so well versed in barnyard terms we might add that a goslin is a young goose unless it turns out to be a gander.

NEW HOME HIT BY LIGHTNING

During the storm last Monday night, lightning struck the new home of Wm. J. Mims, on the Temple road about three miles from Clanton, doing considerable damage. This is a new house, and was just ready for the finishing touches. Mr. Mims and family would have been moved into the house in another week. People in the near neighborhood said the sharpest thunderclaps were about 9:30, and they believe the bolt must have struck about that time. The damage extended across the front two rooms of the building, completely tearing away the casing from two windows. Quite a bit of damage was done to the roof and chimney also. Several large windows were broken. The damage is estimated at about $100. Neighbors were to meet there Wednesday to put the house back in shape.

Republicans Urged To Vote In Primary May 3

Circuit Clerk J. Z. Mims Fears There Is Not Enough Interest To Bring Voters Out to Polls Next Tuesday.

Editor Union-Banner:

As the campaign before the first primary is drawing to a close I would like to say a word.

This campaign has been carried on under conditions such as we have never had in this county. There has been one disaster after another, it seems, which tended to decoy the people's minds away from politics and I am sure the people have not given it the thought that they usually do and I am quite sure it has been hard on the candidates to canvass the people and talk politics with them. I am afraid there is not interest enough even yet to get our people to come to the polls and vote. Let me here insist that every legal voter take time to go to the polls on next Tuesday, May 3rd, and vote for the candidate of your choice. This election is very important. In this election we select one-half of our board of commissioners who handle and control all the finance of the county, we select the custodian of our money, in the person of the Treasurer, and a part of the Educational Board of Chilton County.

All of these officers deal with the vital parts of our county affairs and are in effect the most important officers we elect in the county.

We have a fine bunch of candidates, to be sure, and I do not anticipate the party making a mistake but I do believe that every voter should make some sacrifice, if needs be, to go to the polls to vote his or her convictions and thereby assume the moral obligation of a citizen.

So far as I know the candidates have carried on a fine, clean campaign among themselves and thereby relieveing any cause of regret and hard feelings after the people have spoken and for this I am very glad. There is not a single candidate expecting to get all the votes cast, and this is hoping that all the candidates get a good vote, but they cannot if the people do not go out and vote. This election is merely a selction of a standard bearer among the members of our political party or family and should not be any cause for hard feelings and dissatisfaction, when the selection is made. I therefore insist that every voter go to the polls and vote his or her convictions without being swayed or pulled by any body.

This being the first election we have held under the new primary election law, which was adopted by the last legislature, I would like to call attention to a few new items or changes therein:

Section Thirteen of said Act provides that, "If more than one political party enters such primary the appointing board shall appoint for and from each political party election officers to conduct separately for each party said primary election in the same room or voting place. Only one returning officer for each voting place shall be appointed."

Section Twenty-two, provides that, "If a qualified elector is unable to read or is physically disabled that he cannot make his cross mark on the ballot, the inspector shall swear him as disability and thereupon no more or less than two inspectors shall assist such voter by one of them, in the presence of the other inspector, marking his ballot as he directs."

The candidates who announced for Executive Committeemen complied with the following sections of the new primary election law:

Section Twelve of said Primary Election Law sets out that, "any candidate desiring to submit his name to the voters in a primary election shall, not later than March 1 next preceding the holding of such primary election, file his declaration of candidacy with the chairman of the County Executive Committee if he be a candidate for a County office." Section Sixteen of said Act sets out that, "the names of candidates for each office shall be printed on the official ballots for primary elections." Section Sixty sets out, "The words 'County Office' or 'County Officer' shall include members of the County Executive Committees of political parties."

I hope that we will have no trouble in carrying out the new law as is relating to primary elections, and that everybody will willingly and cheerfully abide by the results of said election.

Yours for the success of the Republican party,—J. Z. Mims.

Republican Campaign Discussed By Reynolds

Probate Judge Reasserts His Scathing Denunciation of Secret Methods That Have Been Practiced by Some Leaders In The Present Campaign.

One of the most important campaigns in the history of the Republican party of Chilton County is about to come to a close.

There seems to be one important issue before the people, and that is whether a majority of the Republican voters will continue to control the Republican party in this county, or whether a few self-constituted leaders will select the officials of the party.

Messrs. J. N. Dennis, J. Z. Mims, W. H. Gillespie and Buford Lawrence are the only persons that I have been informed who selected forty Republican Executive Committeemen, and J. N. Dennis, as Chairman has certified to me, as Judge of Probate, that they go on the ticket, which I think is illegal. First, the statue does not fix the number of committeemen to be elected in the county; neither does it fix the term of office they are to hold; neither does it fix the manner and mode they are to be elected, whether they are to be voted on by Beats or the entire vote of the County.

The County Executive Committee according to law, should have fixed the number of committeemen to be selected, from each precinct, and provided by a resolution whether these committeemen should be selected by primary after nomination or by mass meeting or convention, and designated their term of office. In the absence of any provisions by the Executive committee one cannot tell whether we are to elect or merely nominate members of the Executive committee on May 3rd.

Messrs. Dennis, Gillespie and Mims would not take the committee int otheir confidence and recommend how their successors should be selected, but are seeking by a devious scheme clothed in secrecy, to manipulate the Republican party in the county for their personal interests.

I am going to speak at the courthouse next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and I would be glad to hear Messrs. Dennis, Mims, Gillespie and Lawrence explain their actions in selection of the county committee.

The Executive Committee in its meeting of February 19th, appointed a sub-committee composed of J. N. Dennis, J. Z. Mims, W. H. Gillespie, Percy Pitts and Grady Reynolds. The sub-committee has arranged for the Republican voters to meet at their precinct at 1 o'clock May 3, to elect delegates to a county convention, and if Messrs. Dennis Mims and Gillespie had wanted to have kept the record straight, why didn't they let this sub-committee arrange the manner and mode of electing an Executive Committee. This sub-committee arranged and fixed fees for all candidates to pay J. N. Dennis, chairman on or before March 1st, and under their rules these candidates were required to pay J. N. Dennis $2.00 before he certifed their names. Mack Wyatt, running for chairman of the Republican Executive Committee, and Sam Pate, a candidate for secretary of the Republican Elecutive Committee have paid Mr. Dennis $2.00, yet the committeemen selected by Messrs. Dennis, Mims, Gillespie and Lawrence were not required to pay their $2.00. I would like to hear Mr. Dennis explain why he made some pay the $2.00 and exempted others from it under the same ruling.

The Executive Committee of our party was not called together until the 19th day of February, and only then after a mass meeting had been called and urged them to call the Committee and Republicans had only a few days to announce their names as candidates. Why the committee was not called earlier has not been explained.

Dennis, Mims, Gillespie and Lawrence picked out this committee,

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

For several weeks the pastor has been on the pad, going from house to house. He is now completing his second round of pastoral calls since Christmas. Many homes were tagged with a card. "Sorry to have missed you." All that we ask is that you show your appreciation of these calls by attending church. That is where you belong every Sunday.

Sunday School at 9:45, L. C. Warr Superintendent. We have departments for all ages.

Preaching next Sunday at 11 a.m. by the pastor. Night service at 7:30.

We have a Bullletin that is second to none and we want you to have a copy each Sunday. If you are hindered from being at church, ask some one to get your copy for you.

Last Sunday night a faithful member of our church could not be present and she phoned the pastor. Sad it is, that so few people love the church that way. Most members are absent and say nothing. Wonder what God thinks of such indifference?

COUNTY BOARD NOT TO BLAME

Explanation of Charges Made By County Supt. Lawrence

I understand charges are being made that the County Board of Education is responsible for the teachers not receiving their pay on time this year.

In order that the people of the county may have full information on the condition confronting the schools I am giving a few facts that will throw some light on the matter. I understand that some have expressed the opinion that it is a county condition responsible for the salaries of teachers going unpaid. I have just received State Auditor's warrants for certain appropriations for school purposes. I am giving a letter received with these warrants that will explain the situation. You will note that each of these warrants has a little note pinned to them stating this: "Hold this warrant until notified by the State Treasurer that funds are availabe for same." Signed —State Treasurer.

I might state furthermore that in so far as the county responsibility goes, we do not have a single outstanding warrant or bond. We are on a cash basis in spite of the fact that seven years ago the county owed $22,500. This indebtedness has all been paid, and as stated above, in so far as the county obligations are concerned, we owe nothing.

I shall be glad for anyone to see the records in the office and verify the facts stated above. I wish to thank the people of the county for the splendid spirit of cooperation manifested both on the part of the parents and teachers, in meeting one of the most dificult conditions ever faced in the history of the county in school administration. Through this cooperation we have been able to carry on the schools, otherwise we could not have.

Yours for the interest of the children.—County Supt. Education.

Copy of Letter

To the Treasurer of School Funds
Chilton County:

You will receive herewith Auditor's Warrant No. 12161 for $17,256.-42 covering your requisition for General Educative Fund, to satisfy the pay roll of teachers.

Yours very truly,
JAS. M. GUNNELS.
Chief Clerk.

Note: Hold this warrant until notified by the State Treasury that funds are available for same.
State Treasurer.

Editor's Note. — Supt. Lawrence submitted copies of other warrants similar to the one we published, but in order to save space, we only published one. If anyone wishes to see these other warrants they may see them at our office; and Prof. Lawrence has still others on file in his office.

JUDGE McCORD WILL SPEAK IN COUNTY'S STORM SECTION

It was announced this week that Judge Leon McCord of Montgomery will come to Chilton County on Saturday, May 7th, to make an address to the storm sufferers.

The exact time and place of the speaking has not been announced; but it will be at some place convenient for the people who suffered in the storm area.

Full details of the meeting will be announced in next week's papers.

When you talk to yourself you don't get in any arguments. You'd be surprised to know what good company yourself is.

REPUBLICANS CAN NAME CANDIDATE

Mass Meeting Suggested to Get Candidates For Committee

An open mass meeting of Republican voters was held at Jemison last Saturday in which candidates were nominated for members of the Chilton County Republican Executive Committee from Beat 2. The nominees were J. H. Martin and C. W. Scott.

According to information secured Tuesday, it is planned to hold similar meetings at Pletcher Thursday night, and at Clanton Saturday afternoon. It has been stated that this procedure has been chosen to secure candidates for members of the executive committee, because many voters believe the people should have a right to select their own nominees for officials of the Republican party, and that they do not feel that the rights of the people were properly recognized in the selection of the list of candidates for executive committee to appear on the ballot of May 3.

Investigation further revealed that there will be two blank spaces on the Republican ballot in the Primary May 3 where the voters can write in the names of such candidates as they wish to vote for as committeemen in their respective beats.

Those who advocate the nomination of candidates for executive committee in public mass meetings further assert that such nomination, and the writing of the names of the nominees on the ballot is following the custom that has always been used in the nomination and election of committeemen.

While this procedure has not been designated by the present executive committee, yet the plan has the weight of precedent, and those who advocate it maintain that such a plan is as much or more justified than the plan that was worked whereby a number of names were filed as candidates and the voters in the beats had nothing to do with selecting them.

COUNTY COUNCIL P.-T.A.

The county council of P.-T. A. will be held April 30, 1932 at 10:30, at the high school auditorium, Clanton.

District chairman, Mrs. Clayton Rogers of Speigner, will be here, and a good program has been arranged.

Mrs. F. A. Shanks, County Chm.

FIRST AID FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

Financial Aid Asked For Carrying on Program Of Work

Officials of the Boy Scout organization in Chilton County are making an appeal for donations to the financial support of the work in Chilton County. The budget required for the wirk in the county is $350 a year. To date only aboue $150 of this amount has been forthcoming. The entire amount is supposed to be made up and reported by May 6th.

In spite of the fact that it is hard to get money for any cause in these times, the merits of the Boy Scout work are so outstanding that it makes it a very pressing claim on the community to provide the local financial aid to keep the program going forward.

Scout work makes better boys, and better boys in turn make better men. And at the same time, the community is the beneficiary of better service at the hands of those whose ability and competency is improved.

As an example of how the Scouts can and will and do serve their communities was furnished us in our recent storm disasters. All through the long tiresome hours and days when every nerve was tense and every means was under pressure to alleviate the suffering and repair the damage, everywhere you turned, there was a Scout ready to do what was needed to be done. They served, and always serve, for the pure merit of service.

If you are a person with a little money you can spare, we believe it is one of the best investments in the world to chip in a little bit of it to the support of our local Boy Scout and Girl Scout work.

S. M. PATE ADVOCATES OPEN METHODS IN CO. POLITICS

Editor Union-Banner:

The election will be a week from today, and I would like to express my views on some things. On next Tuesday we will set the mark for our party for the next few years. I want to urge the votres of the county to be very particular as to how they cast their vote, as this is a very critical time. I have seen some writing in The Union-Banner in regard to some few trying to take hold of the party. I am hot in favor of any one or two men running this Republican party. It is too big for that.

I want to see it get back into the hands of the people of Chilton County. I believe in the majority ruling. We want to see this Republican Committee elected so they can run the affairs of the Republican party without some one dictating to them what to do and when to do it.

If I am elected secretary of the Republican Executive Committee I will not keep anything in the dark from the voters neither will you find me trying to run around and take this man off because he don't see as I do and place another one on. I think the voters are the ones that should have that right.

Mr. J. H. Martin asked me how I stood. I will say that I stand for a square deal to everyone and place this old party back in the hands of the people and stop this factional business.

As to the ones running for office this time, they are all good and are my very best friends. And I hope we will pick the best for our leaders.—Yours for a better Republican party, S. M. Pate.

CENTER HILL SINGING WAS HELD LAST SUNDAY

One of the best singings of the season was held at this place last Sunday afternoon. Service was called to order at 1:30 by the president. Prayer was offered by Rev. Howard Roper. Directors for the afternoon were as follows:

Messrs. W. J. Northcutt, Loyd Edwards, Marvin Campbell, Duff Devaughn, Burl Martin, Russell Scott, E. L. Glasscock, O. L. Devaughn, W. G. Culp, Floy Devaughn, A. H. The Clanton Quartet singers were present and sang several splendid selections. We sure were glad to have them with us and hope they will be with us at future singings. The dismissal song was sung by Prof. Duff Devaughn and prayer by Bro. George. We had a number of visitors from other communities, both singers and lovers of music, and we extend to them a hearty welcome to come again.—Secretary.

IN FAVOR OF MRS. CALLOWAY

Far be it from us to write any discouraging word relative to any Republican candidate in the primary election. But we wish to most heartily commend Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway to the consideration of the voters all over the county, ladies especially.

Mrs. Calloway's official record is without a flaw, equal to the best. Personally we regard her as a noble lady, as testified to in Mrs. Hawkins' letter in last week's Banner.

We regard her as being efficient, pains-taking, kind and worthy of a second term as County Treasurer, and worthy of our support.—Z. J. Jones, Marion Cofer, H. H. County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

CACKLING HEN WILL BE HONORED MAY 1-7

Auburn, Ala., — Alabama along with other states—will pay homage to the cackling hen during the week of May 1-7, which will be National Egg Week, thus recognizing the poultry industry which stands sixth among the agricultural pursuits of the nation as measured in terms of value of products produced.

"At the same time," said Prof. L. N. Duncan, Alabama Chairman, "it is hoped that the poultry industry will be advanced in both production and consumption in Alabama. The egg is one of the very best foods and poultry stands high in value and in possibilities on Alabama farms."

A ocmmittee has been named to work with Mr. Duncan in promoting the poultry industry along with other state of the nation. Members of the committee are Miss Helen Johnston, State home demonstration agent, Prof. G. A. Trollope, head of the poultry department, Auburn, H. R. Bailey, extension poultryman, P. O. Davis, Auburn, John E. Ivey, manager of the State Farm Bureau at Montgomery, F. C. Bridges, poultryman, Notasulga, George Ashley, Mobile poultryman, J. Litt Edwards, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, Selma, and John Reddock, poultryman of Hope Hull, Montgomery County.

Meanwhile, Miss Helen Kennedy, extension nutritionist, Auburn, has prepared recipes on eggs, giving many different recipes for preparing eggs for three meals each day. She said that eggs are good for either one or all of the tree daily meals.

Miss Johnston has written Alabama agents calling it to their attention and asking that they give special attention to eggs in their demonstrations during the week of May 1-7.

NEWS IN BRIEF

More than 1,000 farm boys and girls and parents attended the Madison County 4-H club rally at Huntsville on April 12. It was the biggest 4-H club rally in the history of the county.

Farmers can use to good advantage classified ads in local newspapers for disposing of miscellaneous farm products. The cost is low and results are very satisfactory.

The City of Cleveland has enacted an ordinance requiring that all butter sold in the city must have come from tuberculin-tested cows. The ordinance is for the protection of health and also for the protection of progressive dairymen.

It is reported that more farmers are now members of cooperative organizations than ever before in the history of the United States. New members, however, are still in the majority but the the membership is sufficient for success of coops if efficiently managed.

The United States Department of Agriculture says that Iowa farm values rose from $188 an acre in 1913 to $225 in 1920 when the long and slow decine began. In 1930 the value was $135 to $140 an acre, but from 1930 to 1932 prices have declined to $92 per acre instead of $118 as in 1913.

The United States with 69,000,000 policy holders leads the world in life insurance. It figures 54 per cent of the total population, the national average being $943 per capita. Canada is second with $640 per capita. In volume the United Kingdom is second to the United States but the per capita figure is only $266.

ALABAMA 4-H CLUB CHAMPIONS NAMED

Auburn, Ala.—A quartette — two boys and two girls—have been selected to represent Alabama at the National 4-H club congress in Washington, D. C., June 15-21. They are Ruth Kirby, Dallas County; Edna Earl Smart, Pike County; Clifton Ryland, Conecuh County; and Kermit Wilson, Randolph County.

These four were named because of the outstanding work which they have done as 4-H club members. their records scored higher than any of the other 25,000 Alabama farm boys and girls engaged in this work last year.

In maning them Thomas Sims and Miss Margaret Garrett, State leaders of 4-H club work at Auburn, said that each one has made a splendid record in addition to being good leaders of others. They will spend a week in Washington with state winners from other states. They will camp on government grounds and enjoy a week's program of entertainment and instruction.

Edna Earl Smart, member of the Palmyra Club in Pike County, has been in club work seven years. She has done splendid work in clothing, foods, and home improvement projects.

Ruth Kirby began her 4-H club work four years ago. She is a member of the Marion Junction Club. She, too, has done clothing foods, and home improvement work.

Kermit Wilson of Wedowee has been a 4-H club member four years in cotton corn and pig clubs, making them a financial success.

Clifton Riley of Repton began five years ago, carrying cotton and corn projects. In five years he has averaged 51 bushels of corn per acre and 1612 pounds of seed cotton.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodson from Lay Dam were in Clanton Sunday.

S. J. M. WEBB RECEIVES HIGHLY APPRECIATED LETTER

Jemison, Ala., Rte. 3.
Mr. S. J. M. Webb, Mablesville, Ala.
Dear Sir and Brother:

After reading your letter in the Union-Banner last week ,seeing your condition as to canvassing, and going over the county to see the voters, you have my heartfelt sympathy and prayers that Sister Webb will soon regain her health, and be well again, so that you can be doing your duty again with joy and full satisfaction.

I will promise you my vote and what little influence I have. I am doing all I can for you now, and will until the end of the fight.

I will close. Anything I can do for you anytime, let me hear from you. Your friend and Brother in Christ,—H. H. Armstrong.

Reply

Dear Mr. Armstrong:

I surely do appreciate your letter which so earnestly and feelingly expresses your sympathy for me, and your promise of support and influence in the campaign.

I trust that God will make and keep me worthy of so great a feeling and interest expressed in my behalf.

I most fully realize that it is only God and His power that can make me worthy, and I also wish to say that many others have stopped me on the road and on the sidewalks of Clanton, when there to see the doctor or get medicine, and said almost the same words that you said in your letter.

If I am nominated and elected again I shall still feel to be a servant of the people of Chilton County. I will do all in my power to give every child in the county the very best educational advantages possible, because the best is pure enough.

When I can serve any of you people in Chilton County, call on me.

Yours for forward march in education.—S. J. M. Webb.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q.—Please give the symptoms of cocidiosis in young chickens, which has caused the death of so many in the last few years. What treatment do you recommend?

Ans.—Huddling as if very cold when they are not cold, badly fluffed feathers with rough appearance, leg weakness, failure to eat, and final death are common symptoms. After the chicks have died, cut open the body and examine the tubes just below the gizzard. These are found to be filled with wheesy, yellowish or white matter.

Change the litter often so as to keep it constantly dry and have plenty of sunlight without glare. Chicks should be kept on a sun porch. Feed plenty of buttermilk or buttermilk powder in the dry mash. Separate the sick chicks from the well ones. Put about five per cent of cod liver oil in the dry mash. If possible, young chicks should be raised on a wire floor which is made of one-fourth-inch mesh wire cloth tacked on strips of wood. This keeps the chicks from eating their own droppings. Clean up the quarters well by spraying with good antiseptic such as creolin on which attendants will wipe their feet before going into the quarters. Burn the carcasses of dead birds.

Q.—What annual crops would be good to grow for a swine summer pasture?

Ans.—Sow one bushel of soybeans and one peck of Sudan grass seed mixed together for each acre. This will be ready for pasture in about five to six weeks after sowing. One acre will feed about fifteen half-grown pigs for two months. In August sow some rape at the rate of five pounds per acre for late pasture. This will stand frost and supply green feed until about Christmas time.

Dr. Raymond Calloway from New York City is spending some time here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Calloway.

Lesson for May 1

ISAAC AND HIS WELLS

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 26:12-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—A soft answer turneth away wrath: but grievous words stir up anger.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Isaac Follows His Father's Example.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Isaac Follows His Father's Example.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Stop Quarrels.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How World Peace Is to Be Established.

Isaac was a child of the covenant and was given in the time of the old age of Abraham and Sarah, in fulfillment of God's promise. His name means "laughter." As to character, he was gentle, meek, meditative and peace-loving. He was a remarkable contrast to his father Abraham. Two things may have affected him to his disadvantage:

1. The shadow of an illustrious father. Sons of great and rich men commonly do not make much of life. The necessity of struggle is not forced upon them.

2. He was brought up as the only child of his mother. The tendency in such a case would be to shield him from the necessity of self-effort, so that he would be unable to meet life's stern realities. Every child should be compelled to think for himself and to fight his own battles.

I. Isaac in Gerar (vv. 12-17).

1. The appearance of the Lord unto him (vv. 1-5). Because of famine in the land, Isaac went into the country of the Philistines. The distress upon the land should have moved him to call upon the Lord (James 5:13). It were better to suffer in the land than to go among the enemies of God's people. The Lord graciously appeared to him there and directed him not to go into Egypt, thus avoiding the error of his father. He was permitted to sojourn in this land because it ultimately was to belong to his seed.

2. His lapse (vv. 7-11). He yielded to the same temptation as did Abraham many years before (Gen. 20:12, 13). This proves that it is not a good thing to dwell among the enemies of God's people. It was when Peter warmed himself at the fire of the enemy that he was tempted to deny his Lord.

3. His prosperity (vv. 12-17). Isaac did not intend to make Gerar his permanent place of abode. He intended only to sojourn there. While there he sowed and reaped bountifully. This prosperity was no proof that God approved of his course. God sends his rain upon the just and the unjust.

II. Isaac's Enemies (vv. 18-22).

He was not permitted long to enjoy this fruitful land. His prosperity incited the envy of the Philistines. They could not stand to see his increase in flocks, herds, and servants. Success in any calling of life will provoke envy. They demanded that Isaac should leave them. Wherever envy has begun its deadly work, there must be separation. The Philistines took as their method of getting rid of Isaac the stopping up of the wells. Isaac did not contend for them but peaceably withdrew to another place where he proceeded again to dig the wells of his father. He called them by the same names as his father had given them.

1. Esek, which means "strife" or "contention." Instead of struggling with them, he removed from them and digged another well.

2. Sitnah, which means "enmity." The Philistines strove for this well also. The name given shows that there was increased bitterness of feeling.

3. Rehoboth. Because of the bitter opposition, Isaac removed from them and digged another well which he called "Rehoboth," meaning "there is room." The third time he digged wells there was no strife. The way to have peace is to wear out our enemies with patience.

III. Isaac in Beer-sheba (vv. 23-25).

Immediately following Isaac's going up from among the Philistines, the Lord appeared to him. Our fellowship and privileges as sons and daughters of God are dependent upon our separation from the world (II Cor. 6:14-18). Following this visitation, Isaac built an altar and called upon the name of the Lord. As soon as a meeting place with Jehovah was established, Isaac pitched his tent there. Following this Isaac's servants digged a well. There is no use of going among the Philistines to get water.

After Isaac was established in Beer-sheba, Abimelech came desiring to make an alliance with him. This shows that he gained influence by peaceably withdrawing from the Philistines. His behavior proved to them that he was the friend of God.

PLEASANT GROVE

Saturday and Sunday are the days for the old book singing, and we are looking forward to it with joy. These old songs will awaken our memories and carry us back to those happy days past and gone. The rough usage of the world cannot obliterate them. Feeble age, trembling on the brink of the grave has them when everything else has fled away and been forgotten.

Thy are the memories of home, early home, the house where we were born, the garden, with its roses, where the robins made their nest, spring after spring, paying their rent in songs, such as we dream of, but never hear of afterwards.

The old elm and swing, where the children used to play, while the mother sat by the window, her face beaming out occasionally through the folds of the muslin curtain. The same old house with its pointed gables, the wainscoated chambers where we used to dream of all the great glad world had in store for us.

Dear old home, with it's gay dreams and sunny hours and cloudless skies, and visions of bliss, and glorious happiness, gone—all gone.

The travelers climbing the mountain of a land not his own. Amid all his toil and changes, revert ever and anon to the time when a youth, he roamed the fields and hills, of his own native home.

The mariner, rocked by the storms of the sea, or resting at some foreign port, will run through the long lapse of years, back to the house where, with brother and sister, he frolicked the joyous hours of youth away.

Neither change nor time, neither age nor youth, neither distance nor disease, neither guilt nor passion can ever blot from the heart the memories of the springtime of life. Did you ever hear " Old Hundred," floating from a church steeple on a Sabbath morning—its majestic strains and deep toned measures windnig along the streets and into your house and telling you in its odd, grand way that God had descended into his temple and was waiting for your worship?

Such will be the singing of these grand old songs, April 30 and May 1. Come in and worship with us, we extend to one and all a hearty handshake.

G. W. STEWART, pastor.

Where Does She Get Her "Pep?"

SHE doesn't look seventy. Nor feel that old. The woman who stimulates her organs can have energy that women half her age will envy!

At middle-age your vital organs begin to slow down. You may not be sick, simply sluggish. But why endure a condition of half-health when there's a stimulant that will stir a stagnant system to new life and energy in a week's time?

This remarkable stimulant is perfectly harmless. It is, in fact, a family doctor's prescription. So, if you're tired of trying every patent medicine that comes along, tell the druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a bit of this delicious syrup every day or so, until you know by the way you feel that your lazy liver is again active, and your bowels are poison-free.

Men, women, and children who are run-down, who tire easily, get bilious spells or have frequent headaches, are soon straightened out when they get this prescriptional preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh laxative herbs. (Syrup pepsin is all the help the bowels need, and you do not form the very bad habit of always taking cathartics.)

Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin in the house, and take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. It is all that a great many people ever take to keep strong and vigorous, and absolutely free from constipation.

POOR OR

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Strawberry season has opened with a rush for Chilton County, of which Thorsby is the center, during the first three working days 1676 crates, of 24 quarts each, were shipped local and in car load lots from Thorsby. The berries are of fair quality, but of first pickings from the fields many were too ripe to go very far distant. Monday was a busy day, picking began very early, and although heavy rain fell from ten until twelve o'clock, the berries began it come in soon after noon, and it was far into the night before all were disposed, and the fourth car for the day was ready to set rolling.

We called at the Fruit Growers office Tuesday morning to inquire about the effect of the long continued electrical storm accompanied by heavy rain and hail Monday night. Mr. Foss said he had heard no complaints. Later inspection of some patches revealed many sandy berries which will improve with the wind and sun prevailing Tuesday. There are a lot of people in the berry growing section of Chilton county to whom berry checks will look mighty good.

Of course the prices obtained will depend much on the state of the market, and as we stood near the Thorsby station Tuesday morning and saw two long trains of Refrigerators going northward, we thought there must be many mouths watering for the juicy fruit, but competition might bring prices very low. But we began to think of the millions of strawberry eaters and it seemed perhaps there would be more than enough to supply them. We will hope so.

Ollis Littleton sustained a broken arm in an accident at the strawberry loading station Monday.

Coty face powder, combination powder and perfume for $1.00 at Wyatt Drug Co.

Mrs. J. H. Goddard was on the sick list Tuesday.

On Thursday evening, April 21, Mr. and Mrs. Vinson Sutlive entertained in honor of Mr. Sutlive's mother, on her birthday anniversary, the adult Bible Class of the congregational Sunday school, of which Mrs. Sutlive is a member. When she came in and found the house full of guests, and they began to congratulate her, she was very much pleased, and at once entered into the spirit of the festivities. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Peterson, Rev. and Mrs. Each, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson, Mrs. H. M. Gerald, Mrs. Thornburg, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Dominoes prevailed as entertainment because it was announced as a domino party, and refreshments had an inning. Everyone seemed to enjoy the whole evening.

Saturday afternoon, a few friends of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Paxson assembled at their home to help Mr. Paxson celebrate his eightieth birthday anniversary. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames C. C. Peterson, J. M. Bosworth, S. E. Norton, M. J. Soberg, E. W. Butler, Mrs. Gerald, Mrs. Thornburg, Mrs. J. O. Johnson, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Clyde Meade and Rev. Joseph E. Each. The topic for discussion was, "Opportunities for Life Investment." Mrs. Rascoe Maddox led the meeting. After the program the Thorsby group and friends in Shelby enjoyed a picnic supper which was spread under the trees on the hillside. The church stands on a large hill with many beautiful trees. This location furnished an ideal place for an outdoor service and the supper followed. The entire group remained for the evening service. Rev. M. D. Morgan of Decatur, Alabama preached the sermon.

MR. W. H. SORRELL WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your paper to write a few lines to the people of Chilton County.

I moved from Chilton County a number of years ago but have never lost interest in the county or the people there. I had the pleasure of visiting my aunt, Mrs. J. W. Gore, last Sunday and being at the singing in the afternoon at the alms house. I met Commissioner J. E. Cobb and the keeper of the alms house, Mr. J. H. Bean. I went through the hospital and some of the other houses. I have never been in any hospital that is any better kept than the one at the county alms house. I am indeed glad to see the unfortunate people of Chilton County being so well taken care of. It speaks well for the county as well as the keeper.—Respectfully, W. H. Sorrell.

O. L. Devaughn Closes His Race

Editor Union-Banner:

Please permit me to say a few words to the voters of Chilton County, as this will be the last issue before the primary, May 3rd.

I wish to say in the outset that I greatly appreciate the encouragement that I have had in my race for Commissioner from the Fourth District, and also thank those who have assisted me in any way in this campaign. It has been my aim to see every Republican voter in the county but as many know that I am a farmer and have had to spend a portion of my time at home on my farm it will be almost impossible for me to see everyone before the primary. So if I do not get to see you in person, please take this as an appeal for your vote and influence on May 3rd.

I have tried to make my position clear on all matters of importance to those that I have met and also through the paper. As stated in my letter of March 17, I am a thoroughbred Republican, and have always voted a straight Republican ticket. I believe in and try to uphold the morals of our county and the integrity of our party. I believe in dealing honestly, openly and fairly in the administration of the county's affairs as well as in politics. I believe if the county should have some building to let out by contract it should be let out to the lowest reliable bidder.

I favor working every man's road in the county, regardless of where he lives. I favor dividing the road work among the people in the community in which the work is being done, as much as possible.

If I am elected I will be commissioner of my district myself and will not be led around by anyone but will always be ready and willing to do the wishes of the people, as I understand it. I am not obligated to any person more than another and if I am nominated and elected I will be a servant of all the people and will serve all alike with a fair impartial administration of the affairs of the county to the very best of my ability.

Now in conclusion let me insist that every Republican voter in the county turn out on May 3rd and vote for your choice. If you favor me with your vote and influence I assure you there is no one that will appreciate it any more than I, if not your verdict will be mine.—Yours for the success of the Republican party, O. L. Devaughn.

"TRUST IN THE LORD AND KEEP YOUR POWDER DRY"

Once upon a time, in the early pioneer days of our country, there was an old backwoodsman who was the leader of a brave band of young adventurers pushing their way into the wilds of an unsettled and unmarked portion of strange new lands.

Hostile Indians, vicious wild animals, tortuous heat, bitter cold, drenching rains, all made their daily life a situation that demanded every ounce of courage, perseverance, wisdom and caution. In the quiet councils of their camp every night, when final plans for the next day's adventure had been carefully mapped out, the grizzly old leader always closed the conference with this admonition: "Trust in the Lord and keep your powder dry."

We feel that this expression is very timely advice to give to the Republican voters of Chilton County as they go into the Primary Election of next Tuesday.

In recent weeks the candidates have had much to say in their own interests. All of them have behaved themselves nicely. There has been no bitterness or strife between them. It appears that everybody will be sattisfied with the nominees that are selected in the Primary, which should be the attitude of every candidate and of every voter.

As to who should be nominated for the various offices to be filled, of course The Union-Banner does not assume to suggest That is a matter entirely up to the Republican voters of the county. Whoever the voters choose to nominate will be our choice to support and help elect in November.

Around the matter of electing a new County Republican Executive Committee there has developed the sharpest issue of the present campaign. The methods which were employed in securing nominees for committeemen in the various beats has been the target of severe criticism. Charges that the committee candidates were hand-picked secretly have been made publicly and those who are charged with doing the picking have not denied or explained the charges.

The Union-Banner has but one thing to say regarding this heated point of the campaign. The Republicans of each beat in the county have a right to elect whom they want as members of the Executive Committee. No person has a right to pick the candidates for them. They do not have to take anybody for committeemen whom they do not want. The majority should rule.

If the name of the man or men whom the people in any beat want for committeemen does not appear on the ballot, the voters can write in the names of those they do want on election day. In spite of the confusion that has arisen over the question, we hope and believe the votrs will approach the matter calmly and seriously next Tuesday and settle it in a way that will guarantee solidarity and harmony in the party in future.

Republicans should remember that most of us expect to remain here for some time after the primary next Tuesday. We shall continue to have interests one with another. We are going to continue to need the leadership and power and resourcefulness of the most able minds in our party.

We believe the Republicans of Chilton County can be trusted to manage the affairs of their party. If anybody asaumes to take away any of the rights of the people, we believe the voters will promptly condemn such action. It is up to the Republican voters of the county to seftle and determine measures of principle which shall constitute the platform of the party, and not leave that important function to be dictated by politicians who may be seeking office or may merely have axes to grind.

The Union-Banner does not choose at this last hour to indulge in any criticism of anybody for the manner in which the campaign has been conducted. We admire the courage of those who have spoken their honest convictions about important principles and issues involved. We believe the voters are entitled to all the facts openly and fearlessly presented.

When that has been done, and when the Republicans have spoken their wishes, that should be enough to settle everything between all the candidates and all the politicians and all the factions.

There is coming a day when we must have the solid and unshaken power of every Republican voter in Chilton County to rally to the support of our common interests. And against that day we say "Trust in the Lord and keep your powder dry."

Wall Street brokers are kicking because Congress has placed a higher tax on the sale of securities. We know a lot of fellows who wish now that there had been a prohibitive tax on stock transactions back in 1928 and 1929.

M. Tardieu of France and Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain conferred the other day and it's a good bet that they didn't talk about increasing their debt payments to the United States.

CONFIDENCE IS RETURNING—

Some rather extraordinary local evidence is offered that confidence is returning among investors and depositors.

One of the large brokerage houses was paid $7,000 in gold by a customer who completed some odd-lot purchases of high grade common stocks for investment purposes. Two other customers paid for several small blocks of stock in gold coin. In one of the outlying sound banks, a super-wary depositor recovered enough courage to deposit $30,000 in gold for safe keeping and borrowed $27,000 in currency against it, with the understanding that the bank was to keep the precious collateral intact until the loan was paid.

In all four cases the gold had been withdrawn from circulation and hoarded. Little by little the e hidden reserves are returning to circulation as the nervousness of the public wanes.—Chicago Evening Post.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

In the tornado that swept Chilton County a mother saw that her home was going. She reached for her six months old babe and rushed into the yard. She tried to battle against the winds but all in vain. She was pushed against a small pine sapling near by and holding to it she was able to sit down on the ground with her feet and arms locked around the tree, and with her baby between her body and the body of the tree. The wind wrung the top from the trunk of the pine, but the mother clung on for life. She was sitting there when the storm was gone, and strange to say, planks and brush and logs were piled all around her, but not a piece of anything was within four feet of the mother and her babe. Small pebbles and trash had cut the mother's arms and face, but the babe was untouched. Who kept the trees from falling on that mother? Who held an unseen power around that tree and piled the logs and brush around that mother and babe and never allowed one piece to strike them. You may call it luck, you may call it a freak of the storm, but I call it God. "His eye is on the sparrow and I know that He cares for me."

A family in a happy home was sitting about the fire when they heard something that sounded like a freight train approaching in great speed. Without saying a word the entire family arose and ran to a corner of the room. They were huddled there as the tornado struck their building. When the storm was gone they began to look about as best they could in the dark, and they found that the entire building was gone with the exception of the corner where the family was huddled. The family and a few planks that stood around them were all that remained after the blow. Who told each member of that family to rush into that corner of the room? Who stood facing the storm and commanded it to leave untouched that corner of the building? Again you may say that it was the hand of luck. You may say that it was another freak of the tornado. Say what you please, but I say that it was God. God has the power to temper every wind that blows.

A bright little boy of four summers looked about him and saw that his home was flying apart and he could not understand. His childish heart prompted him to make a run for his mother. The lights all went out and the lad thought that he had seized his mother's arm. He felt himself lifted and then he was up in the elements going. In the hospital he said: "I felt myself away up among the trees, but I held on to mama and I knew that I would be all right? Those who rescued the family knew that the boy was holding on to a plank and not his mother for they were wide apart when found. Even if the little fellow had failed to find his mother in the storm, yet he had a very fine philosophy of life. When our boys and girls learn to make a rush for mother at the first appearance of danger, they will likely come out all right. Now I do wish that I could get the boys and girls of the teen-age to do as this little lad did. It means much for them to hold on to mother in the days of testing and during the stormy period of temptation.

Over in the northeastern part of Chilton County, far down toward the Coosa swamp, it is said that there are about five acres of land that is practically covered over with rubbish from the tornado. It seems that this terrible monster stalked through the county for forty miles and gathered up house tops, furniture, livestock, trees of all kinds, planks and produce and sacked them and carried them in his arms, reaching that point. At this place the bottom of his sack seemed to have burst and he spilled his spoils, and they were sufficient to bury five acres of land. The tornado had brought destruction and had gathered up its spoils until its arms were so full that it had to disgorge. Doubtless a vacuum gave way and this amount of splintered material fell to the earth. The World War was the most awful tornado of wickedness ever sweeping over the human race. It wrought destruction and ruin for the world for four years. Spiritual, civic and social life today are deluged under the falling rubbish of that tornado. A vacuum seems to have given way and we are deluged with the rubbish, the back wash, of the war.

I have seen many happy faces this week. Saw one man who was so happy he could hardly speak. The Red Cross had allotted him sufficient funds to put the top back on his home. Others were happy because they had been allotted lumber, windows, nails and other necessary things with which to rebuild. Saw two mothers whose eyes were full of joy because a friend had given them five dollars with which to replace some of the cooking things that they so much needed. These noble spirits were not begging. Bless their brave hearts, they were going to do the best they could and not whimper. How happy it made them when they knew that there were hearts that cared. The most of us think sometimes that this is a wicked old world, but it is better than we think. It takes a trying need to call out the best that is in us, but when it comes, we are made to see that the world is not all bad. God bless this altruistic spirit that makes the human race to be moulded into one mighty brotherhood.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Mr. Moore's Calves

Mr. John Moore, who lives near Kincheon, out on Clanton route three, has a very valuable cow. She is valuable in more ways than one, too, according to reports. I suppose I'll have to call her a prolific cow. And here's why. Just about a year ago Mr. Moore's cow freshened, and the little "bossie" was twins. Nothing much was thought of that. It doesn't happen every day, but still the incident was not the first on record. Along comes April, 1932, and Mr. Moore's cow freshens again, and again it's twins. Now that doesn't happen once in a blue moon. So, I say, Mr. Moore has a fine cow in more ways than one. Besides being a fine milker, it wouldn't take her so very long to make her owner a big cattle raiser, that is, if her children all take after her in this respect.

Why the Democrats Can't Win

I like to listen in, by radio, to what is being said and done over the nation every now and then. One night last week I decided to spin the dials a bit, and found a Michigan congressman on the air, and his subject was: "Why the Democrats Don't Win". I liked his talk very much, but had about forgotten it, until I read that bombastic front page editorial on the front page of the Chilton County News, issue of April 21, under the caption: "Southern Blood Does Not Mix With Republicanism". That article was a double-barrelled insult to every Southern Republican, and a direct insult to the intelligence of every sensible man or woman, Republican or Democrat. In effect, the Michigan congressman said: "You have never seen the time when the Democratic party put forth a constructive issue or platform to base their campaign on. They always run, or try to run, on the errors of the Republicans. They do not run on their own merits, but on the alleged demerits of the Republicans. They criticize Republican principles and ideas, but advance none of their own with which they plan to correct the evils of those principles and ideas. So, when people come to vote, although they may not like the way Republicans have been running things, yet the Democrats have not given them an idea of how they expect to go about the governmental affairs, and so their Democratic ballot is simply a leap in the dark". And so it is. That glove fits to a "T", and you have only to read the above-mentioned editorial to find that such is the case. That article sets not one definite worth-while reason why one should vote the Democratic ticket. It is merely a repetition of that aged method of procedure—beginning with a general belly-aching denunciation of Republican officials and their ideas and official deeds, and finishing with the even older appeal of prejudice of the vintage of 1865, and the final and ever-present joke which has been for these many years the Democratic stock-in-trade, "white supremacy". It's bunk! Just pure bunk! Just to prove it, take on an earful of the following. Mr. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Committee since 1929, and a likely choice for permanent chairman of that body, recently made a big political speech before a large gathering of negroes at Washington, D. C. That isn't hear-say, or maybe—that's bald facts. And then we hear this hokum about "white supremacy". "White supremacy!" "Lily white Democratic party!" I wish some of our good "lily white Democratic" musicians would try composing a campaign song, remembering to harmonize this "lily white" idea with some of the things Brother Shouse had to say while making A DEMOCRATIC SPEECH IN A HALL PACKED TO THE RAFTERS WITH NEGROES! Or, if you are not musically inclined, maybe you smoke. If so, take the above bit of information, pack it down in the heel of your favorite cob and take a puff or two. You'd think Democrats would realize, some time, that those old worn-out gags have outlived their usefulness, and would try something else. But until Democrats put some new horses in the race, Republicans have nothing to fear. Rattling bones may create a scare, but they'll never win a race.

Shot In The Back

I am informed that a Chilton County man was surprised at a still in an adjoining county one day last week, and was SHOT IN THE BACK by Federal officers as he ran from the still site. His life is hanging in the balance, and his medical attendants give him only a bare chance to live. Such incidents are deplorable. I am a strict supporter of prohibition, and will never vote for modification or repeal of the law, but prohibitionists should be the very first to denounce high-handed misuse of authority such as this. Of course the prohi law is not to blame, but rather those picked to enforce it. No wonder the antis raise a howl—what a golden opportunity. Violators of the law should be dealt with according to law, but if such ruthless action as this is allowed to continue and go unpunished, public sentiment will be aroused to such high pitch that it will soon DEMAND a change. I do not believe that such drastic action on the part of law enforcement officers is needful or advisable, and such action is only playing public sentiment into the hands of enemies of the prohi law. It will do more harm than good toward bringing about respect for the law.

Who's Who—Walter Marcus Polk

Walter Marcus Polk was born at Goodwater, Ala., November 12, 1882, the son of Charles Clark and Mary S. (Pearson) Polk. His school days were spent at Bradford Academy, in Coosa County. He married Miss Sarah Graham, near Bradford, December 18, 1901; they have four daughters and two sons. At the age of 17, Mr. Polk went into the cotton buying business with his father at Goodwater; he has kept up this business ever since, no matter what other business he was in. He was in the brokerage business at Sylacauga and Columbiana for about four years, then in the retail grocery business at Columbiana for a while. In 1923 he formed a partnership with his brother, Mr. George C. Polk, at Clanton, buying cotton and handling Studebaker and Gray automobiles. This firm, known as Polk Brothers, took over the Chevrolet franchise in Clanton in 1924, and they have been the local Chevrolet agency ever since, with cotton buying as a side line. The firm of Polk Brothers is one of the oldest Chevrolet agencies in the state, and has been built to a firm of much importance in the local automotive field from a modest beginning of a few car sales per year. Mr. Polk is a keen business man, and a Chevrolet booster second to none. Proceeding on the theory that one must become sold on his own goods before he can sell them to prospects, he has become generally known as one of Clanton's real business successes. Now, as to next week's Who's Who; we will be writing of Mr. Joseph Hance Alred, of Alred Drug Company. —Man in the Moon.

PRACTICAL PATRIOTISM—

All goods of foreign origin are runious competitors with Canadian goods of the same character, and the money we pay for them has enriched the work and trade of foreigners to the detriment of the worker, the merchant and the industrialist of Canada. To remedy this state of affairs, there is only one practical thing to do: to show a preference for our own goods and to demand them instead of goods from foreign countries. Canadian women can do a great deal in this respect. It is they, above all, who control our purchases. Once their patriotism has been directed into these channels, it will be a very great benefit to the country.—La Presse, Montreal.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

The hypocricy and buck passing tendencies of some of the European diplomatic poker players, supposedly gathered in Geneva to help the disarmament movement, was exemplified again recently in the outburst of Premier Andre Tardieu, of Fronce, against the proposals of Hugh S. Gibson, the American representative, that the disarmament conference get down to business by outlawing some of the aggressive weapons of war. Thus suggestion of Mr. Gibson was made evidently on the theory that the way to get something done was to do something, and that such a proposal would be practicable now that all nations have agreed to eschew aggressive warfare.

In his reply M. Tardieu is said to have pounded the table and grown red in the face, declaring it was useless to prohibit big cannon, great tanks and other implements of offensive warfare because the scientists of the various countries would then invent pocket cannon to replace the big guns, and so on; and it is useless to try to save money by abolishing certain kinds of implements of war because the money would then be expended in developing other implements.

If this is the true situation in Europe, then there is little use to talk about limitation of armament and all the efforts of our own government for disarmament have been in vain. Perhaps the best thing to be gathered from M. Tardieu's outburst is that the people of Europe are not so anxious for peace as some of our own verdent pacifists would have us believe.

Tardieu's remedy is to make the League of Nations a real super-state, give it big offensive armament and let it enforce the peace. Under this method the United States, in case war broke out between Italy and France, would be obliged to accept the League's judgment as to which side to join and then to furnish its full quota of men, money and ammunition for the picnic. The plan is of course a very good one from M. Tardieu's standpoint owing to the fact that France, through its allies in Europe, dominates the League and the World Court and would have the power and pleasure of designating just which side we should join in case of trouble.

It is to be hoped that some steps for just and efficient limitation can be taken at Genext but it is becoming more and more doubtful whether anything of the kind can be accomplished.

Maybe some of the European nations could be induced to junk a few rusty cannon if Uncle Sam will agree to cancel the war debts, join the League of Nations and furnish plenty of men and money in case trouble breaks out on the dark and bloody continent.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

Henry Ford, School Trustee

Among the many things I have tried to do around Clanton in the past few years, one of them is to serve as a school trustee. I had come to look upon it as quite a thankless job. Some of my fellow-citizens think I am a flat tire, so far as a trustee goes. Well, I should worry. It will not be long until my term of office is out, and I will be glad of it. But what I was going to say is I notice in the papers Henry Ford is a school trustee in his home town of Dearborn, Michigan, and will be a candidate for reelection. That ought to be some inspiration to us little fellows who try to serve as trustees.

Tom's Latest Distinction

Tom Heflin may never sit in the United States Senate as a member again. They have him on the outside looking in now. But he got back in for two hours one day this week and made a two-hour speech. Such a thing is of such importance as news for the papers to put it on the front page. It does not happen once in a coon's age that a private citizen is accorded the right to speak on the floor of the United States Senate when that body is in session. Of course, it is supposed that Tom told them plenty about the election conditions in Alabama.

First Aid for the Boy Scouts

The program of Boy Scout work in Chilton County needs some money. I haven't any money; but I am going to scrape up a little bit and give to this most worthy cause. After I saw the way the Scouts did their bit in the recent storm disaster here, I was convinced. One morning right after the storm our hospitals were full of injured folks. An old man hobbled into Stapp's office, pushed through the crowd, and set a bucket of eggs on the desk. "Here are some eggs," he said, "I thought they might come in handy for the injured folks in the hospital." Stapp turned half around and bumped into a scout whose hand was already on the bail of the bucket. "To the hospital," he instructed, and away the uniformed lad went. It was so all through the trying times that followed this great calamity. If we can possibly help the scouts with any financial aid, we certainly ought to do it now.

Rebuilding Storm Damage

I heard today that the Red Cross has already authorized between eighteen and twenty thousand dollars to be used in permanent replacement of farm buildings and livestock destroyed by the recent storms in Chilton County. What a marvelous blessing is the Red Cross, I thought again. Where else could the folks who lost their property look to get so much valuable assistance in putting their buildings back? After what we have seen that the Red Cross will do and how they do it. There should not be less than a thousand regular contributing members of that organization in Chilton County every year from now on.

Down IN My Storm Pit

Together with 14, 989 (by actual count) other citizens of Chilton, I spent a portion of Monday night in a storm pit. I can't say whether the thing will keep us safely through a cyclone or not. The only way to find out is to try it when it comes along, which I hope I never do. But I have already found out that it is good for that nervous uneasy feeling that seizes a fellow at certain. Uncle Bill Wilson's old negro, Bob, indulged in considerable criticism of the way I built my pit. There were new things about it every day that didn't suit him at all. But it suited him all right Monday night. He was apparently very much dee-lighted when I opened the door and told him to come in.

Come to The Picture Show

The American Legion invites everybody to attend the picture show at the Wadesonian Theatre next Monday and Tuesday nights. A special picture "The Lost Squadron," has been selected, together with some side show features like crazy-kats "or sumpun." A picture of last year's National Legion Convention at Detroit will be shown for the special benefit of the ex-soldiers. If the Legion makes any money out of this program above expenses, it will be used to help carry on the relief activities which the boys are doing in the storm-stricken areas of Chilton County. You will enjoy the program, and you will be helping out a worthy cause. Come.

POOR OR

MARSHAL PETERS KILLED HIMSELF

Suicide Last Tuesday Evening at the Home of Newt Wyatt near Providence, Beat 16

Marshal Peters, age 21, son of Robert Peters, killed himself last Thursday evening about 6 o'clock. He used a shot gun to end his own life, near the home of his father-in-law, Newt Wyatt.

At the investigation made by Coroner J. Mell Martin, it was stated that Peters and his wife had been having domestic troubles. They had separated and he had told her to go back to her father's home. Robert Peters, father of Marshal, had carried the young wife back to Wyatt's home. Marshal is presumed to have secured a shot gun and gone to the Wyatt home with a purpose of killing his wife and father and father-in-law, as it was known he had already threatened to kill them.

Failing in his attempt to kill them, he is supposed to have suddenly determined to get out of it all by ending his own life. The coroner's verdict was suicide.

The dead man is survived by his wife, Katie Wyatt Peters, and one child; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peters; three brothers, and one sister.

He was buried at Providence last Friday.

NEGRO JUMPED TO HIS DEATH

Stepped from Truck and was Instantly Killed by Automobile of Ernest Arant Wednesday.

Wyman Peoples, negro, age 21, of Thorsby, stepped from a truck last Wednesday night, and before he hit the ground he was struck by a passing automobile and knocked into eternity. The accident happened about 11 o'clock on the highway near the Reynolds swimming pool. Investigation by Coroner Mell Martin revealed the circumstances of the case as follows:

The negro had helped unload a motor terminal transport truck at Thorsby for a ride to the swimming pool. He was on the fender of the truck. When he got to the place he wanted to get off, the truck slowed down and the negro jumped off.

Ernest Arant of Clanton was coming south behind the truck in his car. When the truck slowed down he drove past it just as the negro stepped off into the highway. The car struck the negro and killed him instantly. Arant lost control of his car and it turned over in the road directly in front of the truck. The verdict of the coroner was "unavoidable accident," with no blame against Arant.

The truck on which the negro was riding was drivtn by Elma Graydon of Montgomery. The negro, Wyman Peoples, had been a worker for Akins Collins at Thorsby for several years, and was recognized as one of the best negroes in the community.

FIRST AID FOR SCOUTS

Our Scouts Gave First Aid When We Needed Them

Now Let Us Give Them First Aid

We all know the fine work our Scouts performed in the recent disasters in our County. Some of them have records of over 200 hours on duty.

On May 6th they gather at Auburn in the annual Jamboree. June 4th the summer camp opens.

Executive service has been given freely, but we want to pay as we go. Council service which trains the Boy Scouts costs very little—$350 of a budget of $3,900. We owe $200 yet, and your chairman will be expected to make his final report May 6th.

If you are financially able to do so, we appeal to you to contribute something to this worthy cause. Money invested in Boy Scouts will bring a great return of future service to your community.

Mail this coupon with your contribution to C. E. Stapp, Clanton.

I hereby contribute $..... to Boy Scout or Girl Scout work in Chilton County.

Strawberries Being Shippe In Carloads

Four Car Loads have Already Been Shipped from Clanton and 1,679 Crates from Thorsby

Mr. J. N. Dennis reports that strawberry shipments from Clanton have begun to move daily. Last Saturday the first car shipped contained 419 crates. Two cars went out Monday containing 326 and 420 crates. One car was shipped Tuesday containing 315 crates.

Prior to the beginning of car shipments, many crates were sold locally last week, netting the growers $2.95 to $3.09 a crate.

The rains of this week will help out the production of berries in this county, and it is expected that shipping will be in a rush from both Clanton and Thorsby for several days now.

IF YOU LIVE IN GLASS HOUSES DO NOT THOW STONES

I appeal to our voters to rseent some things seen and heard relative to political matters in our county.

The leading editorial in the Chilton County News of last week is not worthy of consideration by any self-respecting citizen of our county.

Why is it that we can not be broad enough to be courteous and not continue to appeal to race prejudice and ignorance in an effort to win?

I ask the editor to read the recent Sunday speech of Jouet Shouse, National Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, appealing to the negroes in Washington, and see if he wishes to "throw stones."—J. N. Dennis, Chairman Chilton County Republican Executive Committee.

MR. L. H. BEAN WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your paper to say just a few words to the voters of this county.

Election day is close to hand and I have not seen all the voters but it would have been a great pleasure to me to have met you all before election, and told you just how I stood.

As I have said before, I am a life-long Republican. I have given 29 years of active service to the Republican party. I do not mean to boast about this, as it was my duty as a Republican to stand by my party in all things that was just and fair. Now I want to ask the good people of this county to give me the treasurers office of Chilton County, one term. I have never had the pleasure of holding a county office.

If I am elected Treasurer I will arrange the business of my office in such a way that people getting warrants at the probate office can go directly to the bank and get them cashed, and will not have to worry about hunting me up. The warrants will be registered anl ready when they are released at the probate office. I belivee this arrangement will be a great convenience to the people. Mrs. Robert P ereth;etrselhomc'BMo

And in conclusion I want to say that each of my opponents have had this office. I feel that my claim is just and fair. So remember me on May the 3rd.—L. H. Bean.

REFUGE

There were nearly one hundred at Sunday school last Sunday; and we hope the number will continue to increase.

Our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, delivered three wonderful sermons Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night. There was a large crowd present on Sunday, including a number of visitors, whom we were glad to have.

Everybody enjoyed the B. Y. B. U. program Sunday night.

Dr. L. E. Barton will speak at this place Sunday morning at 11. We hope to have a large crowd, for we are expecting to hear something worth while.

We had a fine rain the first of this week, for which we are very thonkful.

It Was Not in The Night, Mr. Easterling

Johnnie Easterling says he would like to know who solicited Mack Wyatt to run for Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County.

First, I will tell you, Johnnie, it was not in the nighttime when the solicitation came to me.

Second, it was not one man (Judge Reynolds) who put me in the race, as you seem to wish to infer in your letter in this week's Union-Banner.

Now, for the information of those who were not present at Concord Schoolhouse a few nights ago, I will say that Johnnie admitted publicly that one man, Mr. W. H. Gillespie, is responsible for him (Johnnie) being a candidate for member of the Republican Executive Committee in Beat 4.

To The Republican Voters Of Chilton County

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

I am asking you to elect me as your chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, not because I want to or expect to run the affairs of your party—but because I want to GIVE BACK to the Republicans of Chilton County their inherent rights to run their party affairs themselves.

If elected, I will serve the party the best I can. If my opponent is elected, I will still do the best I can as a Republican in the ranks of the party to keep our political affairs in the hands of the people.—W. M. Wyatt.

Piecemeal?

Trying to raise pullets on grain and what they can rustle for themselves is like the story of an Irishman who was raising a big rumpus in his back yard. His neighbors found him cutting off the tail of his pup. Instead of bobbing it off all at once, he was cutting it off a small piece at a time so it wouldn't hurt the pup so much.

"To get pullets into laying costs practically the same in the end whether your pullets get grain and what they can pick up or grain and a high quality growing mash," says C. S. Johnson, head of the poultry department of Purina Mills. "In one case it takes eight months of feeding to get a pullet ready to lay and in the other, five. The added cost of feeding those extra three months just about offsets the cost of feeding a good growing mash.

"Why let pullets drag it out and lose those fall eggs," questions Mr. Johnson. "Why prolong the dog's pain by cutting his tail off a piece at a time?"

LETTER FROM JESSE BAKER

To the voters of Chilton County.

Since announcing for County Treasurer I have made it a point to see every one I could, but there will be several I can not see.

For your information, I wish to state that I was your treasurer for two years in 1923 and 1924. I paid every claim that was presented and was checked by three examinres, and had a perfect record. Now, I happen to know the record of every treasurer from Alex G. Dake on down to the present, and they were all good. In fact, there is nothing complicated about the treasurer's office, and the county has nothing to lose on account of the action of any treasurer, because if a treasurer does anything that is not legal the official or the bondsmen will have to make it good.

But again referring to the record, as before stated, I paid all claims as presented and did not have one single act criticized by any examiner. It was not necessary for me to write the attorney general for his opinion on anything which would have caused a claim to be held up. Neither did I have to consult an attorney.

Now, as everyone who has claims on the county knows, when you get your claims from the Probate office, you have got to go upstairs and get your warrant registered. When I was treasurer two years I obtained the warrant book as soon as it was ready and registered every claim at once so that when the warrants were called for at the Probate office the party receiving the warrant did not have to come to see me at all. If elected I will do the same thing again and make it as convenient for you as possible.

I wish to state further that I am a 100 per cent Republican and stand for everything in public matters to be done by the public openly and and above board. I believe in giving every voter a chance to say who shall be our officers, from the least to the greatest.

Now, in conclnsion, I want to say if you wish to vote for men who are 100 per cent Republicans and who stand for the public to be informed on all matters pertaining to their affairs, then I invite you to cast your vote for me in the primary May 3. But if you wish otherwise, you will have to vote otherwise—Jesse Baker.

(Paid political adv. by Jesse Baker, Clanton, Alabama.)

J. E. EASTERLING WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

May I have a small space in your paper to speak in a small way to the voters of Chilton County? As some of you know, there has been a campaign of criticism in the speakings by Judge L. H. Reynolds. If you would judge by what he has said, you would have to believe Mr. Dennis, Mr. J. Z. Mims, Mr. W. H. Gilliespie, and Mr. B. Lawrence are the worst persons in the county and next to them would be the committeemen who saw fit to announce in the primary. There are a few people who he can lead about and believe anything he says, but I think this number is small and there is a bigger number who has found him out, and know what his purpose is. There is a rumor in the county that he lost his men last election and he thinks it is coming again.

Mr. L. H. Reynolds said the county is getting in a bad fix if four men run it. It is better for four men to run it than one to run it. I believe there ought to be a change, and I believe there will be, too, in the commissioners court. I think two terms is enough for any man to hold office, the same one. There is few people behind his speakings to reduce tax, but that is to get crowds. He knows the tax ought to be reduced several years ago. Now he is just trying to fool us ignorant folks, he thinks. He wants to defeat C. D. Duke and O. L. Devaughn and J. C. Atchison but I believe there will be a change by the voters of Chilton County. I don't stand for any man to hold an office a life time. If the Judge will set still in the boat, we will carry him to the land safely. He thinks he will criticise these men that are running, and win the race, but he is going to win votes for them every time he makes a speech, I believe by the way the voters talk. I think that L. H. Reynolds ought to keep his mouth shut and any other officer that is in office. I would not open my mouth if I had done what he done last election. Went to Montgomery and had the ticket defeated, he thought, the way he had it fixed, and came back and told Mr. Zeb Mims, when he thought it too late to do anything, that they had failed to qualify, or in effect, sleep over their rights, but they got busy and had it changed the next day when the time come to hear it read out. If I was in his place I would have quit. I would not criticise no man about what he had done. He told folks when they wanted to build the jail at courthouse he had four years longer and he was going to run it.

Mr. L. H. Reynolds thinks everything that is done if they don't see him about it is done behind barred doors. I would like to know who solicited Mr. W. M. Wyatt and Mr. Sam Pate to run for chairman and secretary. Voters look out he will do what he can to defeat the new candidates that are running. He did that two years ago but missed it. He will miss it again if we will just keep our eyes open and do what we know we ought to do and do it like men and not like babies.—Yours for the Republican party, J. E. Easterling.

ERRONEOUS REPORT THAT JIM MITCHELL CAUGHT FOR V. P. L.

Editor Union-Banner:

Through error in a name similar to mine, a report got out a few days ago that I was caught by the officers with whiskey at the river. I wisn to say that I am not the fellow who was caught, although I was at the river fishing at the time. It was through error caused by similiarity in my name and another fellow's name that the report got out.—Jim Mitchell, Clanton Route 2.

MRS. CALLOWAY WRITES

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

As it is only a few days until the primary elevtion, I am taking this means of asking you for your vote and influence. I wish I could have seen every voter personally and asked you for your support, but I promised you when I was running before that I would give the very best service that I possibly could if you would elect me Treasurer, and that is what I have tried to do. When you understand that the annual receipts and disbursements in this office total over a quarter of a million dollars, you can readily see that it would be impossible for me to attend to my official duties and to visit very much. If I have failed to see you, please bear in mind that it was not because I did not want to, but because I felt that I was serving your interest best when I was in the office.

As I have said before, it is customary in our party to give an officer a second term if their work is satisfactory. I feel that mine has been so, because no errors were found in my books by the State Examiner, and I have always regarded the people of Chilton County as being my employers, and have respected them as such. My books have always been an open record to the people, because it is their money which I have in charge, and they have a right to know where and how it is spent.

I am asking you to consider the service I have given, because it is service that you want from your officers. I have never charged you one cent for any letter or paper which I have written for you, because my whole time has belonged to you, and I have given it when you called on me. I am again telling you that if I am elected my entire time will belong to the office, and that it shall be my pleasure to help you anytime I can.

I have always been a loyal Republican. I have never voted anything but a Republican ticket, and I never expect to. I belong to the State Republican organization, and I am always glad to give my time and means to our county Republican organization. I have sat up until two o'clock in the morning writing letters for the party at a time when I was not on the ticket, and I assure you that whether or not I am nominated I will do all I can to help elect the nominees.

In conclusion, I urge you to think the matter over carefully, and I again assure you that I will appreciate your vote for me as treasurer.—Respectfully, Gertrude P. Calloway.

A TEACHER'S MEDITATIONS

I do not teach for money
(I'd be a nervous wreck!)
But it'd make life more sunny
If I could get a check.

I don't teach for compensation,
No "mirror statue" I'd erect;
But it would help the situation
If I could get a check.

I teach merely because I want to,
No one drives me there each day;
But "others" will be delighted, too
When I get my pay!

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF ALABAMA

What do you think of Black's feathered nest in Washington? Not satisfied with his $10,000 salary he puts his wife on the payroll at $2,200 per year and employs his Secretary's wife at $1,800. Do you like the idea of your money being spent for this when you are working hard to feed and clothe your family? It isn't right, is it? A vote for Kilby is a vote to cut out such waste of your money as well as other outrageous extravagances. He is the only business man in the race. Remember how he handled state finances.

POOR OR

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

Elder Blossom Fills His Pintment at The Mt. Giliad Church (Col.)

Ah cant hep but be happy dis mawnin. It seems lak dat all nature is happy, de tres is puttin out an de wile-flowers is bloomin, de birds is chirpin an singin in de trees. De buds on de trees is young. De vegetables is young in de garden, an dar is lots ob young chickens bein hatched out. An de year itssef is young, (not four months ole yit) an so, all ob dat makes me feel young too. How does you all feel? Ah hopes dat evy one ob you feels good, an is jes as happy as you kin be.

De good Lord is jes as good to us as He can be. We complain bout evy thing gwyin rong, an nothin dont suit us. An effen we would jes stop an think bout it, we is gitttin long fine. Ah bound you dat dar is not one single person here dis mawnin dat is hungry. No, we jes got in de habit ob kickin, an we is gwyin to kick, dont mattah how good de Lord is to us. One man tole me las week dat evybody des kicked an grumbled bout de freeze killin their strawberries, an now da has got fine berries an gitten a good price fur um.

Now Ahs gwyin to read you a lesson fum de 27th Chapter of Mat. (reads lesson) Will you stan now an sing us a good song? Let me ax you to sing "Nothin but the Blood of Jesus." (they sing) Now Ah thank you. Set down. Some people thinks dat de water sabes dem, some thinks dat de church sabes dem, an some thinks da is sabed by their own righteousness, but de Bible, as well as dis song teaches, nothin but de blood sabes.

Turn wid me to Hebrews, 9:22, an you will see dat "Without shedding of blood is no remission." De tex fur today is in Matthew 27:25. It reads lak dis, "Then answered all the people and said, His blood be on us, an on our children." In dis chapter, Jesus is on trial for His life. The Jews were determined to kill Him. An when da saw dat Pilate, dat is de governor, seemed to want to favor de Lord, de chief-priests an elders got busy an went among de multitude an begged dem to ask for de relese ob dat notable prisoner, Barabas. Cause de governor couldnt free but one prisoner, an effen he had turned Jesus loose, den Barabas would be killed, an effen he had turned Barabas loose, den Jesus would be killed. So dem priests an elders worked de people up to sich a frenzy dat da yelled out in de language ob mah tex, "Let His blood be on us and on our children," meanin de blood ob Jesus. In Deuteronomy 19:10, God showed de Jews dat He would hole dem accountable for shedin innocent blood.

An when de governor took water an washed His hans to show dat he wuz innocent ob de blood ob Jesus de people wuz ready to shulder de responsibility. An not only dat, but willin fur their children ob future generations to hab de stain ob de innocent blood ob de Lord on dem.

An less Ah should fergit it, Ah wants to sa rite here dat dar is lots ob Fathers an mothers rite here in dis community dat is not only rejectin Jesus an sayin crucify Him, but is teachin their children, by their own example, to do the same thing.

Just a fiew months ago, a man's granson, about 5 years ole sed, "Yes grandaddy wuz gwyin to git a man some home-brew an it wuz dark an he fell in a ditch an scratched his sef all up. An dat chile wuz livin wid his grandaddy. Dat man wuz sayin, by de life dat he wuz livin, let de stain ob spillin de innocent blood ob Jesus be on me an my children an on mah gran-children. Oh mah frin, how can you refuse an reject de Lord atter He has done so much fur you? Evy day, as you go on sinnin, you is sayin in de lowest tones crucify Him, crucify Him, let Him be crucified. Dat multitude, widout any evidence agin Him, clamored for de death ob Jesus. Ob course it wuz necessary for Jesus to die in order fur men to be sabed. But de guilt on dem wuz fur condemning Him on callin fur de death ob an innocent man, but de guilt is on you. Mah sinner frins, your sins is your sins, an de only way fur you to git rid ob your sins is to belebe on Him an accept de atonement dat He made in dat death. De very ones dat caused His death, could hab ben sabed by dat death effen da had only belebed. Evy soul dat goes to hell, will go dar all because da wont belebe. Is you gwyin? Ah am shore you is, effen you dont belebe, for de future welfare ob your soul depends altogether on you takin Jesus as your sabior.

An lissen frien, dar will come a day when you will hab a change ob mind bout dis thing. Dat change may not come while you are livin, but jes the same, its comin. When dat ole moon begins to drip blood, as we reads in de book ob Joel 2:31, an Acts 2:20, which will be a token ob de blood spilt on de cross by Jesus, den your mind will undergo a great change, but it will be too late. Den is when you will cry fur de rocks an mountains to fall on you an hide you fum de Lord, who gib His life's blood to sabe you. De reason Ah sa dat you will hab a change ob mind, is cause dese same chief priests an elders had a change, not dat da belebed an wuz sabed, but da begun to git scared bout whut da had done.

Ah will read you a scripture in Acts 5:28, dat will sho you dat Ah am rite. De las part ob dat verse says, "And intend to bring this man's blood upon us." Sinners, you had better change your mind bout dat thing, an belebe on Jesus while you can, an not wait till its too late. Ah will close now, but Ah will sa dat Ah has agreed to preach on "Sinnin against de holy ghost" next Sunday at Shiloah. All ob you come over dar. When Ah reads mah poem, we will close.

Sin caused Jesus to leave de skies
An come to earth to dwell.
An give His life's blood on de cross,
To sabe mens souls fum hell.

Sin took Jesus to de judgement hall,
Where foes swore lies to condemn.
De governor saw dat he wuz innocent
But had to sentence Him.

Sin put Jesus in de toomb,
But fum de dead He arose.
Comin outen de grave in triumph,
Over death an all His foes.

IN MEMORY OF MR. J. A. POOLE

(Too late for last week)

Death claimed the life of Mr. John A. Poole on March 30, 1932. He died near his old home place, where he was born October 3, 1856. He spent about 65 years of his life on his farm and worked from year to year with patience until tree years ago. Since that time, he was unable to do active work, but was faithful to the end. He was well known throughout Chilton County, not only by his good friends, but by his many helpful good deeds done. He lived through his three-score and ten years also lived to see his fifth generation.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Beedie M. Poole, and five children, one son and four daughters. Mr. E. J. Poole, Tuscaloosa; Mrs. T. A. Garner, Bessemer; Mrs. D. T. Reed, Calera; Mrs. J. L. Abbott and Miss Willie Poole pletcher.

We wish to thank our good friends and neighbors for their kindness and thoughtullness during the death of our father and husband.

Rev. Bently, of Billingsley, conducted the funeral services, at the home. The interment took place at Pilgrims Rest cemetery, with Spigener in charge.

It aint a very good idea to leave your religion in the rack with the hymn book. It's a heap safer rule to take it home with you.

Central Singing Society

The Central Singing Society meets next Sunday afternoon at Concord. The last appointment at this place did not materialize on account of the bad cold weather, so it is hoped that the crowd will be large next Sunday afternoon.

The singing at Friendship last Sunday afternoon was above the average. There were not as many directors present as are sometimes, and the class was not so large, but the singing was good.

All singers are urged to bear the place of meeting next Sunday afternoon in mind, and be there with all the song books you can rake up. The books are scarce, so everybody who has one of your own or one belonging to the society, try to have it at the singing next Sunday afernoon.

FOR VINSON

Dear Voters:

Mr. A. P. Vinson is a good County Commissioner. He knows you after the election just as he did before he was elected and proves it by speaking a kind word.

Why hire a green hand, when you have one that knows how? He does not have to be a commissioner to make a good living, he makes his living by farming. His salary is by no means what you would call a plum.

Mr. Vinson asked you to nominate and elect him, that he may be a servant of the entire county again.

I am not knocking his opponents. If another should be elected, he could learn how just as Mr. Vinson had to do.

I insist that all who are not obligated to some one else, to vote for Mr. Vinson. We need an experienced man more than ever. Because, with this depression on us, we can't afford to put a man in charge of our vast business that is inexperienced.

Mr. Vinson is a sensible and serious thinking man, and has a deep interest at heart for the whole county and everybody. I am going to vote for him and I insist that you think carefully, think what a good useful and efficient business manager we have in Mr. Vinson. Lets hold to him.

Mr. Vinson hasn't yet solicited my vote. Probably won't feel the need to, if he sees this Thursday.

If any one doesn't quite get me clearly, just write me. I do not want to use any more space in this paper just now. Respectfully.—D. T. Patterson, Verbena, Alabama.

If your ribs are sore, don't see "'Sault 'n Batt'ry at Concord next Saturday night. If you like to see and hear funny things, be there at 7:30 p.m.

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

Preaching and conference were held at the church Saturday night, the pastor in charge. No business of great importance came up—only a few matters pertaining to the local business of the church.

Baptizing was held at Hugh Mims pond Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, when one candidate, Juanita Miller, was baptized by the pastor. Before going into the water Rev. Bean read scriptures touching on the ordinance and spoke a few choicely pointed words explaining the Baptist view of emersion. No one could have made it plainer and more impressive in so few words than did Rev. Bean.

Sunday school was held at the church at 10 o'clock. Preaching was held at 11, and there was singing by the Central Singing Society at 2 in the afternoon. Preaching service was held again Sunday night.

"SEED" BROUGHT TO THE SCREEN IS CHALLENGE TO WOMEN IN LOVE

Charles G. Norris' Great Novel, Transcribed to the Films, Proves to Be One of the Best Talking Pictures Ever Produced

A challnege to women in love! That is the absorbing theme of the picture "Seed," filmed from Charles G. Norris' great novel, with John Boles, Genevieve Tobin and Lois Wilson in the leading roles, at the Wadesonian Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, April 27 and 28.

There have been many "triangle" pictures, but never one like this production. It is startling in its sincerity, and the lifelike quality that dominates everything about it—story, players, and direction.

A screen play dealing seriously with domestic problems is always full of interest, if it is well done. And "Seed" is much better than "well done." It is superlative—without doubt one of the best talking pictures ever produced.

And in its unfolding the challenge to women in love, which is its motivating theme, builds up to a great and totally unexpected climax.

The story was adopted from Norris' much-discussed best-seller, and its principal roles are acted by a trio of players whose ability is of a very high order. John Boles is seen as a husband and father whose latent abilities as a writer have been wrecked because he must continually devotes himself to the difficult task of supporting a large family of children. The handsome Boles reveals new powers as a dramatic actor, and proves that he can register a distinct hit in a part that does not call for the use of his singing voice.

Genevieve Tobin gives a magnificent portrayal of the boyhood sweetheart of the would-be writer. She appears ten years after his marriage and stirs his ambition which, under her inspiration, flames into successful creative writing. Then there is the third member of this remarkable trio of players—Lois Wilson, in the role of the author's wife, the mother of his five children. Her performance is a classic of acting—unquestionably the greatest mother-portrayal ever seen on the screen, and utterly natural.

It is the situation between the two women for the love of the man that dominates the action of he story; and in the telling of it, Director John M. Stahl has acheived an extraordinarily dramatic and interesting production. It is the finest work this gifted director has yet contributed to the screen, and proves once more that he is a master in the field of domestic problem dramas.

The supporting cast includes Raymond Hackett, Bette Davis, ZaSu Pitts, Francis Dade, Richard Tucker, and a remarkable group of five children who add greatly to the enjoyment of the picture.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulative help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

POOR OR

IN MEMORY

As we stroll through the woodland we discover that an acorn has fallen and has been deposited in the mother earth. It germinates and comes forth and grows, then as it shoots forth its branches it goes up, until it becomes a giant whose branches furnish shade for the beast and bird. It stands the rain, storm, sleet and snow until after a while it has grown to such an enormous size until it becomes useful for other purposes more valuable than shelter for beast and bird.

Man looks on it and decides that he will put it to a better use. He fells it to the ground and manufactures it into lumber, then he dresses it and paints and polishes it to make a beautiful home somewhere.

On January 3, 1861, God planted in this world the life of Bro. C. D. Messer. As the tiny acorn, he was small but he grew up, up, up, until his life and influence became a giant and protection for those he came in contact with.

God called him to a life of usefulness in the gospel ministry. He was fervent in spirit, pious and a power in the pulpit. He stood uncomprisingly against all wrong. He was a good builder and very optimistic in his undertakings. His was a lovable disposition, kind to his loved ones and friends.

About three years ago he was stricken with paralysis and gradually grew worse all the time. He was patient in his affliction, smiled through all his suffering and was submissive to his Master's will until April 19, 1932, at 5:10 p.m. the great monster death cut him down.

He is polished and redeemed and has been placed in that home over on the other shore to be used at his Master's will as long as eternity lasts. We will miss him here, miss his words of encouragement and admonition. We would say to the loved ones not to weep as those that have no hope, for he has gone to the Haven of Rest for the righteous, awaiting the judgment day. Let us strive to live and watch for the light of his spirit as it beckons to us from eternity's shore.

He was laid to rest in the Verbena cemetery, with the Masonic Order in charge.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. P. Morgan of Speigner, Ala., assisted by Rev. T. C. Cassidy of Capitol Heights M. P. church, Montgomery, Ala., and Rev. P. A. Lynch, of Clanton circuit of the M. P. church.

He leaves to mourn, his wife, two sons, Commodore, of Verbena, Mc D., of Birmingham and two stepsons, Prof. Cleve Weldon and Oliver Weldon and Mrs. Mollie Ray of Tuscaloosa, besides his grand chuldren, and a host of friends and relatives. The Spigener Funeral Directors were in charge of arrangements.—Rev. P. A. Lynch.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Prince and son, Wilbur, were the week end guests of Mrs. Sallie Prince, of Alexander City.

FALIN HOME STRUCK BY THE LIGHTNING

The home of George Falin, who lives at the old John Farley place near Clanton, was struck by lightning Monday night.

It was thought that the bolt entered the house by way of the electric light wires. A radio was torn all to pieces. A window was broken out, the ceiling of one room was riddled and the wall paper was scorched.

A son of Mr. Falin, about 18 years of age, was seriously shocked. He was rendered unconscious and almost paralyzed.

Mrs. Earl Gore is spending this week in Birmingham with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Busby.

INDORSES DENNIS AND MIMS FOR PARTY EXECUTIVES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to the coming primary.

Now, as our primary is near, I would like to say to the dear voters of the county to stand by the Executive Committee in endorsing Mr. J. N. Dennis for chairman and Mr. J. Z. Mims for secretary.

It appears to me that some of the leading men of the county seem to think that the committee has committed a crime by endorsing Mr. Dennis as chairman and Mr. Mims as secretary. Now, if they have committed a crime, was it not known at the time of the meeting? So why brand Mr. Dennis and Mr. Mims as traitors of the Republican party of which I am a loyal supporter.

Dear voters, are we going to stand by the committee and the party or are we going to be led about by the few?

People, let us go to the polls on May 3rd, and vote our honest convictions and not be driven about like chaff before the wind. I long to see the time in Chilton County when the voters can go to the polls and vote without being molested by the few before the primary.—Yours for the success of the Republican party, R. J. Jackson.

ERROR IN J. L. SMITH LETTER

In the article of J. L. Smith, published in last week's Union-Banner, the type-setter made Mr. Smith say: "I am in favor of tearing up any more of our community schools." The word "not" should have been inserted, making it read: "I am not in favor of tearing up any more of our community schools."

We are sorry that this error crept into Mr. Smith's letter, however, we feel sure that everyone knew what it meant to say.

RIGINAL

Atchison Makes His Final Appeal

In Behalf of his Race for County Commissioner

Editor Union-Banner:

Please let me have space in your valuable paper to communicate with my friends and supporters and express my deepest appreciation to them for the courtesies shown me during my campaign for commissioner from the Third District.

This is my last chance to write before the primary and I wish to say that I have made a canvass of the County as thorough as possible but there is quite a number whom I have failed to see and I wish to take this means of soliciting your vote and support. It has been the pleasure of my life to meet the people of the county and to receive the great encouragement I have received from the people, even those whom I have never seen before. I am gratified with the fact that my many friends over the county have greatly assisted me in my campaign and this fact I shall always appreciate and hold in fond recollection even though I should never be your commissioner. My endorsement in my district was and is almost unanimous by the Republicans, and it appears that the response to this endorsement has been great in practically every section of the county, and I am not able to command words to express my appreciation for the many kind expressions and the hearty support of my many friends. If elected, I expect to repay my friends with efficient service as commissioner. I will serve the county as a whole, impartially, honestly and with all the courage that is in me, promoting the general welfare of our people. Especially will I be interested in good roads and good schools. I wish to see every man and woman in the county have their tax values properly adjusted in the near future, and if elected I shall do all in my power to see that this is done as near as possible.

I wish to say further that I have never voted anything but a straight Republican ticket and my neighbors know that I have worked earnestly and untiringly for the party ever since I became a qualified elector. I expect to support the nominees of our party in the general election regardless of who is nominated. All our candidates are good men and we cannot make a serious mistake. I am pleading for perfect harmony in our ranks and wish to insist that everyone be loyal and not let anything in reason keep them from going to the polls and voting for the candidate of their choice on May 3rd.

Remember I will appreciate your support and influence as much as any one and it will be my ambition to give you no just cause for you to ever regret doing so. I will be commissioner of my district, if elected, and will not be pulled about by any man or influence but my whole aim will be to give impartial service to every one. I will not be under obligations to any man but to give efficient service.

Wishing much success to the Republican party of Chilton County and the nation, I am.—Yours very truly, J. C. Atchison.

(Paid political adv. by J. C. Atchison, Maplesville, Ala.)

PLEASANT HILL

Everybody who is interested in the church at Pleasant Hill, better known as Blow Grafeyard, is requested to meet there next Friday, April 29th, for the purpose of drawing nails and stacking the lumber.—J. P. Cost.

MR. J. L. BURNETT WRITES

To the Republican voters of Chilton County:

I would just like to express my appreciation to those who have promised me their vote and influence in the election on next Tuesday, and to say to those who are for my opponent that I feel that it is you privilege and regardless of who is nominated next Tuesday, that your verdict will be mine and I will do all I can to assist in the election of your nominee.

I have already outlined in a previous letter some of the accomplishments of the Commissioners Court of which I have been a member for the past four years and I might say that our records show that we have cut expenses wherever possible and have taken the road tax off of the people of the county and if nomipated and elected, it will be my duty to continue this, as I believe the County is financially able to operate without this tax. I have also gone on record as favoring a material reduction in taxes, as I believe that property values should be reduced in proportion to other property, such as corn and cotton and other things the farmers have to sell and I believe that my experience in office will be of great benefit to me in giving you better service as your county commissioner, if elected.

There has never been, so far as I have known or heard, any speculation or doubt as to my politics, as I have always voted the straight Republican ticket and there will be no question about where I stand upon any political issues that might arise in the future.

I might say that I do not favor any two or three men selecting the members of the committee, which will control the affairs of our party, but I believe that these should be elected by the people and if I am elected I will do all in my power to let the majority of the people control and rule in all matters and to keep our party in the hands of the majority.

In conclusion I want to again thank all my supporters for their vote and influence and urge you to go to the polls and vote and then when it is over next Tuesday, regardless of who is the choice, let's elect him in the next general election.——Yours very truly, J. L. Burnett.

REPORT OF COUNTY BOARD OF REVIEW OPEN FOR INSPECTION

The State of Alabama,

(Section 158, of 1923 Revenue Act.)

AKINS I. COLLINS,

REYNOLDS LETTER

some of them at night, without letting the people know anything about it, fifty-seven days ago, and voter after voter has begged through the Union-Banner, and the Union-Banner has urged them to explain their action, and they have not said one word. They have absolutely refused to explain the matter at all.

I want to ask the Republican voters one question. Have we such a close secret organization in our party that a few men can get behind closed doors at night and pick out our party officials without explanation to the people whatever?

I believe every voter has a right to know what each candidate stands for when running for an office, and I believe every Republican voter in the county has a right to run for office if they want to, and it is my opinion that secret politics is dangerous because designing persons can slander candidates and misrepresent facts by taking their friends behind closed doors and make charges that they know are not true. Records of the Commissioners Court are being maligned in secret and behind closed doors, which they would not dare put in newspapers or come out before the people and make such accusations.

The people of this county have requested several public meetings. May I ask you this question? Why are not certain candidates at these meetings? The only answer to this question is that they have made certain statements that they cannot prove, and they are afraid to face the public. Many of them were at public meetings four years ago and they believed then in an open campaign. What has brought about the change? I leave the people to answer.

There has been some denial about a letter I have been reading, signed by L. F. Gerald. I publish this letter.

Clanton, Ala., January 1, 1930.
Mr. John A. Dickinson
Prattville, Alabama
Dear Sir:

Referring to your letter of December 31st, advising me that you are a candidate for State Senate from the Fifteenth District, I beg to advise that I do not know at this time what I would be willing to do relative thereto, but there is one question that I wish to ask you, and I wish to ask for a direct answer from you on it.

Would you favor and support whole-heartedly with all your ability a local act abolishing the Commissioners Court of Chilton County, Alabama, and providing for the establishing of a Board of Revenue, the initial members of which were to be appointed by the governor, and thereafter said members be elected from five districts of this county?

Further, would you whole-heartedly support and press a bill to provide for the election of School Board members from this county by Districts?

Further, would you whole-heartedly press and support a local bill to abolish the office of county treasurer of Chilton County, Alabama and put us on the same basis as the other counties of the state?

Of course I am asking these questions assuming that the Democratic Committee of this County would favor the same. After receiving your reply relative to the above I can determine what attitude I would take towards your candidacy. — Yours very truly, L. F. Gerald.

I say to the Republican voters that Gerald has taken every advantage of the Republicans of this county to destroy their party by trying to legislate officers out of office that had been elected by the people, without bringing any charge against the officers whatever, except that they were Republicans.

It is common knowledge that some or all of the four men mentioned above have advised with Lawrence F. Gerald, pertaining to matters vital to the Republican party of Chilton County, and I leave it to the honest Republicans to answer whether they think the advice Gerald has given them was for the good or harm of the Republican party. There are other Democratic lawyers in Clanton who refused to help Gerald legislate Republicans out of office, and if these men did not want to advise with Republican lawyers, why should Gerald be selected unamiously.

I wish to publish a letter from Jean Wyatt which explains itself:

Clanton, Ala., March 8, 1932.
Joudge L. H. Reynolds
Clanton, Alabama
Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter of even date regarding the announcement made by myself for membership of the County Republican Executive Committee, will say that the reason I announced is this:

About 9 o'clock on the night of March 1st, Sheriff W. H. Gillespie called me over the phone and told me that I was about to overlook something very important, and that he would come down to my house and see me about it. I had no idea what he wanted until he arrived a few minutes later and asked me if I had filed my announcement for member of the Executive Committee. I told him that I had not, and did not think that I would have to file it. Sheriff told me that he did not know it either until a short while before, but that he has looked up the law and had become convinced that in order for anybody to become a member of the committee it would be necessary for them to file their announcement with the chairman of the committee and with the probate judge, just the same as if he were running for any county office.

Mr. Gillespie had two forms, one for the Chairman of the Committee and one for the Probate Judge. He asked me to sign the one for the Chairman of the Committee and that he would bring it to Mr. Dennis then, as the same had to be done on March 1st, which was that day. He explained that I could file the other with the Probate Judge anytime within the next few days. I kept that blank and filed it with Judge Reynolds on March 3rd.

In conversation with me, Sheriff Gillespie said he had driven 150 miles that day seeing the other members of the Committee and getting them to file their announcement before it was too late by law. Hoping that the above is the information you desire, I am, Yours very truly, T. E. Wyatt.

You will note that W. H. Gillespie waited until 9 o'clock at night to notify Jean of the wonderful idea that he had discovered. He waited to be sure that this matter would not get out, and he waited until the last day they could announce to tell him, and yet, Jean's office is just across a ten foot alley from Gillespie's house, and nearest committeeman nthere was to him, and the first one he could have spoken to about this matter.

Mack Wyatt works just ten feet from Sheriff Gillespie's house. Percy Pitts had been elected by the people in Beat 4-2 as committeeman. Tom Littlejohn was here in Clanton, and yet Gillespie secretely picked out his brother, J. H. Gillespie, and put him on the ticket in Beat 4-2, with the understanding that nobody else could get on the ticket for us to vote for, and all these charges have been made public, and many more, and yet they will make no explanation.

I hope every Republican that wants light on this question will come to the Courthouse Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. I think I can explain some matters to them.

I have always advocated nominating and electing men to office who have been true to our party and voted the straight ticket. I have always opposed nominating and electing any man who has not voted our ticket straight and who has not honestly supported our ticket. There are men in office today who I opposed in the primary, because they had not voted the straight ticket, and in my opinion were not worthy to be nominated, but after these men were nominated, regardless of my personal opinion, I voted for all of them in the general election. I am now charging that this same influence of not supporting our party whole-heartedly has again crept up in our party and is causing serious trouble. We are soon to have another election, and I believe it is my duty, being that this is a primary, to again warn you of this same influence and of this same secret work. Just a few more years and just a few more officers who are not faithful to our party and I believe the end is near for the Republican party in Chilton county. There are, I am sure, some who will say that I am biased in my opinion, and I will admit to them that I am biased in a political way against any man who is not true to his party. It is a serious and important matter and a critical moment, in my opinion, for our party. It may be that there are those who are getting counsel from a long standing enemy of the Republican party—thinking that they are honest—but I believe their action and movements are more steps toward sending the Republican party to its ultimate defeat in Chilton county, if we do not change. To say that one man of four men (and at least two of them being counseled by an attorney of the Democratic faith and a long standing enemy of the Republican party) have the tyrannical right to select the forty Committeemen, who will control and mold and change the policy and destiny of our party is but to eventually turn our party into the hands of the enemy. To say that I am prejudiced in giving our people those facts, and I say that they are facts undenied, then I admit the accusation, but to be prejudiced against them is for the good of our party.

The matter is in your hands. If it is your will that this continue, then it is mine, and whatever the verdict of a majority of our party is next Tuesday, and in the run-off primary, then you will find me, as usual, on the stump and giving my time and means trying to elect whomsoever you may see fit to place in the leadership of our party.—Yours truly, L. H. Reynolds.

Folks are very much like furniture. Their real composition is not known generally till some flood of misfortune peels off the veneer. One may wish then that folks would wear a good deal of veneer—like furniture.

"THE LOST SQUADRON"

Picture Show Program at Wadesonian Next Monday and Tuesday Nights will be Sponsored by American Legion Post Of Chilton County.

The Chilton County Post of the American Legion will sponsor a far-famed airplane war picture at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton on Monday and Tuesday nights, and in addition will also show a picture of the National Legion Convention at Detroit last year.

The Legion, through the kindness of Mr. Wade, has worked out a plan whereby the proceeds of this program will be given to the fund for carrying on the relief program for storm sufferers in Chilton County.

The patronage of the public is solicited by the American Legion for this occasion. The soldier boys believe they have selected a program that will be entertaining and worthwhile to everybody, and they also believe they will be doing a good turn to give the money they may make out of the show to the relief of the storm sufferers.

Already the Legion has measured its strength against every opportunity to render service in the relief of the suffering people of this county. As long as there is an opportunity to serve, the boys of the Legion will be on the job.

"The Lost Squadron"

The self-sacrificing brotherhood of men, air thrills galore, spectacular airplane crashes, and a glorious romance are combined in a vivid, dramatic air thriller which constitutes "The Lost Squadron" to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton Monday and Tuesday night of next week, May 2 and 3.

The picture boasts of four great aviation stars in the person of Dick Grace, author and peerless stunt flier; Art Gobel, Hawaiian flight record holder; Babe Green, war ace; and Frank Clark, who made most of the sensational spills and air crashes in "Hell's Angels."

"The Lost Squadron" is a thrilling romantic story which reveals the intimate secrets of movie making in relation to the production of a great air epic.

Richard Dix is the star performer in the picture. Supporting this virile portrayer of he-man roles are the following stellar performers: Mary Astor, one of the most popular actresses of the screen; Erich Von Stroheim, Dorothy Jordan, Joel McCrea, Robert Armstrong, Hugh Herbert.

The film is based on the original story by Dick Grace, author and ace stunter. The vigirous red-blooded characters of the Dick Grace and ace original are etched in shape relief against a blue background of breath-taking sky scenes, tragedy, romance and glamour.

It is correctly asserted that no air picture has ever before assembled such an imposing squadron of dare-devils of the air, nor has picturized so many hair-raising crashes and catastrophies. Responsible for the loops, spirals, spins, banks and thrilling nose dives are Dick Grace, Art Gobel, Frank Clark, Babe Green, and Garland Lincoln, aces all.

"The Legion on Parade"

In connection with the great airplane picture special, there is also on program for next Monday and Tuesday night a two reel picture, "The Legion on Parade," which shows every crook and turn of the thousands of Legionaires who pulled off the big show at the national convention at Detroit last summer. This picture will be of special interest to ex-soldiers as it will give them a slant on what takes place at the annual convention when thousands of the boys from all parts of the country get together for the big whoopee.

The regular prices of admission at the Wadesonian Theatre will be maintained for this special program, and remember the American Legion is expecting you to attend. Don't forget it.

AMERICAN LEGION MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Legion Post will be held Monday night, May 2nd. Commander Woodson states that the business will be disposed of in time to allow everybody to see the picture show. All members are requested to come early. The meeting will begin at 7:00 o'clock sharp and adjourn at 7:30.

Three managers have been appointed to hold the election for each school. Ballots have been printed bearing the names of the persons nominated for trustees at each place. DR. O. C. CARMICHAEL TO DELIVER THE BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS

The Chilton County High School is pleased to anncunce that they have been fortunate enough to secure Dr. O. C. Carmichael, president of Alabama College at Montevallo, to deliver the Baccalaureate Address.

This will be Dr. Carmichael's second visit to our school this year. those who heard his address to the P.-T. A. will recall that he is an able and interesting speaker, and that he possess a charming and delightful personality. JUDGE M'CORD TO SPEAK SATURDAY

Will Lecture to Storm Sufferers At Thorsby, May 7 At 7:30 O'clock

A man who is widely known for the inspirational addresses he delivers and the words of wisdom he commands, will speak to the people in the storm stricken sections of Chilton County on next Saturday night, at the high school auditorium in Thorsby, at seven-thirty o'clock. This man is Judge Leon McCord, of Montgomery.

Judge McCord consented to come to Thorsby and deliver a message to the people following requests of citizens here. He was asked to speak twice in the county, once in the afternoon and again that night, but due to the large Sunday School class, the Big Brothers Class, of Montgomery, which he teaches, he will only be able to be here for one engagament at this time.

Thorsby was selected for the occasion due to it's central location in the storm areas. Each man, woman and child, who possibly can, is urged to hear Judge McCord's message, and especially are those people of Thorsby, Jemison, Collins Chapel, Union Grove and Pleasant Grove, urged to hear him. He will bring them a message that will be more than worth the time spent in listening. There will be no charge of admission.

Each family should attend this speaking in a body, and if that is not possible, as many members of a family as possible should be present. Lay everything aside for next Saturday night, urge your neighbors to come to the high school in Thorsby at seven-thirty.

GOWAN FAMILY IN WRECK

The family of Dr. J. E. Gowan, while riding on the highway near the Cordry old mill Sunday about dark, happened to an automobile accident in which their car was badly damaged.

Dr. Gowan, who was driving his car, stated that he saw a car coming meeting him on the highway. The approaching car he said, was wobbling or swaying from one side to the road to the other. He slowed his own car almost to stopping and pulled far to the side of the pavement. However the other car continued to wobble and come toward him, and hit his car with full force.

The other car was driven by a Mr. Miller, who works at the cotton mill in Clanton. He had with him in his car a Mr. and Mrs. Patrick. None of the occupants of either car were hurt to amount to anything. It is stated that the amount of the damage done Dr. Gowan's car was about $175.

The Gowan family were picked up by friends and brought home, and Dr. Gowan remained at the scene until he could get his wrecked car towed in home.

SENIOR CLASS OF C. C. H. S. GRADUATES WITH HONORS

Seniors of C. C. H. S. to Graduate In Caps and Gowns

It is very gratifying to state that the Senior Class of 1932 will graduate this time in the traditional cap and gown. This new procedure as a part of their commencement was voted on by them, and they are going to break all former customs of the other senior classes.

The symbolic custom of the cap and gown dates back to remote ages when this divine manner of dress was worn by the greatest of scholars. It represents high scholoraly attainment. In later years men of letters adhere to this expressive distinction.

The senior class will appear in their caps and gowns on two occasions, at the First Methodist Church, commencement sermon day, May 15, 11:00 a.m. and at the high school auditorium, Tuesday, May 17, 8:00 p.m.

The public is cordially invited and requested to attend these exercises and pay honor and respect due this fine class of young men and women.

Dr. R. L. Bell of Tuskegee To Deliver Commencement Sermon

Dr. R. L. Bell, pastor of First Presbyterian church, Tuskegee, Ala., has been secured to deliver the commencement sermon for the graduating class of 1932 of Chilton County High school. This sermon will be preached in the Methodist Church at 11:00 o'clock on Sunday morning, May 15.

Dr. Bell comes well recommended in every respect and we trust that the friends and patrons of the school and any others who would like to hear a good sermon and enjoy a good program, and at the same time pay homage to a group of young men and young women who are new commencing a career in life, will present Dr. Bell with a large audience.

There will be special music numbers by a combined choir of the local churches.

B. F. DYKES AT SEMINARY

The many friends of Rev. B. F. Dykes in Chilton County, will be interested to learn that he will secure his Master Degree at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, in Louisville, Ky., this week.

The distinguished visitor was shown off to the people of Clanton under the escort of Rabbit Easterling, local comedian.

Curtis Easterling and L. W. Mims tied for the free prize that was given away, and they divided the 25 baby chicks between themselves.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

The Men's Bible class in our church broke all records for two years last Sunday. The men are interested and mean to make their class grow.

Vernie Teel addressed a fine gathering of Young men Sunday morning. Did you know that the men and boys outnumbered the women and girls in Sunday school?

Sunday night at 7:30 Rev. S. U. Turnipseed, a former pastor of our church, will preach for us. We urge you to attend this service. Give him a crowded auditorium.

Sunday morning the pastor will give a message on Mothers Day. If you love your mother be sure to attend church next Sunday. We are urging all our membership to bring one penny for each year of your mothers life, and give it for missions next Sunday. Do this without fail. Honor your mother with a deed of love and sacrifice.

If you are a sinner and want to know the way of life, if you are growing indifferent and want to be stirred with zeal, if you are sad of heart and want comfort, worship with us.

J. RUBE THOMAS BURIED AT PROVIDENCE SUNDAY

J. Rube Thomas, age 80 years, one of the oldest native citizens of Chilton County, died last Saturday at the home of his son, Jim Thomas, in Montgomery. The body was brought to Providence, Beat 16, Sunday, and buried by Diffly. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

Mr. Thomas's wife, who was Nancy Jones, died about ten years ago. He is survived by three sons, George W. Thomas, of Pheonix City, Jim Thomas and Mose Thomas, of Montgomery, and Will Thomas, of Providence. He has two brothers, W. E. Thomas, of Sylacauga, and Rev. Joe Thomas, of Memphis, Tenn. Two other brothers, Jesse Thomas and Rev. Lewis Thomas died some years ago.

Rube Thomas was the son of Mr. George Thomas, a pioneer settler of the eastern part of Chilton County. When a young man he joined the Baptist church at Providence, where he remained a member until his death. He had been living with his son in Montgomery for the past several years.

MR. & MRS. WILL YARBROUGH

On April 3rd the death angel entered the home and carried away the life of Mr. Will Yarbrough. Then on April 24th the Lord sent His angels back to this same home and carried away his dear wife, Mrs. Georgia Yarbraugh. She only survived her husband three weeks to a day, then joined him in that beautiful home where no more suffering and grief must be endured.

This dear father and mother leave to mourn two sons and a number of grand children, and many, many friends. The bodies were buried at Centerpoint.

Two years ago Mr. Yarbrough moved from Centerpoint, Ala., to New Salem community where he made his home, and they proved to be the best of neighbors and friends. Oh, dear friends, how we miss you; though our loss is heaven's gain.—Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Maddox and Family.

BOYS WEEK WAS OBSERVED HERE

Scouts Entertained at Luncheon Given by Local Kiwanis Club

One of the finest meetings held recently by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, took place last Thursday at the regular luncheon hour, when the local club had as it's guests, twenty-three boy scouts from troops in this county. Mitchell Dam, Lay Dam and Clanton were well represented by these boys in full uniform.

This meeting was in observance of Boys' Week, which is being observed over the entire world this week, and was put over right by the boys at the Kiwanis luncheon. Among the guests were John D. Mullins, scout leader of the Clanton troop, Edmund Lakeman, leader of the Lay Dam troop and John J. Sigwald, Scout Executive. John Hollis president of the Kiwanis Club and representatives from the Cub Pack of scouts of Mitchell Dam were present.

Several of the scouts took interesting parts on the program, which they were in charge of, and told of the advantages of training for members of their organization. A brief outline was also given by two scouts, of their activities following the storms in this county, for which they have received national recognition. Kiwanians were urged to give their whole-hearted support to the boy scouts of this county, and this request met with unanimous approval from members of the club.

LETTER CARRIERS DONATE TO THE RED CROSS

At their meeting on the first Wednesday night in April, the Rural Letter Carriers Association of Chilton County, voted that they would not have their annual picnic this year; and instead they determined to donate the cost of the picnic to the Red Cross fund for the relief of the storm sufferers of Chilton County.

In accordance with this action of the letter carriers, Raymond Duffey, secretary of the association, was in Clanton Monday and turned over the money, $21.00 to the Red Cross, and gave out the following as the list of carriers who had part in the contributions:

B. J. Sessions, E. W. Miller, D. D. Easterling, Grady F. Harris, Q. C. Meroney, G. H. Caffey, E. F. Culver, R. L. Duffey, and L. D. Hughes a sub-carrier.

It has been the custom of the letter carriers for many years past to have an annual picnic about the last of May. They will not have it this year, according to the announcement of Mr. Duffey.

RECOLLECTIONS OF A BUS DRIVER

Gives Startling Figures On What A School Bus Driver Does

Some facts and figures given to The Union-Banner by a man who drives a school bus in Chilton county, reveals something of what a life such an occupation may be.

This man, whose name is withheld at his request, kept a close tab on his activities for the six and a half months of school which recently closed. These figures make an interesting little story when one takes time to think just what all them mean.

The period covered 130 days of operation of the bus, with a total of 6,500 miles traveled. He loaded and unloaded 780 times; crossed the railroad 1,040 times; drove on and off the paved highway 3,380 times. On the roads to and from school 10,400 stops were made for loading and unloading children.

The total time the bus was operated was 520 hours. Stops were made three times to secure order out of little disturbances that arose among the passengers. The bus was late at school three times.

The daily average number of passengers carried was 173. Only one time did the driver fail to get the children home from school in the afternoon. The bus averaged stopping every five-eighths of a mile, and in traveling made an average of 12 and one-half miles per hour and averaged making a stop every three minutes.

"The best part of the whole business," said the driver, "was about a week after the end of each month."

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

Elder Blossom Fills His Pintment At The Shiloah Church (col.)

Ah announced ovah at Mt. Giliad las Sunday dat Ah would preach on sinnin ginst de Holy Ghost, an Ah axed de people to be here today, an Ah see de house is full. Ah hopes we all can git somethin outten de service, an Ah mought say dat Ah aggreed to use dis subjec by special request. Fust we is gwyn to pray wid brudder Lum Wiggins. His prayer,—"Our dear hebenly Fodder, wee's cum here dis mawnin fur no udder purpus but to washup an serve you, an we ax you to gib de preacher ful swing at de subjec dat he has selected. Course we kno dat you can use him, effen he'll let you, to gib us lite on dis great subjec, so we ax you to gib him a plenty ob your spirit dat he may ritely divide de word ob truth to us all so dat evy one ob us can git his part in dew season. An effen he wants to preach 90 minnets, fix it so dat we wont git tired setten here an lissennin at him.

"Lord dar is so many things dat we wants dat we is shame to ax fur all ob dem, so jest gib us sich as you wants us to hab, and we will be satisfied fur dis time. We ax all ob dis in de name ob our Lord.—Amen."

Ah is now gwyn to read you a part ob de 12 chapter ob Matthew, startin wid verse 22, an endin wid verse 32 (reads lesson). Now let evy body stan and sing. (they sing.) Now be seated. Since de subjec is contained in de 10 verses whut Ah read to you, Ah will use dem fur mah tex. Ah belibe dat all ob you will gree wid me when Ah sa dat dar is more difrunt pinons on dis subjec dan any udder one in de whole Bible. Jes why dis is de case Ah cant understan. De question, "Whut is sinnin ginst de holy ghost," has been answered three ways by three difrunt preachers in mah presence, an two ob dem alike. An de answer dat Ah will gib is difrunt fum eder one ob dem.

Ah am fust gwyn to tell you whut da sed it wuz, an den tell you whut Ah thinks it is. One preacher tole his hearers dat you could commit de unpardonable sin in lots ob ways. An spent bout one hour tellin about all ob de ways, an wound up by sayin dat very few people dese days—an mabe none—ever commits dat awful sin.

De nex one dat Ah heard sed dat it wuz self-murder, an took up all his time tellin bout de difrunt things dat comes up in modern life to cause us to take our own life. Now you no dat both ob dese preachers could not be rite.

De nex one Ah heard wuz hittin lots closer to de answer. An he took up lots ob time tellin how a boy tho raised in a Christian home, could be led off by evil companions. An how he would go frum one sin to another, which led him on an on fudder an fudded away frum God, till atter a while he steps ovah dat line, beyond which de spirit wont go. Den de spirit is withdrawn an conscience is dead. An dat wuz de unpardonable sin. Rite here Ah wants to tell you why Ah sed dat precher wuz hittin at de rite answer. In Genesis 6:3, de Lord sed, "My Spirit shall not always strive with man." An takin dat scripture long wid Matt. 12:43, it does look lak dat de Bible teaches dat a man can go so far away frum God dat his spirit will no longer strive wid him an jes abandon him to his own fate, but remember dat is not committin dat unpardonable sin. His destany wuz sealed an he wuz cut off frum God because he would not hear de callin ob de Gospel an went on in rebellion to God. But let me tell you mah good people, all ob dat can be summed up in jes one word. Whut is dat word? Dat word is unbelief. An Ah want to say dat de majority ob doomed souls in hell wont be dar fur sinnin aginst de Holy Spirit. Dar mite be more dan we think ob dat class. But de greater number will be dar all because of unbelief.

An den we mite sa dat dem whut has committed dat awful sin is unbeleavers also. Cause it is not resonable to spose dat a child ob God would ever be guilty ob dat awful sin. Is you gittin impatient waitin fur de answer? Alrite here it is. Effen you will examine de scriptures dat ah read, you will find jes whut brot forth the words ob our Lord bout dis thing. He had jest cast a devil outten a man, an de ole Pharisees heard bout it, an not being willing to concede all de power to Jesus to cast out devils, da sneeringly sed dat he cast out dat devil by Beilzebub, de prince ob devils. Now did da commit dat sin? Shore da did. How? Here is de answer.

Jesus cast out de devil by de power ob de Holy Ghost. An here comes dem Pharisees, an da sa dat he done it by de power of Beilzebub. Da ascribed de power ob de Holy Ghost to de prince ob devils, or gib de devil credit for de work ob de Holy Ghost. Now rite here Ah wants to sa dat dem folks dat sed dat de devil sent dem awful cyclones to dis and other countys mought be treddin on dangerous groun. Now sinner frin, let me sa to you, effen you aint gwyn to belebe on Jesus now an is gwyn to put it off a while longer, please fur de sake ob your own soul an fur its good hereafter, be careful how you poke fun at God's people. Don't ever be guilty of givin de devil de power dat should be given to de Holy Spirit. In other words, when you see some ob Gods chillun shoutin an praisin God an rejoicin because ob whut he has done fur dem, dont make de great mistake ob sayin dat de devil wuz at de bottom ob it. I'm gwyn to close now, let me sa dat effen any one ob de readers ob de Banner has a difrunt pinion bout dis subjec, jest rite to Elder Blossom in care ob de Union-Banner an gib your scripture for dat pinion.

Now let me read mah poem, cause evybody seems to be lookin fur dat poem at de end ob every sermon.

Mah poor soul wuz lost in sin
An frum God had gone astray,
Den de Holy Spirit come an
Showed me de way.

Now dat spirit leads me on
An Ah follows lak a child,
Belevin dat it is leadin rite an will Take me home after while.

Sinner wont you go wid me?
De invitation is to de lost,
Take Jesus as your Savior an
You will receive de Holy Ghost.

Stan an be dismis.

Weevils can't ruin AN EARLY CROP

IT is not surprising that we have one of the heaviest of all weevil infestations this year. A remarkably mild winter, a late, damp spring, the possibility of a wet summer—this combination of conditions is ideal for the weevil.

What he does to the crop however, depends pretty much on what he finds when he begins to get around in large numbers. If he finds squares, it will be just too bad. But if he finds the crop already set, he'll have plenty to worry about.

The job is to get your crop set just as early as you can. And there is nothing like a Chilean Nitrate side-dressing to do it. Immediate availability, quick action, lasting vigor and vitality—these are reasons why Chilean Nitrate is so valuable, so effective for side-dressing cotton.

Put down 100 pounds per acre (200 pounds would be better) right after chopping. That ought to pull you through this year. But be sure you get Chilean Nitrate. See your dealer now.

MINERAL SPRINGS NEWS

Health in this community is doing better this week. Clarence Gilmore has been very ill with double pneumonia, but we are glad to say he is improving.

Leonard Gilmore is up since having the flu.

Sunday was our regular preaching day. Everybody enjoyed the good sermon by our pastor, Rev. H. D. Durbin.

Mineral Spring people have decided it is better to serve God than the devil. If everybody would serve and put our trust in God I am sure we wouldn't have as many storm pits in the county as we now have. If people would exchange swimming pools, dance halls, pool rooms etc., for the church work, I'm sure the depression would not be so great. We are living for God. How many communities will join us? Let us hear from all that will, in the next week's paper. Just think readers what a glorious place this would be if everybody would follow Christ, the one that died to save us from our sins. We would just as same be in heaven.

In place of going to dances we could have a B. Y. P. U. social, invite all the young folks, and have lots of fun, and then not wake up the next morning with a bad headache, sore feet and a guilty conscience. Dear readers let's all live for God, the one that loves us all.

Miss Delene Durbin spent Saturday night with Misses Lurla and Lala Vinzant.

Miss Myrtle Robinson dined with Miss Myrtle Ashcraft Sunday.

Miss Delen Durbin, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gore dined with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paschal Sunday.

Our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school have been on a drag for the past few months, but we are glad to say that it is getting back normal. We invite any one to come and be with us in either B. Y. P. U. or Sunday school.

Our preaching days are every first and thrid Sundays. We invite all to come. We will assure you that wou will enjoy a good sermon.—A Reader.

Central Singing Society

The society will not meet in regular session next Sunday afternoon, but will take part in the annual May singing at Walnut Creek. All members are urged to attend that singing and bring your books.

The singing Sunday afternoon at Concord was fairly good. The attendance was not as good as might have been, partly on account of a funeral at Providence and the afternoon speaking at Maple Springs.

The third Sunday afternoon the society meets at Maple Springs, and the fourth Sunday we will vacate on account of the annual singing at Providence. Let's not lose interest in the society on account of the all day singings, but when the society does meet, lets all rally to it and keep the good spirit up.

Who is "The Crow?" You can find out by seeing the senior class play. Don't miss it.

MRS. JULIUS HEADLEY

On the morning of April 29th, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Julius Headley and bore away the spirit of his dear loving wife and baby. How sad to think of her departure from us, but how sweet to think of her being at rest in the arms of Jesus. The little baby was only about 24 hours old when its sweet spirit fled to its heavenly home and about 8 hours later its mother gave up her troubles and trials of this world, to rest in peace with Jesus.

Polly was the oldest child of Mr. Ed McGee. She had a hard time from childhood, until her mother died when she was a little girl, only 9 years old, leaving her and her father to take care of three little children. God knew that she had stayed here long enough. He knew that she had completed her task, so He called her to live with him.

To know her was to love her, because she was so humble and good. She always wore a smile and had a kind word for everyone.

Mrs. Headley was laid to rest in the Pleasant Grove cemetery, Saturday at 11 o'clock, with Rev. Stewart conducting the funeral. The flowers and sweet words that were spoken of her showed that everyone loved her. It seemed that her dear husband and father could never bear to see her go, but dear ones, God just needed her more than we did, so he called her to live in the glory world. There she is waiting for daddy husband and baby.

AUBURN STUDENT WINS DISTINCTION IN FRATERNITY

The many friends of Aubrey Taylor have learned with great interest of a signal honor that has been conferred upon him by the members of the Theta Upsilon Omega Fraternity, of which he is a member. He is one of only two members who have been elected to serve for the year 1932-33 on the interfraternity council. He was a member of this council last year, and was re-elected to serve for the coming year.

Selection by the fraternity of its member of the inter fraternity council is made from among students who have attained exceptionally high rating in their college work. He has also been elected recently to serve the office of herald in his own fraternity, this being one of the most important in his fraternity. We congratulate Mr. Taylor upon this worthy distinction he has won for himself.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT BY VERBENA MASONIC LODGE

Dear Brethren: On Monday, March 21, 1932, the sad tidings went forth that our beloved Brother Samuel Henry Smith had departed this earthly life.

For several weeks past the end had been expected but the blow was none the less severe to his family and host of frinds.

The funeral services were held on the afternoon of Tuesday, March 22, 1932, in the Baptist Church of Cooper, Alabama, conducted by Bro. J. D. Hughes, a life-long friend of the family. At the grave the Masonic ritual was conducted by Bro. Q. C. Meroney.

Brother Smith was born in Coosa County, Alabama, July 10, 1860, was married to Miss Lucinda Wilson, in 1878, and to this union were born five sons and five daughters, who survive him. In 1919, his wife having died, he was married to Miss Alice Blalock, who also survives him.

He united in the Methodist Protestant Church at Moores Chapel in Coosa county, Alabama at an early age, and remained a consistent member of this denomination until his death. At the same time of his death his membership was at Walnut Creek church, near Clanton, Ala.

Brother Smith was made a Mason at Buyck Lodge A. F. and A. M. No. 242 in Coosa County, Alabama, November 14th, 1908. Soon after he moved to Chilton County he affiliated with Verbena Lodge A. F. and A M. No. 754 and remained a member until the time of his death.

Now therefore, as God in his alwise providence has seen fit to call our most worthy and beloved brother from his labors on earth to that Lodge Triumphant, be it resolved;

First, that in the death of Brother Smith, this Lodge has lost a faithful and loyal member and this community a valuable citizen.

Second, that our most heartfelt sympathey is hereby extended to his bereaved family and friends, though his face we see no more, we shall cherish his memory.

Third, that a blank page in our record be inscribed in his memory and that a copy of this report be spread on our minutes and a copy thereof be furnished his family under the seal of this Lodge and that a copy be published in our county papers.—Respectfully submitted, J. C. Pattillo, J. S. Hubbard, C. D. Hughes, committee.

IS IT I

A few nights ago the writer was made to recall an incident that occurred in the upper room where Jesus and the disciples had a gathering for a special purpose. Immediately after dark on Monday night, April 17 several cars rolled up in my yard and this question, "Is it I?" came to my mind.

Upon a thorough investigation revealed a number of the Concord B. Y. P. U. class of Concord Baptist church, and a fuller revealation revealing a pounding for this servant.

The following families either came or sent contributions: O. H. McDowell, Gradie Taylor, Leonard Mims, E. E. Plier, John Wells, S. V. Miller, W. L. Mims, Arthur Maddox, Melvin Mims, Clydie Mims. The writer takes this medium to thank each one for their contribution.—M. Lockhart.

Yes Sah, J. P. Jones and Sallye Mahan, as the colored chauffeur and housekeeper, will keep you laughing, in the senior class play.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

The British statement that nothing would be carried in the official budget for war debt payment, and at the same time nothing would be expected from Germany, caused a great deal of discussion in the United States Senate the other day. One of the significant intimations in the British statement was that the matter would be considered after the Lausanne conference in June, at which conference the British, French and Italians expect to get together and iron out the matter of reparations. As Germany has already made announcement that she is making no provision in her budget for the payment of reparations, the outcome is apparently obvious.

It becomes once more evident that the allied nations are making a real effort to link debts and reparations together, although the United States has consistently maintained that the questions are distinct and separate, and so, indeed, they should be. For example, the part of the loan to France which has not been cancelled is for obligations incurred after the armistice was signed. At the time the obligation was made, there was no understanding to the effect that the payment of the obligation depended upon how much money France would get out of Germany in the way of reparations. Germany was not asked to go on the note as security, and it is understood that the obligation was one which had been incurred by France. The same thing holds true of the British and Italian debts.

The final effort to link the debts up with reparations and to cancel the debts when the reparations are cancelled will have quite a little support in the United States from the little body of internationalists which is capable of making a great deal more noise than its numbers warrant. The principal argument of the cancellationists which will be used in this country is not that debts and reparations are tied together but that it will be good business for Uncle Sam to cancel these debts. Just where the good business is to come from is not exactly clear. The internationalists infer that if the debts are cancelled, by some magic process foreign trade will revive and the whole world will become prosperous again. The internationalists will say nothing about the $270,000,000 in the way of additional taxes to be saddled on the American pople because of the default of these debts. At this particular time when busniess in the United States is handicapped by mounting taxes, it certainly does not look like good business to add another $270,000,000 to the burden.

So far no convincing proof has been given of the inability of the allied nations to make payments on their debts. Conditions are on the mend in Great Britain and certainly France is in much better shape now than at the time the debt agreement with her was completed. If there is any revision in her case on the thory of capacity to pay, it certainly ought not to be downward."

As a matter of fact there is no proof that a cancellation of the debts, or rather the transferring of the load to American taxpayers, would help business either here or abroad. Persistent evidence is to the effect that the European nations will continue to spend all their available money in preparing for the next war, no matter whether the debts are cancelled or not. As Senator Reed well said in the senate the other day:

"At one time we made a reduction of those debts on the argument that it was in the interest of a financial and economic betterment of world conditions. The argument was advanced that the reduction was necessary to the economic and financial progress and recovery of the world.

"But while we made a reduction, and a very large one, the recovery did not take place. The improvement was not at hand. It was for the reason that the policies and programs of Europe made it possible for recovery to he had."

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

Mother. We see her sitting on the front steps of an humble home. The twilight of a setting sun is falling upon her face. In her arms there is a cooing babe and upon her lips there is one of the sweet songs of Zion. Listen Oh earth, listen ye angels in heaven, she is singing, "Jesus lover of my soul, let me to thy bosom fly." Over the hill there is a whip-poor-will singing his song, "Chip fell out of the Whiteoak." From the fowl house comes the farewell song of the yard cockerel, while the distant tap and double tap of the approaching cow bell can be heard. The sound of steps and clanking chains tell of the approach of a young husband as the day's work is over. It is grand to stand a few feet away and look into the face of that mother. She is the goddess of love. In her calm, trustful soul there is a bit of heaven on earth. We lift our hat to her as the mother of our baby.

Mother. We see her moving about the room, the house and the yard. There is much stir and bustle in the home that was once so quiet. There are the vaices of childhood in frolic and fun. There is the bark of the dog, the bellow of the yearling and the bleat of the goat. All about the place nothing seems poetical. Rarely ever do we hear a song. From early morn until late at night there are rapid footsteps, and sometimes we hear a sound of irritation and impatience. It is a time when floors must be swept, beds must be made, food must be prepared, garments must be mended and bleeding fingers must be bound. It is a time when the heart is in the heel and in the finger tips. It is wonderful to see that mother moving among her own. Childcling with a strong grip to her fingers and they continually trample over her toes. Night and day they are a burden to carry and only a heart of steel can refuse to break under the load. We life our hat to the one who never sleeps soundly for she is the mother of our children.

Mother. We see her as she comes into the full development of womanhood. On her head there are silver threads among the gold. No longer does she move with such haste. On her face there are lines of hardships borne and of burdens carried. In her eyes there are visions of hope and life. Her hands are a bit calloused from hard service, and her form is not so erect as it once was. About her home we see the coming and going of young men and women. They have come up by the way of her heart and hands, and now they are living in her home and heart. There are more tears in that home than ever before. The trunk is packed and a college student is embraced in a farewell belssing. Wedding roses are banked and a sad, but a beautiful woman stands just within the door. There are more prayers in that home than ever before. We do not claim to know why, but the lips that sang, "Jesus lover of my soul," are now singing, "Sweet hour of prayer." It is mysterious to look upon the mother and see her as she pushes her own flesh and blood out on the sea of life. Le lift our hats to her for she is the mother of our manhood and womanhood.

Mother. We see her as she is alone in the home. The birds of her nest have gone away and now they are singing the mating song under other skies. The husband is in the field or in his place of business, and we see this lonely mother as she sits at the window and waits for the letter. With her fingers she may be darning torn places, but in her thoughts and prayers she is paddling the path of her own with love and motherly concern. Her heart strings run out to the four corners of the earth, and she sits and dreams and prays. Once her children trampled upon her toes but now they are tramping upon her heart. No longer does she risk her voice to sing, but in a hum of the soul she is singing, "How firm a foundation ye saints of the Lord." It is sublime to see her sitting in the old rocker and to listen to her as she talks of the long ago. We lift our hats to her for she is the mother of our souls.

Mother. We see her upon her dying bed. The years have passed over her hair and made it as white as the snow. The years have passed over her face and made it thin and wrinkly. The years have passed over her feet and they can no longer go. The years have passed over her hands and they can no longer handle the tools of service. The years have passed over her eyes and they can no longer see. The years have passed over her soul and now it is too good for this world. The apple is ripe on the tree and it must fall to earth. Pick and shovel made a gash on the breast of the earth and into that trench we poar our tears. We cover the tomb over with flowers. There we bow our spirits and uncover our heads for we are before the mothers of men.

Mother. We see her up in heaven. No wrinkles on her brow, no tears in her eyes, no pains in her body, no more heart strings to be broken. In her hand there is the harp, on her lips there are the songs of Moses and the Lamb and on her head there is the crown of life. She is sitting there by the window looking for the coming of her children into that land where the weary are at rest. Some day may we not meet our mothers in heaven then we will lift our hats to her and say with Lincoln, "All I am, I owe it to my angel mother." Then we will know that God could not be everywhere and therefore He created mothers. On Mothers Day we do honor to all the mothers of men.

Banking Up

If you will remember, we had an article last week which dealt with the Democratic party's usual lack of any kind of constructive platform upon which to base their appeal for leadership. Now, I am not a seer or a prophet; I am only human, and so I couldn't help but rejoice last Thursday night when I tuned in on a big Democratic speech, and heard the above named article and statement absolutely proved without doubt. I imagine I felt just about like the prophet did when he called down fire out of heaven to consume his sacrifice in the presence of the prophets of Baal, while those prophets couldn't get Baal to prove their statements that he would likewise consume their offering to him. And it makes my proof that much stronger to have it come from the lips of Mrs. Norton, a Democratic speaker of national prominence. You remember, I said that Democrats never have a platform of their own; they run on the alleged weak points of Republicans. That characteristic, dyed-in-the-wool Democratic editorial in the Chilton County News week before last proved that statement. And then, in her speech, Mrs. Norton started in with the alleged lax manner in which Mr. Hoover has handled our affairs, and came on down the line; she mentioned the long bread and soup lines, but didn't mention how the Democrats proposed to end them; she deplored the great unemployment situation, but not a word on how the Democrats expected to put these workers on a regular job; she called to high heaven in condemning of our high taxes, but gave no idea of how Democrats might go lowering them; she scourged the national deficit, but if she has an idea of how it may be wiped out, she didn't mention that. Again I want to ask you the question: "Have you ever heard of the Democrats advancing constructive platforms? Is it in your memory where they ever failed to conduct a campaign, local or national, based on the misdoings of of the Republicans? Remember that, and the next time you hear somebody laying the bad conditions, hard times, etc., to the door of the Republicans, just ask them how to correct these evils. Ask them how the Democrats would have handled matters better. If he gives you a sensible answer, be sure to let me know—I'd like to take a squint at ONE worthwhile Democratic idea, just to see what it would look like. I haven't had that pleasure, so far. And, too, tell him to pass his idea on to his Democratic friends—I know they would enjoy it, because it would break the monotony of having to forever carry on with a chronic case of belly-ache.

Rev. Haskew's Column

If you have not been a regular reader of Rev. Haskew's "Moral Echoes" you should become such, beginning by going back to last week and reading that column in last week's issue of the Union-Banner. I read "Moral Echoes" every week, and want to congratulate Rev. Haskew on his column, but, to me, last week's articles, relative to the recent storm, were his best, so far. Begin reading them. You will find some of them very funny, all of them interesting, and all especially worth while. They are very, very appropriately headed "Moral Echoes."

After The War Is Over

Well, the first skirmish is over for the Republicans. Now, we'll have a little breathing spell, all except those who will be in the run-off primary on June 14. I hope these candidates will see fit to conduct a clean, clear-cut campaign, with no mud slinging and the like. I don't like to hear one Republican running down another. Remember, we're all political brothers, after all, and these scraps within the party should be so conducted that there will be no hold-over which would tend to keep us all from uniting solidly behind the party nominees for the big battle in November. I'll be glad when June 14 is passed. Then we can open up the bombardment in earnest with a target other than our own people to shoot at. In the forthcoming run-off campaign, everything will work fine if our candidates will remember one thing: "Every knock is a boost." It will be the best thing to remember that, because the voters certainly do.

Who's Who—Joseph Hance Alred

Joseph Hance Alred was born near Salem church in east Chilton County, July 7, 1884, the son of Joseph Clark and Angeline (Jones) Alred. His mother was the daughter of Cinclair Jones, who was county commissioner for 30 years, during the time of Judge Callen's administration. J. Hance received his early education at Pleasant Cherry, near his home, later attending Prof. Collier's school in Clanton. In 1905 he took a course at Massey Business College at Montgomery. For some time he worked in Birmingham, in the dry goods business. In 1909 a partnership was formed with his brother, D. C. Alred, and the Alred Drug Company was founded in Clanton. After a time, Dr. T. H. Neighbors bought D. C. Alred's part of Alred Drug Co., and later sold this interest to J. Hance Alred. Mr. Alred married Miss Izora Callen, March 28, 1920; they have two children. After he bought all interest in Alred Drug Co., J. Hance became a registered pharmacist in February 1932. He has retained an interest in Alred Drug Co., "The Home of Quality," ever since its beginning 23 years ago. Alred Drug Company is generally known as one of the best institutions of its kind in central Alabama, due, in part, to the honesty, integrity, and general business ability of Joseph Hance Alred. Next Week's Who's Who will be Dr. Napoleon S. Johnson of Clanton.

Marcus, the Auctioneer

Folks if you missed the cake sale in Clanton last Saturday you missed a lot of fun. That guy—Marvin Marcus—what an auctioneer! There was a time when "Daddy" Fox held the spotlight as auctioneers go, but if Marvin stays around long, Mr. Fox will have to look to his laurels. He sold about 20 cakes before you could crack your heels twice. He's good! I believe he could sell real estate on the brink of hades, using the warm climate as a selling point; or he could sell building lots in sight of the North Pole, on account of the high, cool climate. Tell you the truth, I believe Marvin had taken a bite out of every cake he sold; yep, he certainly must have—if not, he surely can look at anything and judge it well.—Man in the Moon.

TAXPAYERS' TREASON

The Federal government is on the road to bankruptcy. Its expenses each day are seven million dollars more than its income. Despite this headlong pace of outgo, groups here and there are urging more appropriations for this and that, demanding more activities on the part of the city, county state and federal government, while delinquent tax sales mount and cities and states are unable to pay school teachers.

"Let government do it!" has become the national slogan of thoughtless, indifferent Americans.

While business firms, families, and individuals are paring their budgets to the bone in order to make ends meet, the cost of government continues to mount. The anomaly of that situation is plain enough. Money for the support of government comes directly or indirectly from the incomes of the people. All the legislative sleight-of-hand, all the political mumbo-jumbo in the world cannot get us around that solid and unyielding fact. The powerful federal government cannot create one single thin dime; to spend a dime, it must take it away from its citizens.

Government bureaus now compete with our citizens in more than twenty lines of business — from agricultural marketing, manufacture of aircraft, anchors, awnings and auto license tags—on through the alphabet, to warehousing.

With twenty millions of out people now dependent upon tax pay rolls, and with bureaucracy organized with military effectiveness, the job of cutting governmental activities is no child's play.

The sooner we deflate government, the sooner normal living and working conditions for all of us will return. To bring this about, each citizen should insist that his representative cut existing expenses and he should uphold his reprsentative when he votes against increasing expenditures at this time.

We should understand that simply because something should be done is no reason why the government should do it, and that the only way to reduce taxes is to reduce activities.

The man, the corporation, the business association, the trade organization which asks for tax reduction and then runs to congress pleading to have restored to the budget an item which provides for an activity hitting near home, is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils.—Merle Thorpe in Nation's Business.

ONE CAUSE OF UNEMPLOYMENT

The cause of unemployment and depression in this country is the forcing down of price levels below production costs by foreign competition based on lower wage levels and living standards, which destroys consuming power among those who work to produce these articles abroad, and among those who are deprived of the right to make or grow them here. The farmer suffers from the fact that he is compelled to meet rapidly increasing cheap competition abroad with his surplus, while at the same time his nearest best and only protected market at home is impaired when industrial unemployment develops in the United States .

So long as we permit prices in the United States to be fixed, as we are doing now by foreign producers operating on the basis of low and lowering wages for workers rather than give our own unemployed a square deal in meeting such competition, by handicapping it with tariffs to the full amount of the advantage gained through cheapening goods, by cheapening men and destroying their consuming power, we will indeed have to wait for the rest of the world to raise its wage and living standards before we can effect economic recovery. By giving our own workers a square deal we could end the depression almost immediately. Until European industrials are willing to lay down the weapon of cheapness of goods procured by debasing labor and destroying the consuming power of the masses, Mr. Rainey will not get much cheering in this country for his scheme of having American tariffs fixed at an international conference in Paris, Geneva or London, rather than by the Congress of the United States. For the American Congress is elected by the American people to serve their just interests rather than the ends of the international pawn broker and labor sweaters. That foreign nations are sharpening, rather than discarding this weapon of cheapness is shown by recent wage decreases in Germany and Italy and by the action of England in going off the gold standard, thus cheapening the money in which wages are paid, and reducing wages 30 per cent throughout the British Empire. While foreign economic armament is thus heavily increased, we find the majority of the house of representatives actually planning to further tear down our already pitifully inadequate economic defenses, and wanting to get into another European conference where every other participant will have the desire, already publicly expressed, to wipe our employment defenses out entirely!

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

The Biggest Strawberry Day

According to Dief, Monday of this week was the biggest strawberry day in the history of Clanton. Loading operations extended far into the night, and when the days work had been finished it was found that the total lacked only a few crates of being five carloads. The rains of the last few days must have had a very good effect on the production of berries.

Want Better Railroad Facilities

The berry growers who ship from Clanton make some considerable complaint about the lack of facilities and accomodations at the railroad freight yards. With competition in shipping so keen between the railroads and the motor truck companies, it would seem that the berry growers would be able to get the railroad company to at least provide ample and convenient arrangements for handling berry shipments at their receiving point here.

In Montgomery for A While

The Man on the Corner left Wednesday for Montgomery for a few days to serve on the jury in Judge Kennamer's United States Court. Two other Chilton County men, Will DeShazo, of Mulberry, and Obie DeLoach, of Clanton, also went along. We expect to have lots of work to keep us out of devilment while we are in the Capital City. Joe Calloway, who was foreman of the Federal Grand Jury last week, says there is plenty on the docket, and then some.

In Miami A Year Ago

One year ago this week we were in Miami, Mell Martin and I, with Mr. and Mrs. Lande and Cohen Stapp, taking in the International Convention of Kiwanis. We shall never forget that trip through the Land of Flowers, the gorgeous entertainment of the convention, the fishing, and everything.

Elect Trustees Saturday

School patrons of the county should bear in mind the election of school trustees which is to take place Saturday of this week, May 7th. You will vote at the schoolhouse in your district. Superintendent Lawrence has sent out supplies for the election, and managers for the different voting places have been appointed. This is an important matter. Much argufying has been done in years past because the people did not have the right to elect their trustees by ballot. Now we have the right under the law, and we should not neglect it. Don't forget. Saturday.

School Closing Programs

Announcements of the closing exercises of the various high schools of the county are to be found in the paper this week. The activities will extend over a period of the next two weeks.

Praise for Our People

I was delighted to hear one of the ladies of the Red Cross express herself as much pleased with the attitude of the people of Chilton County in the recent storm disaster. She said the spirit of thankfulness and appreciation of the sufferers for the aid that has come to them is among the finest she ever witnessed. "You must have extra fine people in this section of Alabama," she said; and I assured her the conclusion was exactly correct.

Gave Home to Red Cross

An old negro couple in Shelby County had their little home blown away by the recent storm. Their lives were spared, and the Red Cross helped them build their place back. A few days after they had gotten comfortably settled again, they came into the Red Cross office and told the worker in charge they had decided to will their little piece of property to the Red Cross when they died. They fixed the will, and so it shall be. That is some fine spirit of appreciation, itself.

DANGER IS SCENTED IN POLICE PLAN

No doubt Senator Borah is right in his sharp statement that no considerable number of governments will favor the proposal of France at the Geneva conference to create an international police force for the preservation of world peace. No other major has ever shown any approval of the basic idea of the plan.

Conditions being what they are, an international police force would result in an organization which inevitably would be manipulated for special interests, the same as any other international machinery now in existence. Statesmen really desirous of permanent peace waste their time designing such machinery. What is wanted is a complete recasting of the ideas and emotions behind the world antagonisms that now make peace a will-o'-the-wisp. When that is accomplished it will be easy to create the necessary organization, if needed, and is needed.

If you grant certain qualifications to the "international mind," such as disinterestedness, France's scheme appears sound. But, keeping the realities in mind, one sees the proposal as being at best nothing more than an oblique restatement of France's well known ideas on national security. These ideas are reminiscent of Pax Romano.

There is good reason for believing, however, that France did not propose the creation of an international police force entirely in good faith. The proposal has many of the earmarks of political action designed to convince the home folks that their leaders are producing what would be great stuff if only foreigners could understand. At any rate, it is hardly conceiveable that the toughminded French politicians have any hope of selling the scheme to the world.—St. Joseph Gazette.

A good many politicians are now engaged in an intensive study of the perplexing problem of how a man may carry water on one shoulder and beer on the other.

If the members of the present Detroit city government do their duty they will know that they have been tackling a job by the time they get things set to rights.

POOR ORI

THREE-ACT COMEDY AT HIGH SCHOOL NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

The senior class of Chilton County High School will present "The Eighteen-Carat Boob," a comedy in 3 acts, at the high school auditorium Friday night, May 6th, at 8 o'clock.

A gay summer house party given by Alice Winsett, played by Jane Roberts, is invaded by Ottis Miller, a raw and gawky young hick and the country cousin of one of the guests, Zella Sparks, played by Mary Nell Jones. His coming creates excitement and much merriment in a household already enjoying thrills and goose-flesh over the fact that a daring society jewel thief, known as the "Crow," is at large. Almost every young man in the vicinity falls under suspicion, posing as a suitor to Alice and Joe. Van Derveer, a mysterious young writer, who has won Alice's heart. Even Bud, the boobish country cousin, gets mixed up in the mystery.

This play is a comedy of surprises and contains a female impersonation that will bring down the house.

NEW QUARTER COINED

The new George Washington quarter dollar, to be issued by the United States Treasury as a feature of the nation-wide George Washington bicentennial celebration, will be coined in large enough quantities to satisfy a normal demand, officials of the treasury have informed the United States George Washington Bi-Centennial Commission. It is expected that the quarter will be ready for distribution before June 1.

The design of the new coin was approved by secretary of the treasury, Ogden L. Mills, from more than a hundred models, many of them submitted by leading American artists. It is executed by John Flanagan, New York Sculptor and the designer of the Department of Agriculture World War Memorial.

The obverse of the new coin bears the portrait of George Washington in profile. Over the head appears the word "Liberty" and below it is stamped the date 1932. To one side is the motto, "In God we Trust."

The principle design of the other side is a spread eagle with the inscription "United States of America" and "E Pluribus Unum" above, and "Quarter Dollar" below. An olive branch also appears below the eagle to complete a stately, dignified design. The new coin is exactly the same weight, size and fineness as the present quarter dollar.

The George Washington quarter is the first coin of regular issue ever to bear the image of the first president. It was authorized by special act of Congress making it possible for the terasury to share in the bicentennial celebration.

As a coin of regular issue the George Washington quarter will replace the twenty-five cent piece now in circulation. No other quarter dollar will be coined for the next twenty five years unless authorized by special act of congress.

Minted at San Francisco, Denver and Philidelphia the coins will be placed in circulation through the regular channels of the Federal Reserve Banks, and will appear simultaneously in all parts of the country.

"Girl Crazy" is Comedy At Theatre Monday & Tuesday

WHEELER AND WOOLSEY IN GOOD COMEDY, GIRL CRAZY

They are not sad punchinellos, hiding breaking hearts beneath laughing exteriors.

Neither are they wise-cracking individuals who quip their way through life with never a serious word or thought.

In fact, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, the comedy headliners of RKO Radio pictures all star gay laugh and melody film, "Girl Crazy" to be at the Wadesonian Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, May 9 and 10, are well-balanced, normal human beings who have mad profitable business out of creating merriment.

Only when they are before the camera, or working up laugh gags to be used in their pictures, are they different from the man next door. They play a lot of golf, attend the fights regularly, read the sport and financial pages of the papers religiously, and discuss the serious events of the day intelligently. Woolsey's favorite diversion is trout fishing. Wheeler's like that of a father, is talking about his baby girl.

It is a popular myth that all comedy stars secretly aspire to play Hamlet. Neither Wheeler nor Woolsey have any desire to go tragic. Laughter is their stock in trade, and they are perfectly satisfied with it.

Not so well satisfied with their own use of it, however, that they do not constantly strive for improvement. When they are on a film set, and much of the time when they are alone, they work as hard evolving laugh gags and improving comedy routines as the successful business man does at putting over sales. It is this activity on the sets which has given rise to the wealth of humorous Wheeler-Woolsey anecdotes. When in company away from the studio, they prefer to listen and laugh at the jests of others.

In Girl Crazy, the two comedy kings are supported by an imposing array of talent which includes Eddie Quillan, Mitzie Green, Dorothy Lee, Arline Judge, Kitty Kelly, Lita Chevret and Stanley Fields. Said to be the greatest laugh riot, brought to the screen this season, the vehicle is based upon the Gershwin musical hit which ran for more than a year on Broadway. William Seiter directed.

Mr. Clarence Parrish of Birmingham spent Monday in Clanton with friends and relatives.

Mr. Evan Parrish spent ednesday in Selma.

Here's Corn That Will Make Money

CORN, being one of the major items produced on American farms, deserves ample fertilization.

Above we picture a section of the corn field of B. C. Holland, of Holland, Va. "Junior" seems as well pleased as his father with the splendid condition of this corn.

In this field the rows were sidedressed with Arcadian Nitrate of Soda which accounts for its perfect condition.

While soil conditions vary in different sections of the South, better corn and bigger profits will result from sidedressing with approximately 150 lbs. of Nitrate of Soda about six weeks after planting when the stalks should be about eighteen to twenty inches high.

Carefully supervised tests have proved that net profits are increased amazingly li this is lone.

POTPOURRI

Which Falls Faster?

An Italian, Galileo, in the Sixteenth century first proved for man that two bodies of unequal mass when dropped from similar heights at the same time would reach the earth at the same time. Aristotle had earlier expressed an opinion that the heavier body would arrive first. The experiment was tried from the leaning tower of Pisa.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

A letter has been received from the president of the Community Congregational church Wowans Guild, Birmingham, expressing the satisfaction and enjoyment of the many representatives of the Guild recently visited Thorsby Institute in a body, stating that they reutrned full of enthusiasm over all they saw and learned of the properties, faculty, students and officers, who co-operate in carrying on efficiently a high grade educational institution.

Miss Jenkins, who has been absent nearly two weeks, is expected to return some time this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Each made a trip to Lay Dam Monday afternoon and called on Mr. and Mrs. Thomasson, who are members of the Congregational church at Thorsby.

Mrs. H. L. Walker and Mrs. Pauline Pate went to Montgomery Monday.

Mr. August Larsen has just closed a contract with A. L. Wambem to construct a four-room tenant house on Larsen's 20-acre tract of land 2 miles southeast of Thorsby. Mr. Wambem will also build for himself a residence on a ten-acre tract he recently bought from J. O. Johnson, adjacent to the Charley Swanson place where Mr. Wambem now resides. Mr. Wambem was one of the pioneers of Thorsby, where he built a pretentious house and developed a farm now occupied by T. J. Martin. This he left many years ago and has tried his fortunes in several sections of the West and Southwest, but like many others, was never fully satisfied. He has recently returned to Thorsby and indicates an intention to settle down here because he believes the place is a good one in which to live and do business.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society social will be held this week on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. E. Norton. Ladies of Thorsby and vicinity are cordially invited.

Next Sunday, May 8th, being Mothers Day, Rev. Each will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion at the morning service.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Amundsen, who have been spending the winter here, left with their daughter, Mrs. Davidson, Friday for Evanston, Ill., their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice spent Sunday afternoon in Calera.

Cecil Each of Birmingham visited home folks in Thorsby Sunday night.

Mr. J. Bice is improving nicely; was able to spend last week visiting in Lomax, and attended the memorial services at Salem Sunday. He went back to Birmingham Tuesday for another treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan, Edith Foss and Kristina Bosworth motored to Selma Sunday to spend the day with Miss Naemi Turnquist and Theresa Bosworth.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway, Mrs. R. R. Franklin and Peggy Mims, spent Sunday in Opp, Ala., visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Fuller.

Dr. H. G. Franklin, R. R. Franklin and Mr. Olin Walker spent Monday in Birmingham on business.

Mrs. Johnson Vanderslice, Mrs. S. E. Malone of Selma and Mrs. Richardson of Felix, Ala., spent the week end with Mrs. Ben Davenport.

Mrs. Ludie Lenoir of Clanton is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Ben Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper spent the week end in Birmingham.

The berries this week are of excellent quality, and should command a stronger market than was gotten last week.

Remember the preaching service at the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening.

Circle No. 1 met at Mrs. Sam Pate's Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon, Edna Phares and Ruby Raybon and Mrs. M. J. Primm spent Sunday in Birmingham with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raybon.

Mr. Charlie Raybon of Randolph was over to see his brother, W. H. Raybon, one day last week.

The Thorsby strawberry movement got well under way last week with a shipment of 17 cars, in spite of the cool weather prevailing. On Monday of this week, the day's loading was 9 cars, one of these being an entire car by express, the first express car to be shipped by this association.

The outlook at this time is for shipments to continue with car loading for next week and possibly longer. It is believed that the estimated movement of some 0 o6r 65 cars from this place will be reached, and a probability of more.

Orders for potato bags are now being received, with the anticipation of loading from 15 to 20 cars. Some string beans will be shipped but just how much is yet undetermined.

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Walker of Birmingham were Monday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Wyatt in Thorsby; they also had as Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Miller of Clanton.

Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Baptist church of Clanton, visited Thorsby Institute last Thursday morning and gave a splendid address to the student body and faculty at the chapel hour.

The two clubs of the Helen Keller Literary Society held their last meeting for the year Friday afternoon. The Pushmatahas gave a program consisting of several April poems, a story, school news, and music. The Philomatic program consisted of a number of essays on different countries.

The Pushmataha Club has won the largest number of points in contested programs and for attendance at open meetings during the year. This entitles them to the Helen Keller Literary Society banner until the next school year.

The first half of field day exercises and truck meet was held at the Institute Monday afternoon. At the close of the half the Senior class was in the lead in the number of points won. The second half will be held Thursday afternoon, May 5th. This will determine the winning class for the year.

What's In It Social

At the Congregational parsonage
On the night of the tenth of May,
You'll see some fun ere the evening's done,
If you chance to stroll that way.

You'll need two dimes and a lickel too,
To enjoy the thing aright.
One dime will pay in the usual way
For refreshments good tho' light.

But the other dime and the five together
Will buy you a wonderful prize,
All wrapped from sight in a package tight,
Of many a shape and size.

So bring with you a friend or two,
Who are brave enough to try it;
For a lady's name is part of the game,
But you'll not know whose till you buy it.

MRS. BENJAMIN T. FRANKLIN

Mrs. Benjamin T. Franklin, of Thorsby, who has been in very bad health for many months seems to be thriving on Kentucky air. Six weeks ago during the excitement of the tornados, Mrs. Franklin was advised by specialists to leave the excitement, which was unavoidable, and was so dangerous for her, and go where she would know as little about the trouble as possible. Upon the persuasion of the family, she went with her daughter, Mrs. Howard S. Higdon to spend a while in Campbellsville, Ky.

After spending a few weeks in bed, resting and being kept quiet, she began to improve rapidly and her friends will be delighted to know that she is able to be up again, and enjoying life more than she has in months.

On Friday evening, April 29, she was able to take her place as one of the honor guests at the College banquet of Campbellsville College, and enjoyed it immensly. On Sunday, May 1, she was able to attend church for the first time in many months.

Mrs. Franklin writes that the spirit of Campbellville is conducive to good feelings. Since she first went there it seems that nothing has been ommitted or neglected among college or town people in giving her a hearty welcome and making her at home there. She says that she finds that the old fashion southern hospitality is not obsolete in Kentucky.

Her many friends will be delighted to know of her recovery and that she hopes to soon be able to be at home again in Alabama.

BETHSALEM SUNDAY SCHOOL

School was called to order by the superintendent at 10 o'clock. A big crowd was present, including both members and visitors.

Visitors were: Misses Inez and Maud Langston of Birmingham, Mr. R. Blackmon and Mr. Russell Langston from Littleton, Ala., Miss Lorene Yeargan and Miss Catherine Broadhead of Enterprise, and Miss Eueidine White.

We had a fine lesson, the text being found in the 5th chapter of Proverbs.

The contest between the ladies and men is nearing a close. They have had a hard fight; the ladies are ahead.

A few from here motored to Mt. Pisgah to the singing Sunday afternoon.

Don't forget the singing here next Sunday afteroon. We are expecting Concord to be with us.—Reporter.

THANKFUL FOR HELP AFTER THE STORM WENT THROUGH

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow us space to express our sincere thanks to each and every one for the many kind and helpful things that have been done for us since our homes were destroyed by the tornado on the night of March 21st. We thank each one for what they did for our mother and grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Cleckler, who lost her life on that night. She had been an invalid for about 34 years. It seems so sad to us for her to die this way, and yet we know that God knoweth best.

TheRedCrossandAmericann Legio

The Red Crss and American Legion have been wonderfully helpful to us, also our own community. We feel that we have had the sympathy of every person in the community, and they have been ready to do for us any thing at any time they could. We thank the doctors and nurses for what they did for us. It all makes us realize more than ever what a good world this is, and we are so thankful that God in His goodness permitted us to live here together a little while longer.

I have often thought of the passage of scripture that says: "Let your light shine, Etc." But on this awful night when Br. Appleton's light shined on us, it was the sweetest light that ever shined. We were there in the dark, rain-soaked, bruised, cut and bleeding. No one knows how bad it was except the ones that were in it. But every cloud has a silver lining; so lets just all go to work with the help we are getting and build our homes back, live nearer to God and be better men and women.

Thanking each and everyone again for what they have done for us.—A. J. Davis and Family, Mr. and Mrs. Simuel Mims.

DEDICATED TO MY DEAR MOTHER AND STEP-MOTHER

Standing almost in the shadow of my half century mile post and surveying the realms of life from the viewpoints of observation and experience and looking in awe and admiration upon the glarious creation of God, I view with reverence His Matchless name. I believe implicitly in mother. About forty-five years ago God saw fit to kiss her spirit into the Holy City, made not witn hands, eternal and in the Glory World. Conscious of her finite being, with her inherent human proclivities, I regard her as the most beautiful of God's creation.

Gather the grightest and purest flowers that blend and wave in the winds of heaven, the roses and lilies, the vine and immortalities, wreathe them into a garland, and with this crown the brow of the truest of all earthly friends, Mother. In her beauty, purity and love, three elements closely akin to the adorable Trinity.

Approaching her in the four-fold capacity of mother, wife, daughter and sister, as the best gift of God to man, save the Supreme Offering, Jesus. I would feast my eyes upon her beauty, my thoughts upon her purity and my heart upon her love.

Love, virtue and happiness are her heritage. With this tri-une sceptre and her divinely appointed way, she kindles the sacred fires about the altar of the home, in which she reigns supreme and exemplifies the God-given mission of the church, beautifies and adorns society and sways the world.

It requires but the sweet, gentle and almost divine touch of mother's hand and the Angelic influence of her pure love, to transform any condition into a literal heaven.

Mother's love is fresher than a dewdrop, sweeter than the smile of a child, pure as the throne, as sweet as the songs of the angels and as eternal as heaven, with her mother-love she beautifully typifies the big Architect of Life, "to whom we all with reverence should most humbly bow." With mother to love and inspire, man can drink the dregs of sorrow and yet smile; he can wrestle with the lashing, surging, titanic billows of disappointment in financial matters and yet stem the tide, scale Alpine heights, to nobler and greater achievements.

The brawny arms of either poverty and obsecurity, or wealth, fame and power, or even the icy hands of death may embrace her graceful from, but the application of love, in its sublime height, immeasurable breadth and fathomless depths lies the key to mother's heart, that unlocks the door and lets God's sunlight in.

eykG otheiymhild'sac kawdgrf gaf

Only the Garden of Eden, in all its primaeval beauty antedates the realm of romance, when God said, "It is not good for man to dwell alone." So He made woman, who became mother of the race. Indeed in its virgin soil were sown the seeds, which in germination thrust their roots through the arteries of succeeding age and engrossed the master-thoughts of men and nations and through God's love Jesus came, the greatest Man that ever walked the dusty highway of mother earth.

Conceived in the Divine Mind, the laws of love were the medium thru which the pulsation of one heart was transmitted into another, both to beat as one, and two souls so closely interwoven until it takes the call of God to separate; thus in the early morning of life the nature of man and woman were assimilated, thereby laying the foundation of home and society for future generations of earth.

Mother's love is almost divine, but possessed of all the beautiful attributes that mortal soul can possess. She must silently fan the flame of sorrow and shame, disappointment and fame in her own bosom.

Man's sense of perception must catch a vision of the passion consuming her soul, and in courtly bearing, weave the tangled threads of his life, his thoughts, plans and purpose into those for hers, thus making life worth living and the world better by us having lived in it.

"My debt to you, dear mother,
Is one I cannot pay
In any coin of any realm,
On any reckoning day.

For where is he who can figure
The debt when all is said,
To one who makes us dream again,
when all ur dreams are dead?

Or where is the appraiser
Who can the claim compute,
Of one who makes us sing again
When all our songs are mute?

If I could gather all the gems
That lie on land, in sea,
I could not pay you, mother dear,
For all you have done for me."

NEW SALEM

The memorial program at New Salem was started by the singing of "Nothing Between my Soul and My Savior," directed by Mr. Minor. After singing two more songs, Mr. Maddox led the opening prayer. The program was a Mother's Day type, this day coming so close to Mother's Day. Many parts on the program warned us to be good to mother and to heed her advice.

The closing number on program was a play "Honor to Mother," in which was a very beautiful lesson.

At this time the pastor took charge and Mr. Minor directed an old favorite song. Then Bro. Jim Nelson, 99 year old preacher, gave a good talk of good sound advice, keeping the floor about 15 minutes. Especially did he speak to the young people to be good to their mothers. In all of his mother's life, he never gave her a cross word.

The pastor preached on "The Pondering Mother," Luke 2:51, after which Mrs. T. P. Gore dismissed with prayer.

All were invited to the dinner table, where plenty of nourishing food was served to everyone. Here we met old acquaintances and made new ones. This period lasted until two o'clock, when we all assembled in the church again for two good hours of singing. This was enjoyed by all present. A number of visiting singers were present, and we appreciated their presence. The last song was directed by Mr. A. H. Glasscock, the title being "Jesus for the U. S. A." in the 1932 book, after which Mr. Maddox dismissed with prayer. Thus closed another memorial day program. I think I speak for everyone present when I say we had a good time.—Zac. Y. Appleton.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

HEALTH PROBLEMS TO RECEIVE ATTENTION

Auburn, Ala., May 2.—County health champions will be named, information about better foods will be given, and public attention will be focused upon health conditions and requirements during the week beginning May 1, which will be child health day throughout the nation.

Miss Helen Johnson, state home demonstration agent, Auburn, has received information from the county home demonstration agents that special attention will be given to the health problems in conjunction with the naming of county 4-H health champions who will come to Auburn late in May and compete for state honors.

An important part of the observance of the week will be a series of demonstrations showing the importance of parenatal and infancy care. These demonstrations will give information on prenatal care, first-year feeding of children, infant and maternal clothes, child psychology, and training of parents. Already baby clinics have been in each community having an organized club.

The work is being done on the cooperative plan between the extension workers and the public health workers. The importance of such work is revealed by official statistics showing that 16,000 mothers die annually in childbirth in the United States and 10,000 of these die from lack of aid.

Since food and health are so vitally connected the home agents give special attention to foods, Miss Johnson said. They do this in connection with the other problems named.

$5,000 FOR 4-H CLUB MEMBERS

Chicago, Ill., May 2.—4-H livestock club members throughout the nation are eligible to compete for more than $5,000 in county, state, sectional and national prizes to be awarded in the third annual National 4-H Meat Animal Livestock Project contest, it is announced by the National Committee on boys and girls club work.

These awards for America's most outstanding junior animal husbandmen are offered by Thomas E. Wilson, livestock breeder, packer and chairman of the National Committee on boys and girls club work.

Any 4-H club member regularly enrolled in one or more meat animal livestock projects; namely, baby beef, purebred beef animal, market pig, breeding hog, market sheep or breeding sheep during 1932 under the supervision of their state extension service is eligible to compete. The project records and the general club record of contestants will be the basis on which awards will be made.

A gold filled medal of honor will be awarded to the highest scoring club member in each county of the United States. From the records of county winners, state leaders will select their state winner. Each state winner must have completed three or more years work in meat animal livestock club projects. The state award is a $50 gold watch.

The winning 4-H livestock member in each of the four extension divisions of the United States will receive an educational prize trip to the Eleventh National boys and girls 4-H congress, which is held annually in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago. Winner will be selected from state winners within each division.

Three national scholarship winners will be selected from these four troop winners by a committee of state club leaders. During the week of the National 4-H Club Congress, Mr. Wilson will award a $300, $200 and $100 agricultural college scholarship to the national winners in the order of their rank. These final awards will be made at his annual banquet in honor of the delegates to the National 4-H Club Congress.

More than 90,000 farm boys and girls will compete for the attractive prizes being offered in this contest to encourage 4-H Club activities in meat animal livestock club projects.

Prof. L. N. Duncan of Auburn says that only 1.38 per cent of the total cost of the Federal Government in 1931 was spent for agricultural teaching, research, and extension. He declared this to be too small in view of the fact that more than 25 per cent of the people of the United States live on farms and the additional fact that "agriculture is the great basic industry of the nation."

SHRUBBERY INSECT CONTROL IS GIVEN

Auburn, Ala., May 2.—If little white flies are flying around your shrubbery you need to spray to kill them, and a good spray solution is made by mixing one tablespoonful of nicotine sulphate (known as Black Leaf 40) to one gallon of water. Any small spray machine can be used for applying it. If nothing better is available use a mosquito gun or sprayer.

This same spray is good also for different aphids which attack shrubbery and also herbaceous plants. The only difference is that only one teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate should be used in spraying herbaceous plants.

It is about time for mildew to appear on roses, especially the Dorothy Perkins variety. Bordeaux mixture is effective in mildew control. It is available in commercial form with directions on the container. The general rule, however, is to mix 6 to 8 pounds of the Bordeaux with 50 gallons of water. Spraying should begin before mildew appears.

In addition to giving the above directions for spraying shrubbery and flowers, Sam Brewster, extension landscape architect at Auburn, recommends prunning early flowering shrubs immediately after the close of their flowering season. In this group he named the spireas, honeysuckle, forsythia, redbuds, and others.

He said that the genarel rule for pruning shrubbery is to prune early those that bloom early, and prune late those that bloom late. Waiting until the dormant season to do pruning is unwise, he said.

FARM TASKS MADE EASY

. . . cheaper, too

ONE of the outstanding developments in recent years has been the extension of rural lines to provide electric service to the farms—in which Alabama is a leader.

Alabama Power Company in the past 5 years has built 1781 miles of rural electric lines to serve 7416 customers in 64 of the 67 counties of the State.

That the farmers of Alabama appreciate this service and have found its use profitable on the farm is evidenced by the increasing average use of the service.

As the use of service has increased the average rate paid for it has steadily declined. In 1926 the farm users paid an average rate of 7.46c per kilowatt hour. In 1930 this average rate was 6.29c per kilowatt hour—a decline of 15.7%, in spite of the fact that Rural Lines were being continuously extended to more thinly populated areas.

ESAU SELLS HIS BIRTHRIGHT
(Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 25:27-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we an incorruptible.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Trade Between Brothers.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Hungry Man's Costly Dinner.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Controlling Our Appetites.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Indulgence or Self-Control?

After years of married life, Isaac and Rebekah had no children to gladden their hearts, for Rebekah was barren. In response to Isaac's entreaty twins were born whose names were Esau and Jacob. The Lord revealed to Rebekah that the elder should serve the younger. The common law among the Israelites was that the elder should have the place of preeminence.

I. Boys with a Difference (v. 27).

Esau and Jacob were in decided contrast. They differed in appearance and disposition. Every child born into the world possesses a peculiar bent which we call "individuality," back of which is personality. No two are exactly alike, even twins, as Esau and Jacob. The wise parent, the wide-awake teacher, the educator seek diligently to discover this individuality in every child and to give it direction according to the laws of the individual being.

1. Esau was "a cunning hunter," a man of the field. He was energetic and of a roaming disposition, impulsive, and self-indulgent. He lacked foresight and was under the sway of appetite.

2. Jacob was "a plain man dwelling in tents." He was a home boy, choosing to look after the flocks and herds and other affairs at home. He was not, however, a negative character, for he showed great capacity for affection and administration.

II. Parental Favoritism (v. 28).

1. Isaac loved Esau because he did eat of his venison. He ought to have loved him because he was his son. It is a sad commentary upon a father that his love for his son had such a sordid basis as that of his appetite. Isaac, however, is like many today whose love is secured through such an appeal.

2. Rebekah loved Jacob. We are not told why she loved Jacob. Naturally, his being much at home would cause a peculiar love to spring up between him and his mother. Perhaps it was because of his being of a similar disposition. Both Jacob and his mother displayed unusual traits of cunning. Cleverness is the bond which strongly binds together many people.

III. A Birthright Sold (vv. 29-34).

1. Esau's profanity (Heb. 12:16, 17). He sold his birthright for a bowl of pottage. The birthright was the right of being at the head of the patriarchal family, a position of honor and influence, as well as being the inheritor of a double portion of the father's estate.

Esau came from hunting, physically exhausted. In this moment of distress he thought only of that which promised immediate satisfaction. He was willing to relinquish all claim upon the future if only his present desire could be gratified. A profane person is one who for the enjoyment of the present will forfeit all claim upon the future. He would gladly gain both worlds, but seeing that mess of pottage, he let go of the future for the enjoyment of the present. Swearing is profanity, but not of the most common variety. To be under the sway of appetite is to be profane. What profanity about us! For a moment's sinful pleasure men and women are throwing away innocence, happiness, and their souls eternally. This is most serious, for their acts are irrevocable.

2. Jacob's cunning. It was right that Jacob should have the birthright for it was according to God's plan which had been announced (v. 23), but his scheme to get it is to be condemned. He took advantage of his brother's weakness to drive a sharp bargain. The same thing is practiced when under the force of necessity unlawful interest is exacted or property is bought under price because one is obliged to sell. To get rich at the expense of another is to practice Jacob's sin. Modern competitive business methods to a decided extent are of this type. Let each one ask himself, "Is my name Jacob?" The end never justifies the means. God said, "The older shall serve the younger." It was his plan that Jacob should be at the head of the family, and God was able to bring about his own plans.

TIMBER GROWTH RATE FOUND NOT UNIFORM

Montgomery, Ala., May 2.—Each year a growting tree increases in volume by a certain percentage of the previous year's contents. However, this percentage is not uniform for the entire life of the tree, points out Colonel Page S. Bunker, Alabama State Forester. In this respect the principle which the increased volume follows differs from the law of compound interest in which the rate remains constant.

According to measurements taken by Colonel Bunker and other foresters, a tree may add to its size but ten per cent of the previous year's volume for several consecutive seasons during the earlier stages of its growth. Later on the rate of increase may be twelve or fifteen per cent, or even twenty per cent for a few years. As the tree approaches maturity the rate of increase may drop back to twelve per cent, ten per cent, eight per cent and so on down until when the tree has reached old age, the rate of increase becomes so small as to be negligible.

Over six or seven million acres of Alabama land that has become reforested during the last eight years the restocking is still developing at the lower rates. This is partly due to the fact that young trees divert a large part of their volume to the root systems rather than to the stem. After they become well rooted, however, more of the substance goes into the part of the tree above the ground. From this point on the rate of added volume increases fairly rapidly. Thus, due to the juvenile age of the young growth, the value of the new material on Alabama reforested areas is commuted at only $1.07 per acre per annum, wheaeas for the entire life of a financially mature stand the average added value per annum may be from $2.00 to $4.00 per acre.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q—Just what is meant by the "corn-hog ratio?"

Ans.—The number of bushels of corn at market price which are required to pay for 100 pounds of live weight of hogs at market price is known as the "corn-hog ratio." It is used by feeders to know whether or not it pays to feed hogs. The average number of pounds is five or six. About half corn can be saved by using plenty of swine pasture which costs much less. From these facts it is easy to determine whether or not it pays to feed hogs.

Q.—What are the advantages in the "live-at-home program," if one can raise money crops and sell them?

Ans.—A recent survey of 100 farmers in a rural district of Tennessee showed that they averaged a saving of $513 a year in family food expense per family. These prices were taken at what they would cost if purchased. If seeds are saved at home for these products the cost is almost nothing. The families with their own vegetables, milk, and eggs have a better diet, better health and save doctors' bills. They know when they plant crops for home use that they would have their market in advance, which is their own tables. Much risk is avoided as fall in prices of crops will not affect a farmer who raises his own feed and food supply.

Q.—How can soil be managed to make crops suffer less during dry weather?

Ans.—Sow green crops on the place for next year's garden so that large green growth may be turnel under as organic matter to rot in the soil. Barnyard manure spread and turned under or used as a mulch between the rows in the garden will also prevent much loss of moisture. Frequent tillage is the rule.

GOVERNOR MILLER WILL ADDRESS ALA. COLLEGES

Patrictism will be the key-note in commencement exercises of many Alabama schools and colleges this spring, as part of the George Washington bi-centennial celebration. A committee of leading educators and heads of patriotic societies of the state will aid in their plans, with Governor B. M. Miller acting as the chairman.

The committee, formed by the Atlanta Georgian-American, will supervise the awarding of prizes to young people of Alabama who wrote the best essays on George Washington's Farewell Address in a south-wide competition conducted by the Atlanta newspaper. A gold trophy, $100 cash prize, and gold medals and diplomas of honor will be given by William Randolph Hearst. Essays were written by several thousand young people of Alabama.

In accepting the appointment, Governor Miller said:

"It gives me great pleasure to serve as honorary chairman of the committeee which will present medals offered by Mr. Hearst in connection with the George Washington bicentennial celebration."

Frank L. Grove, secretary of the Alabama Education Association, had charge of assembling and classifying the essays.

Fraising the choice of Washington's farewell address as the subject of the competition, Mrs. Zebulon Judd, Alabama regent of D. A. R. and a member of the committee said:

"I hope you can popularize the farewell address. When I was a girl it was read in the schools every February with much ceremony."

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

Sodium flouride dusted around runways of cockroaches is almost sure death for them. Two or three applications should be made at intervals of five or six days. Keep children and pets away from it.

For the United States as a whole more than half the farmers have automobiles, about one-eighth of them have trucks, and slightly less than that have tractors.

Dr. Isaac Lippincott, professor of economic resources at Washington University, St. Louis, says that business apparently is at the bottom of the cycle and that an enormous backlob of orders is ready to come into the markets as soon as there is more general assurance that the worst is over.

The 1932 meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation will be held at the University of New Hampshire, Durham, August 1 to 6. An official announcement of the meeting has been made from the Washington headquarters of the organization. Subjects vital to cooperative work among farmers and business men will be discussed.

IN MEMORY OF S. M. ADAMS

There died at the Masonic Home in Montgomery last week, a man who from twenty to thirty years ago was a prominent citizen of Chilton County and of Thorsby. Mr. Adams served one term as Probate Judge of Chilton County, and later, one term as state Senator. He was also known as a Baptist preacher, and a member of the Masonic Fraternity. Mr. Adams' wife died at the Masonic Home about three years ago, and he has been in failing health for several years. The Masonic Fraternity represented by Thorsby Lodge, stood by him till the end, and adopted at a recent meeting the following resolutions;

Whereas, the Supreme Master of the Universe in His Wisdom has seen fit to call from the walks of life, our beloved Brother, S. M. Adams; therefore

Be it resolved, that our Lodge has lost a life-long Brother Mason, and the County an honorable citizen, and

Resolved that we extend our sympathy to the bereaved family, and be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, and one to each of the County newspapers for publication.

The Thorsby Lodge desires to express their appreciation for the loyal assistance of the other Lodges participating in the funeral.

He leaves one son, Enoch Adams and wife, and five grand children.

Brethren, we thank you.—Signed, Chas. A. Petirson, S. M. Pate. H. O. Bean.

Man Making

We are blind until we see
That in the human plan
Nothing is worth the making if,
It does not make the man.
Why build these cities glorious,
If man unbuilded goes?
In vain we build the world unless,
The builder grows.

AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA PROVED BY FIELD TESTS

This photograph from the farm of A. M. Corley in Aiken County, South Carolina, shows the cotton picked from equal acres. The Arcadian Nitrate of Soda added over 1,000 pounds seed cotton to the acre yield.

WHEN farmers were first offered an American-made nitrate of soda some were skeptical, because they had believed this fertilizer could be obtained only from mines. They were, however, quickly assured by National and State authorities that the American-made product was effective in producing the desired effects on crops.

Some farmers still preferred to make tests in their own fields to determine what the made-in-America nitrate would do. By these tests they confirmed the statements made that "nitrate of soda is nitrate of soda whether man makes it or mines it."

The "show me" attitude of hundreds of farmers resulted in a great many farm demonstrations of Arcadian nitrate of soda. Numberless field tests by trained agriculturists proved its worth. For example: corn, side-dressed with Arcadian, yielded 40.6 bushels per acre, compared to 26.2 bushels without side-dressing—an increase of 55% in yield, as an average for many tests.

Cotton tests in six different States gave an average yield of 324 pounds lint cotton with fertilizer but no side-dressing. When Arcadian nitrate of soda was used for side-dressing, the yield was increased to 444 pounds lint cotton; the 120 pound gain being equal to a 37% increase in yield.

Chilton Man Dies Following A Fight

Posey Littlefield died in a Sylacauga hospital early Thursday, as a result of a blow on the head, said to have been inflicted by a brother at the former's home near the Steel bridge in Chilton County, Wednesday afternoon.

Littlefield is said to have been struck by the brother after the two had contested their skill with an air rifle, at which sport the victim was superior. The brother whose name was not learned, had just returned from a hunting trip to get a gun and shell left with Littlefield, it is said, when the air rifle episode took place. It was when Littlefield started into the house to fetch his brother's gun that the blow is alleged to have been made.

The wounded man was carried to a Sylacauga hospital where he died at 3 o'clock Thursday morning. The body was removed to the home of Rube Vanderslice, Sylacauga, a half-brother of the deceased, later to be returned to Chilton for Burial.

Littlefield leaves a wife and five children.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Our Sunday school is averaging higher this year than it did last at this date. We want you present next Sunday at 9:45 a.m.

We take this means of inviting all of Clanton to be with us at the Methodist church next Sunday as we are host to the Chilton County High School faculty and student body. This is their commencement occasion and we are glad for them to be with us in our beautiful auditorium.

The bulletin of our church will be dedicated next Sunday to the High School and the interests that we have in education.

We have a message of vital importance to the Young people of Clanton and Chilton county Sunday night at 7:45. Observe that our night services are fifteen minutes later.

If you should treat your husband, your wife, as you treat your church, how happy would you be in each other's company. The way you treat your church is the way you treat God.

REPORT OF SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Central Alabama Hospital Will Open About May 16

Dr. Gragg Urges Support of Local Institution and Calls For Cut-down on the Charity Work

It should be and will be interesting news to the people of Chilton County to learn that arrangements have been made whereby the Central Alabama Hospital will reopen for business about the middle of this month. In this connection we are publishing below a letter from Dr. Gragg, president.

"On recommendation of the directors, the Central Alabama Hospital is to be reopened on or before May 16th.

"It is our aim first, last, and at all times, to give service equal to the best that can be found anywhere. We will necessarily do some charity work, but we want the public to distinctly understand that we are going to expect the people who are able to pay to do so. It will not be our aim to carry on our charity list people who are members of exclusive clubs and consider themselves as belonging to the upper ten or silk stocking bunch. The hospital lost hundreds of dollars last year and closed March 20th, because people who could have paid for services rendered, did not do so. And I want to say frankly we cannot and will not keep this up and please do not expect it.

"Another thing about which we wish to have a better understanding is that some doctors in the past have felt very free to "dump" all their charity work on the Central Alabama Hospital and carry all their pay cases elsewhere. To them I would say if you can't bring your pay cases here, please carry or send your charity cases along with the others.

"Just a word regarding a nurses training school. We have several applications to enter training, but have decided it will be best to discontinue our training school and employ only graduate nurses together with such other practical assistance as may be necessary.

"It is our aim to open the hospital on or before May 16th, and we will expect to give the best of service and to receive remuneration for such service unless otherwise arranged for.

"The cooperation of the doctors and the public in general is cordially invited. Any and all regular ethical doctors will have equal rights and privileges in the exercise of the treatment of their cases, both surgical and medical, as has always been the case heretofore.

"Your suggestions or complaints, if you have any, will be carefully considered.—Yours for service, V. J. Gragg, President."

The Union-Banner is indeed glad to convey the above message to the people of this territory. The Central Alabama Hospital is one institution that we can ill afford to do without. This fact was very forcibly demonstrated to us only about thirty hours after the hospital closed on March 20th. It is hard to conceive what would have been done with all those injured people from the storm had the doors of the hospital not been thrown open by Dr. Gragg and shelter and treatment furnished them there.

And too, while we are speaking of the storm sufferers, we will add that all of this work done by the doctors of the town was done free of charge, and they are not claiming any glory for it either. The fact that they were able to serve was just cause for them pitching in and giving of their time and means to a needy and suffering humanity. But this was just one instance when we needed the hospital. There have been many others and there will be many more in one form or another.

Now, in regard to the charity work of the hospital. We presume that all hospitals do some charity work; this can be scarcely avoided; and it seems to us that the doctors of our town can control this to a great extent. Any sensible person knows that it is not fair for all charity patients to be sent to the Central Alabama Hospital and all paying patients be sent to Montgomery or Birmingham. The Central Alabama Hospital is willing to do its share of chairty work, but it cannot exist on that alone.

Dr. Gragg in his letter above mentions those who can pay and will not. We would emphasize the importance of such people toting fair with the institution. We all realize the necessity of having a good hospital in our midst to care for our sick, and we all should realize that we cannot have it without our support. This can be accomplished by those people about us who can pay patronizing the hospital and paying for the service when it is rendered. Do not "ride" the hospital just because you can. You may need it still worse some time hence, and it may be that you are paying what you owe it now will be responsible for its existence in the future and its ability to serve you and yours when the hour comes that you most need it.

UNITED SINGING SOCIETY

On account of the all day singing at Refuge and Memorial Day at Providence (Beat 13) on next Sunday, the United Singing Society will not meet at Collins Chapel, which is our regular meeting place for the Third Sunday. The members of our society feel under some obligations to meet with Refuge at this time as it is an agreement between us in regard to our annual all day singings. Yours very truly, A. H. Glasscock.

TWENTY-FIVE CARS BERRIES SHIPPED FROM THIS PLACE

Mr. J. N. Dennis reported Wednesday morning that up to the present time there had been 25 cars of strawberries shipped from Clanton. Five cars have already been shipped this week, making an average of about two cars a day. The peak in shipment was reached about the middle of last week. However, the grade of berries is some better this week than last, yet the price on the same grade of berries is lower this week.

It is noticable how business in Clanton has been stimulated on account of the berry crop coming in. A man who has been in Clanton fourteen years says that there were more people in Clanton last Saturday afternoon than he has ever seen here before. And they were trading too. There were not so many large purchases, but everybody was trading some. Most of the money from the crop as yet has been realized by the pickers; those who have shipped berries will be getting their returns this week.

For some months Rev. J. Robert Bean has been planning to preach at New Salem, but heretofore has been prevented for one cause cause and another. However, he says that it has so worked around that he can get there next Sunday, the third Sunday in May, and asks The Union-Banner to so annoonce it. The hour will be eleven o'clock, and the people of that and adjoining communities are cordially invited to attend. It may be that a service for the evening will also be arranged, but if so, that will be anounced at the 11 o'clock service.

MORTICIANS OF THE STATE MEET IN MONTGOMERY

Montgomery, Ala., May 9.—Morticians from throughout the state gathered at the Jefferson Davis hotel, Montgomery, Monday for the annual meeting of the Alabama Funeral Directors Association, with full discussion of subjects of common interest scheduled for two days.

The meeting was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by President James J. Duffey, of Mobile, and the program continued almost unbroken until election of officers and a convention city for next year, which came up Tuesday afternoon. J. B. Hobdy was the speaker at a banquet at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

President Duffey's annual address was the principal feature on the Monday morning program, following the address of welcome by Dr. Donald McGuire and response by Oscar D. Dupree. Committees named during the morning reported Tuesday on their respective subjects.

The report of J. Mell Martin of Clanton, secretary-treasurer opened the first day's afternoon session, followed by an address by Harry J. Gilligan, secretary-terasurer and past president of the national organization. Short talks by manufacurers' representatives and others and a business session for members only were to follow.

Elmore County Man Takes His Own Life

W. Elmer Bachelor, about 36, brother of Clyde Reese Bachelor who was electrocuted at Kilby Prison on July 15, 1927, committed suicide on the Wetumpka-Speigner road, near the country home of Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture and industries, about 9 a.m. Monday, according to sheriff Hasty Golden, of Wetumpka, who investigated. Bachelor's body was found on the roadside. He had used a shot gun.

Coroner Phil Enslen, of Elmore county, accompanied the sheriff to the scene and returned a verdict of suicide.

Bachelor, son of Henry Bachelor, Elmore county planter, is said to have stopped his car near a railroad crossing four or five miles west of Wetumpka. Getting out, he is reported to have aimed the gun at his heart and with a forked stick pulled the trigger, the entire charge penetrating the left side. Bachelor was dead when the bory was discovered a few minutes later.

Sheriff Golden said Bachelor left a note addressed to the public. It read: " I expect to take my own life. Notify T. L. Macon or any of his people." Macon is an uncle living at Wetumpka.

Bachelor was married and lived with his parents about six or eight miles north of Wetumpka. He was one of the few relatives who witnessed the electrocution of his brother for plotting the murder of his father-in-law, Judge Lamar Smith, of Wetumpka. The case was one of the most sensational in the annals of Alabama.

No motive for the suicide was learned by Sheriff Golden Monday morning. Bachelor, the sheriff stated, seemed to be in excellent health.

ATTEND MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Dr. V. J. Gragg left Tuesday morning for New Orleans, where he will attend a session of the National Medical Association being held in that city from the 9th through the 13th of May. This is the second session of the association to be held in the South for the past quarter of a century. Dr. Gragg expects to return to Clanton Friday or Saturday of this week.

RETURNS FROM UNDERTAKERS MEETING IN MONTGOMERY

Mr. J. Mell Martin returned Tuesday night from Montgomery where he had been attending an annual meeting of the Alabama Funeral Directors Association at the Jefferson Davis Hotel. Mr. Martin reported a fine time. He said that the same officers were reelected, which included his reelection for the third term as secretary-treasurer of the association. "This was the best meeting and the best attended that we have ever had," said Mr. Martin.

Ollie Powell brought in a funny kind of eel to town Tuesday which he caught in Walnut Creek, near the river. It was about six inches long, and didn't have a regular mouth, but had a wide head with a smooth surface on one side with which it would stick to objects with strong suction. It is presumed that it in this way obtained its substance by sucking blood from larger fish, etc. The dictionary calls it a lamprey eel.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

Elder Blossom Fills His Pintment at The Mt. Giliad Church (Col).

Once more de Lord spares us to meet here. An efn Ah could no de mine ob God, perhaps Ah could tell you why He has spared us. But since Ah dont no His mine, Ah can only guess at whut His reason is. Shall Ah guess? Well, here is whut Ah gusses. He loves fur His chillun to praise Him. He loves fur dem to read an study His word. He loves fur dem to meet at His house an sing an pray. But de bigest reason wuz dat we could hab anuther day to work fur Him.

De lessen fur today is in de Gospel ob John, 4th chapter. (reads lesson) Ah wants you to sing "How sweet the Name ob Jesus Sounds." (they sing.) De tex is in de 29th verse ob de 4th chapter ob John. It reads dis way, "And shall come forth they that have done good unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation." Brudders an sistahs an friens, Ah has been talkin wid members ob dis church, an Ah finds dat 13 ob dem is all tangled up ovah whut one ob dem heard a stranger say in Clanton one day, bout two months ago. He tole de men whut he wuz talkin to, dat as Adam brot sin an death to de human race, Jesus brot righteousness an life to de human race. An He gib fur his authority, Romans 5:19. Dat man wuz whut we calls universalist. Dat is, he wuz teachin dat by Adams sin, evybody wuz lost. An by Jesus obedience, evybody wuz saved. An now since dat brudder whut heard him has come and tole bout it—lots ob de members ob dis church is tore up ovah it. An here is de way dat da is reasonin bout it. Dat if whut Ah preached here bout two months ago is true, Dat God is not de Fader ob evybody, but jes de Fader ob those whut has be born ob de spirit, dat nobody would be resurrected but de chillun of God.

Dey cant make whut dat man sed tally out wod whut Ah sed. An dat is mah reason fur takin dis tex. Now to prove in jes a fiew words dat sich doctrin is contrary to de teachin ob de Bible, Ah will ax one question. Why did God make a hell if evybody is saved through de obedience ob Christ? De fac dat God fixed a place in which to punish de disobedient unbelievers is proof nuff dat evybody is not saved by de obedience ob Christ.

Now as regards de Adamic sin, let me sa dis, death passed on all men because ob Adam's transgression. An ef Christ hadent died on de cross, all men would be banished from de presence ob God, because ob Adams sin. All babies an lunatics an foolish people, evybody. But by de obedience ob Christ on de cross de Adamic sin wuz atoned fur, an made it possible fur babies an evybody else to be free fum dat transgression. So nobody will go to hell because ob Adam's transgression, but when one reaches dat age when he knows rite an rong, den da become accountable to God fur their own sin. Lots an lots ob men hab tried to make de Bible teach somethin dat would make it easier fur people to be saved.

It seems to me dat lots ob folks wants to git by widout repentence. An Ah wants to tell you dat de person whut depends on some other way to git to heben, is shoah gwyn to find out dat de preacher dat preaches Godly sorrow fur sin, an repentance toward God, an a spiritual birth is rite. De nex thing Ah wants to sa is dat if Christ hadent come to dis sinful worl an died on de cross, no body would eber be resurrected. Evybody would die an sta ded.

In John 11:25, Jesus sed "I am the resurrection and the life." Den it is through Him dat evy body is raised up frum de grave, now we is 'gettin to de tex. One ob de fust thingg dat strikes us in dis tex is dat evybody wont be sabed. Cause some is gywin to be resurrected to damnation. Ef you will look at de verse jes above mah tex, you will see dat all that are in de graves shall hear His voice an shall come forth. We mus not think dat because Jesus speaks ob de two classes in de tex dat both classes will come outen de grave at de same time, cause dar is to be two resurrections, fust, de Saints ob God, dat is all ob those dat has repented ob their sins an believed on Christ. Den atter de thousand years is passed, de sinners will cum forth. Dese is de ones dat will be resurrected to damnation. We find dis in Revelation in de 20th chapter 5 and 6 verses. He says in dat 6th verse "Blessed and holy is he that hath part in de fust resurrection: on such the second death hath no power." So you see de Lord in de tex wuz speakin ob de reward fur each class an not de order in which da would come forth outen de graves.

So you can plainly see dat to make de Bible teach dat evybody is sabed by de obedience ob Christ on de cross will completely cut out de las part ob mah tex. An den agin, why would Christ hab said in John 3:18, "He that believeth on Him is not condemned; but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten son of God."

Now Ah will sa to de 13 dat is all tore up ovah dis thing, effen you is sabed now an has no fears bout your future whut difference does it make? You would or should be glad to no dat evybody is sabed. Ah would be glad to no dat evybody in dis ole worl wuz sabed. Ah would never preach another sermon ob repentance. Ah would never ax no body to accept Christ. Ah would never pray fur no body. Ah would never go to church. Ah would never read de Bible no mo. Ah would jes go on tryin to lib rite, an tell de truth an treat mah fellowman rite, an pay mah honest dets. But dat aint de teachin ob de Bible. Ah finds in dis book dat Ah mus git rite wid God an take Jesus as mah savior, an beliebe dat He is de Son of God. Rite her at dis pint Ahs gwyn to close. Ah will now read mah poem den we will all go home.

God tells us in His book
  Jes whut is His plan.
An de things dat He an His Sin did
  Fur de redemption ob man.

But men hab tried all along to
  Make it easier fur our race,
To take some other plan to Get into God's grace.

Sinner, to these things take no heed
  God's plan is de only one.
Dat plan is to repent an
  Believe on His only Son.

Stan an be dismiss.

PROVIDENCE BEAT 13

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow a small space to say a few words through the columns of your paper in regards to this place and our second Sunday evening singing.

The health of this community is good so far as the writer knows, with the excepion of Miss Violet Martin, whom we are very sorry to say was not able to attend the afternoon singing at his place.

With a few exceptions, I must say that the singing was almost assuredly a success, and was well attended by a large crowd from different communities.

The singing was called to order by Mr. J. E. Martin, President, and opened with a word of prayer by W. J. Northcutt, of Oak Grove. The directors for the evening were: Meskrs. W. J. Northcutt, Russell Scott, Berry Martin, Susie Northcutt R. A. Barnett, Lloyd Edwards and one Mr. Cobb.

Two of the main features of the evening were the newly framed quartets that were rendered during the evening.

And especially the excellent part Mrs. Roper did while playing the organ and rendering her part of the alto voice.

We welcome and appreciate your cooperation and invite you to come again.

Don't forget the 3rd Sunday, our home coming day, also next Thursday 12th, for cleaning off the cemetery,

SMITH EXPRESSES THANKS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to express my thanks and appreciation to those that supported me in my race for member of the county board of education. And I especially thank those that worked for me, and as I will still be a candidate in the primary which is to be held June 14, I want to thank those in advance who shall support me, and those that did not support me, for your support in this second primary, assuring you that if I am nominated and elected I will try not to do anything that will cause you to regret voting for me. Thanking you again, in advance for your vote and influence.—J. L. Smith.

(Paid political adv. by J. L. Smith, Clanton, Route 2.)

MRS. CALLOWAY THANKS VOTERS FOR SUPPORT

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space to thank the voters of Chilton County for the fine support given me in last Tuesday's primary. I can not find words to fully express my appreciation.

Along with my note of thanks to those who voted for me, I wish to assure those who did not vote for me that I hold no ill will against any of them. I feel that it was their right and priviledge to vote for their choice and I see no good reason for any candidate holding the exercise of this right against any voter.

After the second primary on May 14, when the Republican slate will be filled, I shall do all that I can between then and the general election to put the entire Republican ticket over the top.

Again thanking my friends and supporters, and assuring you of my heartfelt appreciation, I remain.—Yours very truly, Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway.

(Paid political adv. by Gertrude P. Calloway, Clanton, Ala.)

ALL DAY SINGING

There will be an all day singing at Corinth Church, on the fifth Sunday, the 29th day of May. We invite everybody to come and bring their 1932 song books with them, and help us make the day a success.—E. L. Jones.

CANE CREEK

Last Sunday being Mothers day, we had a great day at this place, honoring our mothers. The service for the day was opened by singing, "Blest be the Tie." Then Sunday school was opened. At 11:00 o'clock Rev. Durbin preached a wonderful sermon, which was on mothers love, and what mother's love means. Everybody that was there enjoyed the sermon, for it just suited the day so well. During his sermon, the song, "If I could Hear My Mother Pray Again," was sung. At the close of the sermon, the song, "Sweetest Mother," was sung.

Everyone having a mother there pinned a rose on her. Everyone wore roses in honor of their mother. Some carried dinner, and others went home and carried people with them. I am sure everybody had plenty to eat.

In the afternoon the Sunday school gave a program in honor of our mothers, which lasted something like two hours or more. This was enjoyed by all present especially all the mothers. We were glad to have some of the Mt. Springs and Refuge people to help us out in our program for we believe in cooperating in our work.

We were all glad to have Bro. Durbin to come and preach for us. He seemed so interested in what we were trying to do. We ask him back anytime he can come for we are glad to have him with us.

We have Sunday school at 10:00 o'clock each Sunday morning, and singing on the fourth Sunday afternoon in each month. The annual singing will soon be here. We are expecting lots of good singers The United Singing Society has promised to come and be with us. We invite all who will to come to any of our services and feel welcome when you are here.—One who is interested in the church.

POOR OR

USE OF FARM MAGAZINES IN VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE

Teachers of vocational agriculture appreciate the importance of habit formation. In fact, they are leaders, among the teachers of the nation, in forming or using methods designed to fix desireable habits. But is there any habit more important than that of reading the literature pertaining to one's job?

If our boys could carry away from our classes, either in their heads or their methods, all the data which we discuss (and we know they can't do this) most of this information would soon be lost—so far as they are concerned. Notebooks get misplaced and destroyed and information not used daily is soon forgotten. Again, if we could present to our boys all the facts available today about the busines of farming, ten years hence, much of this information would be obsolete.

The more study and thought we give to the matter the sooner we reach the conclusion that the most valuable and worth while thing we can do for our students is to help them form habits which will function in keeping their feet in the right pathway after they leave our classrooms, laboratory areas and shops.

Let me illustrate how important this is in terms of the teaching methods we are using. We teach farm jobs. Under each job one or more decision must be made. These include the managerial and operative aspects of farming. To make intelligent decisions, all the factors must be clearly understood. This method will apply to the solution of any problem, at any time in the life of a student, but the important thing is to have all the facts. There may be many ways of acquiring facts, but among these reading is by no means the least.

Our agricultural literature may be divided into three groups: (1) books, (2) bulletins, (3) periodicals. Each meets a distinct need. All are essential. But unfortunately because many boys have associated books with school they have acquired little interest in them. The taste must be cultivated. How then, may farm papers be used most efficiently as material in Smith-Hughes classes? Make them available.

Before they can be used they must be available. To my mind, the most satisfactory way of interesting boys in reading agricultural periodicals is to select one or more farm magazines for special study, subscribe a special number to be sent to the school so that every boy may have a special copy and a definite period be set aside for discussing these magazines in detail. In most cases each boy will find articles relating to the particular project which he is carrying. The above method is being carried out by the students at the Chilton County Training school.

Dr. Glenn Frank said, "Even though a man has as many degrees as a thermometer, even though he be graduated with the highest of honors, he will soon be grossly uneducated if he halted his reading and learning with his graduation. Authentic education matriculates us at the cradle and graduates us at the grave. The best thing that the school can do for the student is to waken in him a zest for thinking and the habit of reading. He should not let his brain get rusty after graduation." To this reading may be developed in all stuend that such an attitude toward dents in vocational teachers for a more systematic use of agricultural periodicals.—Benjamin Anderson.

COMFORT for COLICKY BABIES

. . . THROUGH CASTORIA'S GENTLE REGULATION

The best way to prevent colic, doctors say, is to avoid gas in stomach and bowels by keeping the entire intestinal tract open, free from waste. But remember this: a tiny baby's tender little organs cannot stand harsh treatment. They must be gently urged. This is just the time Castoria can help most. Castoria, you know, is made specially for babies and children. It is a pure vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. For years it has helped mothers through trying times with colicky babies and children suffering with digestive upsets, colds and fever. Keep genuine Castoria on hand, with the name:

LANDSCAPE WORK GROWS IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala. May 9.—At twice the rate of former years landscape work is in progress in Alabama. Sam Brewster, landscape specialist at Auburn, says that 1931 work doubled that of any former year and it is presumed that this rate is being maintained in 1932.

Included in this are planting trees, schrubs and flowers on grounds around homes and publci buildings; removal of old buildings, fences and chimneys; removal of rubbish and unsightly articles of all kinds; removal of signs from fences, barns, and roadsides; and other things for the improvement of the appearance of grounds and buildings—both residences and public bulidings, such as schools, churches, courthouses, libraries, etc.

Landscape gardening was an important extension project in Alabama last year and the work is being contniued this year. Home demonstration agents and county agents gave much attention to it by assisting people in towns and on farms in making landscape plans and also by planting and otherwise improving their property.

During the year, 18,095 native schrubs were planted in Alabama landscape demonstrations. In addition 41,085 nursery grown plants were planted. Families landscaping according to plans numbered 1,495.

Mr. Brewster said that the landscape work includes urban as well as farm people and that the desire for it is general throughout the state. Extension workers are receiving more and more calls for assistance.

MEAT PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION INCREASE

The total prouction and total consumption of meat in the United States were slightly greater in 1931 than in 1930, when the production and consumption totals were the smallest since 1922, it is estimated by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports F. W. Gist, state and federal statictician.

"Production of all meats last year was 16,777,000,000 pounds, or 1.4 per cent more than in 1930" Gist said. Consumption is estimated at 16,530,000,000 pounds, or 1 per cent more than in 1930. Most of the surplus production was exported.

Lesson for May 15

JACOB AT BETHEL

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 28:10-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—And, behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land; for I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Finding God in a Strange Place.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jacob Makes a Great Discovery.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Jacob Learned at Bethel.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Face to Face With God.

I. Jacob's Flight (v. 10).

1. The occasion (27:34-46). Jacob had by deceit and trickery secured Isaac's blessing. Because of this, Esau determined to kill Jacob as soon as his father was dead. When Rebekah realized that Esau's anger was hot against Jacob, even to the point where he was likely to kill him, she urged him to flee to her brother Laban. Rebekah had a mixed motive. She not only realized that remaining at home meant death, but she realized that if Jacob remained in that land, he would likely marry a heathen woman and thus defeat God's purpose regarding the covenant nation. This latter she pressed upon Isaac as a motive for sending Jacob away. Isaac at once recognized the wisdom of her suggestion. Isaac, alive to Jacob's destiny, issued his command as to marriage and bestowed upon him the covenant blessing which had come from God Almighty to Abraham (Gen. 17:1). This covenant (Gen. 28:1-4) embraced:

a. A numerous offspring (v. 3).

b. Possession of the promised land (v. 4).

c. Everything included in the Abrahamic Covenant (v. 4).

2. The journey (v. 10). He went toward Haran. He was fleeing from an outraged brother in order to save his own life.

a. Be sure your sin will find you out. Jacob deceived his father. He, in turn, was deceived by his children.

b. Wrong home life has its perils. Isaac knew that the blessing was to be Jacob's yet he planned for Esau to have the place of pre-eminence. He was willing for the sake of a little venison to give to Esau that which God had planned for Jacob.

II. Jacob's Vision (vv. 11-15).

Jacob's soul was peculiarly tested. He had to leave home and mother. On the way to Haran night overtook him and he was obliged to sleep in a field with a stone for his pillow and the canopy of heaven for a covering. It was under such circumstances that the Lord gave him the wonderful vision at Bethel

1. He saw a ladder reaching from earth to heaven (v. 12). This suggests a means of communication between earth and heaven, between man and God. It showed Jacob that in spite of his awful sin there was a way to heaven for him. Jesus Christ is the ladder connecting earth and heaven for us (John 1:51; 14-6; Heb. 10:19, 20).

2. He saw angels of God upon the ladder (v. 12). They were ascending and descending upon this ladder. These angels were the divine helpers to render needed assistance along life's way (Heb. 1:14). Though unseen, God's angels guide and protect us on our earthly pilgrimage.

3. He saw the Lord standing above the ladder (vv. 13-17). To show Jacob that the ladder did not merely reach into space, the personal God appeared and talked with him.

a. He declared that he was the God of Abraham and Isaac (v. 13), thus assuring Jacob that the same hand that guided his fathers was over him.

b. He renewed the covenant as to the land (v. 13). Though Jacob was now fleeing from the land, and yet he would return and his seed should yet possess it.

c. He assured him of numerous seed (v. 14). His descendants would spread abroad—north, south, east, west.

d. The divine presence to be with Jacob (v. 15). God promised not to leave him till the covenant promise should be fulfilled.

III. Jacob's Vow (vv. 16-22).

God's gracious visitation provoked Jacob to make a vow. He set up as a monument the stone which he had had for a pillow. He named the place "Bethel," which means "the house of God." His vow included:

1. The dedication of himself to God (v. 21).

2. The establishment of worship (vv. 18, 19). He declared that this stone should be God's house.

3. The consecration of his possessions (v. 22). He obligated himself to give back to God one-tenth of all that was given him.

OUR PARTY HAS SPOKEN—

At the polls on May 3rd in unmistakable terms the Republicans of Chilton County expressed themselves as to whom they wished nominated for offices to be filled in November. Although there are two races to be settled in the run-off primary, yet the Union-Banner says now as it has always said following our primaries and as it will say after the run-off on June 14th, let every Republican voter rally to the nominees and stand solidly behind everyone of them in the November final. If we are permitted to do so, we would here like to express our view by quoting a few words from Mr. J. L. Burnett in this week's issue: "I have no patience with any man, who, when he is defeated, refuses to support the ticket."

It is on this principle alone that we can have a strong, harmonious Republican party in Chilton County. It has been our sticking together and contending for fair, honest representative government, together with the trustworthiness of our leaders as public officials, that has meant our success in the past over the opposing party. It is only by exercising these attributes that we will in the future be able to carry on as in past years. Again let us emphasize the importance of everyone laying aside our interparty strife and all unite in a solid phalanx to combat the common opposition in November.

As between having this country run by students of Columbia University or by Herbert Hoover, we are still slightly inclined in favor of Hoover.—Charleston News and Courier.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

When the approach of the two national political conventions which are now only a few weeks away, interest continues to quicken in candidates for the coming November election. Most of the interest regarding national candidates naturally centers in the Democratic convention, for the reason that it is now generally admitted that President Hoover will be renominated at Chicago by the Republicans, without serious opposition.

But the Democratic situation is an entirely different story. For a while it seemed that Governer Roosevelt, of New York, would run away with the nomination for president but things have changed during the past week or so. The change came through the unexpected strength shown by former Governor Alfred E. Smith in the primaries in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. While it is expected that Smith would carry Massachusetts, not even his own friends predicted that he would get the three to one vote that came to him, or that he would sweep the entire delegation.

The result in Pennsylvania was little less surprising. Friends of Governor Roosevelt had claimed that he would sweep the Keystone State and get practically all of the delegates. Roosevelt did carry the popular primary but it was only by a small vote, surprisingly small in view of the fact that in many counties the Smith followers had made little effort to make an organization. And Smith's friends are now claiming that they will have more votes in the Pennsylvania delegation on the final showdown in the convention than Roosevelt will have.

While the gathering of delegates was confined to the far West and the South, Roosevelt seemed to be sweeping the country, and it seemed that he might be nominated on the first ballot. But the latest results in the East have undoubtedly slowed down his campaign considerably. Delegations to the Democratic convention are to be selected in the near future in Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Jersey and the Smith workers are now claiming that the genial Al will sweep all three of these states. Then the big fight for the New York delegation will be on and the fur will fly in real earnest. If Smith gets the majority of the New York delegates the Roosevelt program will be in real danger. The fact is, that while Roosevelt is strong in the West and the South, he is not so strong in the east, and the Democrats realize they will have to carry some of the Eastern states to win next fall. There are few Democratic votes in the west at any time, and the South is solidly Democratic anyhow.

Few of Smith's followers believe that he will be nominated in Chicago, but they do think he will hold the balance of power, and if he does, they say, the nominee will not be Governor Roosevelt. As a result of this theory, the so-called dark horse candidates are beginning to sit up and take notice. These candidates include Speaker Garner, of the National House of Representatives; Governor Ritchie, of Maryland; Newton D. Baker, of Ohio; Governor Murray, of Oklahoma and former Governor Byrd of Virginia. Of course, Governor Roosevelt is still far in the lead, but it is to be remembered that a two-thirds vote is required for nomination in the Democratic convention.

Meanwhile the Republican politicians are sitting back and beginning to enjoy the prospect of another severe fight in the Democratic convention, one which may rival that of 1924 in its intensity. Only the future can tell what will happen, but it must be admitted that events of the past few days have slowed down the Roosevelt bandwagon to a considerable extent.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Hackew)

Two families lived side by side and before the terrific tornado swept near their home, they were at outs and would not speak. The storm on Monday night caused each one to think. Each one alike knew that she was not fit to die with hatred in her heart. On Sunday afternoon following, the clouds were dark and the wind was howling its weird message of destruction. The barometer indicated another tornado. These two neighbors could stand it no longer and met each other over the yard fence and spoke kindly. The next morning there was no storm in sight and these two neighbors felt mean and foolish and continued their neighborly indifference. That kind of forgivness will stand the same show at the judgment that a pine straw would stand in a tornado. When people make out that they are sorry for their littleness in the face of fear or death, and then drop back into the old ruts of hating and sinning when things move normally, you need attach no importance to the confession made. I have heard many confessions on sick beds and on death beds that were without sincerity. What a pity for people to try to fool God.

When I was a lad on the farm, one morning I was strolling about in an old field that skirted a woodland section. Just ahead of me I saw a dove on the ground. It would leap into the air and flutter its wings as if trying to fly. I chased it over quite a distance, and finnally caught it. As I held it in my hands, I could feel its little heart throbbing like it would burst. On examination I found that the dove had a broken wing. It may have been fleeing from a hawk and dashed itself against a limb. I know not how it met with the accident that took it out of the sky. With deep pity I looked upon that innocent bird. I held its broken wing out at full length saying: "Poor little dove you will never fly again." A broken wing had taken it out of the sky. With a broken wing it could never fly again. Since that day I have seen many men and women with broken wings. Once they were as pure and good as the dove that coos among the trees, but they met with a sad experience when virtue was murdered. They fell to earth with the thud of the impure, never to rise again. When you destroy the chastity of your person you fall to earth with a broken wing. Human birds there be who are fluttering about over the earth with broken wings.

One day I was working on the farm. I had just reached the age of sixteen, that age when a boy does a large amount of dreaming. The May sun was shining and bees and birds were busy. The cotton row stretched down the edge of the ditch bank and there was much grass to be killed. My father was leading in the chopping of the cotton. I was the youngest in the field and I was bringing up the rear. I stood erect with the end of the hoe handle under my arm. A bird was singing in a neraby plum patch, and I called to my father: "Papa, do you hear that bird. What is he saying?" My father stood up with his face toward the singing bird and this was his reply: "That bird is saying, 'laziness will kill you'." Nothing more was said, but soon I was pushing my way ahead of the other boys, and from that day to this, I have tried to carry the leading row in the work of life. Wish that I had a thousand birds to sing over the wide fields of earth today, "Laziness will kill you." Laziness has killed its thousands and it is in to kill its thousands more. It was God who made the bird to sing, "Laziness will kill you."

When I was a circuit rider in Barbour county, I had an old horse that was a s good as good could be. I could go to sleep ten miles from home and he would carry me safely to my family. One Friday night I closed a meeting twelve miles from home. I was worn out from six weeks of revival effort. The family where I had supper failed to feed old Sanford and that night on the way home I dropped off to sleep. My old dependable had walked on for about five miles, when I was awakened by something scraping on the sides of the buggy. I peered into the darkness to see where I was and found that I was out in the middle of a farmer's corn field, and that old Sanford was helping himself to his supper. I could find a nice grass patch in the middle of a field and stick four little plum sprouts into the ground, and run a cotton string around the grass plot, and old Sanford would stay within the enclosure all day and whittle on that grass. He was safe between the shafts of the buggy, and you could do anything on earth with him with a cotton string, but he was the slowest horse I ever saw. He was good but good for nothing. We all know people who are good, like old Sanford, but good for nothing. They will run away with the cart, and a cotton string will hold them on grazing territory. The cotton string of timidity, the cotton string of environment, the cotton string of fear, will hold them within narrow fields. If you are going to be good, be good for something. Do not let cotton strings hold you back when the grazing is good beyond the string.

Was visiting in a home and a baby was on the floor. A beautiful toy was a few feet away and the crawling babe tried to reach it. A bad little brother of five was behind the child and he would hold the dress of the crawling babe. It would pull and struggle to reach the toy, but an unseen hand would hold it back. Finally it fretted and fumed, but the bad boy kept it from going. Young women and men see beautiful things just ahead, and they want the toy that will make them happy, but there are unseen hands holding them back. Locate the hands that hold you back and break the grasp and then go on to success.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Do You Want Liquor Back?

One day last week a man was killed outright by his own brother—right here at home—in Chilton County. From all I have been able to learn of the incident, the bottom of the trouble was liquor. Of this I am not quite sure, but witnesses at the scene of the killing intimate as much. Any way, these witnesses were not aware of the fact that any trouble had arisen until the deed was done. Now, from far and near, we hear a clamor for free liquor again. Can it be that clear-thinking people can face such incidents as that related above, and still ask that liquor be restored? Do you believe that a man, in his right mind, without any provocation, and sober, would kill his brother? I don't! However, with his brain befogged with whiskey to such degree that he would not be responsible for his actions, a man might do anything—any kind or nature of crime. In the face of such damning evidence, can you still ask for the open saloon? Are there people who can ask that we have open access to anything which will make a good, sane man or woman into a conscienceless beast? Think along this line when you are asked to cast a straw vote in favor of a referendum. And if the time ever comes when you are called upon to vote upon the repeal or modification of the 18th amendment, for the sake of your children and grand-children, as well as our own people, at the present time, cast a "dry" vote. Let that vote state to the world, for you: "I am in favor of a nation of rational, sane, sober men and women rather than a mob of irrational, senseless, drunken beasts, irresponsible for their actions."

A Hole In One

Somebody has said that there is nothing new under the sun, but there is, so far as Clanton is concerned. We have never had a Hole-in-one Club" here before last Sunday. Even now the membership consists of one, Dr. J. E. Edgar. Sunday afternoon Dr. Edgar took a rap at the little white ball on the fourth hole of the local course, and said little white ball sailed far, wide and handsome for the total distance of 165 yards and plopped dead in the cup. No, I didn't mean that last. The ball wasn't dead when it hit; in fact it was very much alive. It did not hit and roll into the cup, but landed in it on the fly, spinning with such force that the little cup was loosened from its firm setting in the ground. Now, that will give local golfers something to shoot at besides trees, cornfields, and the like. Dr. Edgar is a sociable fellow, though, and I am sure he would like to have a little company in his new club. Let's see how long it will be before he gets a "buddy" in the "Hole-in-one Club." Remember, the first shot of this kind happened on May 8, 1932. Come on you golfers, don't snub Dr. Edgar and make him feel lonesome.

School Trustees

Elections were held last Saturday all over the county to elect school trustees, and what interest the people did show. Great Jumpin' crickets! No wonder our schools are down and out. Nobody seems to care very much for them. An election to see who shall have control of the different schools should excite quite a bit of interest, but it seems that such is not the case. Our people didn't seem a bit excited—in fact, not enough so. Come to think of it, the election of school trustees is a right important matter. Don't you think so?

Who's Who—Dr. Napoleon Johnson

Dr. Napoleon Strock Johnson was born near Mulberry in Chilton County, August 14, 1883, the son of Joseph Samuel and Sallie (Strock) Johnson. He received his elementary education at Clanton and Randolph-Macon schools, Bedford, Va. He attended College of Physicians and Surgeons, Baltimore, Md., for two years, and finished at School of Medicine, University of Alabama, at Mobile, Ala., in 1901, at the age of 18 years. He took a post-graduate course at New York Poly-Clinic in 1910, and another post graduate course at Charity Hospital, New Orleans, in 1920. He married Miss Essie Charles Stewart, September 6, 1905; they have six daughters and one son. Dr. Napoleon Johnson is one of the best known doctors in Chilton County and Central Alabama, having served this section in his chosen profession nearly 32 years. He is considered one of Chilton County's most valuable citizens by all who know him. He has proved his true value to his community and fellow men time after time, but never more forcefully than on the night of March 21, 1932 when the tornado swept through Chilton County. As the wounded and dying were brought into his office that night, Dr. Johnson proved the good Samaritan that he is, binding their wounds and easing their sufferings. With no thought or promise of recompense for his services, he went about his work of mercy as carefully and as diligently as he could have done had he been expecting rich reward. It is just such times as this which prove one's real worth; Dr. Napoleon Johnson stood up under fire, all through that horrible night and the following day, and his fellow men realize in him the two great proofs of real worth—ability and willingness to serve. Next week's Who's Who will be Mr. Frank J. Callen, president of the Peoples Savings Bank.

Glimpses

For the past few weeks I have allowed this part of the old col-yum" to slip, but with elections, and one thing and another I have been pretty busy to get around to it; Maybe that is a poor way to state an alibi, but it'll have to stand. History was made last Monday, when a woman, Democrat, presided over the U. S. Senate for the first time; they'll try nearly anything once. Now I know why the Democrats want Frankie Roosevelt so badly; they think maybe somebody will think he's another "Teddy"; nope, boys, you're all damp; alike in name only. One of the Sheriff's deputies has whooping cough; aint that tough! Al Smith will run again; some folks certainly are gluttons for punishment; some of Al's friends want to make his campaign slogan "Remember 1928" referring to the flattering popular vote he received that year, but Al don't see it that way, Al says "Why bring that up?" See Dewey Smith and Oce Webb in town. And there is another good old friend of mine, Pink Cooper. Overheard a conversation yesterday—one boy says: "Did the boss call you up?" The other: "Naw, he called me down." —Man in the Moon.

Now that Manchuria has asked for a loan it will be recognized as being no different from most nations.

SILVER AN INTERNATIONAL PROBLEM

An international conference to consider the stabilization of silver is favored by the House committee which has been studying the causes of the decline, abasement and demonetization of the metal.

As Benard Baruch, the well-known financier, told the committee: "It seems quite clear to me that the matter requires international cooperation and study, the reaching of conclusions and the taking of actions. . .

"I believe that anything we can do to retrace the steps of excessive deflation and restore the purchasing power of all countries is a right thing to do so long as it is absolutely insured against excessive inflation."

The silver problem has become of increasing moment the past two years. By lowering the purchasing power of whole countries, it has adversely affected international trade and helped cause unemployment and an industrial decline in this and other great nations. It has placed American mines in a disastrous position. The rehabilitation of silver will be of international benefit.

BUREAUCRACY GROWS FATTER

"I wonder if we have built up a bureaucracy which is master of both the executive and the Congress and whether in this time of distress it is going to refuse to share with the taxpayers the burden they are carrying." —U. S. Senator Borah.

STRUGGLING AGAINST THE TAX FLOOD

A reasonable return to prosperity cannot take place as long as business must first absorb the astonishingly rapid increase in governmental expenditures in our nation, according to president Joe H. Gill of the Florida Power and Light Company.

"The situation has reached the point where further increases in cost of government cannot be absorbed and it is my feeling that the return to prosperity will be a long, hard, up-hill climb for America under the constant drain of its resources to the extent that is required today for the support of governmental activities."

The San Francisco Chronicle makes this biting statement about the tax farce being staged in Congress: "Instead of quibbling over a program for the saving of mere millions in governmental expenses, Congress should try for economy of a billion. . .

"Congress thinks of billions only as sums to be spent. When it comes to saving, Congress thinks in millions if at all.

"Governmental expenditures for 1932 are just a shade below $4,000,000,000. A reduction of 25 per cent would save a billion. Millions of individuals have had to cut their personal budgets 25 per cent in the last three years."

LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENT

The return to the home town of the "local boy" who has made good in the city is rarely, we have understood, what it might be. In connection with this we have to report the particular sad experience of a young banker who, ofter eight years of absence, alighted at the station of the town of his birth. There was, despite his expectations, no one on the platform he knew. No one. Discouraged, he sought out the baggage master, a friend since boyhood. To him at least he would be welcome and he was about to extend a hearty greeting, when the other spoke first.

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

Time To Set And Think

I am still in Montgomery this week serving on the jury of Judge Charley Kennamer's United States Court. Some time there is plenty to do and sometimes there is very little. All in all, we have plenty of time to "set and think." This reminds me of a story Col. Milford Howard used to tell. He related about a lady, some kind of a social uplifter, who went into the mountain section of North Alabama. She came to the cabin of an old native and found him and his wife sitting mutely on the shady side of the little hut. In the course of the conversation, in which the lady visitor did most of the talking, she finally asked the old man what folks in the mountains did for amusement in their idle hours. His reply was, "Usually we jes set and think, mostly set."

Names That Fit

I am often impressed by names that have a peculiar way of fitting into circumstances, conditions or occupations. Strolling along a street in Montgomery one day this week I saw a sign beside a door. It read, "Dr. Ohme, dentist." Oh, Me! I reflected. Yes, that is my experience with dentists. If you don't let out a vociferous Oh, Me! when a dentist gets you, it is more than apt to be something far worse than Oh, Me! No blame to the dentists though, and who can help what a name is. A rose by any other name would smell just as sweet, you know, and versus visus or sumpin or anything. Anyway. I must admit that dentists are necessary. I wouldn't say a necessary evil. They are like undertakers, preachers, lawyers, wives, children, or most anything else you can think of. We can't get along with them and we can't get along without them. Oh, Me!

Regular Good Fellow

One day last year when Judge Charley Kennamer came up to a barbecue given for him by a group of Chilton County friends, I decided then he must be a regular good fellow. My opinion, first formed at that barbecue, has been strengthened since I have been on the jury in his court. He occupies his position with dignity, yet the position he occupies does not hide the fact that he is is a man, understanding men. He is a good judge. As I observed him the other day getting the lawyers staightened out in a little legal tangle the thought came to me the judge must have had some experience in umpiring baseball games up there in Sand Mountain when he was a boy. Don't know why I happened to connect judging in the United States Court with umpiring a ball game. Must be some similarity. I suppose, although I have never tried either of the jobs.

Four of Us Here

There are four Chilton County men on the jury in Federal Court: Will DeShazo, of Huckleberry Knob; William Conway, of North Chilton; Obie Deloach, the grocery store man, of Clanton; and your correspondent, "The Man on the Corner." We came out of our room the other day after reaching a verdict in a case. As we filed down the hall, there sat Osmond Middleton on a bench, all alone. He arose and saluted us with a characteristic gesture, as we went by.

Talk About Our Storm

As one meets strangers from other parts of the state, quick as they find out you are from Chilton County, up comes the storm subject. They will not let loose until you tell it all over to them again. I don't mind telling folks what they want to know, if I can, but I had much rather forget our storm. I am by that like the soldier boys who went to France. I never mention it unless drawn into the discussion. Then I get out of it as quickly as possible. Storms like we had are not good advertisement for a place. Of course, another one may not come in a generation, or ever. But the fact is, one has come, and it left sign that is powerfully impressive.

POOR OR

MIMS APPRECIATES SUPPORT

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space in your columns to thank the Republicans of the county for their support in the primary of May the 3rd. I cannot command words to adequately express my sincere thanks and appreciation for their expression of confidence in me in that of electing me secretary of the county Republican organization.

I have at all times tried to serve my people and my party impartially and with special favors to no man and I assure you that I shall continue to serve you as best I can. Service shall continue to be my motto and when I can serve any one of my party or all the members of my party it gives me pleasure. I consider it an honor you have bestowed upon me and I shall strive to make my election an honor to the party.

To you who did not vote for me, I hold no ill will whatsoever, but rather I commend you and appreciate you for the fact that you exercised your own free will and pleasure. I assure you that I will go as far to serve and assist you as anyone and that we will know no difference in service.

It is true I did not seek this office and did not desire it except as my party called me and for my service, therefore I could not refuse. I do not remember asking anyone to vote for me for I wished the people to speak their unbiased opinion and desire and which I feel that they did. Now as you have spoken and asked me to continue to serve you as secretary permit me to call upon every one of you as loyal Republicans to rally to the support of the party and let us make it a bigger and stronger party than ever before.

We have partially nominated our ticket for the general election in November. Under the new primary law Mr. C. D. Duke and Mr. O. L. Devaughn will have a run-off on June 14th, 1932, for the office of Commissioner for the fourth District and Mr. J. L. Smith and Mr. C. L. Wilkins will have a run-off in said primary on June 14th, for members of the Board of Education. Let us not think we are done for both offices are important and it is very important that we give them a good vote in the second primary. Let us begin now to plan to go to the polls on that day and vote.

When that is done I am sure we will have a fine set of candidates for the November election, a set we can win with a big majority.

So far as the candidates for the county offices are concerned, I think they have run a clean race, and that upon a high plane as it behooves men and I do not see any room for any dissatisfaction and I am counting on there being none but I am counting on every loyal Republican putting his shoulder to the wheel and push with everything there is in him.

Thanking the people again from the depth of my heart and asking you to call on me when I can serve you, I beg to remain, yours truly.—J. Z. Mims.

ODD THINGS AND NEW—By Lame Bode

(WNU Service.)

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

I would like to say a few words through The Union-Banner to those who voted for me in the primary. I certainly feel grateful to you. I thank you very much. It makes me feel obligated to you to do something better for you, if possible. I am hoping you will still continue in my behalf.

Now to all the voters, men and women, I certainly would like to have your vote in the next primary. Will you give me a chance to prove to you some of the things I have said and promised. I said I would do my best to be fair to all, and to try to do right in all things. I have long ago made a promise to myself to do my best to treat my fellowman like I would like to be treated. I think this will always pay. A soft answer will always drive away anger.

Now listen, I would like to see everyone in the county in person, but I can't. If there is any place in the county that would like for me to come to see anyone in person, or if any community would like for me to meet you at your schoolhouse or some other place, and talk face to face with you, I will be glad to come if someone will write me and tell me the place. I have plenty of friends here at home I can bring with me, that you can ask about me. There are some things I would like to talk with you about anyway. Although I am no historian or politician, yet I believe I can see some things we ought to know, but it is a very busy time and I don't expect anyone would have time to turn loose for this, yet I would be glad to meet everyone of you men and women. I will close for this time, still hoping that you all will go to the primary the 14th of June and vote your choice, and I will be satisfied.—Yours truly, C. L. Wilkins.

Super Farm Woman

Mrs. Frances Silkey, a widow who lives near Boise, Idaho, is the envy of all the farmers of the state because she gets her crops harvested and to market from 20 to 30 days ahead of her competitors. She has earned the title of "the super farm woman," because she taps the earth to a depth of 1,240 feet and brings up water heated to a temperature of 134 degrees. The use of the warm water in her irrigation ditches aids the growth of her crops. She also uses the warm fluid in heating her home.

CONGENIALITY

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Emeritus Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Charlie Hunter, in "Behold This Dreamer," is imaginative, temperamental, ambitious to be a painter. He is married to the crude illiterate daughter of a brush maker who neither understands him nor does her father. They think him crazy, and have him examined and then confined in an asylum for the treatment of the mentally deranged. Here he finds congeniality, sympathy, and inspiration to attain his ideals. He wins a prize on some futuristic crude work which he has done in the asylum, and is released to go back to his commonplace wife and her impossible, hypocritical father. The association with them is unbearable, and he finally goes back to his kindly, sympathetic and unbalanced friends where he may enjoy the freedom and the peace which is to help him accomplish his idealistic ambitions. He is not wholly certain who is crazy and who is sane, but he chooses the congenial environment.

Mrs. Culver was a woman who had no need to apologize for her ancestry. She had descended from the blue blood of New England. Since she had ruled her household, and had been proud to do so. Now she was alone; with the exception of herself, her family were married and moved away, or dead or indifferent to her. There was no one left to whom she could play the grand lady. She did not enjoy this isolation. It piqued her pride that there was no one left whom she could lord it over as she had been wont to do fifty years or more, and whose homage she could receive. The county hospital—or in common parlance, the poorhouse—would accept her as a "paying guest" as they say in some aristocratic though indigent communities, so she moved in, furnished her own room with the mahogany furniture and the old china which had come down to her from her ancestors, and reassumed her position at the head of the table with the less fortunate pensioners as her slaves and devotees. The move scandalized her relatives to whose ears it came, but it furnished Mrs. Culver with a congenial clientele, and she was happy.

HONORS AND DISHONORS

I awoke last Sunday with a humble and tender heart toward mother, and these words, which have been sweetly said flashed through my mind: "Mother's love is fresher than a dewdrop, sweeter than the smile of a child, pure as the thorne, as sweet as the songs of the angels and as eternal as heaven. Realizing that it was Mother's day, I began to recall a number of mothers, who in the last few years had passed on to the great beyond, and wondered how their children's observation of Mother's Day would be shared—with sorrows or with hope. Knowing there were just hundreds who would have to wear a white rose in memory of mother, instead of clasping those lovely hands and listening to that sweet voice of hers.

So I decided I would go to an all day service—Mothers day service—and notice the remarks and actions of the people and see just how much mothers were considered and honored. And so here is my report of the day and night.

Near the roadside stood two nice looking young boys, and very near the church. One said to the other, "I want two gallons of home brew." The other one said that they would get it. Do they call that honoring mother?

Not far from the church stood a bunch of five young boys and one man. I thought I would see what this conversation was about, and I walked up to them and this man was explaining to those boys, yet in their teens, just how to season their beer, wine, etc., to make them stronger and have more effect when drinking. Is that honoring mother? Just think of that.

When service began, there stood on the yard 17 young men, not one appeared in the house to hear a wonderful sermon about mother's love and care. During the preaching service, I saw tears flowing from the eyes of about 40 people, men and women. It seemed the younger ones' hearts were not touched, as their eyes yet looked bright and clear, no sign of a tear. Who couldn't shed a tear for mother?

At the noon hour I saw a boy who was under the influence of liquor. I asked him did he realize what mother meant to him and he cursed his mother and says she was not looking out for him, and he was not looking out for her. Is that honoring your mother?

I walked up to a car in which two beautiful young girls were sitting. They seemed to be enjoying themselves. I asked them were they celebrating Mother's Day, and they said we are wanting to go riding and have a big time. Is that honor to mother?

Five young girls were standing near the road and two boys in a car came along and asked two of them to accompany them for a ride, and so the two girls accepted the invitation and stepped into the car. As they started off they told the other three not to tell mama. Now is that honoring Mother? I don't call it so.

Four young boys strolled off into the woods and returned some time before the close of the day's service, reporting they had drinked 32 bottles of homebrew. I wonder if they think that honoring mother?

I went to town after the service was over and was there only a few minutes and noticed over fifteen young girls smoking cigarettes, as they went riding along the highway. What a shame on those girls.

I heard another wonderful sermon about mother Sunday night in a congregation of about sixty-two. There were twenty there who said they had never heard mother pray. I wonder if they can say that after mother's form is laid into the clay. There were thirty-two young boys and girls that walked up to the preacher and gave him their right hand and asked for his prayers, that they might be more true and obedient to mother. And love her as never before. Is that an honor to mother? Yes, one of the greatest. I'll never forget that scene, all those young people marching back and forth, with tears in their eyes, to shake that preachers hand, and ask him for his prayers. During the day I saw seventy-four people wearing white roses of memory to mother. I heard the word Mother spoken 307 times, and helped sing 7 mother songs. May God bless our mothers.—Marion W. Easterling, Clanton, Ala., Route 5.

The Shipping Qualities of Tomatoes Improved Prices

IN TESTS conducted by the West Tennessee Experiment Station, tomato plants that received heavy applications of Nitrate of Soda in addition to mixed fertilizer made high yields and produced as well fruit of improved shipping quality.

A commercial shipping test was made to a receiving point in the North, where they were examined. The fruit from the heavily fertilized plants were found to be superior.

Growers have long recognized that side-dressing with Arcadian Nitrate of Soda brought increased yield. Now they know that fruit of good shipping quality which obtains better selling prices calls for heavy fertilization.

Thorsby Fruit & Truck Growers Association Activities

There were loaded last week from this organization, 18 cars of berries, besides 1250 crates, bought by Birmingham and trucked there, being equivanet to more than 4 cars more. The berry market was on low levels, the same as previous week, due to the large loadings over the berry sections.

There has been loaded up to Tuesday morning, 4 cars, and the equivalant of 5 cars cent by truck to Birmingham. Many growers report, that if rain would come they would yet ship heavy for another week.

Notice!

A meeting is called for Saturday afternoon 2:30 p. m., at the Fruit Growers office, at which time all growers and shippers of beans and Irish potatoes, are asked to be present to take up any questions of loading cars and disposing of these two crops. TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

Please permit me to say a few words in regard to the primary election of May 3rd.

To those who voted for me for chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, I want to say that I am most grateful indeeed for your support. To the majority of Republicans who voted for Mr. J. N. Dennis, I want to say that I am satisfied with your verdict. And I want to ask that those who voted for me accept the expressed will of the majority in favor of Mr. Dennis, with full satisfaction.

If it were left to me to speak now for the Republicans of Chilton County, I would ask that we make it unanimous for Mr. Dennis by a rising vote, and move forward toward the future with the whole Republican strength of our county united solidly for the accomplishment of those things which are the common interest of every Republican and indeed every citizen of our county.

It is my hope that the Republican party in the future may continue to be the agency through which a system of good government may be vouchafed to the people of Chilton County. To this end I shall strive to serve as "a buck private" in the ranks of our party, ready to do all I can at any and all times to help support our party and those whom the majority of our Republican voters have chosen as their leaders.

In conclusion, I want to express my personal congratulations to Mr. J. N. Dennis upon the splendid support which the Republican voters gave him in the primary. The result proves that a great majority of the Republicans are satisfied with the management of our party affairs under Mr. Dennis.

Now I call upon every Republican in the county to bury the hatchet, take the result of the primary as it ought to be taken, and let's once and for all put an end to personal enmity and factional strife in our party.—Sincerely yours, W. M. Wyatt.

LETTER FROM CHARLEY DUKE

I wish to thank the people for the splendid vote I received May 3rd. I can not command words to express my appreciation to those who have been so loyal to me. I wish to say to those who did not vote for me, that I hold no ill feeling against you. You have only exercised your just right. However, I will appreciate your vote in the second primary, and if I am so fortunate as to be nominated and elected I will try to conduct myself and the affairs of the office of Commissioner in such a manner that you will never have cause to regret having voted for me.

I would like to have the chance of serving the people as Commissioner; to serve you all alike, with special favors to none. I have made no promises and offered no job to anyone. I am still on the same platform I entered the race on—fair and honest treatment to everyone.

I am a life long Republican; have always voted the Republican ticket. I have never belonged to any organization but the church and the Republican party. Whether or not I am nominated, you will find me doing all I can to help elect the whole Republican ticket this fall.

Let me urge all to come out and vote in the primary of June 14th.

In conclusion, allow me to thank you in advance for your vote and influence in the coming primary, assuring you again that, nominated or not, I am still a Republican and expect as such, and will be in the thick of the fight to put the whole list of nominees in office in the general election.—Yours very truly, C. D. Duke.

Musical Comedy At Verbena May 18th

Fast and furious, rich and racy. Hot? Oh boy, to a boiling point.

Place — Verbena High School. Time.—Wednesday evening, May 18, at 8:00 o'clock. If the so-called depression has got you so badly that it hurts you to laugh and be thrilled, just stay at home and nurse the "blues" and don't come to this show because it is a laughing matter, and because, for about one hour and thirty minutes, there will, not only, be any sad or sorrowful doin's going on and no sad faces will fit in the audience.

A six-piece orchestra will broadcast some foxtrots that will tickle the goutest foot on record.

At this show, which is being given for the benefit of play equipment for a children's park in Verbena, and for improving the Verbena cemetery, you will hear vocal and instrumental music by some of Chilton County's best talent, and you will get both eyes full, for delicious, petite, irrestible chorus girlies who would knock the shine off of many a Broadway chorus, Don't miss 'em—they are easy on the eyes. In fact, there will be three entirely different choruses, and each one is well worth traveling miles to see.

Then there will be the Magic Barrel—the most mystrious barrel that was ever rolled around. The barrel is being brought here by an Oriental Sage, who will show tricks you simply cannot understand.

Among several other amusing and interesting features will be a vicious three-round boxing match by two glove artists, who would give a Madison Square Garden audience many unusual thrills. All legal rights to hold this boxing match have been obtained and it is hoped that state and county officers will be on hand to prevent betting on the outcome of this long-looked for match, and to otherwise keep order during the fight.

If you miss this show, you'll miss a full evening of amusement and entertaining features, and you will also miss the opportunity of assisting a splendid cause.

Admission—10 cents for children and 15 cents for adults. Come on and laugh with us, and at us. Tears will not scare old man depression, but a big laugh will make his knees tremble.

BURNETT APPRECIATES VOTES

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to bother you again for enough space to state to the Republican voters of Chilton County that nothwithstanding I was not nominated for Commissioner of the Third District, that I now stand ready to fulfill my promise and that is to assist in electing all that our party has nominated and whoever might be nominated in the run-off primary.

I am thankful and appreciative of the support and the two terms of office that I have had and I am just as strong for my party as ever. I have no patience with any man, when he is defeated, who refuses to support the ticket and I do not believe that this method will ever elect and build our party. Therefore, I am accepting the verdict of the people as mine and I stand ready to do whatever I may be able to help elect the entire ticket and I want especially to urge every voter and candidate, whether defeated or nominated, to all put their shoulder to the wheel and let's put it over this fall with the biggest majority ever.—Yours very truly, J. L. Burnett.

VINSON EXPRESSES THANKS

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

I would like to take this opportunity of expressing to the voters who saw fit to cast their vote for me in the last Primary, by appreciation for their vote and to all those who assisted me in my candidacy for Commissioner of the Fourth District, and I am sorry that we were not successful, but the majority of the voters felt that some other should be nominated and as I stated before the primary, I believe in the will of the people controlling and believe in this just as firmly now as I did before the primary.

I want to say to those who did not vote for me and to the defeated candidates as well as the successful ones, and as a matter of fact to all the Republican voters of Chilton County, that I feel no ill will whatever toward any person and I have no grudge to make against any person, but I am accepting your verdict. I want to say further that I stand ready and willing to assist in any way that I may be able to help elect our ticket in full next November. I am not offering my assistance half-heartedly, but I am sincere in saying that I want to see every person nominated on our ticket, elected, and I want each of the candidates to feel free to call upon me to advise with them whenever they desire, and I stand ready to assist not only in electing our full ticket, but in cooperating with the commissioners after they are elected in helping build and finance our county.—Yours very truly, A. P. Vinson.

DEVAUGHN WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Please permit me to say a few words to the people of Chilton county in regard to my candidacy for Commissioner of the Fourth District.

First, I wish to say that I greatly appreciate and shall always feel grateful to all of my many friends who supported and assisted me in any way in my campaign up to and including the primary, May 3rd. I especially appreciate and thank the people of the Fourth District for their endorsement and support as expressed at the polls, and I hope that each one who supported me may continue your confidence in me by giving me your vote and influence in he run-off primary, June 14th.

Now a word to those who supported either of my opponents; I hold no ill will towards anyone for doing so, for I regard this as your privilege, and insist that you consider me before you cast your vote June 14th, and if after careful consideration you can favor me with your vote and influence, I assure you it will be highly appreciated. As I am a farmer and as you know it is and will be a very busy time with us. It will be almost impossible for me to make a thorough canvass of the county before the June primary, and I wish to take this means of appealing to you for your vote and influence in the June primary. But if after careful consideration, you decide in favor of my opponent, I assure you now that your choice will be mine in November.

As I stated in one of my former letters if I am the choice of the people, I will be commissioner myself and not be led or dictated to by anyone, but will be a servant of all the people and try at all times to carry out the wishes of the people in the Fourth District, and the county at large in an open fair straight-forward manner, with equal fairness to all and special favors to none, to the very best of my ability.

Now in conclusion, permit me to say to every Republican voter in the county, whether I get to see you personally or not, don't fail to go to the polls on June 14th, and cast your vote for what you think to be the best interest of the county and the Republican party, and your verdict will be mine in November.—I am yours for the success of the Republican party.—O. L. Devaughn.

JAMBOREE

Mr. Stapp and others made it convenient for scouts of troop 47 and 51 to take part in the jamboree at Auburn, May 6, when we all had a fine time. We also learned plenty of scouting.

We had plenty of fun going down on a school bus. The road was bad and the bus rattled like a sack of knots. We arrived in Auburn at 9:00 a.m. and registered and were ready for the events at 9:30, in which Clanton troop 51 won third place in two or three events.

At 11:45 we went over to the cabin for lunch then at 1:15 we went over to the Tiger Theatre to see Sky Bride, which was a thrilling aviation picture. Then we went back to the park for the ball game, and other scout events.

When the game was over at 5:00 p.m., we started for Clanton; about two miles from town we had a puncture or something. There was a horseshoe ramed in the tire and pulled the tube in two. The horseshoe was no luck for us, for we didn't get into Clanton until 10:00 p.m. Thanks to Mr. Stapp and others who made it convenient for us to go. —Charles C. Foshee.

NEW HARMONY CEMETERY

All people interested in the cemtery at New Harmony are asked to be there Friday morning of this week for the purpose of cleaning off same. —W. L. Sanders.

WALNUT CREEK

The annual singing and Mothers day service was held at Walnut Creek on last Sunday. Several lessons were directed, some of them being selected to suit the occasion. At 11 o'clock an able sermon was delivered by the pastor, P. A. Lynch. At noon a bountiful basket lunch was spread and everyone was invited to partake of the food. There was plenty for all and some left to be carried back home. We take this means to thank all those from other churches and communities for their hearty cooperation along this line as well as others.

The entire afternoon from 1:30 to 4 o'clock, with the exception of a few minutes for recess was devoted to singing. The Clanton quartet promised to be with us in the afternoon, but for some reason or other they did not come. However, we were not disappointed, because Mr. W. M. Devaughn arranged a quartet composed of himself, Mrs. Marion Mims, Messrs. O. L. Devaughn and Wilson, and they favored us with several numbers.

We closed a day of service for God with our Christian Endeavor, Sunday night. The subject of discussion being, "Appreciating our Parents."

The regular Sunday school and preaching services will be held here next Sunday, and on next Sunday evening the C. E. will meet at 6:30 to discuss the subject, "How may we work for World Good-will." At 7:30 the pastor will bring a special message on the subject, "Some of the evils of the day. We invite all who can and will to be with us at these services. We would like to have a full house on this occasion.

POOR OR

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

COMMON HOG SENSE

A brood sow has been the mortgage lifter on many farms.

Dairy by-products, such as buttermilk and skim milk, make excellent feed for all classes of hogs.

Exercise is as important as good feeding to maintain a vigorous condition of breeding thrift in boars and sows.

Forage crops should be provided for every season of the year. They are essential to the economical and successful production of pork.

Grain fed to hogs should be produed on the farm to insure the greatest profit.

Herd records are essential.

Keep only the best gilts from large litters to replace old sows in the breeding herd.

Lice are one of the most common parasites found on hogs. Frequent dipping with any standard dip or crude oil will eliminate this pest.

Only a small portion of the best purebred boar pigs should be saved for herd boars. Castrate all others and put them in the fattening lot.

Plenty of shade and water must be provided for the herd during the hot summer months.

Quick action is necessary if you have a case of hog cholera. Call a competent veterinarian and follow his directions.

Sanitary quarters must be provided if the herd is to be kept free from disease.

The spring litter should be fattened on crops which they can harvest themselves, to make the greatest profits. Peanuts or soybeans are good examples.

Wallows made of cement and located in a shady place will add much to the comfort of the pigs in hot summer weather.

Ten is the number of pigs a sow should raise if she is to produce a ton litter. This should be the aim of every hog producer.

Young pigs should be started on grain before weaning, so as to avoid and set-back in growth.

Corn should always be supplemented with some nitrogenous feed, such as tankage, when used as a hog feed.

BETTER BUYING DONE

Auburn, Ala., May 9.—More care and better judgment in buying is seen by Miss Nell Pickens, extension economist at Auburn, as a result of price declines and a money shortage.

"Mrs. Consumer," said Miss Pickens, "is studying quality, reading labels to know her products she buys. If there is something about which she doesn't understand she gets the necessary information. She is demanding her money's worth before she buys."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fortenberry (Celesti Maddox) announce the arrival of a nine-pound baby boy, on May 6th, which they have named Robert Edward.

They've Never Tasted a Tonic!

THESE are not patent medicine children. Their appetite needs no coaxing. Their tongues are never coated, cheeks never pale. And their bowels move just like clockwork, because they have never been given a habit-forming laxative.

You can have children like this—and be as healthy yourself—if you follow the advice of a famous family physician. Stimulate the vital organs. The strongest of them need help at times. If they don't get it, they grow sluggish. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is a mild, safe stimulant.

When a youngster doesn't do well at school, it may be the liver that's lazy. Often the bowels hold enough poisonous waste to dull the senses! A spoonful of delicious syrup pepsin once or twice a week will avoid all this. It contains fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin, and does a world of good to any system—young or old. You can always get this fine prescriptional preparation at any drug store. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and protect your family from those bilious days, frequent sick spells and colds. Keep a bottle in the medicine chest instead of cathartics that so often bring on chronic constipation. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin can always be employed to give clogged bowels a thorough cleansing, with none of that painful griping, or burning feeling afterward. It isn't expensive.

Side Dress

Don't let the weevils take your crop

IT wasn't much use to plant cotton if the boll weevils are going to get most of it. All reports indicate that the weevils mean business this year. The warm winter, the late damp spring, the possibility of a wet summer, all point to a very heavy infestation.

A late crop won't stand much chance. If you can set your crop ahead of the weevils, you will be reasonably safe.

If there is one thing that will pick your cotton up and push it right past the weevils, it is Chilean Nitrate. Nothing takes its place for side-dressing cotton. While 200 pounds would be better, put on 100 pounds per acre right after chopping. That may prove enough. If not you can come along with 50 to 100 pounds more later in the summer.

Be sure you get Chilean. Specify Chilean to your dealer. He has it or can get it immediately. See him now!

NEWSPRINT PAPER FROM SPRUCE PINE

Montgomery, Ala., May 9.—Good newsprint paper has been made from the so-called Spruce pine of middle and northern Alabama, according to information on file with the state commission of forestry. This pine is also variously known as the Virginia Pine, Upland Spruce pine, Scrub Pine, Cliff Pine and Jersey Pine.

Much interest has been developed in the United States as to the paper making possibilities of various conifers. Spruce has long been the favorite for this purpose, but the supply has become so greatly diminished that a very heavy portion of paper pulp is imported from Canada. During late years attention has been directed toward southern pines in this connection.

Practically all the Southern pines make an excellent kraft or wrapping paper, but the difficulties have been encountered in adapting them to the purposes of news print. Over a decade ago experiments were made with Spruce pine for this purpose with very promising results. However, for some reasan the matter was not followed up . Recently attention has been directed toward slash pine as a possible source of newsprint pulp. The Alabama Commission of Forestry is recommending that at the same time the experiments with spruce pine be resumed.

ONE COTTON VARIETY

Huntsville, Ala., May 9.—Farmers in Lily Flag community of Madison County have agreed to plant only D. P. L. 4-8 variety of cotton this year, making it one of a few one-cotton variety communities in Alabama. County Agent Mitchell, who assisted the farmers in arranging for it, is delighted with it. Aaron Fleming, local ginner, will gin nothing but this variety this fall.

FEED COSTS REDUCED

Andalusia, Ala., May 9.—A few poultrymen in Covington County have reduced feed costs 50 per cent by feeding corn and 25 per cent protein supplement, according to the county agent, W. T. Cheney. This has encouraged them to continue in the business because it will enable them to pay, Cheney said.

MORE BEEF CATTLE

Union Springs, Ala., May 9.—Bankers and farmers of Bullock County have joined hands for the promotion of beef cattle through the use of better bulls. Bankers have arranged to finance farmers in buying them. County agent James Nunn and extension specialist at Auburn have assisted farmers in selecting cattle to be bought. Beef cattle continues to improve in Bullock County Nunn said.

Awards were presented to these uniformed, manly-looking young Americans through their scoutmasters by Dr. Bradford Knapp, Auburn president, who has long been a friend of scouting, and who takes special interest in having the jamboree staged here on the campus each year.

As winners of the six-month's efficiency award, Roberts Blount, of Tallassee, presented to William S. Duke, of Troop 4, Opelika, a cup for remarkable scout work during the last half year.

For distinguished service to boyhood, I, J. Dorsey of Opelika and Roberts Blount were given Silver Beaver awards from the National boy scout council by J. V. Dabbs, of Memphis, Tenn., deputy regional scout executive. This is the highest recognition for service that can be made in the council. It was upon recommendation of the board of the area Council to recognize their splenidd assistance to scouting in Central Alabama rendered by these men.

The executive board, composed of 30 members, met at noon hour for the mid-year session. Reports presented by various committee chairmen were commended highly by deputy executive Dabbs, who spoke of them as most encouraging and outstanding in that they reflect valuable work done during the past six months as well as outlining a fine program for the remainder of the year. He also commended the work of executive J. J. Sigwald who heads scout work in this area coucil.

Boy scouts began arriving in Auburn from all sections of the area council at 8:00 a.m. Friday morning. Troop 53 of Georgiana, newest unit to be organized, traveled 165 miles to attend the jamboree. Two hours later activities were begun with the drum and bugle corps of Auburn scouts, marching from the center of town out to the scene of the contests on Drake Field. At noon the scouts attended a movie as guests of Foreman Rogers. After the jamboree they were guests of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at the Auburn-Oglethorpe baseball game.

The first event was inspection conducted by Major G. V. Franke, Auburn commandant, who examined the appearance of the participating scouts. Troop 2 of Opelika won this event with second and third places going respectively to Troop 9 Tallassee and Troop 51 of Lay Dam.

FERTILIZER SALES OFF 51 PER CENT IN ALABAMA

Judging by fertilizer tag sales by the department of agriculture, Alabama farmers are this year using 49 per cent as much fertilizer as they used last year.

Seth P. Storrs, commissioner, and W. B. Griffin, chief clerk, yesterday released the last comparative statement of the season showing that 201,400 tons sold this year compared with 410,250 tons to the same date last year and 638,050 tons to Fay 6, 1930.

ALABAMA IMPORTING LARGE QUANTITY DAIRY PRODUCTS

A market for dairy products valued at $18,574,470.48 in 1930 lies at the doors of Alabama farmers in and around the 13 principal cities of Alabama, according to a survey recently completed by the Alabama Industrial Development Board, with the corporation of the State Department of Agriculture, the State Department of Health and the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Based on the 1930 retail prices, the total value of dairy products imported from Alabama into these 13 cities represent approximately one-fifth the population of the state.

"The purpose of the survey was to determine as accurately as possible from actual sales figures of distributors, the exact amount of dairy products consumed in those principal markets of the state with a view to lend encourage ment to the movement for the development of the dairy industry, reports Thad Holt, director of the Industrial Board.

"The survey shows that the average per capita expenditure for dairy products consumed within thirteen cities—Anniston, Bessemer, Birmingham, Decatur, Dothan, Florence, Gadsden, Huntsville, Mobile, Montgomery, Pheonix City, Selma and Tuscaloosa—was -26.42 in 1930, or 27 per cent less than the average for the cities of the United States. It further shows that for every dollar expended within these 13 cities for butter, cheese, ice cream and condensed and evaporated milk, 41.4 per cent went out of the state for the importation of these products or their ingredients."

CAMP SPRING VILLA

Opelika, Ala., May 9.—Camp Spring Villa, Council camp for the Central Alabama Area Council of Boy Scouts, composed of twelve counties will be in the minds of 500 scouts in this area, now that the jamboree is over.

The camp director reports a good registration for the camp and that additional application cards are arriving every day.

The site, located just seven miles from Opelika, the headquarters city, is fast becoming known as one of the best camps for boys. With its large concrete swimming pool, troop cabins, mess hall, bath house, camp museum, and the old Penn Young mansion, which serves as the administrative building, the camp situation is ideal.

This year hot water will be available through the fine cooperation of the Alabama Natural Gas Company and Dr. B. F. Thomas. Other improvements are in prospect.

The camp opens June 4 and closes June 25. During the time 50 professors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute will visit the camp for the purpose of giving instruction in the many vocational subjects. This year markmanship will be taught for the first time.

Camping Chairman, Dr. O. H. Tatum, of Opelika, reports that his local district chairmen, L. S. Hunter of Alexander City, Capt. E. S. Ott of Auburn, John Hollis, of Clanton, W. M. Turner, of Greenville, L. A. Ward of Selma and Col. P. R. Dubberly of Tallassee each report great interest by the scouts in the coming camp.

Again S. J. Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., will serve as an assistant to camp director, Mr. Sigwald. The Junior staff, constisting of Walter Westerbeke of Opelika, John Ezell of Clanton, Wallace Hill and Franklin Ward of Selma, James Parrish of Auburn, Chambers Lock of Alexander City and John Dorough of Tallassee are each preparing themselves for their special task to make the 1932 Camp Spring Villa better than ever before.

Atchison Thanks The Voters For Support

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to again, express my deepest appreciation to my friends and supporters who helped in any way to put me over the top in the primary of May 3rd as a candidate for commissioner of the Third District.

I wish to say that words cannot express my feelings of gratitude toward my friends, who put the campaign over in such a grand style for me in the various Beats. I must confess it was beyond my expectations in the beginning of my campaign and such a victory makes anyone rejoice beyond expression, but still there is a feeling of sympathy for the defeated candidates in the county. If the retiring officers of the county will only think a moment, they will remember that they too, defeated some one when they went into office years ago, and some since.

In my opinion, the entire machine at work for the good of the party and common wealth in this campaign was a fine piece of politics, and we want to continue to work for the "G. O. P." in Chilton County, and I feel sure every loyal and intelligent Republican will line up behind the nominees and present a solid front in the general election in the fall. Many things happened during the campaign that have never happened before. I wish to call attention to one fact, and that is—that Beat 7 went Republican in the primary for the first time in it's history, and with a good majority too.

I wish to again plead perfect harmony in our ranks, and I know that the best of feeling should prevail as the campaign was conducted in a clean, fair, and honest way. I never mentioned my opponent's name during the time, except in a decent and manly way. There was no "mud slinging" done by me. I feel good and I shall expect a wonderful victory for the party this fall.—Yours for the Republican party, J. C. Atchison.

GAMBLING

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Emeritus Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

It is wrong to gamble, most people concede, even those mature people who indulge in the pastime themselves. Kayser, who has been caught in a gambling escapade, asks me to explain to him that the practice is contrary to law. There are many things, he points out to me, that the law forbids that are not in themselves wrong, but are taboo because of other considerations.

Kayser is quite familiar with the ten commandments—the eleven, in fact—and he cannot see that gambling in any way violates the commands laid down in these.

Why is gambling wrong if the men concerned in the sport are willing to take the consequences of their wagers?

Well, for one reason, there is seldom an unattached being whose actions concern only himself. Parsons, for instance, who could with difficulty keep himself from the habit, was a young married man with a child as well as his wife to support. He was not risking his own interests alone when he bet upon games or took a hand at poker or played the stock market. He was risking their interests and doing it, too, without their consent. It isn't quite playing the game squarely to do so.

McMasters was talking to a young friend of mine not long ago upon this subject. McMasters is not a young man any more. He has seen a good deal of the world; he has met all sorts of people, and his experiences have been varied. He has seen gambling from the standpoint of the onlooker and from the standpoint of a rather skillful manipulator of the cards.

"I wouldn't gamble, son," he said, "for this reason. If you lose, you usually can't afford it, and if you win you have money for which you have given no return, and money of that sort gives you little pleasure. Isn't worth much. It is only the things that you pay full value for that really gives you any real pleasure."

Farmers Must Plan For Profits

WHEN selling prices are low, the only sure road to profits is the one which leads to lower production costs. The farmer cannot control market buying prices But he can control his own operating costs and he can plan to maintain a fair margin of profit.

To reduce production cost (even though the farmer cultivates fewer acres) PER ACRE PRODUCTION MUST BE INCREASED.

This calls for more intensive fertilization which will make every acre under cultivation give maximum results. Since labor costs remain about the same per acre regardless of production volume. Increased per acre production really means a proportionate saving in labor cost. Better fertilizing means also better quality which in turn means higher selling prices.

This is not mere theory. It has been proved over and over again in numberless practical farm tests

Nitrogen is the growth element in all fertilizers. Arcadian Nitrate of Soda used as top dressing or side dressing supplies this growth element in a quickly available form at a time when this type of plant food is vitally needed.

Only the short sighted farmer will neglect to give his fields adequate nitrogen if he hopes to make a profit

From Chanel comes this advance tip on the new spring modes as they are being interpreted in Paris. This blond corduroy suit will give a regimential flavor to spring promenades, the one sided alignment of patch pockets, raglan sleeves and drop shoulder yoke being particularly interesting features. MANY FAMILIES GET STORM AID

Maurice Reedy, assistant national director of Red Cross disaster relief, in charge of Alabama tornado rehabilitation for the last five weeks, was enroute to Washington Monday after making a final report showing 3,300 families had been given aid and were re-established in their homes.

Nearly all fund awards for reconstruction have been settled, and all but 63 hospitals and medical cases have been marked closed.

All Red Cross area offices have been closed except those at Clanton and Pulaski, Tenn. These will be closed within a few days.

Although the relief organization has been disbanded, tornado work headquarters in Birmingham will remain open for several weeks, where accounting will be carried on and final reports summarized.

Reedy, in a statement before he left for Washington, said all relief work had been carried on with remarkable expediency, due to the cooperation given the Red Cross by the storm sufferers themselves and by other local organizations. He especially thanked the American Legion, local societies and churches.

ADULT SCHOOLS BEING PLANNED

Ten Schools For Whites and Ten For Negroes Will Be Held This Summer

At a meeting of the County Board of education last Tuesday it was decided that through special effort on the part of the State and County school officials, twenty opportunity schools will be held in Chilton county this summer. There will be ten schools for white people and ten for colored people.

The nature of the schools will be about the same as they were year before last and the two years previous to that. They are for adults only who have been deprived of getting an education equal to passing the modern fourth grade. Prof. H. A. Harris will be the supervisor again, and the schools will be located at the first places that make application for the same and meet the requirements. There must be as many as fifteen students to attend. The schools will begin about the middle of July and will continue for a term of six weeks. Communities wanting one of these schools should get in touch with Prof. Harris at once, since the number of schools this time will be limited and will likely be taken up in a short time. Prof Harris states that it would be preferable to have these schools this year in communities that have not heretofore had such schools. Children who are eligible to attend the regular public schools will not be permitted to attend an opportunity school.

Cross Roads at Coopers has already made application and has twenty-five signed up to attend.

THE HAPPY HOUR SHAKESPEARE CLUB

The Happy Hour Shakespeare Club met at the home of Miss Mary Ellis, Thursday, May 12. We studied "The Tempest." When there we answered roll-call with a quotation from the story.

The next day we met again and selected a name for the club. The name was "The Happy Hour Shakespeare Club." This day we studied "As you like it."

Miss Ellis chooses a new chairman each time to tell part of the story, and to call on others to take it up. Every person takes part in telling these stories. We play games after each lesson. We have decided to meet on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at three o'clock. — Grace Ezell, Reporter.

CURTIS-ORR ENGAGEMENT

"Mrs. James Franklin Orr, of Clanton, announces the engagement of her daughter, Madelyn, to Mr. Vester Bryan Curtis, of New Orleans, the wedding to take place June 4."

REV. BELL HERE LAST SUNDAY

Tuskegee Minister Preached Commencement Sermon For High School

The baccalaureate sermon for the graduating class of Chilton County High School was delivered by Rev. R. L. Bell of Tuskegee last Sunday at 11 o'clock. Dr. Bell is pastor of the Tuskegee Presbyterian church. There were 29 seniors who occupied the front seats in the center. This was the first time the members of a a graduating class here ever appeared in gowns and caps, regular academic uniform. This presented a very striking and elaborate appearance.

The address of Rev. Bell was fine indeed. His message dealth with the subject of "Sober Thinking" and this point was really driven home by the chosen and fluent words of the speaker. The advice which he gave the Seniors along the line of serious thought were well worth anyone's fullest consideration. We believe that the greatest need of the world today is more sober, serious thought on the problems that confront our economic and social life.

The musical numbers on the program were choice indeed. The choir rendered two or three numbers and a beautiful solo was sung by Mrs. L. C. Ross. These numbers were greatly enjoyed by the large audience which filled the huge auditorium and balcony to overflowing.

MANY ATTEND SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION IN FLORIDA

St. Petersburg, Fla., May 16.—Alabama sent the largest delegation of any state to the Southern Baptist Convention, the biggest held in the history of the organization, which came to a close, Tuesday May 17th, with close to 12,000 attending.

Alabama motor cars stud the parkways and avenues leading to the great Coliseum Auditorium where the church workers have been in session for more than a week. Every hotel in the business section has Alabama guests. Noted southern Baptists from every section of the South took part in the interesting programs arranged from the mammoth conclave.

Check of the Alabama registrants show that the Baptist visitors far outnumbered the list of cotton state winter vacationists who came here for the season. In both instances, Birmingham led.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley, of Titus, spent Saturday night and Sunday till noon with his wife's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Connell near Mt. Springs Church. His wife seems to be very ill, but hopes to regain better health.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Did you know that there are about 475 dogs within the police jurisdiction of Clanton, and that it takes not less than two dollars a month on an average to keep one dog alive? That means an expense of $950 per month for dogs. That is almost double what the town is paying for the pastors who serve you in holy things. Wonder what God thinks of this? It sounds like "doggish" religion when a family can keep a dog and then do nothing for the church. Lots of folks are keeping a cur in the home at an expense of twenty dollars a year and yet they do not pay five dollars to the church of which they are a member. Jesus said one time something like this, "Where your heart is there you will put your treasures."

If you will come to the Methodist church we will try to teach you how to put first things first. The pastor is a great lover of dogs himself, but he has never yet seen the dog that he would allow to eat the money that should go into God's service. Have your dog if you want him, but be sure that you pay as much to the church as your dog costs you.

Mullins-Scarborough Wedding

The marriage of Miss Madge Scarborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Scarborough, of Blue Springs, Alabama, to Mr. Oliver Reid Mullins of Clanton, Alabama, was an outstanding and beautiful event of Thursday evening, May 12, taking place in their handsome new home in Clanton. The entire house was attractively decorated in roses, sweet peas and delphinums. The predominating colors were pink and ivory.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. W. Haskew, pastor of the Methodist Church of Clanton, in front of an improvised altar of ferns, Southern Smilax and tall pink tapers. On each side of the altar stood tall baskets with a profusion of Mountain Laurel.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Hilda Hart, niece of the groom, sang "At Dawning" and "Because." At the strains of Lohrengrin's Wedding March, little Hayden Lanier, a lovely little figure in pink, acting as flower girl, marched in with little Eric Mullins Hart in white, as ring bearer, carrying the ring in the bud of a beautiful white rose. They met the pastor at the altar and awaited the bride and groom who came together to the altar.

During the impressive ring ceremony, Cacye Scarborough, brother of the bride, played softly "I Love Yoy Truly" on the violin, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. E. Stapp, who acted as piano accompanist for all the nuptial music.

The bride was very quaint and lovely in an ivory French net creation, trimmed with brown lace. Her bouquet of Tallisman Roses, was showered with lilies of the valley and sweet peas.

The Clanton Pilot Club, of which the bride is a member, acted as hostess. Miss Bess Thomas presided over the bride's book and other members of the club greeted the guests. Only a few immediate relatives and friends of the bride and groom, with twenty-two members of the Pilot Club, attended the wedding.

The bride is well known and beloved for her educational, religious, and civic activities in Clanton. She has been in educational work in Chilton County for the past four years, where she has been Supervisor of Elementary Education. She is a graduate of the Troy State Teachers College and Alabama College at Montevallo.

Mr. Mullins is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Mullins, and is a progressive planter of Chilton County. He is a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullins will make their home in Clanton.

Judge G. W. Weaver Died Suddenly

Judge George W. Weaver, prominent attorney and former county official, died at his home in Columbiana at 11:30 Thursday evening, after an illness of only a few hours. Thursday, he was apparently as well as usual, having spent the day in Birmingham on business.

Judge Weaver was born and reared in Shelby County and obtained his education in the county schools. As a young man he held various places of trust, including the postmastership at Wilsonville. He became interested in politics and soon gained recognition as a leader in his party. He served for a term as tax collector and in 1916 he was elected probate judge.

Following his retirement from the office of probate judge, he was for several years located in Birmingham, where he held a government position. Returning to Columbiana he engaged in the practice of law. He was a member of Brother Tom's Bible class of the Methodist Sunday school, being regular and prompt in attendance. On the last Sunday he was in the class, he heard his name read as having made the Honor Roll for the month of April.

Friends from all parts of the county and from other counties came to Columbiana Friday afternoon to attend the funeral service which was held in the Methodist church. The service was conducted by Rev. T. K. Roberts with Rev. D. Z. Woolley assisting. A quartet composed of Mrs. W. W. Wallace, Mrs. J. W. Stone, Rev. O. R. Burns and T. H. Kirby sang the hymns. Pall bearers were: L. H. Ellis, P. O. Luck, C. T. Weldon, Judge Cage Head, C. E. Niven, Parker Shelby, J. M. Leonard and W. L. Christian. Following the service interment was made in the Columbiana cemetery.

Musical Comedy At Verbena School

A full cast has already been selected, and practicing for the big musical concert at Verbena is well under way. The date for the play is Wednesday evening, May 18th, and it promises to be full of thrills and conducive of an abundance of laughter. In making the announcements Mr. Sid Gibson says: "A six-piece orchestra will broadcast some fox-trots that will tickle the goutiest feet on record."

The proceeds from the sale of tickets will go toward equipping the children's park at Verbena and improving the Verbena cemetery. The small admission price of 10 cents and 15 cents will be charged.

Those sponsoring the show add: "You will hear vocal and instrumental music by some of Chilton County's best talent, and you will get both eyes full, for delicious, petite, irrestible chorus girlies who would knock the shine off of many a Broadway chorus. Don't miss 'em—they are easy on the eyes. In fact, there will be three entirly different choruses, and each one is well worth traveling miles to see.

"Then there will be the Magic Barrel—the most mysterious barrel that was ever rolled around. The barrel is being brought here by an Oriental Sage, who will show tricks you simply cannot understand.

"Among several other amusing and interesting features will be a vicious three-round boxing match by two glove artists, who would give a Madison Square Garden audience many unusual thrills. All legal rights to hold this boxing match have been obtained and it is hoped that state and county officers will be on hand to prevent betting on the outcome of this long-looked for match, and to otherwise keep order during the fight.

"If you miss this show, you'll miss a full evening of amusement and entertaining features, and you will also miss the opportunity of assisting a splendid cause."

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

There will be preaching services here Saturday night at 7:30, Sunday at 11 and Sunday night at 7:30, by the pastor, Rev. J. Robert Bean.

On the fifth Sunday the annual old folks and ministers service will be held, a complete program of which will be found elsewhere in this paper. Rev. M. J. Parrish will preach at 11 o'clock in the morning and Rev. R. M. Honeycutt will preach at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

POPPY SALE SATURDAY, MAY 28

Officials of the American Legion Auxiliary of Chilton County announce that the annual poppy sale will be held here Saturday, May 28. A committee of the Auxiliary will conduct the sale on the streets of the city. Proceeds from the sale of poppies will be given to the Auxiliary fund for the benefit of the disabled World War Veterans.

The poppies are made by disabled veterans at different hospitals throughout the United States. They are sold by the Auxiliary, and bought largely by citizens in honor of the boys who died in France.

FOURTH SUNDAY SINGING AT PROVIDENCE, BEAT 16

The thirty-third annual session of the Salem May singing will be held at Providence the fourth Sunday in this month, May 22nd. All singers have a cordial invitation to attend. Bring dinner and new song books.—R. Robinson, Chairman, J. W. Cleckler, Secretary.

CLANTON MAYOR WILL BE GUEST AT BIRMINGHAM AIR CARNIVAL SHOW

Mayor J. Lee Smith has been invited to be an honor guest at the Air Carnival to be held in Birmingham June 3-4-5, at the Birmingham Municipal Airport.

A spectacular night attack on Birmingham by air, a counter attack by anti-arcraft guns at the airport, a night parachute landing by flares and searchlights, airplan races, military exhibition flying by the army and navy planes from Montgomery and Pensacola, stunting exhibitions and other attractions will be offered.

Mayor Smith received his invitation from Birmingham Area Club, which is sponsoring the carnival.

WHO WANTS THESE JOBS

Adjutant A. L. Robinson, employment officer of Chilton County Post of the American Legion, reports that he has listed three jobs for which he has been so far unable to get anybody to fill.

There is an application from one party who wants a man and his wife to work; the man to work on a farm and the wife to look after the home.

Another application is for a man to work on a farm cultivating about 20 acres of cotton and some corn.

HOSPITAL HERE OPENED AGAIN

Patients Have Already Begun To Come In For Medical Treatment

The Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton reopened Monday of this week after having been formally closed since March 20th. Inquiry Tuesday night revealed that there were already two patients entered and receiving treatment.

Miss Daisy Whitworth, of Verbena, was admitted Tuesday for treatment. The second patient was a negro child, Helen Cooper, who came in from Verbena. The child was suffering with a broken jaw bone caused by being kicked by a mule.

The first patient however did not wait for the hospital to be opened. He was injured in an automobile wreck Sunday afternoon and was carried to the hospital. No one was at the place, but when he tried the door it opened and the man went in and went to bed and sent for doctor Gragg. The doctor came and administered treatment.

Details of the accident in which the man was injured Sunday were given as follows:

Dr. Crandall and his wife with a Mr. Williams and wife, all of Chicago, were travelling in an automobile on their return home from the American Medical Association, in New Orleans.

Going at a high rate of speed a tire on the car blew out just as they were in front of the new home of Ed Bruce on the highway a mile north of Clanton. The driver lost control of the machine. As it left the highway it broke down a pole of the power company's lines and plunged into the hedge that surrounds the Bruce home.

Dr. Crandall was injured, his collar bone broken, and otherwise bruised. He went to the Central Alabama Hospital and sent for Dr. Gragg. The other members of the party were only slightly hurt. All of them left here Monday night by train for Chicago. The car was completely wrecked.

Dr. Crandall is a teacher in the medical department of Northwestern University, of Chicago.

THANKS GIVEN TO RED CROSS

Gratitude of Chilton County Is Conveyed to National Headquarters

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, who was general chairman of the Chilton County Storm Relief Committee, has very fittingly expressed the gratitude of the people of Chilton County to the Red Cross in a letter sent to national headquarters at Washington.

Not only the people who suffered in the recent storms, but the whole citizenship of our county as well, are deeply grateful to the Red Cross for the invaluable assistance which this great organization brought to us. Through the Red Cross the relief program was effectively and systematically organized and carried through to the finish. Without the Red Cross the work could not have been taken care of in such a systematic manner.

The letter from Mr. Stapp to National Headquarters of the Red Cross is as follows:

"The Committeemen of the Chilton County Area of the Southeastern tornado relief wishes to express their appreciation, also the appreciation of the public in general for the splendid manner in which your representatives handled the relief work and rehabilitation of the storm stricken people of this district.

"We would like to mention the names of each worker, and especially do we want to call your attention to the excellent work on the part of Mr. Reddy, Director of the Southeastern Tornado Relief, Miss Moses, Supervisor of our Division of the relief work and to Mrs. Vasalike Foster, who labored so patiently and untiringly as director of our local area. She made a host of friends, and her work will be long remembered.

"The case workers like the above, did their work well and are held in highest esteem by the committee, as well as by the people with whom they worked. I refer to Mrs. Laird, Miss Jones, Miss Wald, Miss Millen, Mr. Grigsby, and Mrs. C. E. Stapp.

"We also wish to mention the splendid service rendered by Dr. DeKline, Miss Metenger, and Miss Giles.

"We do not know what we would have done had the National Red Cross not came to our relief. We haven't words to express our appreciation, but wish to say that any time we can be of service to National feel free to call on us.—Yours very truly, C. E. Stapp, Chairman Chilton County Area Committee."

URGENT NEEDS TOLD KIWANIS

Very Forcible Address Delivered By Dr. J. S. Thomas Last Thursday

Last Thursday, Kiwanians of Clanton and their several guests heard Dr. James S. Thomas, of the Commonwealth Southern Corp., deliver one of his most instructive addresses at the regular weekly luncheon.

Dr. Thomas as special guest of the club, spoke along the line of farming and the urgent need today for farmers to raise those things they need at home and stop buy articles they can raise on their own land.

He gave some interesting figures, showing plainly that farming and industry are considerably out of balance, and that until this balance is gained, the people are going to continue to find that prices received by the farmer for his crops, are to be low.

Dr. Thomas urged the business men and large planters to impress on the farmers this urgent need today and impressed the importance of pure-bred stock on farms, stock that will pay, instead of eating more than they return. The Kiwanis Club of Clanton was very fortunate in securing Mr. Thomas as guest speaker for the day.

The meeting for today will be in regard to health work, an it is expected that representatives from the State Board of Health will be present.

Rev. D. S. Martin, of Equality, and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Thompson, of Wetumjka, were in Clanton Tuesday and Tuesday night, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mell Martin. They attended exercises at the Chiton County High School Tuesday night honoring Leroy Martin, a member of the graduating class.

FOR O. L. DEVAUGHN

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to express my views concerning Mr. O. L. Devaughn, who is a candidate for Commissioner of the 4th District, and will be in the run-off primary June 14th.

I have known Mr. Devaughn practically all his life, and knowing him as I do, I think he is as good a man as the county affords to fill the office for which he is asking.

I have always known Mr. Devaughn as a man of good business judgment. He has made a success of his own affairs and I feel sure that if he is nominated and elected that he would manage the affairs of the county with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of all concerned. Mr. Devaughn has a clean record in our community as a citizen and as a christian man.

He has served as Deacon and clerk of Maple Springs Baptist Church for the past several years, and has served as our school Trustee for a number of years, and was almost unanimously elected to serve as school trustee in the recent school trustee election on May 7th.

With all due respect to his opponent, we beleive that Devaughn is entitled to the nomination, because of the fact, that he was the choice of the people in the Fourth District, as expressed at the polls, May 3rd.

Devaughn carried a majority of the Beats to be served in our District, and also carried a substantial plurality of votes over his opponent in the District as a whole.

We are asking that you people in 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Districts consider these facts and turn out to the polls on June 14th and help us to nominate Devaughn. And I feel sure you will never have any just cause to regret doing so. I am sincerely yours.—J. W. Wilson, Clanton, Ala., Route 2.

POWER COMPANY STOCK SECURED FRAUDULENTLY

Birmingham, Ala., May 16.—Benjamin C. Guy, of R. F. D. 1, Wetumpka, Alabama, reported to the Investment Department of the Alabama Power Company today the loss of 53 shares of its $7 Preferred Stock and has enlisted the efforts of the law to help him apprehend the stranger who got it from him under false pretense.

According to Mr. Guy's story, a stranger came to his home on May 9th and introducing himself under the name of Rowe or Ross, told him he understood he had certain stock in an Atlanta concern, which was a fact, and then unfolded a dazzling prospect of dividends to be paid on such stock in the near future. He then proceeded to say that he was authorized to sell Guy a large number of additional shares. Guy stated he had no money but let it drop that he had Alabama Power Company Preferred stock and was finally induced to bring out 53 shares of Power Company Preferred and sign the transfer on back of same in blank. The stranger then became hurried in both talk and action and got away with the stock, leaving Guy what purported to be a receipt binding him to exchange same for the new stock.

According to Guy the stranger had a large lot of certificates which he claimed were Alabama Power Company certificates that he had secured from other parties for a like trade-in.

The Power Company has notified bankers and brokers over the state too look out for certificates, which were not witnessed at the time of signing, and has requested its transfer agents to hold up transfer of same.

WHEN WASHINGTON REFUSED A KINGSHIP

Few Americans know that our country today might be a monarchy but for an act of nobility performed by George Washington on May 22, 1782. The officers of the Revolutionary army had implored Washington to assume royal power, place himself at their head, and rule the country as a king. On May 22, a century and a half ago, General Washington refused this invitation in patriotic terms so strong that the idea was dropped. This information comes from the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

We know that he refused the offer of kingship, but the circumstances surrounding that dramatic moment in our history, known chiefly to scholars, need be recalled to the everyday American, that he may form a still clearer conception of the nobility of Washington's character.

This incident, which constitutes one of the critical moments in the destiny of America, occurred while General Washington and the continental army were camped at Newburgh, on the Hudson. The surrender of Cornwallis had virtually ended the Revolution, but nominally hostilities were still in effect, and Washington was determined to hold the army together against any surprise renewal of the war. As usual his soldiers were poorly clothed and fed, and Congress was deeply in arrears in their pay. By then the war had dragged on for seven years. The struggle had cost many of Washington's officers the loss of their personal fortunes, and the entire enlisted force faced a future of want on being released to civil life.

Discontent rose to dangerous intensity in all ranks. At length Colonel Lewis Nicola, a respected character on friendly terms with the commander in chief, spoke for the officers as a body when he addressed to Washington a veiled proposal that he take over the government of the country, with the army behind him, and rule it as a king.

The late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in his biography of Washington, states that on this occasion Washington was as truly tempted as Caesar, with an offer to make himself king or emporer. The stroke, moreover, would have been easy of accomplishment. The colonies were all beggared by the war. Their governments were slack and weak. The revolutionary army was the one cohesive, national power in the land. To a man the soldiers worshipped Washington, and with their aid he could have taken control of the nation. As near as that, at this stage of America's history, was the country to becoming a monarchy.

And yet it was a great distance away. To George Washington the temptation of kingship was no temptation at all. On the contrary he put it aside with far greater and more sincere indignation than did Caesar wave aside the laurel crown. In a letter whose every word should be implanted in the mind of every school child in America, he declined Nicola's offer and rebuked the man who made it. Writing on May 22, 1782, he said:

"Sir, with a mixture of surprise and astonishment, I have read with attention the sentiments you have submitted to my personal. Be assured, Sir, no occurrence in the course of war has given me more painful sensations, than your information of there being such ideas existing in the army, as you have expressed, and I must view with abhorrence and apprehend with severity. .

I am at a loss to conceive what part of my conduct could have given encouragement to an address, which to me seems big with the greatest mischiefs that can befall my country. If I am not deceived in the knowledge of myself, you could not have found a person to whom your schemes are more disagreeable. Let me conjure you then if you have any regard for your country, concern for yourself, or posterity, or respect for me, to banish these thoughts from your mind, and never communicate, as from yourself or any one else, a sentiment of the like nature."

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

In conversation with C. R. Foss, manager of Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, we learn that the estimate of carloads of strawberries for shipment from Thorsby this season of 60 to 65 cars has with those sent by truck to Birmingham, already been reached with a prospect of a few more cars, and if rain comes soon several carloads will yet be gathered. We also learn, what is important, prices are better than they have been for a considerable portion of the season.

The next thing of importance on their program will be the first carload shipment of Irish Potatoes from Thorsby, which will begin soon; notning great this season, but a beginning.

On commencemnt day at Thorsby Institute, May 26th, there will be a community dinner on the campus, in front of Helen Jenkins Hall, after the exercises of the morning. This dinner will be sponsored by the Ladies Guild of Thorsby, but everyone is invited to bring a well filled basket, enough for themselves and some guests. Coffee will be served by the guild ladies. Ice cream and lemonade will be for sale on the grounds. All interested in Thorsby Institute are invited to attend the commencement exercises at 10:30 a. m. that day, and participate in the dinner afterwards.

Miss Marguerite Davison and Mrs. E. W. Butler left Saturday evening for Pleasant Hill, Tennessee. They expect to be gone a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bean had as guests Sunday, thier son and Mrs. T. L. Maddox.

Walter Littleton is at last up and about; for the present he is staying with his sister, Mrs. W. H. Goodgame.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Billingsley had as guests Sunday J. B. Littleton and Mr. Horsley, of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton spent Wednesday in Birmingham.

Next Saturday at three o'clock in the auditorium of Thorsby Institute, Miss Jennie May Thoroman will present her piano pupils in a music recital. No admission is charged. Everyone who enjoys music is urged to come.

Next Sunday at eleven o'clock, the Baccalaureate service of Thorsby Institute will take place in the auditorium. There will be special music. Rev. J. W. Jones will be the preacher. Everyone is invited. The collection will be for student aid.

Wednesday night, May 25, at 7:45 the Senior Class night exercises and play will be given in the institute auditirium. The play is entitled "The Early Bird." The class history will be read by Mildred Jefferies, the Will by Pauline Poole, Prophecy, by Helen Diefenderfer, and the Poem by Grace Smith. The admission will be 25 cents for all not students or under twelve years of age. For the latter admission will be 15 cents.

At ten-thirty the morning of May 26 the graduating exercises of Thorsby Institute will take place. The speaker will be Rev. Trevor Mordecai, D. D., pastor of the Community Congregational Church, Birmingham. Several Thorsby people who have heard him, say that we are very fortunate to have secured him as the commencemnt speaker. It is hoped that many will attend the exercises. After the exercise exhibits may be seen in the science room, and dinner under the auspices of the Ladies Guild, will be served on the ground.

Rev. Wallace Cook, a former student at Thorsby Institute, paid a short call to T. I. Monday. Mr. Cook is a graduate of Howard College. He took his Master's degree at Louisville Seminary and his B. D. degree from Oberlin Theological Seminary, Oberlin, Ohio. His home is in Stanton, Alabama.

The Alumni Association of Thorsby Institute will hold its annual business meeting Saturday night, May 21, at 7:30 p. m. on the lawn at the boys' dormitory. Each Alumnus is urged to be present.

On last Saturday afternoon, the Seniors enjoyed one of the events which each Senior class looks forward to each year—the Senior picnic.

Leaving here at three o'clock in a truck driven by Wilour Collins, they made their way to Shelby Springs. The happy spirit of the group was somewhat killed when they beheld a dry swimming pool and a storm-torn bath-house. Wilber told them about another place about three miles farther, which was a very beautiful place. All the boys enjoyed a swim while the girls enjoyed talking with each other. Then after exploring the woods around the picnic grounds they gathered together and enjoyed the picnic supper. About 7:30 everyone got his place on the truck and arrived home at 9:30 all safe and sound.

The Christian Endeavor meeting was led by T. A. McCallum. The topic discussed was "How May We Work for World Goodwill?" If a person had been standing on the shore dropping one dollar bills into the ocean every minute since the birth of Christ, the amount of money would represent the amount the U. S. spent during one year of the World War. This fact and many others brought out by different members, are striking illustrations of the cost of war in money, aside from the cost in lives, etc. The Society will hold a special outdoor meeting next Sunday evening at 6:30 on the lawn between the Campus Cottage and the girls' dormitory. Everyone is cordially invited.

Baker, S. V. Miller, Rube Miller. A number of quartets were enjoyed, arranged by Akins Collins. The quartet was composed of Akins Collins, Marion Easterling, T. E. Wyatt, Irene Mims. The pianists were: C. H. Robinson, Marion Easterling, W. G. Culp, Clara Mae Mims, Lillie Mae Weldon. The arranging committee for the day was O. L. Devaughn, Marion Easterling, E. L. Powell.

On account of the annual singing at Providence next Sunday, it was decided to have Sunday school at this place at 8:00 o'clock next Sunday.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days, but we will only have preaching Saturday and Sunday night. Next Saturday is also our communion day. We hope to have a goodly number present.

Benediction by the pastor.

KELLY-SPRINGFIELDS

Everybody who buys Kelly-Springfield tires from us, who has never used them before, gets an entirely new conception of tire quality and of tire service. Although not priced a penny higher, Kelly-Springfields are in a quality class by themselves—ahead of anything ever produced before in this industry. That's why we sell them to our customers. By selling people something better than they can get anywhere else, and by giving them care and attention, we attract and hold customers.

Without waiting for your present tires to wear out, come around and let us see what can be done to make them last longer. Maybe you should switch from front to rear. Maybe some wheel or other adjustment is out of line that is destroying the life of your tires. This service is a regular part of our business and it is free.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

In a recent address Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party in England, declared that world political parleys are futile and do not seem to lead the nations of the world anywhere in their efforts to get out of the political and economic morass. In spite of the various conferences which have been held since the end of the World War things seem to be going from bad to worse.

"Take the simple test of armaments," said the fiery little Welshman. "They are bigger, more powerful and more shattering than ten years ago, after ten years of handshaking and ten years of agreement at every conference that has been held." There can be little doubt about the truth of this statement. After all this talk we have heard about disarmament during the past decade, all of the pious exclamations about peace and universal brotherhood, Europe is more heavily armed than ever before, and there does not seem to be the slightest chance that the present Geneva conference will be able to do anything about it. About the only nation which has taken disarmament seriously has been the United States, and as a result Uncle Sam has fallen behind in naval strength since the Washington conference was held.

About the only sort of conference which would have a chance to succeed in Europe would be one called for the purpose of putting the final burden of the cost of the war on the shoulders of the American taxpayers. This is something which would be popular all over Europe and there are some sings that such a move is in contemplation.

Every once in awhile we get from Europe reports of the distressed condition of things on that unhappy continent. We are told that the little countries of Central Europe, some of them allies and others former enemies of France are about to collapse financially and that this will carry Germany down too. In fact it is stated, Germany will then be unable to pay not only reparations, but private debts as well. And of course, so the argument goes, France, Italy and Great Britain can only afford to pay us their debts as much as they receive from Germany in the way of reparations.

This leads to the conclusion that we must cancel the European debt, that if we do not all Europe is going into collapse, and America will be dragged down in general ruin. "Cancellation or chaos" has therefore become the European slogan, and it is hoped through this slogan that Uncle Sam can be frightened into cancelling the debts.

But Americans have had so many things at home to be frightened about during the past year or so that they are getting "fright proof" so far as Europe is concerned. The general belief is growing in America that if Europe is to have chaos and dissolution, a little thing like debt cancellation will not prevent its taking place and the best thing for Uncle Sam to do therefore is to fortify himself as well as possible against the storm. Uncle Sam has enough to do to look after the storm signals here in America and has no time to take on the troubles of Europe.

In the meantime, though conditions in Central Europe, including Germany, are undoubtedly bad, things seem to be on the mend in England and Italy, and to be no worse in France, so that it is barely possible they will be able to pay us on account after all. Anyhow, England showed improvement by starting a program of building up England first, and the same process could better be adopted by the United States than the slogan of "chaos or cancellation."

BUT WE'LL NEVER LEARN THE LESSON

It took the depression to make people understand that it is entirely possible for government expenses to become so high that taxing people to meet them becomes oppressive burdens upon the entire public. So long as nearly everybody was making a good deal of money, public expenses were nobody's business. Of course the people took an academic interest in the subject and perhaps growled a bit every time they had to march up to the treasurer's office and give up a good deal of money, but, after all, they had the money to give up and so they forgot the whole matter in a few days and failed to remember it again until next taxpaying time. But when taxes became due and several million people did not know which way to turn to obtain the money to pay their share of goverment expenses, they began to wonder whether, after all, they had not been making a mistake all these years in permitting government costs to mount, year after year. But now they that have discovered that there is no doubt about their having been negligent, they do not know what to do about it except to demand lower taxes to meet expenses that for the most part are definitely fixed and cannot be lowered except by special legislation.

But this attitude is merely a reflection of the average man and his family's attitude toward their personal affairs during boom times. They did not reflect that the family income might be reduced. They always had been able to meet their installments eventually, and so they proceeded to buy anything on the installment plan that happened to please their fancy. For transportation purposes a Fidgety four might meet their needs quite well, but since the Jonses next door had an Opulent Eight they also bought an Opulent Eight. Good times were going to last forever and if anybody ventured even to pipe a squeal of doubt about it, be was promptly dubbed a killjoy, a knocker and a bum sport.

The lesson of this depression is that in times of prosperity we should prepare for times of adversity, but if you think anybody will learn that lesson you merely do not know what you are talknig about. Almost nobody ever has learned it although it has been taught many times, and probably almost nobody ever will. Even though the weather man predicts rain, who carries an umbrella if the sun, at the mement is shining brightly?

RICH ARE GETTING POORER

The assertion has frequently been made that the burden of the present depression has chiefly fallen on the wage earner. Statistics covering income tax payments for 1931, recently issued by the government, show how far this claim is wide the truth.

In 1929, 519 Americans had incomes of a million dollars or more. In 1930 this number was reduced to 149, a drop of nearly 71 per cent.

Looks Over All—

A Good Guesser

I suppose you have heard about it, J. Thos. Heflin's three votes in the Republican primary on May 3rd. And, while I am thinking about this Tom Heflin affair, I want to say just a few words about what "Doug" had to say in regard to the matter in his "'Round Town" column in the Chilton County News last week. The revelation of his profound ignorance is refreshing. He says he knows very little about politics, and I believe every word of that. It seems he doesn't know why Mr. Heflin was ruled out of the Democratic party, so I'll tell you, and he can listen in on the explanation; the powers that be in the Democratic party are AFRAID of Tom Heflin—that's why they will not allow his name to go on the Democratic ticket—they KNOW the people will elect him. But, now, to get back to "Doug". He "guesses" that, since Mr. Heflin has been nominated on the Republican ticket, he will be elected. He may not KNOW much about politics around here, but he GUESSES with the best of them. Guessing along that line would be about as easy though, as guessing that the sun will rise tomorrow. You know the Republicans have gotten into a kind of "habit" of electing all who manage to get on our ticket in Chilton. Poor old Demmies! How their mouths do water for the chance to get on that ticket under the old elephant! How they would enjoy riding safely and securely into office on the broad back of old Jumbo, instead of trying to be bucked in from the bare backbone of the poor, old, sway-backed, kicking, braying, long-eared Democratic jassack. It has ben proved that in past elections the Democrats have voted everything they could think of from geese to governors, including cats, dogs mules, and fattening hogs. Now, I'd hate to think I belonged to a party where I had no more voting strength than Buddy's pet billy-goat. Wouldn't you? So, let "Doug" keep "guessing." He's getting to be good at the game; and after June 14th, when the Republicans have nominated their full county ticket, he'll have a chance to hazard a few more fairly safe "guesses" as to how the county offices will be filled next fall, and just who will fill them.

Graft in The Road System

I keep on hearing rumors of graft in our road working system. From here, there, and everywhere come reports and rumors of all kinds of graft, from unfair favoritism in hiring of labor by road overseers, all the way to barefaced padding of pay rolls. I have heard of road overseers who used the same men and their teams to work sections the year round, while there were other deserving men in the community who really NEEDED work in order to get the money to buy the bare necessities for their meals. In most cases I have heard of, those who were allowed to work themselves and their teams were in better shape, financially, to be left off the road gang than the other fellows could possibly be, even if they had been hired regularly at the rate of $1.00 per day. And yet the overseer's close friends were hired, with their teams, and the LITTLE FELLOWS left out in the cold, with nothing. That is wrong! That is favoritism! That is one form of crookedness! That is graft! And then there have been instances where it would appear that the pay rolls have been padded—that is, men's names and amounts entered on accounts against the county when such men never saw service on the road; and in some cases where they were hired, the account showed, maybe, three or four days' work, when the men worked only one or two days. These are only a few of the methods which have been reported and rumored. In all cases, the Commissioners Court, innocent, and not knowing, maybe, of the schemes being put over, passed the accounts for payment. More and more graft of this kind has come into being until it is becoming noticable. I know of only one way in which this bad practice might be remedied—that each man be required to present his own account against the county, under the close supervision of the commissioner in whose district the work was done. That might cause a little more work and a little closer observation on the part of the Commissioners, but, in view of the difficulty with which many people are managing to pay their enormous taxes, it seems to me that every precaution should be taken to see that each and every dollar does exactly 100 cents duty in the payment of bills. And I believe the most of the people of the county, at least those who are paying those taxes, feel the same way about it. How about you?

Who's Who—Frank J. Callen

Frank Jackson Callen was born at Clanton, Ala., November 14, 1892, the son of W. T., and Mary P. (Stewart) Callen. His mother was a sister of Dr. W. E. Stewart. Frank's elementary education was in the Clanton schools; he attended a preparatory school in Tennessee for his higher education. For his special business education he attended Eastman Business College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. About 1915 he bagan work in the Peoples Savings Bank, later working in the First National Bank, Montgomery, and the Traders National Bank, Birmingham. He spent the year 1918 in the U. S. Army. He married Miss Amy F. Callen in Montevallo, Ala., November 1, 1920; they have one son, William Thomas, and one daughter, Anne Parks. Frank was elected president of the Peoples Savings Bank in 1922, which position he held for several years. In 1927 he resigned, and opened a ready-to-wear store in Clanton, known as "Callen's". This place he kept for some time and after selling it, was again elected president of Peoples Savings Bank in 1930, which position he still holds; he was elected a member of the State Banking Board in 1931. Frank Callen is considered one of the best business men in central Alabama; his honesty, trustworthiness and general ability is known far beyond the confines of the section he serves in his capacity as president of the Peoples Savings Bank. In fact, Frank J. Callen has had no little part in making possible the slogan of the Peoples Savings Bank—"Safe Since 1901." Our next week's Who's Who article will be in regard to Thos. J. Littlejohn, general manager of Clanton Motors, the local Ford automobile agency.

Deputy Sheriff Norris has been busy for some time getting together the proper paraphernalia for beginning his "rogues gallery". Norris expects to take down all the different points of interest of those arrested in the future, including finger prints, and the like. That's what I'm going to try to do.—Man in the Moon.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)
